WOODWORK BY DALTON

A MEMBER of a group of Vietnam War Protesters waving Viet Cong flags tried to get charges brought against Actor John Wayne the other day after a confrontation between Wayne and the group.

The man said Wayne called him a dirty name and sought to have the actor arrested on an obscenity charge. At this writing, the disposition of the case was not settled.

Actually I figure anyone who goes around waving Viet Cong flags really is a dirty name, and while I don't approve of obscenities, it seems a little strange that the same type of weirdo protester as those who have been shouting obscenities all over the place, including the courtrooms, should be so aghast at being called something not so nice.

I guess only the bad guys are allowed to cuss.

SOME OF the nation's honored traditions have come in for a lot of static recently, and one while has undergone some startling changes is the tradition of marriage ceremonies (including some who just skip it altogether).

In California not long ago, a couple got married in the 22-foot-deep main fish tank in Marineland. The bride wore a white scuba suit, with fishnet veil and train.

In Connecticut, "Krunch" and "Mama Robin" of the Drifters Motorcycle Club pledged eternal love aboard Krunch's flower-decorated bike, followed by a beer toast. (I hate to mention this, since it gives us motorcyclists a bad name).

In Las Vegas a couple staged Nevada's first nudist wedding ceremony. The bride, bowing somewhat to tradition, wore a veil.

Weddings, says Joyce Gabriel of Newspaper Enterprise Assn., have divorced themselves from tradition. "Empire-waisted, pearl-encrusted gowns topped with cathedral veils are more mother's dream than daughter's reality."

Bridal manufacturers who haven't changed basic styles in years, are finding their satins and pearls passe, as miniskirts, midskirts, gypsy dresses and jeans are replacing traditional wedding ceremony garb.

Sometimes it's pretty tough to tell the bride from the groom, too, in ceremonies like some of those mentioned. But around here, brides for the most part still look like brides, thank goodness.

NOTICE

Farwell Takes Lead In Roundball Contest

Farwell took a clear lead in the first half of the 3-A district basketball play here Tuesday night by defeating the home team 82-49. Farwell took an early lead but the Hornets were in striking distance until the final period of play when the Steers scored 32 points. The score at halftime was 31-19 and Sudan narrowed the lead to within eight points during the third period. All 11 Sudan players aided in the scoring with David Weaver and Bo Lance each having eight points. Roger Boyles put seven points through the hoop.

Sudan Hornets also lost to Bovina 58-42 Friday night when Weaver led the scoring with 13 points. It was a very close game for the first three quarters but Bovina outscored Sudan in the final quarter by adding 23 points to their tally.

The B-team boys lost both their games the past week, Friday to Bovina by a score of 61-44; and to Farwell 54-28 Tuesday night. Baker led the scoring for Sudan against Bovina with 12 points with West sinking five floor shots for another 10 points. Bovina led 29-23 at the half. Farwell took the lead from the whistle and led 27-12 at the half. Hanna was high point for Sudan with 10 points.

The Hornets lost a squeaker to Farwell 46-45 Tuesday after coming from behind in the final period. Farwell led 22-17 at the half and 34-27 at the end of the third quarter. Angela Pickett had 26 points for Sudan.

The girls won their game 57-53 against Bovina Friday with Angela Pickett again hitting for 26 points. However, she was outranked for the game high-point by Hutto of Bovina who hit for 43 points. Bovina led at the first quarter with Sudan coming within two points of the opponents at the half and taking the lead 43-40 during the third period.

The B-team girls won their game with Farwell 34-28 but lost to Bovina 49-33. Georgia Ray was highpoint during the Bovina game with 16 points. The score was tied at the half but Bovina went ahead during the third period by scoring 18 points to two for Sudan. Cecie Bandy was high point for the Farwell game with 17 points, most of which were scored in the first quarter to give Sudan a 22-12 lead at the half.

The seventh grade boys lost their game to Bovina but the eighth grade boys won while both girls teams won. The seventh grade girls won by a score of 24-18 with Kalene Garin hitting for 14 points. They led by 15-8 at the half. The eighth grade girls had an easy victory and scored 39 points to Bovina's 9. Mary Ann Bellar hit for 17 points for Sudan. Bovina scored only three points during the first half with Sudan putting 21 points on the board.

Friday, the Sudan High School teams will host the teams from Kress but will go to Springlake Tuesday night and then to Vega on Jan. 22.

GERALD CHISHOLM, ALL-STATE TACKLE

CHISHOLM NAMED TO ALL-STATE

Gerald Chisholm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Chisholm, was recently named to the offensive tackle position on the Class A second All-State team chosen by Texas Sports Writers Assn. and announced by the Associated Press.

Chisholm was the only player from District 3-A named to either team.

He is a senior student at Sudan High School and has played for four consecutive seasons with the Sudan Hornets. He was named to All District teams this year. His absence will be felt by the team in the 1971-72 season.

SCHOOL HOLIDAY SET MONDAY

Students of the Sudan schools will receive another three-day weekend this week due to a holiday Monday because of a local In-service Teachers meeting. Classes will resume at the regular time Tuesday morning with report cards scheduled to be distributed during the day.

Classes will dismiss at 2:35 p. m. today, Thursday, and Friday due to the mid-term exam schedule.

Santa Fe All The Way

History repeated itself in Sudan Tuesday as six boxcars of cattle were shipped from the Sudan Santa Fe Railways depot. This was the first time in several years, the last being in May, 1968 when 24 cars were shipped, that cattle had been shipped from the local depot. When the depot was built in 1917 it was a fairly common practice for thousands of head of cattle to be shipped by rail from Sudan. Some 950 head of fat cattle are shipped weekly from Sudan Livestock, however, all of these are shipped by motor freight. The feeding pens also receive on the average of 50,000 head yearly with cattle being trucked from as far away as Arizona and Florida.

The Tuesday shipment was loaded at Sudan Livestock and Feeding Company and consisted of 320 head of cattle belonging to Clifton Cattle Company consigned to Fat City Cattle Company at Bakersville, California. Eddie Landers, local Santa Fe agent, reported that the cattle will go Santa Fe all the way and should arrive at their destination within 36 hours of their departure.

The train was the main mode of transportation during the Sudan pioneer days, but the passenger train was discontinued in 1968. However, according to Landers, the local station handles some 40 box cars of freight per month on a year-round basis.

PTO NEWS

PTO was held Tuesday afternoon when the 7th grade band and the 4th grade Flutophone band presented musical selections.

Mrs. Bette Withrow, president, presided over a short business meeting with Jane Wiseman reading the minutes. Dorothy Ann Hill gave the treasurers report. It was voted to give $120 for a project with the teachers being asked to select the project. Mrs. Arnold Reed is the Project Chairman. Winona Dudgeon gave a report on the clinic held in December, with 391 DT shots and 59 DPT having been given.

Meeting adjourned and refreshments were served by Mrs. Ray May and Mrs. Jim Ingle.

LIVESTOCK SHOW SET

According to reports, Sudan 4-H and FFA members will enter some 26 animals in the Lamb County Livestock Show to be held Thursday (today) through Saturday.

Some 15 lambs have been entered from Sudan and will begin showing at 5:30 p. m. Friday. The nine swine will be shown Saturday morning, beginning at 9 a. m. with the two steers to be shown Saturday afternoon.

Miss Claudia Wade

Wed To James D. Ivey,

The Avenue Baptist Church in Hereford was the setting of the Dec. 24 wedding of Miss Claudia A. Wade and James D. Ivey.

Officiating for the double ring ceremony was Rev. Don K. Larkin, pastor. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Peradus Wade of Burlington, Colo. and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Ivey of Littlefield.

Grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rosson of Sudan and Mrs. E. G. Wade of Levelland.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a formal length gown of brocade satin. The high neckline of the dress and princess silhouette long bell sleeves were enhanced with tiny sequins. A bow complemented front pleat and tiny covered buttons extended from the neck to the waist. She wore a veil of imported illusion, and a crown of white pom pom mums encircled her coiffure. Her bridal bouquet consisted of an orchid nestled in pom pom mums, atop a white Bible.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Benita Rainbolt of Burlington. She was attired in a baby blue, velvet formal gown. Covered buttons accented the empire front and cuffs. She carried a bouquet of white pom pom mums.

Ricky Fletcher of Lubbock served as best man. Seating the guests were Lewis Ivey; brother of the groom and Gordon Wade, brother of the bride.

Lynette Barfield, organist, accompanied Jacki Heffington of Littlefield as he sang musical selections of "More" and "And I Love Her."

Guests were registered by Kathy Wade, cousin of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony in the home of Tom Rosson, uncle of the bride. The serving table was laid with blue satin, covered with white lace. A traditional wedding cake trimmed with blue and white bells centered the table. Presiding at the table were Judy Wade, Sharon Wade and Rita

Mrs. Liston Rites Held

Services for Mrs. Sylvia Liston, 53, were conducted at 2 p. m. Saturday in the First United Methodist Church in Lorenzo.

The Rev. James Holman, pastor, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Bruce Parks, pastor of First Methodist Church, Slaton, and the Rev. John Jenkins, pastor of First Baptist Church, Lorenzo.

Mrs. Liston, a school teacher and active civic worker, died at 3:45 p. m. Thursday in a doctor's office in Lorenzo after apparently suffering a heart attack. Born in Oil City, La., she was a graduate of Odessa High School and Texas Tech and had recently done postgraduate work at West Texas State University, Canyon. Prior to her marriage Mrs. Liston, nee Smith, was a teacher in the Sudan school system and attended the Sudan Methodist Church. Her husband worked at Higginbotham-Bartlett Co. here and is now manager of the Higginbotham-Bartlett Co. in Lorenzo.

Survivors include her husband, W. O. (Bill) Liston; her mother, Mrs. Marie Smith of Gildewater; one son, Vance Liston of St. Louis, Mo.; two daughters, Sharon Liston, a senior at Southern Methodist University, and Vicki Liston, a sophomore at Texas Tech; one brother, Buford Smith of Las Vegas, Nev.; and a granddaughter.

Burial was in Lorenzo Cemetery under direction of Carter Funeral Home.

Scout News

The Girl Scouts met Wednesday afternoon for a planning session. Plans were made to visit the Amherst Manor with the girls making refreshments for the residents there and the girls will bring a program of singing and playing of instruments.

Present were Terri Chester, Lesha Beavers, Mary Martinez, Bernadette May and leaders, Mrs. Sharon Adams and Mrs. Charls Ann Williams.

The Brownie Troop 7 met Thursday afternoon when a "game day" was observed at the Community Center. Some 18 girls and three leaders attended.

DAVE LLEWELLYN

Am I What I Act Like?

By DAVE LLEWELLYN
Any dynamic relationship which you hold now was initiated and is maintained by an act of your will — or, more exactly, by a continuous action of your will. All human relationships are founded and structured by people making choices.

I suppose you all can remember some time, perhaps many times, when a neighbor brought you some food she had prepared — maybe a pie or cake. That episode in your relationship with that person resulted from a series of choices. She had to decide whether the time, expense, and effort required was "worth it."

Worth what? Worth, first of all, the value it had to you, to feed you, or to help you celebrate, or to make you feel wanted. Worth, secondly — but perhaps more importantly — what value it had to her, to make her feel useful, or to demonstrate her empathy, or to finish up the extra ingredients.

How We Act
The making of choices is the function of your will, and it is the most basic expression of your personality. By your choices you demonstrate your values.

Hypocrites may be exceptions to this principle in that they project an untrue personality by pretending to value what they actually despise. But their falsity eventually becomes apparent. Most of us have problems with hypocrisy, such as when we "make excuses" for doing or not doing something, rather than admit the honest but unpleasant reasons for our decisions.

Accepting these truths, a remarkable opportunity is presented to us to find out what we are really like. Because we know that actions result from choices — that reflect values, we are now able to observe our own actions, evaluate our choices (both those of deliberation and those of habit or default), and discover what sort of people we really are.

I do this periodically and sometimes discover, as now, that I have reverted to being more a lover of pleasure than a lover of God. For the moment, I'll leave you to ponder about yourself while I sketch three brief stories.

What We Like

A man found a treasure in a field and sold all he had to buy that field. Another man found a priceless pearl and sold all he owned to purchase it. A third man gave a lavish dinner party and, when all his invited guests RSVP'd "No," giving trivial excuses, he gathered instead the poor, the sick, and even absolute strangers and foreigners.

If you would like to know more about these stories, Jesus tells them in Matthew 13 and Luke 14. Part of the point of them is that two men searched for some things of value and then yielded all else to possess them, while other people were offered freely something of value — a participation in friendship — and refused it, and less likely people accepted it.

Jesus says that the spiritual world is like that. A worthwhile friendship with God can be had only on the premise that this contact is worth giving up everything else, if necessary. The communication fizzes into static when other values create interference.

Now that you've had a chance to ponder your recent choices, what do you act like you value? Copyright Dave Llewellyn 1971

Linkletter Urges Parents To Learn About Drug Abuse

Art Linkletter looks to the young to turn off on drugs—by themselves.

Speaking at the 76th annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers, the famed television star cited some of the more successful programs young people are promoting to fight drug abuse. Mr. Linkletter mentioned volunteer organizations whose teenage counselors give periodic lectures and aid students who need information and help. There should be more such organizations, he says.

Mr. Linkletter's speech before the NAM's membership was entitled "The Role of Business in Drug Control." He urged the industrial leaders to "become the leaders in the fight against drug abuse."

"There is no parent in the United States today of whatever power, wealth, fame, neighborhood, education or religion whose child is not in danger of being tempted to experiment with some kind of drug," he said.

How to solve this menace? Mr. Linkletter urges parents to find out all they can about drug abuse, and then to do everything they can to communicate with their children so that they can help them when necessary and exchange ideas before it is too late.

He makes a special plea to educators who, he says, are often the last to know what is going on in their schools. They, too, must face up to the problem and help eradicate it in the schools.

But it is to the youngsters themselves that he looks for the best solutions. They can turn it off just as easily as they can turn it on, he believes.

Is there some way one can determine if an electrical circuit in the home is overloaded?

Total the wattage of all appliances you use at one time on one circuit, and you can tell if the circuit will be overloaded. Electrical appliances with symbols UL (Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.) in the United States or CSA (Canadian Standards Association) in Canada are marked with the wattage at which they operate. Allow a margin of 100 to 200 watts rather than loading a circuit to capacity.

May I take this opportunity to say thank you for your cards, flowers, gifts, visits, prayers, and your love and every act of kindness during my accident. It all meant so much to me. May God bless and keep you and give you peace and a wonderful new year.

Mrs. J. S. Smith

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deepest appreciation to all who helped in any way when our barn burned. To those who turned in the alarm, to those who worked quickly to remove livestock and equipment; and to the Sudan and Littlefield Fire Departments for their excellent job in fighting the fire — a great big "Thank You".

Sincerely,
The Loyd Pryors

We ought to watch the words we choose.
The type of speech we daily use,
Because my friends we really owe
More kindly words for friend or foe,
And we should be much more alert
In what we say that tends to hurt,
When saying what we really should,
Then what we say is always good.
