SOUTHERN states under an ultimatum to integrate their schools with equal percentages of blacks and whites no matter what the cost—or if every parent of both colors is against it—have been trying to fight back against the orders of the courts.

Aside from the specific busing orders and application of laws to fit the south only, the whole idea of integrating schools, hiring so many blacks or browns or greens or whites just to make sure the quotas fit a formula is under attack from some quarters.

One of those not enthusiastic about school admission policies demanded by civil rightists is Spiro Agnew, of whom I am growing more fond each time he speaks. He said in a recent talk in Chicago:

"For those who think that there should be ethnic quotas or race quotas, or socio-economic class quotas in the admissions to colleges and universities, I would address this question: When next you are sick, do you wish to be attended by a physician who entered medical school to fill a quota or because his medical aptitude was high?"

"By some strange madness, we find the thought seriously entertained among men in responsible positions in the academy itself... that the untrained should help choose those to be trained and that membership, whether as students or teachers, in institutions of higher learning should be determined fundamentally by considerations other than aptitude..."

I couldn't have said it nearly so well myself.

THE TEXAS Restaurant Assn. is trying to do away with waitresses. At some of the places where I've eaten, I think they already did—at least I couldn't find one.

Actually the TRA only wants to do away with the term, not the people. The group claims the term "waitress" is outdated, and want people to call them "sales hostesses."

I wish them luck in their efforts. They will need it.

Devotional

By HAZEL HOUSE

Scripture: Psalms 25:8-12; 27:11; 33:6-22; St. John 1:9-13; 3:16-17; 5:36.

"Teach me Thy way, O Lord, and lead me in a plain path."
How can the Lord teach me His way, unless I turn from my own selfish way and take time to listen to Him, to read His Word, to pray? How can He guide me in a plain path until I am willing to follow Him? The man or woman who is amazed and reverent awe recognizes God's Almighty power and eternal love is the one whom God shall teach in the way that He shall choose, according to God's own Word.

Do you know who Jesus really is? If you have met Him as Savior and Redeemer, then have you been with Him day by day and learned to know him as Friend, Elder Brother, Comforter, Teacher and Guide?

Do you really know what Jesus' nature is and how He does keep His promises? Does your "soul" wait for the Lord because He is your help and shield? Does your heart rejoice in Him because you have trusted completely in His name? Do you know that Jesus really is the SAME yesterday, today, and forever?

The works that Jesus came to do here on earth is: to seek and to save that which was lost; He came to reveal the heart and nature of the Father—the unending, eternal love the Father has for you and me; He died to pay for our sins; and He arose from the dead and ascended into heaven, to reveal to us how we, too, can have eternal life through Him. Now He sits at the right hand of God to intercede for us.

Do you know Jesus? Do you believe Him? I plead with you, hear Him, seek Him, search the scriptures—learn What a Friend we have in Jesus!

Was Jesus Just A Great Man?

By DAVE LLEWELLYN

Jesus was insane, perhaps. Or if not insane, He may have been only a liar.

If neither of these, He was God. But He couldn't have been merely a great man. What kind of moral philosopher claims to be God, declares Himself to be the only way to heaven, accepts worship from other men?

If Jesus took these roles rightfully, He was God; if not, He was an egotistical fraud. There is no logical middle ground.

Claims to divinity, of course, have been made since by other prominent men—the emperors of Rome, for example. Only Caligula and Domitian took these claims seriously, however, and historians agree that both were insane.

Insane — or Divine?
Jesus didn't get rich, and He refused to become king. So if He was a liar, He must have lied for the privilege of being crucified. That would have been insanity.

It seems the choice is between divinity and insanity. A few theologians these days try to support the second alternative, but no theory I am aware of makes any sense of the rational, peaceful, and humble way of life which Jesus daily lived while suffering from His alleged "theomania."

Jesus clearly endorsed the declaration of Peter: "You are the Christ, the Son of the living God." If Jesus was the Son of God, then He still is.

Immediately after Peter told Jesus "You are the Christ," Jesus replied "You are Peter." Then He told Peter two truths about himself.

First, He explained that in comparison with Jesus, Peter was unimportant, and He used a play on words to contrast the two. He said: "You are Peter" ("Peter" is a masculine word in the original Greek and means "a stone") "and upon this rock" ("rock" is a neuter word and means a boulder or "bed-rock") "I will build My church."

Although Peter played the leading role in the first stage of establishing the church, he was not the foundation itself. "For no man can lay a foundation other than the one which is laid, which is Jesus Christ." (1 Corinthians 3:11)

Next, Jesus explained how important Peter was in his position under Christ. Jesus gave Peter the "keys to the kingdom of heaven." Then He explained their significance: "Whatever you shall bind on earth shall have been bound in heaven, and whatever you shall loose on earth shall have been loosed in heaven."

Lead by Holy Spirit
The King James Version has popularized a misconception of this authority by its use of "shall be bound/loosed" rather than the more exact "shall have been bound/loosed." Peter's authority was not to make decisions for God to carry out; rather, he was given the privilege to proclaim decisions already made in heaven.

We have roles similar to Peter's. We, too, can be led by God's will through the Holy Spirit and can declare the decisions of God as they are recorded in the Bible.

We, too, can become "rock"—solid Christians by building on the bed-rock foundation of Jesus Christ. And, as with Peter, these changes will come only from accepting the revelation of who Jesus Christ is.

General Telephone Plans Construction

Seventy-five million dollars have been budgeted by General Telephone Company of the Southwest for construction during 1970 in the company's five state area of operations, according to L. Gray Beck, president.

It is the biggest construction budget in the company's history and is a 20 per cent increase over actual construction costs in 1969.

The largest single budget item is for central office equipment and totals $27 million.

This amount will permit: Replacing equipment in 14 central offices and adding equipment to 84 others; seven major carrier projects using a transmission technique which improves fidelity, efficiency, and economy over conventional transmission methods, adding 47 smaller carrier systems; and General Telephone customers in 56 exchanges to dial their own long distance calls.

Eight other central office projects will enlarge the calling scope of customers, while facilities will be added to six locations where wide calling scopes already exist.

Other plans of major significance in 1970 include continuation of the company's program to eliminate eight party rural service and provide one and two party service to all urban customers as rapidly as economically feasible.

During this year, 24 projects are scheduled which will replace eight party rural service with four party service and in 17 towns one or two party service will be provided for all customers.

How many days have you used your pool this year?

With a SUN/FUN Pool Enclosure you can swim every day!

With a Sun/Fun you can swim when you FEEL like it—not just when the weather is good. A Sun/Fun Pool Enclosure is like a "convertible." The motorized opening roof system and removable side panels let you have all the fresh air and sunshine you want in fair weather. Closed, and equipped with its own heating system, the Sun/Fun is a semi-transparent "space capsule" in which you are securely sealed away from rain, snow, and insects—but not shut in. And you're spared the constant chore of cleaning your pool, because falling leaves and airborne debris can't get into your pool. A Sun/Fun makes your pool a sort of backyard "country club." And it's so good-looking you'll want to show it off.

Rotary International To Celebrate Birthday

On Feb. 23, 1970 Rotary is 65 years old and 660,500 strong. Although it is an age when many men retire from active life, 65 is just another milestone for Rotary International, which continues to expand in numbers and in the variety of its activities. There now are 14,022 Rotary clubs in 148 counties. In the ten years ending June 30, 1969, Rotary has grown by 161,643 Rotarians and 3,152 clubs.

The ideal of service is being translated into action in communities from Argentina to Zambia. Rotarians are active in civic and community welfare work, in leading boys and girls into good citizenship, in the betterment of rural-urban relations, and in raising the standards of their vocations. Individually and as members of their Rotary clubs, they seek the advancement of world understanding and peace.

These good deeds grew out of an idea borne in the mind of Paul P. Harris, the founder of Rotary. The young lawyer wanted to organize a club which would band together a group of representative business and professional men, a club whose members might recapture the friendliness, camaraderie and understanding of the small-town life many of them had known as youngsters.

On Feb. 23, 1905, the Rotary Club of Chicago's first meeting took place. The new organization was named "Rotary" because the members met in rotation at their various place of business.

Each man who joined Harris in organizing this club was engaged in a different type of service to the public. This basis of membership—one active member from each business and profession—became a cornerstone of Rotary.

From Chicago, Rotary soon spread to other cities in the U. S. A. By 1912 there were Rotary clubs in Canada, England and Ireland, and the International Association of Rotary clubs was formed. This name was shortened to Rotary International in 1922.

The annual Rotarian Sweetheart banquet was held Thursday night in the school cafeteria with the local president, J. R. Manning serving as master of ceremonies.

A musical program was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Max Moore, minister of Music and Education at the First Baptist

The banquet theme "Love" was carried out in the songs featuring love of man, God and country.

The Valentine motif was used in decorations. Mrs. Rodney Nichols, Mrs. F. M. Smith and Mrs. W. E. Hancock served on the decorations committee. Some 42 persons attended.

CRIME RATES INCREASE

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today statistics compiled by the DPS indicate that major crime in Texas increased 15.9% in 1969 over the previous year. There were an estimated 432,251 criminal offenses in the state during 1969, as compared to 372,912 in 1968. Of the total, 389,969 offenses occurred in urban areas and 42,282 in rural sections. Speir gave these rates of increase for various crimes: murder and homicide up 1.5%, rape up 33.2%, robbery up 53.1%, burglary up 17.1%, aggravated assault up 22.7%, theft up 12.5%, and auto theft up 22.8%. The DPS, which compiled the report from offense reports submitted by State and local officers, said the crime clock in Texas ticked off one major crime every 1 1/4 minutes during 1969. There was a murder every seven hours, a rape every 3 1/2 hours, and a robbery every hour. One burglary occurred every 4 1/2 minutes, an aggravated assault and a theft every 20 1/3 minutes, and an auto theft every 14 minutes. "All Texans are concerned with the continuing increase in crime, and I am convinced there is a growing public awareness of the threat posed by the criminal and lawless element," Speir said.

"There is no one solution to the problem, but public support for good law enforcement and a willingness on the part of citizens to become involved in upgrading the total criminal justice systems will be of significant benefit.

"I would urge Texans to notify their local authorities whenever they witness crimes or suspicious activities. I would also urge all citizens to be willing to serve on juries, and to assess up on the guilty appropriate penalties which will serve as the proper deterrent to the commission of criminal acts."

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

Is Pollution Our Major Concern?

In his "State of the Union" message, President Nixon proposed that the nation should spend $10 billion in the next five years to control pollution, which he said "may well become the major concern of the American people in the decade of the '70s."

"Between now and the year 2000, over 100 million children will be born in the United States," the president said. "Where they grow up — and how — will, more than any one thing, measure the quality of American life in these years ahead. This should be a warning to us."

"A Fresh Climate" Toward the close of his message, he quoted Thomas Jefferson, who said in 1802, "We act not for ourselves alone, but for the whole human race."

President Nixon added, "We had a spiritual quality then which caught the imagination of millions of people in the world. Today, when we are the richest and strongest nation in the world, let it not be recorded that we lack the moral and spiritual idealism which made us the hope of the world at the time of our birth. . . . We need a fresh climate in America."

Without, in any way minimizing the importance of the campaign to improve the quality of our physical environment, there are many who believe that the quality of the moral environment in which our young people are growing up should be of much more urgent and immediate concern.

The pollution of our moral environment is everywhere evident in the contamination of our films, our magazines, our late-night television programs, so that our entire society is affected by this moral and spiritual decline.

If we do not succeed in improving our moral and spiritual environment, it may make little difference what we do about our physical environment.

The prophet Zephaniah warned the people of his day that moral pollution would lead to their destruction. "Woe to her that is filthy and polluted — to the oppressing city," he cried out. "She obeyed not the voice. She received not correction. She trusted not in the Lord. She drew not near to her God."

In spite of repeated invitations presented to the people, urging them to turn to God for salvation and help in all of their troubles, the people continued in their evil ways — and their nation was destroyed.

Will We Learn? Will we learn from the experience of others?

Will our nation's leaders put first things first — or will we in this most crucial hour fail to hear the warning voice of God?

What are you doing, individually, to produce the "fresh climate in America" which is so vitally important?

Have you, personally, asked God to cleanse you of your own moral and spiritual pollution, so that you can be a force for righteousness in our society?

We must not leave it to our political and spiritual leaders to make these decisions. This is a matter which can be decided only on an individual basis.

This cleansing from our moral and spiritual pollution is what we and our nation need most urgently now.

French Provincial 'Look' for Dining

Now that Spring is almost here, more relaxed table-settings are in order for the homemaker. Rely on color. Fostoria, makers of fine crystal for over 80 years, believes that the rich hues of chunky, casual glassware are just as much in good taste with your best china as delicate, formal stemware. Be sure to choose a color that matches the pattern of your china. Pictured here are olive green tumblers that repeat the color of the dainty flowers on the "Chatham" china. Actually, this particular glassware pattern is an authentic reproduction of one of the earliest patterns of American pressed flint glass made circa 1840. Just as many of our dresses today are line-for-line copies of original Paris models, so, too, these tumblers are copies of the original "Argus" tumblers now in the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn, Michigan. If you decide you like this colorful "look" and want to use it more often, a whole range of other sizes are available—iced teas, wine goblets, sherbets and 8" plates, as well as sugar and creamers. Color can also be an expression of your personality. Why not make runners to criss-cross across the table in a new fashion color. This year purple is very "in" and it's just marvelous with green! Runners should be 14" wide—just wide enough to hold a place setting. Allow extra fabric for 1/4" hems either side. Make napkins to match of 18" squares—fringed or hemmed at the edges. And don't forget a little imagination to apply to the centerpiece. Winter flowers are expensive. Try a big vase of green, green parsley—it lasts for ages and can be used in cooking afterwards!

The Master's Call Was "Follow Me"

By DAVID JOHNSON
The plan of God for the redemption of mankind was centered around His best revelation of Himself to the world in the person and work of His Beloved Son, Jesus Christ.

If Christ had not walked among men on earth our knowledge of what God is really like would be very limited. In the person of Jesus we see God living out His redemptive plan in human flesh.

With the Savior at the very heart of the mission, there were still others that God needed to make His victorious plan work.

No matter how dynamic, effective, persuasive a man may be, if those he selects to be in key positions in his organization cannot be relied on to accept his orders and carry out plans, all of his outstanding qualities of leadership can become useless. It was with these things in mind that the Master chose His men.

There was not a shadow of doubt in the mind of Christ that He was destined to hang on a cross. He knew at the outset of His ministry that the time would be all too short until He would return to the Father.

Therefore, Jesus chose His men because His work had to continue in order to penetrate the lives of individuals down through the centuries to come.

The right group of men could carry on the work and the message of the living Christ long after He returned to Heaven.

This was the most important task ever to rest on his shoulders of a small group of humble men. They were to be the living examples and heralds of the good news of what God had done in Jesus Christ for mankind.

Another reason why the Master found it a necessity to choose disciples was that His message had to go out. He was greatly limited by lack of time, having no modern means of travel or mass communications.

Although God, the Father, was omnipresent and could be everywhere at all times, God, the Son, being a man, could be at only one place at a time.

He could speak to only so many people. He could travel only a limited number of miles. His disciples could go where He could not go and speak where He could not speak.

Jesus then offered the 12 an invitation to follow Him. The Bible says He called to Him those He desired.

The invitation was in fact a selection, an appointment to a task, and an important challenge.

One might wonder why Jesus chose these 12 men in particular, rather than perhaps another group of men. What made them different?

What qualities did they possess that the Master could use? They were men of courage and judgment. They were also men who knew what it was to be patient when events seemed to move slowly and to persevere when victory did not seem to be in sight.

The Greek New Testament meaning of the word disciple is "learner."

From that small original group of 12, the Master has come to many more men, women, boys, and girls and said, "Follow me."

Those who sincerely and genuinely seek to learn of Him can have life eternally — and live more abundantly on earth.

It is His disciples also who share the high price of victory.

NO SLEEPING HERE

Did you ever try to catch a fish in "bed"? Well, it's not as crazy as it sounds. Fall and winter months are usually good times for crappie fishermen, and the place to find these tasty game fish, say the angling experts at Mercury Outboards, is around an active crappie bed.
Crappie beds are sunken trees or other underwater attractions which the fish seem to like. Primarily a lake fish, crappie — sometimes called calico bass — are a school fish, and once you locate an active bed, stay there until the stringer is full.
Crappie fishing falls off during spring and summer, but cool weather brings improved fishing, and it usually continues right through the coldest months. Anglers who can take the cold weather in stride are rewarded with good fishing.
