BARRY GOLDWATER (remember him?) said, the other day that if Spiro Agnew didn't watch out, he was going to be a potent candidate for president before he is supposed to be.

What that meant is that Goldwater approved of the way Spiro T. is going around blasting people, such as the moratorium mob, the campus rebels, and more recently the television networks.

Agnew has been quite vocal of late, jumping onto people with both feet and a sharp tongue, somewhat reminiscent of George Wallace's campaign in the last presidential election. It didn't get George very far (but it did get him my vote), and Barry was not exactly a ball of fire when he ran for president, either. But it can't be denied that more and more people in the nation are becoming aware of the answer to the question someone asked during the last election: "What is a Spiro Agnew?"

If Spiro keeps going, he may even get my vote. I heard Paul Bean of KSEL radio and TV the other morning all upset over Spiro's comments, which is understandable, although I agree with Agnew more than I do Paul in this instance.

(You're a nice fellow, though, Paul, as I will testify a few paragraphs later).

As an example of the kind of TV news handling he objected to, Agnew cited the network's commentaries immediately after President Nixon's Vietnam speech Nov. 3.

The vice president said it was "obvious" that commentators had their minds made up in advance.

Commentators, Mr. Vice President, are like any other speakers or writers: if their opinions are the same as the viewers, they are great; if not, they are bums.

Personally, I turned off the TV as soon as the speeches were over. I was even mildly insulted by the fact that all stations were about to tell me what I had just heard. After all, I heard it as well as they did.

BACK TO Paul Bean. He and some other KSEL staffers were en route to Fort Worth the other day to the Tech-TCU football game, but took time out to stop and help a couple who had a flat, but whose jack wouldn't work. They didn't know the couple; they just decided to stop and help. The TV crew changed the tire in record time.

It happens that those people were on their way from Graham to Sudan to visit relatives, of which I guess I am one. They appreciated the help, and so do I. These are not as many people willing to help others these days as there used to be.

THE BIG A - Nick Nichols is shown above with the Big A applicator which arrived in Sudan this week from Kansas. The machine is unique in this area but businessmen think that it is the upcoming thing.

Nichols Oil Company Acquires 'Big A'

Nick Nichols of Nichols Oil Company announced this week that he has purchased a "Big A" applicator from Goodpasture Grain and Milling Company.

The applicator arrived in Sudan Monday, after being driven from Salina, Kansas. Jack Brooks, representative of Goodpasture Grain of Brownfield, stated that the machine averaged 500 miles per day on the trip. He said that this was one of 20 such machines purchased by Goodpasture for the South Plains area at a total cost of $360,000.

The Big A literally floats along with specially designed floatation tires. The tires are 66 inches tall and 43 inches wide but hold only 13 pounds of air which enables the machine to be used in wet or dry fields without packing the ground.

The machine can cover 65 feet, or 18 rows at a time while moving at speeds up to 30 miles per hour; thus covering from 60 to 80 per acre per hour.

Nichols said that the machine

Garland, Mrs. Bettie Leonard of Garland.

Weather conditions on the South Plains this summer and fall have been anything but ideal for producing quality planting seed. Now, a good possibility exists that cotton seed of acceptable quality from this year's crop will be in short supply.

Locally many farmers are making trips to the gin with much less cotton than last year. Some estimates are that the current crop will reach only about 30 per cent of what was harvested last year. Grades are very poor but staple length and micronaire is good.

Several farmers report total failure of this crop and are plowing the stalks under without harvesting a single boll.

Central Compress reports receiving 11,000 bales compared to 27,000 at this time last year. This will indicate the shortage of seeds in itself.

"There are two big reasons for this gloomy outlook," says Dr. Bob Metzger, area agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "First, the early freeze resulted in immature seed by stopping lint and seed development in northern portions of the High Plains. Secondly, the exposure of mature seed to prolonged wet spells in open cotton was equally detrimentally. "While excessive moisture is the main culprit that has brought on seed deterioration, we are fortunate that the temperature was relatively low during these wet periods," adds Metzger. "Otherwise, the results could have been disastrous."

Early preliminary tests of new crop cotton seed indicate higher than normal free fatty acid content. Since this type acid is an indicator and by-product of seed deterioration, it may serve as an ominous warning of things to come, the agronomist points out.

A free fatty acid content of one percent or more indicates some degree of deterioration. Such seed will not only be more sensitive in storage but will also be more susceptible to mold growth during germination and to seed decay organisms in the field.

Free fatty acid does not tell us the whole story. But Metzger urges producers to use this test as a preliminary guide for rejecting or keeping a seed lot for planting purposes so that any substandard seed can be sold for milling purposes. Also, they should get a germination test as quickly as possible on any seed to be saved for planting.

"Several other points should receive careful attention in preserving seed quality," adds Metzger. "When harvesting, make sure the cotton is dry. This means removing all green material that carries moisture. About eight percent moisture is desirable for seed cotton. Cotton with a moisture content above 12 percent left on a trailer for even short periods can cause heat and ruin good seed quickly, especially since most seed has had some previous deterioration in the field."

Ginning is another area where steps can be taken to preserve quality. Operating with a tight seed roll and excessive fan speeds often contribute to mechanical injury of seed. Such seed are more susceptible to further damage when exposed to acid in the delinting process.

Another aspect of seed quality is varietal purity, points out the agronomist. Variety mixtures can be avoided by ginning in larger lots of 10 bales or more. Seed rolls should be dumped and other equipment cleaned between varieties. Of course, this problem can be solved best with one-variety gins or block-ginning procedures. Failure to clean trailers also results in mixtures.

"In view of the seed quality picture this fall, it becomes imperative that we treat these seeds with utmost care during harvesting and ginning operations," emphasizes Metzger. "Extra care will also be needed in delinting, cleaning and seed treatment operation."

"Furthermore, once the seed is in the bag, make sure it's stored in a dry place away from harmful chemicals. We can do nothing to reverse seed deterioration that has already occurred in the field, but close supervision will go a long way toward maintaining our present seed quality."

RED CROSS SEEKS AID TO PRISONERS

The American Red Cross is intensifying its efforts to open channels of communication and relief to U. S. servicemen being held prisoners of war in North Vietnam, according to word received this past week at the local Red Cross Office from National Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Roy Wade, executive secretary of the local chapter said at a regular monthly meeting of Board held Friday afternoon in the Red Cross offices in Lamb County Court House, that a resolution sponsored by the American society urging that prisoners of war be given the benefits and protection of the Geneva Conventions was adopted without dissenting vote last month by the representatives of 77 governments and 91 national Red Cross societies attending the quadrennial International Conference of the Red Cross in Istanbul.

It was also stated that American Red Cross followed this action with a cable message to Red Cross societies in all parts of the world, asking that they appeal to the Red Cross society of North Vietnam to take appropriate steps to insure that American prisoners are receiving the humane treatment called for in the Conventions.

Both teams ended the season with a 7-3 record but Farwell will represent the district in bi-district play against Petersburg Saturday night at Lubbock. The Hornets had a good chance get on the score board early as Steve Edwards recovered a fumble on the Steer 28 yd. line. Later in the quarter Randy Glover recovered another fumble on the Steer 25 yd. line but again the Hornets failed to capitalize. On fourth down Jerry Bellar attempted a 20 yd. field goal which was off to the left. At the end of the first quarter, Gerald Chisholm recovered on the 19 yd. line but the Hornets lost the ball on downs at the 14 yd. line.

The Steers started the fireworks early in the second quarter as Gary Erwin carried over from the 9 yd. line for the first Steer TD. Eddie Wingert kicked the extra point to give the Steers a 7-0 lead. With 1:20 left in the first half the Hornets fumbled and the Steers were there to cover it on the 49 yd. line. With 1:2 left QB Greg Hargrove passed to end meeting, which opened with a prayer led by Rev. C. P. McMaster. A new Board Member, Mrs. John A. Price was introduced by Mrs. Norman Frey. She will serve as Public Information Chairman.

It was announced that the 1970 Fund Drive will get underway early in January and chairman for area towns will be announced at the January meeting.

Judge G. T. Sides read a letter from National Red Cross Headquarters commending the local chapter for meeting its quota for Hurricane Camille disaster.

Attending were Mesdames D. R. Leonard, A. H. Scivally, Roy Wade, John A. Price, Norman F. Frey, Bonnie Haberer and Judge G. T. Sides, James P. Arnold and Rev. C. P. McMasters.

SENIOR HB Larry Hanna carries the ball around right end for good yardage against the Farwell Steers Friday night. Kicker Eddie Wingert booted a 20 yd. field goal to stretch the Steer lead to 17-0. The Hornets got the ball going as QB Rex Boyles passed to Jerry Bellar to the 16 yd. line. With 2:45 left in the third quarter HB Jerry Bellar made the first TD for the Hornets from the two yd. line. Jerry Bellar carried over for the 2 extra points, so as the 3rd quarter ended the Hornets had narrowed the Steer lead 17-8.

Early in the 4th quarter the Steers got on the score board again as QB Greg Hargrove passed to End Dean Stovall for a 22 yd. TD. Eddie Wingert again kicked the EP to give the Steers a 24-8 lead. Harvey Willeby recovered a Steer fumble on the 25 yd. line as the Hornets tried hard to get on the scoreboard late in the final quarter, but Gene Sheets intercepted a Hornet pass on the 14 yd. line with only 5 seconds left. LAMB COUNTY ACCIDENT REPORT

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 10 accidents on rural highways in Lamb County during the month of October according to Sergeant Thurman Keffer, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in no persons killed, three persons injured and an estimated property damage of $12,600.00.

Traffic wise, November and December are noted as dangerous months for pedestrians. Some of the attributing factors are: Longer hours of darkness, bad weather, holidays, and lack of drivers' and pedestrians' attention.

The veteran patrol supervisor listed some tips to aid both pedestrians and drivers. Always wear something light colored when walking after dark. If you have a dark colored raincoat or overcoat, put a strip or two of reflectorized material across the back and front when walking on the street or highway.

Strength and beauty are his sanctuary.—(Psalms 96:6).

Let us cultivate the habit of looking for beauty. Nothing brings us in closer touch with the omnipresence of God than seeing the beauty He has created everywhere. We do many things to develop our mind and our body, but to cultivate the habit of seeing beauty develops the soul.

Casserole Capers: Fresh Tomatoes and Eggplant

Here's a fresh viewpoint on casseroles: tomatoes, paired off beautifully with eggplant and ground beef, create a medley that will carry you away with its delectable flavor! No generation gap here as all ages fasten insatiable appetites on our fresh vegetable and meat melange with the goodness of heavenly juices and flavor locked into one dish.

Both of these delicious vegetables spent centuries under a cloud of culinary suspicion. Tomatoes were believed to be aphrodisiac and, therefore, avoided and eggplant was called the "mad apple" since eating one was sure to bring on insanity. The tempestuous Italians are generally credited with throwing caution to the winds and tomatoes and eggplants into their stew and slowly but surely these fruits of the garden were divested of their questionable reputations.

Today, casserole cookery, a great boon to busy homemakers, reaches new heights with the addition of beautiful purple eggplant and luscious red tomatoes to our pot of plenty for some fortunate souls to enjoy.

SUPPER CASSEROLE
1 eggplant (about 1 1/2 pounds)	1 1/2 pounds ground beef
3/4 cup chopped fresh onion	1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
3 tablespoons salad oil	2 tomatoes, sliced
2 eggs	1/3 cup grated Cheddar cheese
2 teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

Prep eggplant, cut into 1/2-inch cubes. Sauté eggplant cubes with onion in oil about 5 minutes or until onion is tender, stirring frequently. Remove from heat. Beat eggs with salt and pepper, mix in ground beef and bread crumbs. Gently mix in eggplant mixture. Put meat mixture into buttered 2-quart casserole. Bake in 375° F. oven 40 minutes. Overlap tomatoes over meat mixture. Sprinkle cheese over tomatoes. Continue baking 20 minutes. Makes about 6 servings.

Hill-Thomson Vows Read

In a double ring ceremony read before a backdrop of candleabra and baskets of white mums, Wanda Laurel Hill became the bride of Charles Taylor Thompson on Saturday, Nov. 15, at the First Baptist Church of Sudan, with the Rev. Herbert M. Thompson, brother of the groom, of the Community United Methodist Church of Annawan, Ill., officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Velton Hill of Sudan, Texas, and Mr. and Mrs. John L. Thompson of Mokenca, Ill.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length dress of white cotton velveteen with long pointed sleeves and a V-neckline. Her veil of silk illusion was fastened to a lace-covered bow trimmed with seed pearls and lace trimmed the bottom edge of the veil. She carried a bouquet of white mums and stephanotis. Something old and borrowed was a handkerchief belonging to her aunt, Mrs. W. B. Jones, Sr. of Sudan, something new was her dress and something blue was a blue garter.

Mrs. Gaylon Burns of Sudan, attended her sister as matron of honor, and Mrs. Wayne Sanders of Brownfield, wore matching dresses of avocado green velveteen, similar in style to that of the bride. They wore headpieces of avocado green maline and leaves and carried bouquets of gold pom pom mums.

Attending his brother as best man was Walter C. Thompson of Minneapolis, Minn. Groomsman was Donald Forburger of Mokenca, Ill. Ushers were Charles Wilson of Williamson, Ga., and Gaylon Burns of Sudan.

Accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Tommy Evins, Mrs. J. R. Manning of Sudan sang "Whither Thou Goest", "And This Is My Beloved", and "The Wedding Prayer". Mrs. Evins also played the traditional wedding processional and recessional as well as special selections before the wedding.

Food for Thought

Mushrooms are blooming all over the place these days. In fact, there's a regular mushroom mystique going on in smart shops across the country.

The amusing little umbrellas pop up in fantasy designs or realistic shapes on china, mixing bowls, or chic cookware. And as part of the no-color fashion story, too, there's a whole crop of mushroom patterns sprouting on kitchen towels, terrys, appliances covers, mitts, aprons, and shortie draperies as well as table cloths and napkins.

Almost 2,000 years ago, Martial, a Roman writer of epigrams, said, "You can trust gold and silver and dresses to a messenger, but not a mushroom. He will surely eat it en route." Apparently they were tempting even that far back.

But home furnishing designers are not the only people taking up mushrooms now. The production of 181 million pounds of the classic vegetable this past year indicates a growing popularity with folks who like good eating.

Incidentally, Pennsylvania produced more than 62 percent of the nation's crop in 1967-68 when growers raised some 113 million pounds of mushrooms.

Gourmet cooks have long considered mushrooms an elegant addition to many dishes, but the newest rage is to serve them raw in salads. The spongy, fresh slices absorb a well-seasoned dressing and distribute it throughout the mixed greens. Fresh spinach and scallions or watercress and hard-cooked eggs are two favorite combinations to team with the mushrooms.

Of course you won't want to waste the fine flavor of the mushrooms—or your time—so, don't bother to peel them. Just scrub the little vegetable gently under cold tap water. Trim off some of the bottom stem and slice them from top to bottom to preserve their interesting shape.

"THE MAN WHO SAVES HIS OWN COTTONSEED"

Let's call him Grower A. He knows what seed production is all about . . . how seed quality insures greater production of higher quality cotton. He produces his seedstock with these elite methods: one variety farm, one variety gin for handling seed cotton, one variety trucking, one variety storage, handles big volume for processing one variety with absolute cleanup at every stage of handling. He knows that seed can be mixed at many points such as the gin or delinting plant and that "varietal mixture", so common with farmer-saved seed, hurts his overall production. Further, he's aware of the genetics and agronomics of seed production.

We salute Grower A. He produces planting seed exactly the way it should be done . . . exactly the way every bag of Johnny Cottonseed is produced. If your seedstock is anything less, you should be concerned. But maybe we can help. If you don't have the time, facilities or desire to go into the seed production business, check into our unique SEED BANK program at your local coop gin or elevator. You can get your choice of varieties in both guaranteed quality and supply. It's a service offered by your own cooperative, Growers Seed Association.

New Process Cuts Steel Costs

Production costs of basic minerals and metals are being attacked by Polaris International Metals Inc., Tucson, Arizona with results that will have effects throughout the world.

Engineer-scientist Edward Van Dornick (left) has patented a process which cuts costs drastically for conversion of iron ore to steel, and the process has been turned over to Polaris for implementation.

Polaris president James N. Conannon has spearheaded organization of a management team comprised of leading authorities in the metals industry, including Martin Wener, a director who has served with the Department of the Interior.

Steel production cost will be cut by 50 percent and plant construction outlay reduced from $54 million to $10 million. The one-hearth process will produce iron and steel in 48 to 60 minutes, depending on the grade of steel desired, compared to the 18 hours presently required.

In the laboratory, steel has been made from ore with as little as 11 percent iron. This opens new vistas for countries with iron ore in insufficient concentration for existing methods, that require at least 25 percent iron content.

A pilot plant that will produce one ton per day is planned in Southern California in the immediate future, as a showcase for future worldwide joint ventures.

Polaris International Metals Inc. corporate offices are at 636 West Lester, Tucson, Arizona, 85705.

Sunday School Lesson

"Be of Good Cheer"

By DAVE LLEWELLYN

Death delivers us from life, and that is comfort! How satisfying is that to you? Not very, I hope, because God didn't intend us to be comforted by escape or death.

These verses are missing an important clause: "The grass withereth, the flower fadeth, because the breath of Jehovah bloweth upon it."

Yes, we are as grass and grass withers, but it is Jehovah who governs the operation of all life. We cannot alter or control our lives, any more than grass can avoid the sun; but rather than being under the condemnation of mechanistic laws, we are receiving the personal attention of Jehovah.

Acceptance Required

That should be comforting, yet it cannot be if you do not accept its truth. Personal acceptance of this perspective is the imperative of the second principle of comfort, that of preparing the way of Jehovah.

John the Baptist cited Isaiah's theme: of preparing the way of Jehovah as the basis of his ministry, and his message of preparation was "Repent ye."

Repentance is a whole-hearted change of your mind and actions to establish God's view of life as your own.

A man without God's perspective or without confidence in His care hears God's words of comfort like a hollow, distant voice, muffled by the wind.

Yet David could say, "Yes, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff, they comfort me."
