WOODWORK BY DALTON

LOOKING through the right-hand middle desk drawer reveals notes and clippings on a number of important items which were intended to bring out, but were saving for such a time as this.

For example, Oliver Evans of Philadelphia, says one clipping, invented the self-propelled amphibious dredge in 1805.

Now, I get several calls a week about the origin of the amphibious dredge, and I knew I had the information somewhere, but I just couldn't locate it. Now I have it, along with such things as:

Eighty per cent of the world's jute, used in twine and packing material, comes from East Pakistan. I deduce from this that the kite-fliers may be in for hard times, because with all the trouble they've been having in the last few months, there's nothing coming from East Pakistan except bad news. So we folks in the west may have to string along awhile without any twine from East Pakistan. As someone said, East is East, and West is West, and never the twine shall meet.

"Contrary to popular belief, a shark doesn't have to roll over on its back or side to bite," says another note. I don't know that it's such a popular belief.

A monsoon is a seasonal wind that blows from the sea to the land during the hot months and reverses itself during the cool-months of the year. Sounds more like the definition of a politician to me.

There are more pigs than there used to be in West Germany. A total of 20.9 million were counted in 1970, and 8.2 increase from 1969. There are pigs in East Germany, too, including that rare Red variety.

Crimes of violence in London rose to a record level in 1970, with 25 people shot, knifed or beaten each day. If I were one of those 25, I think I'd move to the country.

Tom Fogarty is leaving Creedence Clearwater Revival. Gee, I didn't even know he was in it.

A GAS outdoor grill gives food a tangy outdoor flavor without the time and bother of charcoal fire. Char-broiled flavor comes from the smoke of meat-juices dripping on hot briquets. Charcoal itself provides no flavor.

Permanent ceramic briquets in the gas grill reach cooking heat in a few minutes, and there is no long wait to start cooking. The heat is regulated manually so there is no need to move a grill up or down.

A FINE PLACE for proponents of women's liberation has been located—or at least the place we have in mind is purported to exist. It's in the Amazon jungle of Mexico, and an explorer named Gene Savoy is searching for perhaps the world's oldest surviving tribe of arch-feminists.

He said last week that the fabled "Amazon queens" are believed to be an exclusively female tribe which captures men to reproduce itself, then kills them as well as all male infants. He said they control 70 villages.

He traces contact with the women warriors back to 1541-42, when he said a Spanish explorer was one of the few persons to see the tribe and live to tell about it. At that time, the explorer's group escaped, their boats filled with arrows.

Savoy says the women also were sighted in the same area in 1935 and again on April 2, 1970 by some of Savoy's own Indian scouts. "The Indians insist they were women and that they shot at them," he commented.

He plans to go looking for them in September, so that may be the last of him. Anyway, it seems like an ideal place to send all the women's lib people, who surely would be excited about living in a place where woman's word is law.

WHAT THIS world needs, among other things, is a giant disposal unit of some kind. The moon has been suggested by a few for possible use as a place to deposit garbage, and maybe it could be used to take care of all unwanted things.

For example, maybe they could send those Mafia leaders to the moon, since the little islands off Sicily don't want them. Italian authorities recently began sending known and suspected Mafia leaders to exile on tiny islands where they presumably can't cause too much trouble. But one of the islands last week rebelled, and the islanders refused to allow the exiles and their accompanying police escort into the island's only town. Finally a big force was sent in, and the islanders responded by saying they would abandon the island.

They probably will compromise by sending the hoodlums to the United States.

It was reported that one and one-half inches of moisture was received 5 1/2 miles southwest of town.

There has not been many water sprinklers going this week, but a lot of lawn mowers. So, the moisture received must have helped some.

Directors of Cotton Incorporated (formerly Cotton Producers Institute), five of them from the Texas High Plains, met June 1 and 2 in Raleigh, N. C., to plan for maximum utilization of approximately $20 million in cotton research and market development funds for the 1971-72 year.

The $20 million for this year is almost exactly twice the amount available to Cotton, Inc. annually since passage of the Cotton Research and Promotion Act in 1966. Under that act cotton producers each year have invested $1 per bale in production and utilization research, advertising and promotion of their fiber. The average per year has been around $10 million.

This year an additional $10 million is to come from Commodity Credit Corporation under provisions of the Agriculture Act of 1970, culminating an industry dream that originated with producers on the High Plains and became reality after more than two years of work in Washington by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., the Texas Association of Cotton Producer Organizations and others.

Until recently there were widespread doubts as to how, when, and even if, the authorized money would be forthcoming. But the course of events in Washington over the past few days virtually assures that the CCC

Board will approve procedures for transferring $10 million of Federal funds to the Cotton Board for each of the years 1971, 1972 and 1973. The Cotton Board contracts with Cotton, Inc. for the planning and operation of research and market building projects.

The way has now been cleared for CCC to approve a plan advanced by the Cotton Board and Cotton, Inc. officials whereby up to $10 million per year will be used to finance Cotton, Inc. projects as payment comes due.

J. D. Smith of Littlefield, a director and past president of PCG and one of five Cotton, Inc. directors from the Plains, said "Doubling the funds for Cotton Incorporated's work simply doubles the power under the hood of the vehicle through which we are striving to become truly competitive in the fiber market with synthetics and foreign-grown cotton. And all of our efforts to make this money available no doubt will be repaid many times over."

Howard Alford of Lubbock is President of Cotton, Inc. Roy Forkner of the Canyon Gin community, Joe Pate, Jr. of Lubbock, and L. C. Unfred of New Home are the other three directors from the Plains.

Cotton Board member from the Plains by Roy B. Davis of Lubbock, with Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of PCG as his alternate.

Ray Joe Riley, Hart, Texas farmer and cottonseed breeder, was elected Chairman of the Producer-Ginner Delegation to the International Cotton Standards Conference at the 1971 Conference gathering May 18 and 19 in Memphis, Tenn.

The International Cotton Standards Conference, with delegates from the various cotton industry segments in the U. S. and 10 foreign countries, meets every three years to examine and approve "key sets" of Universal Cotton Standards for use in trading U. S. upland cotton throughout the world. Each set of standards consists of one "biscuit" representing each of the grades and colors used to describe U. S. cotton qualities. Over 200 cotton officials and industry leaders attended the 1971 Conference.

Riley, a native West Texan, is a 1956 honor graduate of the Agronomy Department, Texas Tech University. He has been a producer delegate to the ICSC since 1962, is Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., and is Chairman of PCG's Agricultural Research Committee.

In a letter to Stanley Rademaker, Director of the Cotton Division, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Riley said he believed the Standards Conference could make a significant contribution to the cotton industry, "particularly at this time in history when cotton is in need of, and I think is on the verge of, developing an improved system of classification which will more accurately reflect its true spinning potential and consequent market value."

Cans of paint and paint thinners become extremely combustible if kept around too long, warn Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies. Get rid of them as soon as you are through using them. Otherwise an explosive situation could be the end result.

Keep aspirins and sleeping pills well out of the reach of children, say Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies. Youngsters are attracted to anything that looks like candy and aspirins, especially, have become a leading poisoner of children in recent years.

Never touch a water faucet and an electrical appliance at the same time. If the appliance is not properly grounded, a fatal low voltage electrical charge could be the shocking result, warn Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies.

Decorating Tips

DECORATING FROM AN ECOLOGICAL POINT OF VIEW

Everybody's conscious of the environment these days! We've all been warned about using phosphates in our washing machines, DDT on our crops, and lead in our gasoline. Yet, surprising as it may seem, the furnishings with which we choose to decorate may well be an even more important threat to our environment.

Not so very long ago I read an article which stated that by 1980, 80% of all the furniture produced will be made of plastic. Although this claim was undoubtedly highly exaggerated, it brought to mind a variety of problems we would all have to face, should almost everyone, in another nine years, be buying plastics--not only furniture, but for an ever-growing list of other products.

Most people buy furniture four times in their lives. This means that there must be some way to dispose of an almost staggering amount of furniture but if it's made of plastics, where will it all go? Unlike hardwood furniture, plastic furniture can only be melted or burned producing harmful pollutants in the air and leaving acid residue that can't be disposed of.

Then, too, the durability of moulded plastic furniture is still questionable. No one has as yet been able to determine the effects of time on plastics, but experts are predicting that within a ten or fifteen year period the chemical composition of the plastic will undergo change. Anyone who has ever owned any plexiglas will gladly attest to the fact that scratches are anything but an asset to a plastic surface! This means that people will be forced not only to buy more furniture more often, but they'll be spending more money, too! And with each new turnover of furniture, the disposability problem will begin all over again.

Maybe it's time that manufacturers took a more careful look at what they're making. After all, especially when it comes to costly home furnishings, we're going to have to live with them for a long time...in one way or the other!
