WOODWORK BY DALTON

JOBs apparently are not as easy to find as they were just a couple of years ago. We understand that schools in these parts now can be selective about their teaching vacancies, when in former years, it was hard to find anyone to fill the positions. We know some who have teaching certificates and even experience who aren't teaching this year because they couldn't find a position, and who have been forced to take some other kind of work.

Even know of one young man who finished college a year ago who now is working as a service station attendant—a job which is certainly not demeaning, but also which is not one which requires four years of college.

One area which young persons might look toward as holding good job possibilities for the future is in commercial aviation. Bureau of Labor Statistics projections suggest tremendous growth ahead for this career field, 116.9 per cent growth for the period ending in 1980. Openings for pilots are expected to be about 1,800 each year, 1,100 through growth and 700 through replacements.

To qualify for a commercial pilot's license or instrument rating, applicants must be at least 18 years old and have 200 hours of flight experience.

For the girls the opportunities are good, too. There are about 25,000 stewardesses now, and the projection indicates 65,000 for 1980, a healthy growth rate of 150.7 per cent.

Just think, you can fly around in the sky, take trips to Cuba with gummen and all that sort of thing, and still get paid well. For excitement, it probably beats teaching all to heck.

THE SENATE the other day passed a bill which included, among other things, a tax credit for parents with youngsters in college. With one about to go, I'm naturally interested, but we understand that the provision is about to be killed in conference—probably will be by the time you read this, in fact. We're not sure what the reasons are, but anyway it was a nice thought, because college education is mighty expensive.

One thing that draws quick attention is to make a mistake. Speaking of mistakes, if you do find an error in this newspaper, please consider it having been put there for a purpose. We try to publish something for everybody and some people are always looking for mistakes.

COTTON OUTLOOK GRIM

WEATHER HALTS HARVEST

Foul weather again invaded the South Plains earlier this week to cause a halt in the cotton harvest. Harvesting is some four weeks later this year than usual due to the late freeze and the late maturing cotton.

However, the cotton harvested recently does not seem to be measuring up to the predictions made last month. In fact, local spokesmen are in agreement that the harvest will likely be 20 to 25 per cent less than earlier predicted for this area.

Although few grades have been received from the classing offices, grades are mostly strict low middling with light spots. The average staple is one inch. The low grades were anticipated for area cotton due to the late wet weather which hampered maturing.

Central Compress has received 6,700 bales to date as compared to 76,000 at this time last year. The 1970 harvest was considered as a fair harvest but was very early because of the early freeze. At this time last year the harvest was almost complete.

The Farmers Co-op Gin has ginned some 250 bales this year as compared to 5,800 at this time in 1970. The Ellison Gin has received only 75 bales this year.

It is predicted that it will be approximately one week before harvesting conditions will be favorable for a return to the fields with the boll machine.

VARSITY TEAMS WIN

Sudan Varsity teams won both of their games here Tuesday night by downing the Cotton Center teams. The Hornets won in a fierce game at the end of regulation play. The first overtime was defensive with Roger Boyles hitting a basket to give Sudan a 64-62 lead only to have the score tied seconds before the whistle with a basket by Cotton Center.

During the second overtime, Mike Hedges dropped in two points and Boyles sank four free shots to give Sudan a 70-67 win.

Bo Lance was high point for Sudan with 29. The Hornets now stand 1-2 for the season after losing to Olton and Anton. The Hornettes won their game 57-47 with three scoring in double figures. Georgia Ray scored 19 points, Cecie Bandy had 17 and Tanya Chester 13. Patty Robertson hit 30 points for the losers.

Cotton Center won the B-boys game 47-45, although it was fought out in overtime. Richard Tamplin was top scorer with 15 points followed by Pat Hedges who had 14.

In Junior High play this week, the seventh grade boys defeated Vega 22-17 with Kyle Martin scoring 10 points for the home team. The Sudan eighth grade girls were led to victory by Jo Ann Hedges scoring 24 points. The eighth grade boys were downed by the Vega team in a low-scoring game, 26-15. Monte Clover was high point for Sudan with five points.

The Varsity teams will be playing in the Anton tournament beginning today, Thursday. The girls are scheduled to play the Bledsoe feds at 4 p. m. with the Sudan-Bledsoe boys to play at 5:15.

The seventh grade teams will play Lubbudie teams in a tournament at Bula also beginning today. The girls play at 3:45 and the boys at 5:00.

The varsity and B-team girls and varsity boys will go to Cotton Center Tuesday, Dec. 7, for a re-match. The Abernathy tournament, in which the varsity teams will participate, begins Dec. 9.

The Junior High teams will host four teams from Springlake here Monday, Dec. 6, with the action to begin at 4 p. m.

PACKAGES MAY BE MAILED ANY TIME

Local Postmaster Ken Minyard reported that packages may be mailed any time during regular post office hours to any designation.

Decorating Tips

FOYERS MAKES A GRAND ENTRANCE

First impressions are always important. Whether it be the first look at a person, a vacation spot, or especially a home, an initial reaction more often than not sets the pace for what's to follow.

Because the foyer does just that...creates a first impression for a home...it gains an importance that more than outshadows its relatively small area. The foyer is, in fact, an introduction to your home. And it can, if properly decorated, provide a warm welcome for your visitors as well as valuable extra space for your family.

No matter how small the size of your foyer, with a little imagination it can be put to work to fulfill a valuable dual function. A few extra feet can, for example, double as a comfortable mini-library as well as a foyer, if you plan carefully.

To turn your foyer into a library, with ease, add genuine hardwood wall paneling to create a beautiful and atmospheric backdrop. Oak, mahogany, maple, pecan, or walnut paneling will provide great depth, texture, and elegance in addition to the warmth you need to greet your guests. If your foyer has a long wall, a hardwood breakfast or bookcase will further the library effect, while if your foyer walls are short, wood etageres can achieve the same look.

A small hardwood desk or secretary of perhaps mahogany, cherry, or oak is small yet solid—the ideal decorative touch in foyer furniture that can also serve as a handy study area or a badly needed place to do family bookkeeping. And a large mirror above the secretary makes it just the place for guests to primp before making their grand entrance.

To complete your mini-library, add a comfortable wing chair on a hardwood base for total coordination. Choose a fabric in warm colors to offset the mellow shades of the wood wall paneling. A genuine hardwood floor topped by a colorful area rug will make your space seem larger, too. Don't let your foyer go to waste when it can be put to good decorative advantage. If you choose a few pieces of furniture with care, your foyer can not only set the stage for the rest of your house, but it can also provide needed family living space.

Plans were also discussed for the upcoming Christmas party.

Mayfair Graves was named Queen-for-a-week and presented a handful of dimes and the official TOPS pin.

The meeting was adjourned by the reciting of the TOPS pledge.
