WOODWORK 1970 Cars To Be Shown

BY DALTON

IT FINALLY HAPPENED. Lots of wise guys have told me that it happens almost every week, but not until this time did I really run out of column topics.

I just didn't have anything to write about worth mentioning in a column. Usually I don't let this bother me, because I've learned from writing a weekly column for 15 years that you get the best reader reaction from inconsequential topics.

Why is this so? One would think that the average reader would want some well-thought-out analysis of a current problem, perhaps a few answers offered to help the average guy get through this maze of everyday living with all its attendant problems. But the things I've written in the past which got the most comment were not about politics, war, philosophy for the world. Rather more interesting to my readers apparently were topics like furniture ads on television, trying to change the tailpipe on a car, the difficulty of obtaining chocolate ice cream, the confusion of making change during a sale of a piece of cardboard.

The reason for this apparent affinity for the insignificant is that most people are sick and tired of reading about world problems (and despite all they are told to the contrary, still there's not a blamed thing they can do about them). They can identify with the little things, and just for a short while they'd like to stick their heads down in the sand and forget about the mess the world is in.

But this week I even ran out of inconsequential stuff. So I think I'll just skip writing a column until next week.

Dale Hardy is visiting in Levelland this week with her daughter.

The two car dealers in Sudan, Doyle Baccus of Baccus Chevrolet and Keith Glover of Keith Glover Ford, announced this week that the new 1970 model cars will be on display in their showrooms.

Thursday is the official day for showing of the new Chevrolets, and Baccus said in his announcement that coffee and donuts will be served today for all who come in to see the new cars.

Friday is the official day for showing of the new Fords at Keith Glover Ford.

HAWKS INVADE LOCAL AREA

More than 300 hawks have invaded the Dick West alfalfa field located about a mile north of Sudan this week.

The hawks, West reported, came in by the hundreds and are eating the worms which are in the cut alfalfa field and have almost killed the alfalfa growth. He said also that he expects the alfalfa to start getting a new growth soon, as the hawks stay busy on the job of eating worms.

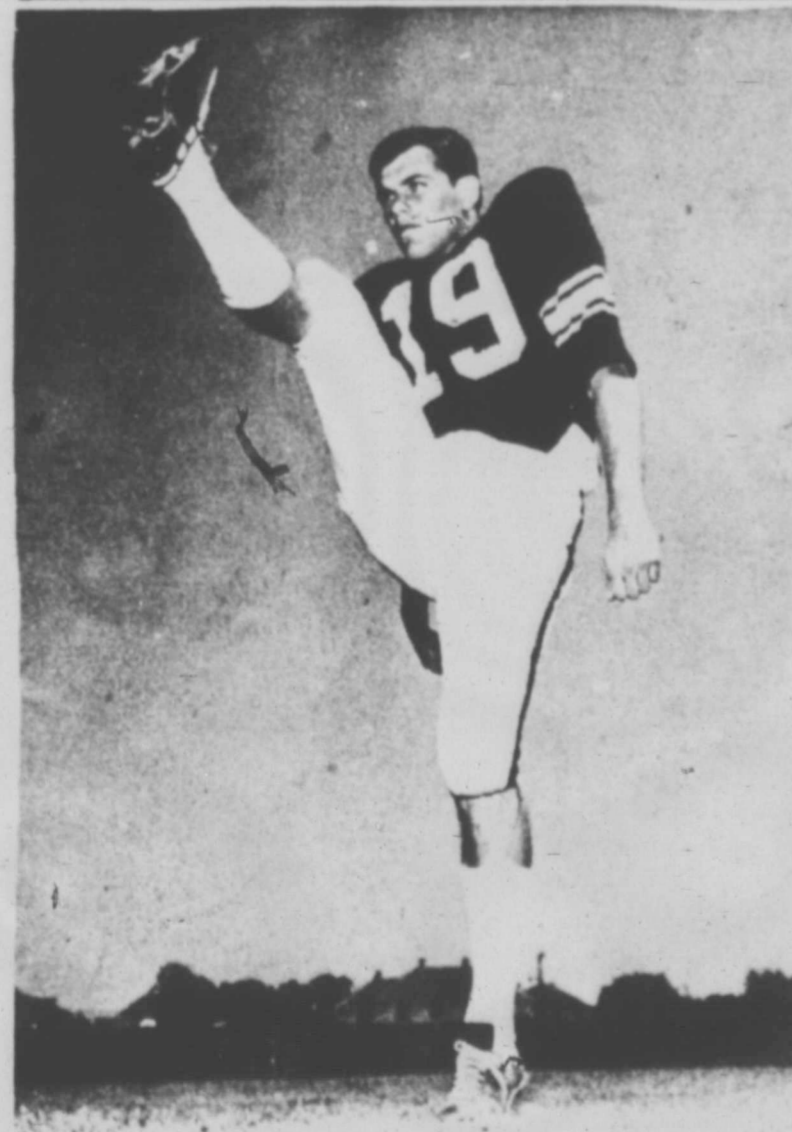

West did not know where the hawks are roosting. He hopes that hunters will "please not shoot one of these hawks".

HORNETS STING SUNDOWN, 20-0

TOUCHDOWN BOUND--Hornet Fullback Larry Hanna, 30, breaking through the Roughneck defense for good yardage. Halfbacks Gregory McNabb, 20, and Bellar, 21, ready to block for the ball carrier.

By ELRAY RASCO

The Sudan fighting Hornets opened the 1969 season Friday night at Sundown by defeating the Roughnecks, 20-0. Victory was sweet to the Sudan team, as Sundown upset the Hornets 15-14 last season's opening game.

The Hornets had some new faces showing Friday night as the starting line-up was announced, since they lost seven starters on last season's team. But with some seasoned players in both the backfield and in the line, the defensive and offensive teams did a good job against the Roughnecks.

GAME AT A GLANCE

| Sudan | Sundown |
|-------|--------------------|
| 22 | first downs 14 |
| 274 | yards rushing 142 |
| 28 | yards passing 18 |
| 1 | completed pass 1 |
| 0 | intercepted pass 0 |
| 0 | fumbles lost 1 |
| 2-20 | penalties 3-25 |
| 3-133 | punts 4-142 |

Sudan kicked off to Sundown but the Hornet defense held the Roughnecks and forced them to punt on 4th down, and Sudan took the ball on their own 8 yard line. Playing good ball control, the Hornets, led by QB Rex Boyles, marched 92 yards for the first touchdown of the game. Halfback Jerry Bellar carried the ball over from 3 yards out. The try for extra point failed, and the quarter ended with the score reading 6-0, Sudan.

Early in the second quarter Bellar took a handoff from QB Boyles, and tossed a pass to end Randy Glover for 28 yards down to the Roughneck 18. The Hornets failed to score, as they fought their way on down to the 5 yard line, but were one yard short of a first down, so the Roughnecks took over on their own 5. At the half, neither team scoring in the second quarter, Sudan led Sundown, 6-0.

Starting early in the second half, Fullback Larry Hanna took the ball on the 17 yard line and ran the ball into the end zone for the TD. Bellar kicked the extra point to give Sudan the lead, 13-0.

The Roughnecks made several valiant attempts to score, including a field goal try from the 36 yard line, and moving once inside the Sudan 20 down to the 15 yard line, but Sudan took over the ball as the quarter ended on their own 28.

Sudan Guard Eugene Lopez covered a Roughneck fumble in the 4th frame and Sudan had the ball on the Hornet 26. After several plays, about midway of the final quarter, the Hornet's running started clicking again as Hanna made a 28 yard run to the Roughneck 33, and after a couple of plays, Bellar made a 10 yard run to the 17. Then QB Boyles made a scrambling 15 yard gain, and Hanna took the ball on the 2 and went in for the score. Bellar kicked the point, and when the final gun sounded, the Hornets had won over the Roughnecks, 20-0.

In the game of football some of the players get named more often in the records of the game at times, but it takes 11 men on the field, several on the sidelines, and all working together to make a winning team, and we tip our hat this week to the entire group of Sudan Hornets and their coaches.

Let's Back the Hornets, and go to the game in Hornet Stadium Friday, 8 p. m., when the annual battle is on between the Hornets and the "Big Blue" Amherst Bulldogs, who lost their opening game to Bovina last Friday, 25-12.

The Sudan B-team will play here Thursday, 7:00 p. m. against Springlake B-team.

College football coaches spend a lot of time, effort and worry each year trying to persuade high school athletes that their particular college is the place to play. The thoroughness of recruiting leaves very little chance for a good one to get away.

Texas A&M's Mike Bellar proves that coaches aren't infallible, though... particularly a coach at Eastern New Mexico, a school that had Bellar before A&M.

But let the sophomore place-kicking specialist tell the story: "I didn't have many offers after high school, so I went to Eastern New Mexico. The coach there said I wasn't good enough to be a college kicker. Robin Davis (a high school teammate at Sudan and now a sophomore line-man at A&M) said to come on down to A&M. He said Coach Stallings gave everyone a chance, and that the coach would lay it on the line whether I was good enough or not. It was either that or go into the service, so I came to A&M.

Bellar had to sit out a year to establish his eligibility, but A&M coach Gene Stallings caught a couple glimpses of Bellar practicing by himself and saw enough to call Bellar "the best kicking prospect I have ever seen."

During a fall scrimmage session, Bellar attempted field goals of 37, 38 and 47 yards... and split the uprights on every one. Stallings' only concern is how the 5-11, 175-pounder will do under game conditions.

"I've thought about that," Bellar admits. "There is more pressure just coming off the bench and kicking rather than playing and kicking. But the way Coach Stallings runs practices, I don't think the pressure will affect me that much. I'll just have to concentrate on kicking."

Bellar will also handle kick-offs for the Aggies. "He'll kick the ball out of the endzone every time, if we don't overwork him," Stallings says.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Waymon Bellar of Sudan, Bellar was an all-round athlete in high school. He played linebacker and fullback in football and was all-district in golf, basketball and track.

Bellar credits A&M's weight program with strengthening his legs and enabling him to better his best high school effort of 37 yards. He is majoring in Physical Education at A&M and plans on a coaching career.

A visiting sports writer asked Stallings if Bellar was a "soccer style" kicker. "He just lines up and kicks them straight through the middle, whatever style you call that," Stallings answered.

The Aggie coach hopes that is exactly what Bellar will do against LSU. Bellar will know then if he is good enough to be a college kicker.

Scripture: St. John 3:3, 14-16; Romans 4:3-5.

"If I have told you earthly things, and ye believe not, how shall ye believe, if I tell you of heavenly things?"

Jesus had the problem of communicating who He was and what He knew, even to Nicodemus the ruler, much as we have this problem of communication with each other today.

If I could exchange my knowledge for yours, although you may (like Nicodemus) be a gifted, educated, moral, refined person, I would not exchange what I know for your knowledge for fear you had not learned the one vital thing which I know: How to live an abundant life eternally!

"Ye must be born again," Christ said. You cannot reform yourself, and thus work or earn your way into heaven—but the spirit must be re-born again; for until we accept Christ we are dead spiritually. The condition of the new birth is: faith in Christ crucified. That is the one thing required of you or me.

For Salvation is God's free gift to man—you or I only accept. We cannot buy it, or earn it.

Then, it is our faith to believe in Jesus, not our works, which makes us God's child. Paul wrote: "Abraham believed God, and it was accounted unto him for righteousness."

You are born again when you accept Jesus Christ as the only begotten Son of God and your Savior. By the Grace of God, and the shed blood of Jesus Christ, the lowest, vilest, meanest sinner can accept Jesus and immediately become a child of God. Good or bad is not the question, but the question is "What will you do with Jesus?"

All of us who accept Jesus are "born again" children into one family—the family of God.

You can do all kinds of good works and be educated and have the high moral character of a fine man or woman, but you have not been justified by the blood of Jesus, shed in payment for all sin. If you could have been justified before God by the Law of Moses, it would not have been necessary for Christ to die. But the Law cannot justify—Grace can! The Law condemns the best of us; Grace saves the worst of us! Praise God for Jesus!

For there is no other name under heaven given among men where-by we must be saved.

To believe God is more than just stating that you believe Jesus Christ is God's Son. To believe God is to accept all His Word, His Son, and to turn from our sinful way, to His upward way. We go home eternally with God's Holy Spirit now leading, guiding, comforting, helping, giving us strength in time of need.

Works? Only a joyful outpouring of gratitude and love for Christ. Which are an evidence that we have faith in Him. Works for God's glory, not for our own, are the only works God will recognize and reward. So, neither works or rewards have anything to do with our salvation.

For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: not of works, lest any man should boast. —Ephesians 2:8, 9.

Are you God's child?

Church Funds For Militants?

James Forman, black militant leader, has declared plainly—in the introduction to the "Black Manifesto"—"We are dedicated to building a socialist society inside the United States, where the total means of production and distribution are in the hands of the state."

He does not say "Communist" but says "socialist," which is what the Communists call themselves.

Forman has been demanding money from the churches—at first, $500,000,000, but later this was raised to $3 billion.

Should our churches finance this program?

The Episcopal Church has voted to turn over $200,000 to the National Committee of Black Churchmen. It is understood and has been stated that the money will go through this organization to Forman's National Black Economic Development Council.

Some Episcopal leaders—both lay and clergy—have objected strongly to this decision.

"Time Is Short"

If there is in your mind any lingering doubt, consider this quotation from Forman, "Think in terms of total control of the U. S. Prepare ourselves to seize state power. Do not hedge, for time is short."

Is financing rebellion and revolution the work of the church?

When did Jesus advocate that His disciples undertake to raise funds for such a purpose?

Have we strayed so far from the words of the Lord that it has come to the point that we will finance our own self-destruction?

Isaiah said, to the people of his time, "The leaders of this people cause them to err—and they that are led of them are destroyed."

But Isaiah had also another message—which is also very appropriate to us in these times:

"Put away the evil of your doings from before Mine eyes. Cease to do evil. Learn to do well. Seek judgment. Relieve the oppressed. Judge the fatherless. Plead for the widow."

"Come now and let us reason together, saith the Lord. Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow. Though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool."

There is a very proper place in the program of the church for the expression of compassion and care for the poor and neglected. This should not, however, take the place of the spiritual ministry of the church, but should complement it.

If We Began to Pray . . .

There is no place in the scriptural program of the church for the funding of the activities of those who would violently destroy the nation in which we have freedom of religion, replacing it with a state led by those who have already threatened to destroy the churches if they do not accede to their demands.

What do you suppose would happen if God's people began now to pray that the effect of this decision be annulled and that Forman's power and influence be diminished and destroyed?

It might be interesting to see.

LAMB COUNTY ACCIDENT REPORT

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 11 accidents on rural highways in Lamb County during the month of August, according to Sergeant Thurman Keffer, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in one persons killed, three persons injured and an estimated property damage of $11,990.00.

The rural accident summary for this county during the first eight months of 1969 shows a total of 76 accidents resulting in three persons killed, 23 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $52,135.00.

With the beginning of school, the sergeant reminds all motorists of the state law regulating traffic in regard to school buses. "The driver of a vehicle upon a highway outside of the limits of any incorporated city or town upon meeting or overtaking from either direction any school bus which has stopped on the highway for the purpose of receiving or discharging any school children shall stop the vehicle immediately before passing the school bus, but may then proceed past such school bus at a speed which is prudent, not exceeding ten (10) miles per hour, and with due caution for the safety of such children."

PRUSSIC ACID MAY POISON STOCK

Recent rains over much of the area have brought on regrowth of sorghums, sudangrass, sudan, sorghum hybrids and Johnsongrass that suffered from the dry weather this summer or that was recently harvested. And this situation may pose a threat to grazing livestock.

New growth on sorghums sometimes develops a high prussic acid content and becomes a hazard to grazing animals points out County Agricultural Agent Buddy C. Logsdon. The same situation develops when the growth of these sorghums is stopped by a freeze or frost. So farmers are urged to keep an eye on their stock for the next few months if their animals are grazing any of the different sorghum types.

Prussic acid acts quickly in the digestive tract of an animal, explains Logsdon. It can kill an animal within a very short time after the plant is eaten. Whether or not a poisoned animal can be saved depends on how soon a veterinarian can get to it.

Animals that have been poisoned may stagger and act sleepy before suddenly dropping dead, explains Logsdon. Severe muscular twitching is sometimes seen. Labored breathing and frothing from a wide-open mouth are common symptoms. An animal may grind its teeth and turn its head into its flank. The breath usually has an almond-like odor, and mucous membranes appear congested but not cyanotic and bluish. The blood is often cherry red.

Death results from suffocation, since the poison prevents the exchange of oxygen from the blood to the tissue.

Forage containing prussic acid can be fed safely if it is cut and allowed to cure completely in the field, or if it is put up as silage and not fed for several months, adds Logsdon. Mature plants with few suckers are seldom dangerous if growth has been normal. Grain sorghum or sudan stubble regrowth grazed in late fall can be very dangerous.

A good way to check grazing safety is to turn one or two low-quality animals into a suspect field and watch them for a day or two. Be sure water is available to them or the symptoms may be delayed.

If poisoning is suspected, Logsdon advises to consult your local veterinarian at once. However, good grazing management is the best preventive against animal losses due to prussic acid poisoning.

Mrs. Webb Watts is convalescing at home after being a patient in a Lubbock hospital.

Down deep within the life, the soul,
There lives a hope to reach a goal,
A hope that's guiding us each day,
A hope that brightens up our way,
It's hopes that drives away all gloom
And tells us better days will come,
Then hope assures us there will be
A great and grand eternity.

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the First United Methodist Church held a salad luncheon meeting Monday, 1:00 p. m. in the church fellowship hall.

Mrs. Ocie Willingham, vice-president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. F. M. Smith.

Life-membership pins were presented to Mrs. Ray May and Mrs. Joe Burt Markham. Money, $25 for each pin, is used for missions.

Mrs. J. S. Smith gave the invocation and Mrs. T. B. Adair led the devotions. The group was dismissed by a new member and pastor of the church, Rev. Aubrey White.

Some 30 members attended the luncheon meeting.

COTTON RESEARCH PROGRAM REPORT

Although Cotton Producers Institute programs are only midway in the second year of operation, some meaningful results are being achieved.

This was noted by Roy B. Davis, Lubbock, Texas, after CPI activities were reviewed and recommendations for a $10.6-million cotton research and promotion program had been presented to the Cotton Board for 1970.

This would continue the $1-per-bale effort initiated by growers when they approved the Cotton Research and Promotion Order in a referendum late in 1966.

Mr. Davis is secretary of the Cotton Research and Promotion Act and Order and collects the $1 per bale. It contracts with a cotton producer organization (CPI) to develop and conduct the program. The program is serviced by the National Cotton Council.

"The Cotton Board has completed its second successful year and currently has collected $1 per bale on slightly more than 98 per cent of the cotton," Chairman G. C. Cortright, Rolling Fork, Miss., reported to the Board and approximately a hundred Alabama cotton industry leaders.

He cautioned, however, that "cotton still faces the greatest challenge in its history in its competitive battle for survival against man-made fibers."

Mr. Cortright said it would not be necessary to deduct funds from $1-per-bale receipts in order to operate the Cotton Board. He explained that returns on short-term investments in approved government securities, prior to turning funds over to CPI, will yield an interest revenue of at least one-fourth more than the total Cotton Board budget.

Reporting on the CPI program, the Cotton Board chairman said new permanent press processes already have been developed for cotton fabrics and contracts are being negotiated for commercial use. New and better insect control methods have been developed. He also pointed out that many of cotton's traditional markets, such as shirts, are being fortified through promotion.

The reports and recommendations for 1970 were presented by CPI Vice President Howard Alford of Lubbock, Texas, and National Cotton Council staff members.

The reports cited: (1) promising new approaches to control of the boll weevil, bollworm; (2) findings that could lead to improved planting and better stands; (3) a systemic fungicide which, in tests, gave good control of verticillium wilt; (4) development of the vapor phase process for durable press cotton fabrics and improvement of the wet-fine process; and (5) work to combine durable press with fire resistance.

It was noted also that: (1) more than 145 retail companies are cooperating with CPI in newspaper advertising to boost cotton sales in more than 600 stores; (2) promotion with big volume sportswear and swimwear manufacturers is paying off; (3) designers and buyers can view and select the latest cotton fabrics from CPI libraries in New York, Los Angeles, and Dallas; (4) local promotion is expanding significantly in the Cotton Belt; and (5) expansion in sales training, fabric development, shopping center events, and market press week projects is spurring retailer interest in cotton.

SOCIAL SECURITY OFFICE EXPLAINS BENEFITS

Most people think of retirement when social security is mentioned, but a large amount of benefits paid is to people under retirement age, reports John G. Hutton, manager of the Lubbock social security office.

Hutton explained that one out of every four people receiving social security is under age 60. These are under 18 children of retiree's, children under age 22 and still in school, surviving children, young widows with minor children at home, disabled widows age 50-60, and disabled workers and their dependents.

These beneficiaries illustrate dramatically that social security is no longer just a retirement plan. It is a system that also offers protection to young families during the times of crisis caused by the death or disability of the bread winner in the family.

A booklet entitled "Social Security for Young Families" is available at the social security office. Hutton suggested that young parents write or telephone for a copy of this booklet so they may be fully aware of the protection offered by social security.
