FIRST IT WAS ping-pong, now it's chess. Next thing we know, international attention may be focused on mumble peg or marbles, so it's best we old-timers who remember (vaguely, in the case of some of us) how to play those games start teaching our youngsters how to do them.

After all, kids don't play mumble peg and marbles like they once did. It's a lost art, and they may be left floundering in dismay when such things hold gigantic world political implications like the recent ping pong matches and the much-ballyhooed contests between a communist and an ill-tempered American.

If Boris Spassky were anything other than a Red, I'd like to see him win. As it is, I'm glad Bobby Fischer is winning, since he is an American. But he sure isn't the type of person most of us would choose to be representative of the U. S. so far as his personal conduct is concerned.

Fischer has been an expert chess player since he was 14 or so. He is now 29, but still acts like he is 14 at times, fussing about the lights and the noise and having little tantrums—but still playing chess better than anyone else does.

Now we have no objection to people playing chess; it's a good game, and we have been known to play the game (poorly) around our house. But it sure does seem over-emphasized in the Spassky-Fischer case. Still, if it has all those international political implications, we'd better all get set for the next turn in world gamesmanship.

Guessing that it may be marbles, I've been trying to remember how we played the game when I was a kid, so I could tell all these younger folks how to do it. I remember the law was the marble you shoot with, and if you play "keeps" you get into trouble, especially at school. Seems to me we put our marbles in a circle and tried to knock them out of the circle, taking turns.

Somewhat similar was a game we played with tops, where you tried to plug the other fellow's top (and break it, if possible). I think we kept the tops, too, sometimes. I remember that once the guys let me play even though I had lost all my tops; they let me chuck a rock at their tops. (This probably was the first topless act performed in Jack County).

Mumble peg, the way we played it, was a game in which you tried various ways of sticking a pocket knife into the ground. Each player had to do it the same way, until the whole series of weird ways to stick a knife into the ground was finished. Then the loser had to root the peg, which was a stick driven into the ground.

I don't recall all the ways we had to stick up the knife, but I do remember one called "breaking the chicken's neck" which involved putting the blade flat-side into the fingers of one hand and slapping it downward sharply with the other hand. It should have

SCHOOL HOLIDAY ON LABOR DAY

Monday, Sept. 4, is Labor Day and will be a school holiday, Sudan High School principal Dale Read said this week. He added that School Classes dismiss at 2:30 p. m. Friday.

SEW FAIR SCHEDULED AT SOUTH PLAINS MALL

Fairs don't always mean ferris wheels and cotton candy. Sometimes they mean learning how to sew better.

That's just what Sew Fair will show interested viewers when it comes to Lubbock on Sept. 15 and 16.

Sew Fair will be held at South Plains Mall from 10 a. m. to 7 p. m. on Sept. 15 and 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. and 2 to 6 p. m. on September 16. Sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Sew Fair will feature home sewing industry representatives.

They will give talks and demonstrations about latest sewing techniques and will explain how to sew with new fabrics currently being marketed.

The fair will be open to the public and no admission will be charged.

PERSONAL

Recent visitors in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Eddie Freeman were his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Freeman and family of Midland and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Coffman and family of Plainview.

The wedding of Miss Karen Doty and Billy Wayne Gore will be held Saturday, Sept. 2 at 7:30 p. m. at the First Baptist Church. All friends and relatives are invited to attend. Reception following.

been called, "cutting your finger off."

More than likely most of you can remember more details about how these games were played than I can. Please start now grooming the youngsters to learn these arts and fill the important roles of tomorrow's diplomats.

Let's hope that all this doesn't upset the chess fans too much. I have no quarrel with those who are avid fans of the game. But I still think chess is a lot more appealing when it comes in the form of a pie.

KNOTHOLES: They're having a rabbit show, of all things, at the Panhandle-South Plains Fair Sept. 25-30. This doesn't sound to me like the best way to spend an evening, but some no doubt will enjoy it. All rabbits don't compete in the same division; they're divided into several categories. I guess you'd call that splitting hares... Up at Canyon, the folks who put on the outdoor production "Texas" find all sorts of things left by those who visit the show. Like pillows, head scarves, towels, purses, car keys, glasses, shoes and even female undergarments (h-m-mm). And one woman returned to say she'd left her teeth there in a paper sack... Six nuclear power plants are expected to be in operation in Texas in the 1980s, and the State Dept. of Health thinks they'll be quite safe. Anyway, the health department people probably will be safe, so long as they stay in their offices in Austin.

1972 FOOTBALL SCRIMMAGE--In the Sudan-New Deal scrimmage here Friday night, everybody seems to be in the middle of the battle in the scene shown above. The next scrimmage for the Sudan team will be Friday night at Cooper.

Football Scrimmage Set Friday

The 1972 Sudan Hornets looked good in their scrimmage here Friday night with New Deal, according to a consensus of opinion

by Coach Jim Warren and coaches Gary Campbell, Tommy Essex, and Bob Crane. Coach Warren said that mistakes were made, but they were mistakes that can be corrected. He continued, saying that "mistakes can be expected when introducing both a new offense and a new defense like we have done this season."

Scrimmage with Cooper will be there on Friday, Sept. 1, starting at 5:00 p. m.

The first game of the season is set for Friday, Sept. 8, 8:00 p. m. with the Amherst Bulldogs on the Sudan Hornet Field.

Civil Service Positions Available

The U. S. Civil Service Commission is accepting applications for Treasury Enforcement Agent positions. These positions are located in Federal agencies in the states of Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas and Wyoming. A written test is required. Salaries are $7319 per year for grade level GS-5 and $9053 per year for grade level GS-7.

Immediate vacancies do not exist. The announcement for RAINFALL here this weekend totaled more than three inches.

FUNERAL SERVICE HELD

ACCIDENT FATAL TO LOCAL YOUTH

Funeral Services for Danny Joe Cardwell, 18, were held Tuesday at 3 p. m. in the First Baptist Church. Rev. Calvin Beech, pastor of First Baptist Church of Plains, officiated, assisted by Rev. Eddie Freeman, pastor of First Baptist Church of Sudan.

Burial was in Sudan Cemetery under the direction of Hammons Funeral Home of Littlefield.

Danny, a 1972 graduate of Sudan High School and a member of the Baptist Youth Sunday School class, was killed about 2:45 a. m. Sunday when the pickup he was driving ran off the road and struck a tree about a mile and a half east of here on U. S. highway 84. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Tobe Vereen.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cardwell of Sudan; two sisters, Susan and Glenda, both of the home; his grandparents, L. B. Hobbs of Plains, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Fisher of Lubbock, and Mr. and Mrs. Hal Cardwell of Lubbock; and great-grandparents, Mrs. Jennie Cardwell of Lubbock.

Pallbearers were David Doty, Bo Lance, Donnie Harper, Rickey Gilreath, Jimmy Fields, Lynn Williams, and Eugene Lopez.

Shower Honors Mrs. Baker

A lullaby shower honoring Mrs. Corley Baker was held Saturday in the home of Mrs. Weaver Barnett.

The table was covered with an ecru lace cloth over green and centered with a "baby tree". Hostesses alternated serving coffee, spiced tea, and nut breads from china appointments.

Dorothy Jones registered guests. Mrs. Harold Ingle, mother of the honoree, assisted her in opening the gifts. Hostess gift was a high chair and a corsage made with yellow baby socks.

Hostesses included Mesdames B. M. Wilson, R. A. Lance, Lee Roy Fisher, Joe Kent, Calvin Wiseman, Bill Boyles, Bob Drake, Darwin Reid, Mike G. Nix, Waymon Bellar, Julian Damron, Robin Davis, and Mrs. Barnett.

PICKUP WRECKED--Shown above is the wreckage of the pickup in the fatal accident east of Sudan Sunday morning on Hwy. 84, which resulted in the death of a local youth, Danny Cardwell.

Charlie Pride, Roy Clark, and Gospel Music To Headline Fair

Contract negotiations have been completed for a star-studded Mexican variety show to be presented as part of a new format headlining the 55th annual Panhandle South Plains Fair in Lubbock Sept. 25-30.

Two top recording stars--Lola Beltran and Cuco Sanchez--will headline the show to be presented in Fair Park Coliseum on Thursday night of the weeklong run. Sanchez also is one of Mexico's top composers. In addition Juan Puentes, 14-year-old singing star from San Antonio, will return for the second straight year. Puentes is a former Lubbock resident who was a "hit" at the fair last year. Graciela Flores, dubbed "Mexico's Miss Personality", also is on the card, appearing with a mariachi band. It is but one of four shows slated for the exposition this year.

Charley Pride, the Pridemans, country and western singer Johnny Duncan, ventriloquist Alex Houston and Elmer and The North Door will open the fair on Monday and Tuesday nights.

A gospel music show starring the Blackwood Brothers Quartet, J. D. Sumner and The Stamps Quartet, plus the Blackwood Singers, will share the spotlight on Wednesday night.

Rounding out the week on Friday and Saturday nights will be Roy Clark, The Sound Generation and Tom T. Hall and The Story Tellers.

Tickets may be obtained at the box office in Fair Park Coliseum or at Sears' downtown store, Luskey's Western Wear or at TGEY stores on Brownfield Road and Parkway Drive. Or, mail order requests will be filled by the fair association, P.O. Box 208, Lubbock, Texas 79408. The box office is open from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. Monday through Friday. The telephone number is 762-8349.

The fair also has scheduled two free attractions. Tony, the organ grinder, and Chris, the wonder monkey, will be on the grounds for about six hours daily. And "The Sensational Leighs" will perform on the giant space wheel adjacent to the Merchant's Building throughout the week.

In addition, three horse shows--Appaloosa, open and Quarter Horse--are on the slate along with a fiddlers' contest, twirling festival, plus women's, commercial, military, fine arts, creative arts, industrial arts and agricultural exhibits.

Also, the fair has scheduled a tropical fish show, rabbit show, bantam show and Gene Ledel's million dollar midway for the six-day run.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Williamson plan to leave this week for several days vacationing at Lake Graham and Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Robbie Rudd and April of Lubbock accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Ritchie, Debbie and Steve to Belen, N.M. during the weekend to attend the Corley reunion. They returned home Sunday.

Bo Lance left Sunday for Lubbock, where he began classes Monday as a freshman at Texas Tech.

Among other students returning to college are Louise Williamson, David Doty, Donnie Harper, Pam Nix, Hazel House, Linda Lane, and Roger Bellar.

Mrs. Juana Young recently received her masters degree in library science at NTSU in Denton.

Juana is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Young of Bula.

Larry Clawson and Sheila Medlin, both of Bula, are freshman students at South Plains College this fall.

Mrs. Cheryl Capers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Beauchamp, Jr. enplaned Saturday for Germany where her husband, John Capers, is stationed with the Armed Forces there. Enroute she visited in Tippecanoe, Ohio with her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Vickers.

Lonnie Horn was in Houston last week to visit his son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Max Horn.

Mrs. Hank Brown and Ian of Roscoe visited this weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Pete Lance.

Mrs. P. A. Lance was in Lubbock several days last week visiting her son and family, the M. M. Lances, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Vallie Lance.

Glen Cardwell was released Tuesday from Methodist Hospital of Lubbock where he had been a surgical patient for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Logan returned Thursday night from Tres Ritos where they were on vacation last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rogers and children were in Wheeler recently to visit friends and relatives there.

Mr. and Mrs. John Williams and family visited recently in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cain of Grapevine and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Adams of Euless.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. McWilliams took their daughter, Patti Sue, to Lubbock. She enplaned to New York to visit her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Schlabach and Kimberly D'ann. Mrs. Schlabach is the former Dianna McWilliams. They plan a trip touring several states and Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Olds attended the funeral of Mrs. Daisy Henderson in Friona Tuesday. Others from Sudan attending were Mr. and Mrs. Delma Gann, Mrs. J. C. Doty, and Mr. and Mrs. Jinks Dent.

Mrs. H. O. Carson has returned home from the Amherst hospital where she had been a patient for several weeks.

All high school class officers will be elected Friday during the fifth period.

TOPS CLUB NEWS

Texas Tops Club No. 634 met Monday, Sept. 28 in the community center with eight members present.

After all members weighed and weights were recorded it was found that Mary Tollett was queen for the week and was awarded the handful of dimes. Runner-up was Letha Gordon. There was a total of 5 1/2 pounds lost.

After reading of the minutes the TOPS song was sung and the meeting adjourned with the recitation of the TOPS pledge.

Choose for Yourself

"I live by the Bible," people used to boast. What better claim could a man make about his character?

That meant he believed what the Bible said was wrong was wrong, and what the Bible said was right was right. His standards were clear.

But people don't seem to live by the Bible much any more. Some pastors and some denominations, for example, are getting newspaper headlines for endorsing homosexual, premarital, and extramarital sex relationships, when the Bible clearly condemns them.

When the church leaders reject the Bible, what should the common people do?

Challenge Leaders

First, they should challenge their leaders and confront them with their error. Little good, however, will likely result, because many "Christians," who condone behavior or beliefs which the Bible condemns, still say they too "live by the Bible."

These people, above all, believe in progress. "Things change," they say.

What has changed, though, is not the Bible itself. The words today are the same words read and revered by Dwight Moody, John Wesley, Martin Luther, Thomas Aquinas, St. Augustine, Tertullian, and the original disciples, themselves. Times have changed, but not the Bible.

Nevertheless, some believers in progress think that when times change somehow everything else changes along with them.

Using sex again as an example, old-style believers in the Bible would tell their children to "be good," and mean to avoid premarital sexual relationships, while new-style "believers" might mean to avoid getting pregnant.

The reasoning is that the Bible rejects premarital intercourse because unwanted pregnancies would result. Therefore, since now intercourse without pregnancy is possible, sex without marriage is all right. Times have changed and the meaning of the Bible has changed.

A fallacy exists here. Unwanted pregnancies have nothing to do with why the Bible rejects premarital sex. Intercourse, according to the Bible, makes people "one flesh," and intercourse without the total commitment of marriage damages people spiritually, emotionally, and psychologically.

Follow Truth

The second action common people should take toward leaders who reject the Bible after being warned of their error is to reject their leaders. No one should hinder them from following the command and promise of Joshua: "This book of the law shall not depart from your mouth, but you shall meditate on it day and night, that you may be careful to live according to all that is written in it; for then you will make your way prosperous, and then you will act wisely."

Mrs. Lee Trevino's Mexican Cooking Hints

Claudia Trevino had never cooked a Mexican meal before she met her famous husband, Lee. Since professional golfer Lee Trevino is of Mexican heritage, Mrs. Trevino had to learn quickly. Now, his pert and pretty wife is a "pro" herself when it comes to Mexican cookery.

"The first Mexican dinner I made for Lee was done with frozen Mexican convenience foods, and I have been relying on them ever since," says Claudia Trevino. "I find it's a great time-saver to serve frozen beef tacos, enchiladas, tamales in cornshucks and tortillas. The children's favorites, of course, are the Patio Mexican five-course combination dinners which even include dessert."

Claudia Trevino sometimes serves frozen Mexican foods prepared according to package directions, but more often than not, she adds her own personal touches. Here's her favorite recipe for tortillas with a spicy beef filling.

TORTILLAS TREVINO

1 pound lean ground round beef	1/2 cup catsup
1 large onion, chopped	Salt and pepper
1 green pepper, chopped	1 package (11 ounces) in boil-bag frozen tortillas
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce with cheese	Salad oil

In skillet, cook beef until browned and crumbly; drain off excess fat. Add onion, green pepper, tomato sauce and catsup. Simmer 5 minutes, stir often. Add salt and pepper to taste. Heat tortillas in boil-bag according to package directions. Spoon about 1/4 cup of the filling on each tortilla. While tortilla is still warm, roll up jelly-roll fashion. Brush each with oil and broil about 2 minutes to brown. Makes 6 servings, 2 tortillas each.

Field Day Highlights Cotton Disease Work

Diseases have taken a heavy toll of some South Plains cotton this season. Yet, due to work done at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, losses have been kept down.

Some of these research efforts in cotton disease control will be explained to visitors attending the 63rd Annual Field Day and Open House at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock on September 12 beginning at 1 p. m., announces Dr. Jack Gipson, field day chairman. This particular phase of research is headed by Dr. Earl Minton, plant pathologist with the USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

"Verticillium wilt continues to be the number 1 disease problem in cotton on the South Plains, notes Minton. Wilt incidence is highly related to cool, wet weather so we've had quite a lot of the disease this season."

"We have a special 'Vert' nursery set up at the Center where our efforts are directed to testing commercial varieties and new strains of cotton for wilt tolerance. This nursery has been in operation since 1960. We are also selecting plants with bacterial blight resistance in this plot."

According to the researcher, the nursery has been specially treated to create high levels of Verticillium wilt. "We've applied various cultural practices that encourage wilt development. These are the things that producers should not do if they want to avoid serious wilt problems in their cotton."

Minton notes that one of the main cultural practices producers can employ to reduce wilt damage is crop rotation.

"At the Center we are rotating cotton with barley, wheat or oats, grain sorghum, castor and soybeans. We have found that cotton can generally be grown without too much wilt for as many years as a field is rotated after the disease shows up. For instance, if a wilt infested field is planted to wheat for three years, then we can expect to grow cotton for the next three years without too much of a wilt problem. The three-year rotation has been most effective in reducing wilt."

Minton also explains that studies are underway to determine how various row spacings effect the incidence of wilt in cotton.

"Our studies show that wilt decreases in susceptible varieties as row spacings decrease. In other words, there is less wilt in cotton planted in narrow rows."

If producers have a severe wilt problem in their fields, the researcher recommends planting a tolerant variety, and using all of the known cultural practices which control the disease.

In addition to wilt and bacterial blight, other cotton diseases to be discussed at the field day include seedling disease, leaf spot, and wet-weather blight. Wet-weather blight was especially destructive this year as it damaged about a half million acres over the area.

Other field day highlights will include drip irrigation, oilseed crops, cotton varieties, narrow-row cotton, soil fertility, vegetable crops, and grain sorghum breeding and insect control.

Field day visitors will be able to spend as much time as they desire at any of the particular field plots.

Special discussions on weed control and the weather will be conducted at the Center headquarters. Exhibits and displays will also be featured.

The part to play in life's great game, Is not to strive for wealth or fame, It's not to lay upon the shelf, Just everything we want for self. It's not for who our gifts are made, Nor should we hope to be repaid; To help another's burden's bear, Is one great reason why we're here.
