THERE WAS THIS paratrooper who made a bunch of jumps into enemy territory during World War II and who managed to get back safely each time. When his required number of missions had been completed, he was sent home, thankful for his escape from any kind of injury. While he was home on furlough, he had a nightmare and fell out of bed, breaking his leg.

All of which points up the fact that a lot of crippling and fatal accidents occur in the home. Manufacturing plants which might be expected to be high in the incidence of accidents (with all that machinery) have conducted safety programs so successfully that fewer than one-fifth of all accidents take place in plants. Twice as many accidents occur in the home.

One of the strongest defenses against accidents in the home is neatness, we're told. You're supposed to have a place for for everything, according to writer Andy Lang of the Associated Press.

Around our house, we do, Andy, but I doubt that you'd approve. We have a place for everything. Everything goes in the garage, on top of the TV, or on the dining table.

Danger points, says writer Lang, include:

Tubs and showers without proper handbars, scatter rugs on the floor, toys on stairways, electrical appliances in the bathroom where they should never be, burns in the kitchen, working disconnecting them, lack of respect for power tools and mowers, and heavy lifting.

He forgot to mention catching your finger between two typewriter keys.

DIRTY TRICK DEPT: Hopkinsville (Ky.) Community College student John Wright recently used his aunt's pet rooster in a sex-hormone experiment in biology class and changed the bird into a hen. The student was worried about how he might explain the situation to his aunt, but the instructor assured him the injections of female hormones would wear off.

Said Wright to a friend: "If you think you're confused, how do you think the poor bird felt?"

DELUGE HITS AREA

TWO PERSONS DROWNED

The skies again opened up over the Sudan-Amherst area Monday night and Tuesday bringing additional moisture to the already swampy lands.

Storm clouds dumped up to eight inches of rain and hail over the area with twin blasts Friday morning and evening. Showers followed Saturday and Monday nights with rain continuing at press Tuesday.

Roads were closed due to the run-off from the deluge Friday and two persons were drowned about seven miles south of Sudan, near the home of the Wayne Whiteakers.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Sevier apparently drowned when rushing water washed the vehicle in which they were riding from Hwy. 303. It has been estimated that water could have been some eight feet deep at the crossing during the height of the storm Friday evening.

Whiteaker discovered the partially submerged car with the bodies inside Saturday morning some 300 yards from where it apparently left the road.

The Seviers resided on the Raymond Maxwell farm and were apparently returning home when the mishap occurred.

Hail, water and wind damage to the area crops has been estimated in the thousands of dollars. Many cotton and grain sorghum crops were completely destroyed with replanting operations detained by muddy fields. Drying of the fields has been hampered by the overcast skies. However, with clearing skies forecast, farmers anticipate the replanting and salvage operations. Some will replant for the third time this season.

Park Fund-Raising Drive Scheduled Here

Rev. J. R. Manning, chairman of the Community Park board, announced this week that the fund-raising campaign originally scheduled for June 16, will be held Monday, June 23. A house-to-house canvass will be conducted by members of the Sudan Volunteer Fire Department and the Sudan Rotary Club.

Rev. Manning stated that all residents recently received explanations in the mail as to the usage and the amount of funds to be collected. However, he added that the goal has been set at $2,500. All proceeds from the drive will be used in constructing the Community Park to be located across from the school.

4-H Club Hosts Senior

The Senior Citizens organization of Sudan met Friday at the Community Center with the Sudan 4-H Club as hostess. Mrs. Harold May gave the welcome after which a skit "The Contrary Cow" was presented by Debbie Fields, Brian May, Larry Bishop and Gary Ham.

Refreshments of cookies, punch and coffee, which were prepared by members of the 4-H cooking class, were served by Phylis Ray and Janice Canon. Also highlighting the program was the playing of music on a 60-year-old graphophone belonging to Mrs. May. A number of cylinder recordings were available for selection.

Approximately 20 persons attended.

The next meeting of the senior citizens has been set for July 11.

Cardinals Lead League

The Sudan Cardinals still remain in first place in Little League standings as play enters the final week despite the loss of a 3-2 squeaker Monday night to the Braves. Moates was the winning pitcher while Carol Legg was named loser although he pitched a fine game. Mark Davison was catcher for the Cardinals.

Standings for the league include the Cardinals 11-2; Braves, 8-5; Cubs, 7-6; Angels, 4-8; and Dodgers 1-10. Make-up games will be played next week, weather permitting.

Officers and a Board of Trustees will be named at the meeting.

Devotional

By HAZEL HOUSE

Scripture: Job 19:23-27, 28; James 1:5-8, 12, 21, 22.

"Oh, that my words were now written! Oh, that they were printed in a book!

That they were graven with an iron pen and lead in the rock forever.

For I know that my Redeemer liveth, and that He shall stand at the latter day upon the earth: And though after my skin worms shall destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God.

Whom I shall see for myself, and mine eyes shall behold, and not another; though my reins be consumed within me!

Whence then cometh wisdom? and where is the place of understanding?

Seeing it is hid from the eyes of all living, and kept close from the fowls of the air.

Destruction and death say, we have heard the fame thereof with our ears.

God understandeth the way thereof and He knoweth the place thereof.

For He looketh to the ends of the earth and seeth under the whole heaven;

To make the weight for the winds and He weigheth the waters by measure.

When He made a decree for the lightning of the thunder:

Then did He see it and declare it; He prepared it, yea, and to depart from evil is understanding."

Do you fear the Lord? and "If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him

But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering. For he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed.

For let not that man think that that he shall receive anything of the Lord.

A double minded man is unstable in all his ways.

Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love Him.

Wherefore, lay apart all filthiness and superfluity of naughtiness, and receive with meekness the engrafted word, which is able to save your souls.

But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers, only, deceiving your own selves."

Are you tempted to sin? Then endure it, knowing that when you have been "tried" and have endured, you shall receive the crown of life. This is the Lord's

TIC OFFERS COMPUTER

The Texas Industrial Commission is offering every community across the state the modern technology of computers in seeking new industry.

"This new program will give Texas communities a rifle rather than shotgun approach in attracting industry," Chester Wine of Corpus Christi, chairman of the Industrial Commission, said in announcing the recently approved plan using existing computers owned by the state.

The Industrial Commission offered use of the four phase program to Chambers of Commerce across the state recently in asking Chamber managers to assist as Computer Program Evaluators.

"By serving as evaluators, local leaders will have the opportunity to get a comprehensive look at the program being developed before its introduction later this year," Wine said.

Four basic programs are to be offered in the industry-attracting plan. It will give communities an instant site location service for national companies seeking to locate branch plants in Texas; printouts for existing Texas companies of the export potential for their products; matching of location resources with location requirements for each of the more than 400 specific types of industry; and studies for communities to compare their facilities with other cities of similar size.

Do you believe Him? Then you know He loves you. Have you laid "apart" your sin, and turned toward Jesus Christ? If not, do it now, and be a doer of the word, and not just a hearer, deceiving yourself.

Jesus Saves! and He will, if you will come to Him. Draw near to God, and He will draw near to you. Pray, asking in faith, and He will answer!

The site location service will provide manufacturers with the opportunity to specify up to 700 requirements for characteristics the company considers suitable for location of a new plant. Given these requirements, the computer would scan the bank of information on every town in Texas, pulling out the specifications requested.

Texas manufacturers can check their export potential through a printout of overseas countries in which their particular product is in demand, and information on the value in that particular market with names and addresses of contacts in the markets.

Communities can take advantage of the candidate industry phase of the program, checking to determine which types of industry they would most likely attract, and names and addresses of national concerns in these areas.

Communities will also be able to request a printout comparing local facilities such as hospitals, recreational areas, community services, etc., with cities of similar size. This phase of the program will allow communities to establish specific goals for improving their attractiveness to industry in the next decade.

Cities wishing to serve as Computer Program Evaluators should contact the Texas Industrial Commission, Sam Houston State Office Building, Capitol Station, Austin, Tex. 78711.

THREE TEXAS GOVERNORS joined forces recently in Austin as they spoke before a group assembled for the organizational meeting of the Governor's Committee of 500, which is set up to campaign for the passage of Constitutional Amendment 2 in the August 5 special election, the next step in the Texas Water Plan. Left to right are Governor Preston Smith and former Governors Price Daniel and John Connally.

teristics of the greenbug are: a length of about 1/16 inches, a general light green color with a dark green stripe down the back, green legs with black tips, and black cornicle tips (the cornicles are two small tubes at the rear of the body). There are both winged and wingless greenbugs.

The greenbug feeds under leaves and near the ground. In contrast, the corn leaf aphid which is similar in appearance to the greenbug, but lacks the dark green stripe down its back, usually feeds in the whorl on new growth.

For spray materials, Wayne Fowler, agronomic education director for DeKalb AgResearch, Inc. reports that the most frequently recommended chemicals are Diazinon, Malathion, Ethyl Parathion, Phosdrin and Systox.

Fowler says the Diazinon and Malathion can be applied as a ground spray but he advises that the other three are highly toxic and should be sprayed from the air. He warns against using the methyl form of Parathion because of potential damage to the plants.

GREENBUG ALERT SOUNDED

Sorghum growers should be on the alert again this year for the pesky and destructive greenbug. This tiny pest which sucks the juices from the sorghum plant and did such widespread damage in the Sorghum Belt last summer is back at it in many areas.

If there are greenbugs in your fields be prepared to spray - but do so only after you have positively identified them. Unless you're certain you have the greenbug you might be destroying beneficial insects by spraying. There are several other insects - primarily the corn leaf aphid - which resemble the greenbug. FED CATTLE RESOURCES SURVEY REPORT BY SWPC

Since 1966, the growth of the cattle feeding industry, especially in the South Plains area, has been nothing short of amazing. This growth has stimulated new packing plants plus additions to existing plants so that now there are 14 major plants located in our area. It has also been estimated that the number of feed lots has doubled in the last two years. But the growth isn't stopping.

Interest is high in the by-products of slaughtered animals, in the necessary services required to maintain the industry and in the needed by the farm feed segment of this giant. Billions of tons of home-grown grains are fed each year.

Bio-chemicals, pet food products, meat canning, leather tanning and other by-product processing are just a few of the potentials being explored.

Some 744,050 head of cattle are now on feed in the South Plains area with an annual capacity of 2,431,231. Lamb County is presently feeding 24,140 head and reports a total of nine feed lots in the county with the largest being Sudan Livestock & Feeding Company. It is estimated that Lamb County will feed 73,990 this year compared with a total of 65,114 last year.

Food for Thought

Homemakers are getting to be a pretty spicy group of gals these days. At least, they're sending to new highs the sales of such spices as black and white pepper, cinnamon, celery seed, anise and sage. According to the American Spice Trade Association, we imported some 3,116,000 pounds of celery seed alone last year.

It's interesting to note that while thousands of tons of stalk celery is grown in this country, celery seed for the spice shelf must be imported from India, France and Indonesia.

Actually, celery seed for seasoning comes from the fruit of wild celery or smallage which has been harvested for many centuries. At one time it was used for medicinal purposes. And then, as now, the seeds had an appetizing aroma but the rest of the plant was unpleasantly bitter, or "ungrateful" as they called it long ago.

But even the sweeter plant from which our celery flakes and diced celery come took centuries of taming to develop good flavor. Meanwhile, the flavor filip of the tiny brown celery seed has always been used by good cooks. It is an important ingredient in pickling spices, an excellent addition to chowders and fish soups, egg dishes, sea foods and salads of different kinds.

Speaking of celery brings to mind that the salad months

We must work the works of him who sent me.—(John 9:4).

Often our way seems to be blocked only because we have not opened up the channels to our good by acting faithfully on the ideas that God gives us. We need to meditate carefully and thoughtfully on the realization that God works through us, through His ideas in our mind. Act on the ideas that God gives us, and good results will materialize.

are here again; and there are few things more fun for the cook to create than a new salad dish. No two need ever be the same.

They can be simple or elaborate; a meal in themselves or a mid-day snack. So, give your imagination free rein. Experiment with slices of cold chicken, ham or canned meats, anchovies or black olives, hard cooked eggs or raw mushrooms.

Down deep within the life, the soul,
There lives a hope to reach a goal,
A hope that's guiding us each day,
A hope that brightens up our way,
It's hopes that drives away all gloom
And tells us better days will come,
Then hope assures us there will be
A great and grand eternity.

Smitten with Green Salads
Salad makers, gather 'round, we're bowling on the green with summer salads. Glamorous, fresh greens and vegetables pile into suit-yourself combinations which spill over with vitamins A and C and sparkling good eating. Leafy green lettuce stars in a variety of roles: firm iceberg, long, ribbed romaine, curly chicory, deep green spinach. Of course, there's tangy watercress whose gentle bite is brook-fresh. And on into the vegetable world with the crispness of aromatic celery, ruby red radishes whose genial presence is always welcomed, ripe, fresh tomatoes without which no summer is complete, perky cucumbers and the racy flavor of scallions.

Any arrangement you choose to put together is guaranteed to keep everyone cool and spruce to match the salad bowl being served. Lush bowls of colorful, crisp vegetables are crowd pleasers and simple to set up.

TOSSED SALAD
3 cups torn iceberg lettuce | 1/3 cup salad oil
3 cups torn chicory | 2 tablepoons fresh lemon juice
3 cups torn spinach | 3 tablepoons chopped parsley
1 tomato, cut into wedges | 1 teaspoon salt
12 scallions | 1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 cup radish roses
1 cucumber, scored and sliced

Combine lettuce, chicory and spinach in salad bowl. Arrange tomato, scallions, radishes and cucumber slices over greens. Shake together remaining ingredients in a jar with tight-fitting cover. Shake well. Pour over salad; toss lightly. Serve immediately. Makes 6 to 8 servings.
