AN INCIDENT which occurred recently in Harrison, N.Y., may, unfortunately, be a barometer of some of the things that are happening in today's largely sick society. The word sick is used because I can think of no better word to describe a society that condones such things as the typical movie of today, much of literature, and so many actions of people like the Soledad brothers, the hippies, Yippies, and creepies.

Anyway, here's what happened: Three teen-age youths broke into the children's zoo at a park in Harrison and killed or mutilated most of its 21 small animals. A maintenance man discovered the plucked, skinned and mutliated carcasses of 17 of them when he went to work one morning. The dead animals included two racoons, 10 rabbits, three chickens and two pigeons, whose blood had been smeared on windows, police said.

When they caught the three young men, they discovered

454 STUDENTS ENROLLED HERE

Sudan schools maintained the approximate enrollment of last year with some 454 students enrolled at the beginning of the second week of the 1971-72 school term. Although the high school enrollment is down some 11 students from the 1970 enrollment, it seems likely that Sudan will maintain its Class A rating.

Enrollment by the different classes includes:

they were sons of two police officers. One of the officers had nothing to say at first, but the other one said the news media ought to be ashamed for making such a big deal "out of a couple of dead rabbits, " This might provide some clue as to why his sons might do such a thing.

JUST A FEW years ago, school boards had to hunt and hunt for" teachers in Texas. Now, it's the other way around, with boards getting more applicants than they can process sometimes. The reason is not known to us, but it probably is because more persons are going into the profession, rather than because of decreased enrollments, although it's possible that school mergers may have something to do with it.

Teachers in Texas are having a harder time getting jobs, but so far it hasn't reached the extreme reported by a college in Pittsfield, Mass. The college said it had more teachers than students applying for openings during the school year just started.

They said 1,653 persons applied for the college's 12 teaching vacancies, and 1,500 persons applied for 750 student openings.

They should have been able to get 12 pretty good teachers from that list, but not necessarily. I remember a few years ago when a certain high school had 43 applicants for a coaching job, then finally selected one who lasted just one year, a season that seemed terribly long, if I remember correctly.

450 ATTEND REUNION

Some 450 persons attended the annual Lamb County Pioneer Reunion held recently in Littlefield to set a record-breaking attendance for the event. Registration showed 410 pioneers and guests while some 40 persons under the age of 12 years attended who did not register.

H. J. Moncrief, 93, of Sudan was honored as the oldest man present. He moved to Lamb County in 1924. The oldest woman present again this year was Mrs. E. M. Davis of Littlefield. She had received the same for several years.

According to reunion rules this year, the next in line received the award; this being Mrs. Sam Farquhar of Littlefield.

Receiving recognition as living in the county the longest was Willis White of Springlake, who moved there in 1908.

Thirty-one pioneers were recognized as having observed their 50th wedding anniversaries, and 43 pioneers stood to be saluted for living in Lamb Crounty for 50 years or more.

A barbecue was b eld at 6 p. m. following an aft ernoon of business and musical, entertainment. The visiting co stinued long past sundown.

DAVE LLEWELLYN Whom For The Bell Tolls

"Now this bell Tolling softly for another, Says to me, "Thou must die.

"Perchance he for whom this bell tolls may be so ill as that he knows not it tolls for him: and perchance I may think myself so much better than I am, as that they who are about me and see my state may have caused it to toll for me, and I know not that.

God's Hand in Every Translation

"The church is catholic, universal, so are all her actions; all that she does belongs to all. When she baptizes a child that action concerns me; for that child is thereby connected to that body which is my head, too, and engrafted into that body whereof I am a member. And when she buries a man, that action concerns me: all mankind is of one Author and is of one volume; when one man dies, one chapter is not torn out of the book, but translated into a better language; and every chapter must be so translated. God employs several translators; some pieces are translated by age, some by sickness, some by war, some by justice; but God's hand is in every translation, and His hand shall bind up all our scattered leaves again for the library where every book shall lie open to one another.

"As therefore the bell that rings to a sermon calls not upon the preacher only, but upon the congregation to come, so this bell calls us all; but how much more me, who, am brought so near the door by this sickness. "There was a contention as far as a lawsuit (in which piety

Most of my time was spent in working with the Bible correspondence courses. This is a way to reach people. The follow-up program that they have is really effective. In these courses people study the Bible. Only the Bible is taught, not anyone's creed. When the students complete the course, "How to Become a New Testament Christian", Joe Lee, one of the missionaries there, visits the student and studies with him personally from the Bible. Joe Lee doesn't force anyone to become a Christian. He presents the Gospel, and the people respond as they desire.

Fashion is as fashion does, and for today's style-conscious generation, it's what you do as well as what you wear that sets the fashion trends. That's why more and more young people will be going back to school by bike this fall than ever before. Bikes don't pollute, and are probably the only known form of transportation that can make that claim.

The younger generation has made the bicycle their choice as a symbol of the need to clean up the environment. That, plus the bike's convenience, economy, fun and health-giving qualities make it a natural for today's very aware younger generation.

To be "with it" and to be "in" are important factors to the younger generation, and going back to school on a

Recycling Saves Raw Materials And Environment

Recovering and recycling of raw materials has resulted in substantial savings, both for Eastman Kodak Company and the environment.

William H. Elinger, assistant superintendent says that the biggest volume job at the Rochester, N. Y., plant is recycling of solvents, acetates, polyester and silver. Kodak purchases an average of about 25 million troy ounces of silver and recovers an additional amount of about 19 million ounces annually, ranking it as the largest consumer of this precious metal in the world.

The procedures for recycling are so thorough that about 25 per cent of the silver halide crystals in any given batch have been through the production cycle at least once. The same principles of recovery and reuse work on solvents, Mr. Elinger points out. Solvent requirements are about 300 million pounds per year for film, yet Kodak buys only 12 to 15 million pounds" because of recycling. Last year, overall solvent loss was less than 5 per cent.

The Guatemalan Christians are not afraid to teach others about Christ, in fact this seems to be what they enjoy most.

They want to be taught the truth of the Bible, not any man's creeds or doctrines.
