Census Bureau Shows 1970 County Figures

Nearly one in five (18 percent) residents of Texas is of Spanish heritage, according to a report from the 1970 census by the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Commerce. It shows that of the State's 11,195,416 total population, 2,059,671 were of Spanish language or had a Spanish surname. The population of Spanish language is composed of (1) persons who reported Spanish as their mother tongue, that is, the language spoken in the home during childhood, and (2) all members of a household related to the head or wife reporting Spanish as mother tongue.

The census report, released by the Department's Social and Economic Statistics Administration, shows that 1,723,531 (84 percent) of Texas' population of Spanish heritage lived in urban areas. Among the 23 urbanized areas, the El Paso area had the greatest number, 190,582 or 56 percent of the total population. However, Brownsville urbanized area with 45,115 persons of Spanish heritage and Laredo with 60,084 had the highest proportion, 86 percent in each.

Of the 336,140 rural population of Spanish heritage in Texas, 18 percent lived on farms.

Eighty-nine percent (1,840,214) of the State's Spanish heritage population was born in the United States; 563,887 were of foreign or mixed parentage (514,058 of these persons had one or both parents born in Mexico). Of the 219,457 foreign born persons of Spanish heritage, 193,143 were born in Mexico.

The median age of the Spanish heritage population was 19.3 years, compared with 26.5 years for the population of Texas as a whole.

Persons of Spanish heritage 25 and older averaged 7.2 years of completed schooling, compared with 11.6 years for the total population 25 and older. Among the 600,425 persons of Spanish heritage 16 and older who were employed in 1970, 8 percent held professional, technical, or similar jobs; 14 percent were clerical or kindred workers; 15 percent were in crafts; 16 per-

Median income in 1969 of the 423,780 families of Spanish heritage amounted to $5,897, as compared with $8,490 for all families in the State.

At the opposite end of the scale, 21 percent of the Spanish heritage families and 13 percent of all families had incomes below $3,000.

Similar detailed statistics for persons of Spanish language and surname are available in the 1970 census reports for Arizona, California, Colorado, and New Mexico.

Copies of the report, "General Social and Economic Characteristics: Texas," PC(1)-C45, are available for $6.00 each from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402, or and Department of Commerce field office.

DOUBLING YOUR PLEASURE!

IT'S YOUR CHOICE

Among the many new groundrules in this year's election is a tax "loophole" that politicians, especially, will be watching closely. It is a new provision which allows each taxpayer to deduct a portion of contributions made to a political committee or to federal, state, or local election candidates. Here is how it will work:

If you are single, you can deduct a political contribution up to $50 from your taxable income. Or, you may subtract a credit equal to half of your contribution from the tax you pay on 1972 income up to a maximum of $12.50.

If you file a joint return, you can deduct a political contribution up to $100 or subtract a credit up to $25.

Congress also passed a new Federal Election Campaign Act which places comparatively strict limits on the amount of money which may be given by any one contributor and on what candidates may spend. The new law requires publication of the names of the larger contributors.

Campaigns are very expensive. For example, more than $35 million was spent by the two political parties in 1968 on the presidential election campaign alone and the total is expected to be higher this year. The cost of an informed electorate in a democracy is high, but the election of able public officials who enjoy the independence that only broadly based financial support permits is well worth the price. Give what you can to the candidate or party of your choice; you probably will find more personal satisfaction from making the contribution than from the tax deduction.

largest number of members present, was presented an attendance award.

Highlighting the rally was the presentation of a silver tray to Mrs. Lady Clare Phillips, from all the 4-H clubs in appreciation for her help and work she has contributed to the 4-H program during her term as Lamb County Home Demonstration Agent, President of the County Council, Aubrey Pitts of Pleasant Valley made the presentation.

Attending from Sudan were Mrs. L. S. Fields, Jim and Gary; Mrs. Wayne Swart, Terry and Kathy; Danny Cardwell; Mrs. Pud Wiseman, Wendy, Randy, and Linda; and Gaye Hedges.

Connie Ham, winner of the senior division 4-H dress revue held recently, will compete in the District 2 4-H Revue Thursday (today) at the Red Raider Inn in Lubbock with a public revue at 1:15 p. m. and presentation of awards. The top four girls in the senior division will be eligible to compete in the state contest October 7 in Dallas during the State Fair of Texas.

Contestants will be judged on the overall appearance of their apparel, design, color, grooming, posture, attitude, poise, personality, 4-H records as well as other factors.

Barbara Black is the first alternate in the senior division from Lamb County. Wendy Branscum will represent

KINDERGARTEN AND BEGINNER GUIDELINES ISSUED

Sudan Independent Schools plan to initiate a kindergarten program the 1972-73 school year.

The kindergarten has guide lines which students shall meet. PUPIL ELIGIBILITY:

An "Educationally handicapped" child for the purpose of the kindergarten program is defined as follows:

1. A child who cannot speak, read, and comprehend the English language to the extent that he is not familiar with the common English language words that are necessary for normal progress in the first grade.
2. A child who is from a family whose annual income is $3,000.00 or less.

Interested parents of children who qualify please contact the school at your earliest convenience.

When the month of August rolls around, thousands of Texas mothers suddenly realize that only a few more weeks remain until school begins.

Parents with youngsters beginning school for the first time this September look forward to school with a little more excitement, and many mothers whose first-born are going off to school may be a bit bewildered by it all.

In addition to the million-and-one chores that must be performed in getting the youngster ready for school--new shoes, clothes, health examination--most school districts require proof of age for beginning students.

A certified copy of a birth certificate is usually requested, reports the Texas State Department of Health.

This fall there will be a quarter-million new first graders in the schools throughout Texas, with the total public school enrollment expected to reach 2.8 million. Continued growth of the school population is expected for the next two to three years, according to the Texas Education Agency.

If you write the Texas State Department of Health, Bureau of Vital Statistics, 410 East Fifth St., Austin, Texas, be sure to include the child's name, place of birth, date of birth, and the parents' name (including the mother's maiden name.) The State Health Department fee for a certified copy of the birth certificate is $2.00.

Ag. Department Has New Course

Don Ham, local Vocational Agriculture teacher, has just returned from a work shop held at Texas A & M University where he built the demonstration boards of electric controls normally used on the farm.

Bob Jaska, Head of the Specialist program, Cleve Walkup, Farm Wiring Specialist, and Dr. Bill McCune, Professor of Agriculture Engineering were instructors who assisted seventeen teachers in building and studying the different circuits where these controls are used. These controls will enhance the teaching of electric controls and their circuits to the Vocational Agriculture III classes. The purchase of these controls by the school is just one example of the interest of our school board in the progress and education of our local students.

Mr. Ham states that he would be willing to show these controls and how to install them to anyone who is interested.

COTTON TALKS

As a result of actions by the House and Senate in Washington over recent weeks farmers can expect labor costs to increase by at least 15 percent later this year and by over 30 percent beginning in the Fall of 1973, according to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

The House on May 11 passed a bill increasing the agricultural minimum wage from the present $1.30 per hour to $1.50 this year and to $1.70 a year later.

The Senate, ardently courting the favor of organized labor, voted July 20 to raise the farm labor minimum to $1.60 this year, $1.80 next year, $2.00 in 1974 and $2.20 in 1975.

"Thus the hourly minimum wage for agriculture in the years ahead will be decided by a House-Senate Conference Committee," Johnson said, "and a 30 percent increase by 1973, as written into the House measure, is the smallest increase that can be hoped for."

Also hanging in the balance when the Conference Committee meets will be the fate of overtime exemptions traditionally given to cotton gins, oil mills and other seasonal processing industries. The House version retains these exemptions but the Senate bill wipes them out. If the Senate version holds, some sources estimate the cost of ginning cotton will be increased in the neighborhood of $5 per bale.

The House bill would increase non-agricultural labor from a $1.60 minimum to $1.80 this year and to $2.00 in 1973. The Senate would jump the minimum for non-farm workers to $1.80 this year and to $2.20 an hour in 1974.

Ostensibly the Administration was pushing on the Senate floor for new minimum wage provisions much more in line with those adopted by the House, including a $2.00 top for non-farm labor and an increase to only $1.80 for agriculture. But Republicans as well as Democrats would like to gain support from organized labor in this election year, and numerous defections from the more modest wage approach were noted in Administration ranks.

Democrats in the Senate were especially anxious to modify labor union leaders, most of whom were thoroughly disenchanted with procedures followed at the Democratic Convention and with the party's presidential nominee. Political expediency notwithstanding however, both Texas Senators--John Tower, a Republican, and Lloyd Bentsen Jr., a Democrat--voted for a substitute bill with minimum wage increases similar to those approved by the House. That bill was defeated by a vote of 46 to 47 and the minimum bill from the Senate Labor Committee passed 65 to 27. Presidential nominee George McGovern flew back to the Capitol from South Dakota to vote against the substitute bill.

Ultimately the Senate measure would jump the federal minimum wage by 37.5 percent for non-agricultural workers and by almost 70 percent for farm labor, the largest increases in history.

Noteworthy in consideration of the minimum wage provisions which eventually will be enacted is the fact that the chairman of the House Subcommittee on Labor, John Dent of Pennsylvania, fought a losing battle on the House side for a bill almost identical to that passed by the Senate. And Dent will no doubt head up the House conferees on the issue.

Washington observers do not expect the Conference Committee to meet until after the Republican National Convention in August.

How to Build an Artificial Reef

Volunteers prepare to drop tires off the coast of Sea Girt, N. J., where artificial reef is being built.

SEA GIRT, N. J.—Tired of erector set toys? Want to build something big and real and helpful to ecology? Try an artificial reef.

That's what Army Reservists of the 78th Training Division have been building, in cooperation with Scouts, Jaycees, and ecology-minded youth and adults from throughout New Jersey.

Already, the Reservists and the others participating in the all-volunteer, state-wide project, have dumped 60,000 discarded auto tires into the 60-foot deep reefs in the Atlantic Ocean about three miles off the shore of this community.

They punch holes in the tires, weight them with chunks of concrete and load them aboard fishing craft. The boats take them to the reef area three and one-half miles long and 1,000 feet wide. There, they are dumped into the briny and settle on the ocean floor.

Algae, mussels, and clams attach themselves to the tire reef. Small fish are attracted by the food. And larger fish the anglers don't have to throw back are not far behind.

The reef has increased the run of mackerel in the area--any bonafide fishing buff who tries his luck off the Jersey shore will tell you.

And as the reef grows--there's plenty of room for thousands of additional tires at the site--the chances are the number of mackerel will top 50 for the ecology and for the fisherman, life here is better, thanks to the Army Reserve and the other volunteers.

The fair will be held Saturday, Aug. 26 at the Lamb County Courthouse with the Littlefield Festivities Days. There will also be a "dog show" with each dog receiving a ribbon. Any child age 6-12 may enter dogs in the show.

accidental deaths and 190,000 disabling injuries."

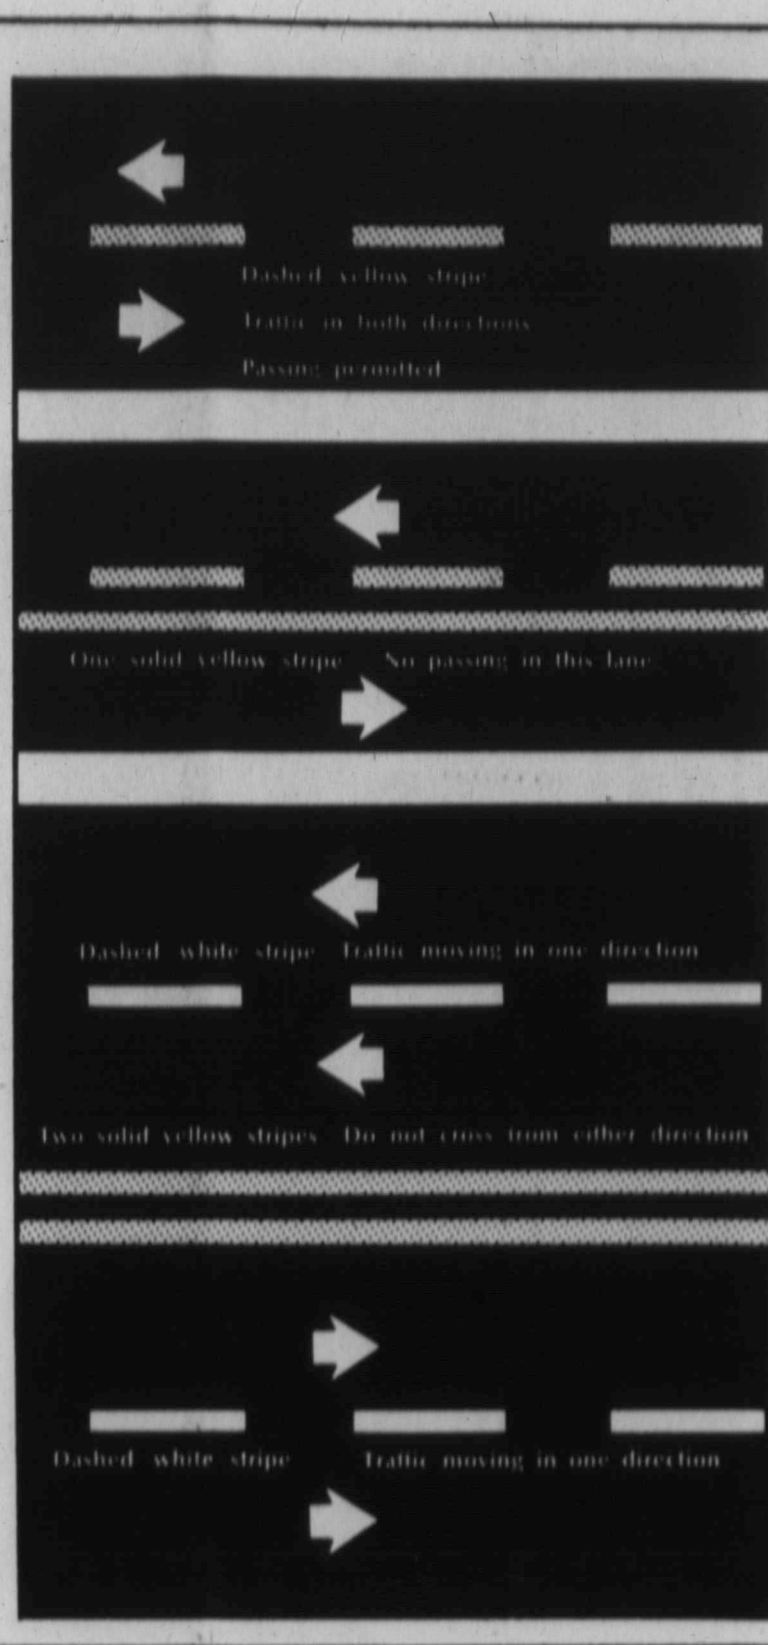

As the 1972 theme indicates, special emphasis is being directed to the use of protective equipment such as safety glasses or goggles, hard hats and bump caps, ear muffs and plugs for lengthy exposure to excessive noise, filter and cartridge respirators for work in heavy dust and chemicals, protective clothing and safety shoes with metal toe caps and puncture resistant soles.

"Many accidents can be prevented by eliminating hazards and using protective equipment at work," contends the Texas A & M University specialist. "For example, accidents involving the feet and toes account for about one out of every 10 disabling work injuries. Safety shoes could help reduce farm accidents if more persons would wear them.

"Farmers and ranchers should become accustomed to protecting themselves from head to toe," emphasizes Keese. "Actually, the agricultural worker may need more types of protective equipment than the average construction worker."

President Richard Nixon has proclaimed the last week of this month as National Farm Safety Week and urges "all persons engaged in agriculture and all those allied with agriculture to take appropriate measures to reduce the number and severity of accidents." He added that the nation should "strive to bring the technology of safety to agriculture as successfully as we have brought it to the technology of production."

National Farm Safety Week is sponsored each year by the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Movie On Texas Available Through Highway Dept.

That new sign language on Texas streets and highways is the subject of a Texas Highway Department "course" in interpretation.

Entitled "New Life Signs," the program is a 16-minute slide presentation designed for use by service organizations, schools and other groups. It interprets the new symbol signs going up along Texas highways.

The presentation is available with audio tape of narration and music from any of the Highway Department's 25 district offices. These offices also will supply additional information that might be used for a special program on highway development. The film and tape may be obtained by writing Texas Highway Department, District No. 5, Box 771, Lubbock 79408 or calling 5H4-8411.

The Highway Department has initiated the new series of symbol signs to replace many of the present word message signs used on streets and highways throughout the State. In addition to providing uniform highway signing throughout the United States, the new signs also conform to those used in most other countries to simplify travel despite language differences.

What's electricity been doing lately? ...Getting ahead with the

POLLUTION SOLUTIONS

Providing enough power to take the smoke out of smoke stacks... to operate new urban mass transit systems... to recycle junk metal for new uses... whatever ways engineers, scientists or technologists think up to reduce or eliminate the many varieties of pollution, chances are Reddy will be their right hand man. Electricity is the cleanest, most versatile form of energy that can get the big jobs of environmental clean-up accomplished. It'll take a lot of brain and power, but that's a natural part of Reddy's job -- serving tomorrow's needs today.
