Mrs. B. Olds Rites Held

WE KNOW THIS will come as a big surprise to everyone, but this country is going to just about blow away if it doesn't rain, according to one of the Dept. of Agriculture's scientists. That's the gist of statements attributed to Donald W. Fryrear, agricultural engineer with the USDA research service in Big Spring. He says severe wind erosion with the USDA research service in Big Spring. He says severe wind erosion can be expected to occur in the area an estimated 67 days this year, with the worst during March and April.

Well, we didn't need any USDA bigbrain to tell us it's plenty dry around here. He did have a couple of interesting suggestions, though. He said that if the dry soil must be tilled, the recommended practice for the area is deep chiseling to bring large clods to the surface. The clods will make the surface rough and tend to break up the wind at ground surface, thus reducing erosion. Chiseling should be 8 to 10 inches deep on about 20-inch centers, he said.

In cotton-growing areas, Fryrear recommends that cotton farmers not mow their stalks, but rather let them stand until tillage is necessary, then chisel without mowing. He says the unmowed stalks will aid in reducing the tendency of the soil to blow.

That's what he says. Personally, I wouldn't know, since farming is not my thing.

I do wonder, though, if he always has been named Fryrear, or if he acquired the name after engaging in outside research in the West Texas climate.

AN OLD Vermont farmer was walking along the road to his home one day when he met a stranger. The farmer noticed his companion talked with sanctimonious language.

At one point the stranger stopped and pointed a long finger at the farmer and asked, "Have you made your peace with God?"

The farmer considered for a moment, then answered shortly: "We ain't come to no open break yet."

POSTAL RATE HIKE EFFECTIVE MARCH 2

The Postal Service has asked citizens to "mail early" to avoid building up a crush of mail just before the deadline next Saturday when postal rates to up 2 cents.

At 12:01 a.m. Saturday, the rate for an ordinary letter goes up from 8 cents to 10 cents.

and air mail letters 11 cents to 13 cents. Cards in regular mail go from 6 cents to 8 cents and airmail cards, 9 cents to 11 cents.

Postal officials said similar increases in the past have caused logjams in the mail resembling small scale pre-Christmas rushes. They have urged citizens not to wait until the last day to use up old postage stamps.

The highest denomination stamps can be purchased at any time. The Postal Service already has them in stock.

The public cannot legally demand a refund for any leftover stamps at the present rates. Officially, the Postal Service is instructing citizens to buy some extra 2-cent stamps to use with the old ones. But unofficially, some postal clerks accept old stamps in trade for new ones.

The new postage rates are officially "temporary" because they have not yet been reviewed by the Postal Service's Board of Governors. But no one expects the board will roll back the rates.

They will sing songs, have games and fun with the pastor, Rev. Eddie Freeman, in charge of the program. Saturday morning the group will have breakfast with the Baptist Men at 6:30 a.m. before returning home.

AUSTIN, Tex. - Long before the Constitutional Convention completes its work, serious thought is being given to when revision of the basic laws should be scheduled for a statewide vote.

At the same time, a group of lawmakers (probably in the minority) is agitating to recess along about the middle of next month until after the primary election.

Convention President Price Daniel Jr. favored a May 4 vote initially - on party primary ballots. With legal difficulties in sight and uncertainty over convention completion date, he indicated he could go along with a November 5 (general election) vote date on the revision product.

Daniel felt the election should be called while interest in the convention's product is hot - and still sees some points in favor of a special election before November.

Proponents of November balloting argue time is needed to develop public understanding of the revision document and to refute opposition attacks.

Lawmaker-delegates backing a recess until after the primaries feel more objective voting on revision can be assured after election campaigns are behind them.

Others contend a shorter recess is advisable so delegates can see what they have done and take the pulse of voters back home on revision proposals before a final, irrevocable vote.

Daniel insists there is still grounds for optimism about completing work of the convention by early April - with or without a recess of just one week.

ENERGY BILL HIT - Top Texas officials claimed provisions of a federal energy emergency bill would give the U.S. Secretary of Interior control over oil production traditionally reserved for states.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby Jr., House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., Atty. Gen. John Hill and Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Langdon called on the U.S. Senate to recommit the bill to Conference Committee.

They complained the measure would give the secretary power to set monthly maximum efficient rates of production. Another provision would allow the official to call for production in excess of maximum efficient rates for 90 days or more.

GAMBLING REFERENDUM SOUGHT - A campaign is under way to force a statewide referendum at May 4 primary elections on legalizing horse race gambling.

Enough signatures have been obtained to get a place on the Republican ballot, but supporters of the referendum are far short of the 110,000 signers needed for a Democratic vote.

Heads of Texas Citizens for Parimutuel Horse Racing reported they have collected 40,000 signatures on petitions.

HARVEY FLOYD ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY AS STATE REPRESENTATIVE

As Democratic candidate for State Representative of the 74th District seeking your support, you are probably asking yourself, "Who is Harvey Floyd and how can he serve me?"

I am a businessman, a family man, and a 14-year resident of your district who is faced with the same type of situations you face and who understands your needs and concerns.

As you hear my proposal, I ask that you think of it as a joint proposal - yours and mine - and to think of this election in a personal way which will allow us to better conditions.

Primary among our problems is inflation, which affects us all. There is an existing need in Texas for additional revenue to meet the demands of inflated prices. I believe our proposal can sufficiently increase state revenue and at the same time avoid a state income tax and increased state property taxes on property, etc.

Crude oil produced in the United States is priced at approximately $4.50 a barrel. Texas taxes crude oil on a basis of about $3.71 per barrel. State tax on oil is 4.6 per cent at the well plus a 3-16c per barrel pipeline tax giving a total of under 20c per barrel state revenue from oil.

Texas collected approximately $210 million from this source in the fiscal year ended August 31. Revision of the state's taxation program of crude oil would greatly increase this revenue source.

An even more urgent need is revision of the state program taxing natural gas. Texas collected $125 million in taxes in the latest fiscal year on $1.8 billion paid for natural gas produced in Texas. Much of this gas goes to other states where it serves as cheap fuel.

Natural gas in Texas is taxed at 7.4 per cent of its wellhead value. Many contracts were made, and are still in force, which sell gas at price ceilings imposed by the Federal Power Commission with a base tax on Texas-produced gas at 16c per thousand cubic feet. Current market value is 75c per thousand or more. A consumer buying gas at 16c per thousand pays state tax of 1.2c while the buyer of 75c gas pays 5.6c tax.

This present percentage system of taxation is unfair to the buyer paying high prices and favors those who pay the least for gas at the well. With action from the state and cooperation from the Federal Power Commission in changing from a percentage tax to a flat-rate of taxing natural gas, the taxing system would be equalized and would create an untapped source of state revenue.

The above proposal is but one I have to suggest. If elected, I pledge to serve you on the district level as your needs from the local level are communicated to me from you. By working together, I believe I can represent you well. I solicit your support and influence in the upcoming election.

How Long?

By Charles H. Robinson, Asst. P. R. Director
Bryan College, Dayton, Tennessee

"The bed is shorter than that a man can stretch himself on it; and the covering narrower than that he can wrap himself in it," said the prophet Isaiah.

When you undertake to save yourself by your own works, your attempts are as inadequate as a bed that is too short or a cover that is too narrow. It's good as far as it goes, but it just doesn't go far enough.

A salvation that is insufficient or inadequate is no salvation at all. To be almost saved is to be lost at last. Church membership, giving to charity, morality, or social services are all good in themselves. But they simply won't take you to heaven.

Jesus died to provide a free, adequate, and perfect salvation for all who will accept it. But you must renounce all that you are and all that you have done as being of no value for salvation, and trust in Christ alone.

Winter Layers for Little Players

If yours is the job of dressing small children to protect them against winter weather, we have some good news for you. Manufacturers of children's fashions are on your side. They've designed whole groups of boys' and girls' clothes that work in layers, which is not only the most efficient way to warmth but also the most attractive.

Now when children go out to play, they need not be bundled up until they can barely bend an elbow. No more tottering little snowmen scarcely recognizable under bulky, overstuffed snowsuits. By dressing your child in coordinated layers—each one lightweight and lightly fitted—the total effect is both neater and more flexible.

This year's favorite topper is the fluffy, lightweight parka made of one or more modern miracle fabrics, lined and interlined with more of the same. You can lift these wonderful weather-beaters with one finger; yet they're as windproof as a polar bear. They do the job, and they do it in style.

For small boys, there are woolly navy blue parkas piped in red that would look splendid layered over a fireman's red corduroy battle jacket and pants. Under that, we'd suggest navy blue tights and boots. In frost-biting weather, layer socks between tights and boots. Two pairs of mittens work better than one.

Is your small daughter the snow princess type? Send her out to play in a white pile jacket with simulated leather trim and polar cap to match. Undereath: a white handknitted jumper with suspender straps and bright red roosters marching across the pockets. Under that: a dark red pullover and lights, with white vinyl boots that zip up the back.

From Europe come shaggy pile parkas for girls in soft blue or tawny tiger stripes.

From the Far East comes a coat fit for a Down Easter: a real yellow slicker of rubberized spun rayon with hood attached and golden toggle closing. Layer this over a knitted wool slacks-and-vest ensemble in rust or beige. Be sure it's a really cold day, though, or you'll have a very over-toasty child. Slickers hold in the body heat like nothing else can!

Another advantage of this layered dressing is that it's easy to regulate body temperature. When your children come inside for a delicious, warming cup of cocoa, they need remove only one layer of clothing to be comfortable. While they're shedding parkas, you empty a packet of Carnation Instant Hot Cocoa Mix into each cup. Add hot water and stir. The milk's already in the great tasting cocoa. Kids love it. In no time the cups will be empty, the parkas put back on, and the little layers players will be back in the game.

CONCERNED PARENTS & QUALITY EDUCATION

Texas Public Schools Week, March 4-8 is an excellent time for you—as a parent and a concerned citizen to take a look at your local schools and to find out whether or not they are meeting your standards of quality education. This is your opportunity to question whether the education your child is receiving today will help him face the future with human dignity, rational thinking, economic competence and self-reliance.

Care enough this year during Texas Public Schools Week, March 4-8, to visit in class rooms, talk to teachers, observe their methods of teaching, evaluate facilities. Know the kind of education America's future leaders are receiving. Texas Public Schools are your concern—your tax dollar goes to support and maintain them. Aren't you concerned about how that tax dollar is being spent?

Yes, education is the backbone of our American way of life. Show your support and interest in the system. Visit your public schools during Texas Public Schools Week, March 4-8.

No thinking person can deny that a high quality educational opportunity should be insured—and no one can deny that decisions regarding public education should be made at the level of government closest to the people affected.

You, as an active citizen and a concerned parent, should play a major role in the way your local school district is run. Do you know anything at all about your local school system? Do you know whether quality education is being provided for your children—for the children of other people in your community?

During March 4-8 Texas Public School Week is being observed. The public is being invited to visit classrooms—to observe the educational process at work. It's your responsibility to take an active interest in the school system. Your presence, your comments and questions will be most welcome.

The Bright Side Of The Fuel Shortage

Temperatures are dropping. Gasoline is being curtailed. Supplies of electricity, heating oil and other fuels are dwindling. In view of these circumstances, many people seem depressed. But did you ever think of the brighter side of the energy crisis?

Now you don't have to travel for hours to Aunt Tillie's for an entertaining afternoon or evening of fun. Fueling your imagination, you can have a great time in your own home or in the surrounding area.

You can, for example, play a game of Monopoly or Go Fish sitting right around your kitchen or living room table. When you do, family fun—as well as energy conservation—is definitely in the offing.

Play highly entertaining phonograph records from exciting artists like Bette Midler or Carly Simon on the Warner Communications Inc., record company labels.

Or how about a family sing as members gather around the piano and the family pianist plays the latest sheet music hits?

Take a short trip via public transportation to your local motion picture theater and see "Magnum Force," "The Exorcist" or the entertaining re-release of "Billy Jack" from Warner Bros., Warner Communications Inc.'s film company. Many of these fine films are shown at theaters in local shopping centers and require little transportation.

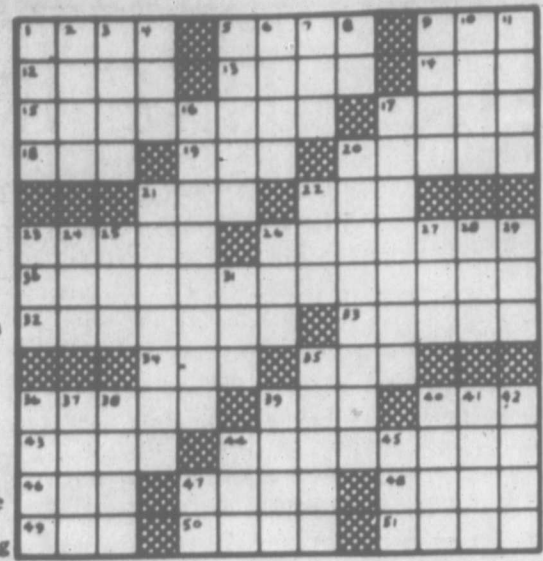

Meals at home are definitely in order. Why not create a romantic mood for your next one by lighting the dining room table with candlelight, a good way of saving current.

You can literally use your own ingenuity for fun-filled energy savers.

Answer to Puzzle

HINTS FOR A FLU-FREE WINTER

Germs exist nearly everywhere and much-frequented rooms like the bathroom and kitchen are their favorite rendezvous. During the winter, especially, it's wise to take extra care to reduce their number, particularly in these communal household areas.

For instance, clean and disinfect kitchen counters and bathroom sink and bowls even more often than usual. Clean floors, walls and kitchen appliances like toasters and refrigerators more regularly, too. Try to avoid handling food or working in the kitchen when you feel symptoms of cold or flu coming on, and don't handle dinnerware and flatware on eating surfaces.

In the bathroom, replace the family drinking cup with a Dixie cup dispenser—made by American Can Company—a sensible and convenient precaution for all seasons.

Single-use cups are always sanitary and may help prevent the spread of germs. Paper cups also provide the extra safeguard of being unbreakable. In gleaming white and pink, blue and gold, the 3-ounce dispenser is decorator-pretty anyway, to fit into any bathroom decor.

A few last quick suggestions: empty bathroom waste baskets frequently. Disinfect rubber tub mats often and provide loss-away hand towels for family members and guests. Use terry cloth towels or pretty paper ones rather than delicate expensive-looking linen towels which sometimes intimidate guests. You'll save yourself a lot of effort in the bargain.

DAVE LLEWELLYN

God Moves the Men who Move the World

Pausing momentarily to reflect, after his jaunts through the Arab capitals on peace and oil-seeking missions last month, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger observed that his notions about how the forces of social change function have altered since his days as a Harvard professor. Formerly, he considered ideologies paramount. Now, having experienced the inner workings of international diplomacy, he has concluded that the individual personalities of the various world leaders predominate.

So once again, in a new light, emerges the old wisdom: "What counts is who you are and who you know." After all, what makes social movements move? People, working with other people who share common ideas. Ideologies are nothing more than the collective opinions of committed people, distilled to their common elements.

Explosive ideas remain silent and impotent on the pages of unread books. Ideas inspire, but only people can implement them. The early Christians attempted no social or political innovations. They simply shared with people throughout the Roman world how they, too, could know God personally through Jesus. As the message spread and more people met God, social changes followed because people in communication with God could no longer mistreat slaves or degrade women. So a Christian social ethic developed from the collective experiences of individuals with God.

FCC Commissioner Richard F. Wiley, addressing the National Religious Broadcasters Association, observed rightly, "Whatever the continuing and altogether legitimate role of the church in society, it must never be permitted to obscure or eclipse the personal relationship which can exist between God and man."

Solzhenitsyn's Prayer
Alexander Solzhenitsyn, conspicuously involved in a movement for intellectual and religious freedom in Russia, has expressed the personal relationship that motivates him in a poem titled "Prayer": "O Lord, it is easy to dwell with You!

When Spirit clouds over, and I, crushed, am made dumb. When even the smartest people know not what tomorrow will bring. You bestow the clear assuredness of being. Vigilantly keeping the channels of Goodness unclogged. Surpassing thus the summit of earthly glory, I behold the Way, which alone I never could have found, Wondrous Way, opposite to despair, Whence my self shall become the reflection of Your world. What need have I to speak what You alone shall reveal to me, And if I find not the time to carry it through It means You've chosen others for the task." Copyright Dave Llewellyn 1974

The basic chemical industry will continue its capital spending boom in 1974, according to a recent survey conducted by Chemical & Engineering News, weekly newsmagazine of the American Chemical Society.

HEALTH & BEAUTY-BRIEFS
Do you have trouble selecting the right eyeglass frames for your face? Generally speaking, a beauty expert counsels, an oval or octagonal frame complements almost any face. Round frames are relatively difficult to wear well. When in doubt, metal frames and neutral or pastel shades are safe choices, the expert advises.

Contact lenses continue to be popular, and optometrists remind wearers to wash their hands carefully before inserting the lenses and touching the eye area. Use soap, or a liquid skin cleanser such as pHisoDerm, which many individuals find less irritating to the skin.

For those seeking younger, firmer looking skin, a booklet on aging skin advises that facial massage may make wrinkles appear less noticeable, but the effect lasts only minutes. The benefits of facial masks are described as mostly psychological. They do, however, have a cleansing effect. Saunas or warm, wet towels applied to the face for five minutes increase circulation and introduce moisture into the upper layers of the skin surface. The effects are temporary.

For acne and related skin blemishes, careful washing of the affected areas is considered important, but scrubbing is not advised. At night, a medicated cream can be applied to open clogged pores and reduce excess oils. Winthrop Laboratories has reformulated its pHisoAc so that it is virtually odorless and blends easily into the skin.

678 Is Average... Fertilizer Use Jumps
Again... Texas Citrus Prospects Are Reduced.

What's your idea as to the average size of a Texas farm? It could range from a few acres to several hundred thousand. The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service has made it official: the average size of a farm in Texas contains 678 acres.

That's almost twice the size of the average farm for the nation. As the average size gets larger, the number of total farms in the state and the nation continue to decline, with perhaps an exception for 1974.

Preliminary figures now show that there are 209,000 farms in Texas as of January 1. This is the same number as of January 1 in 1973 and 1972. Fifteen years ago—back in 1959—there were 252,000 farms in the state with an average size of slightly more than 600 acres.

Nationwide, the total number of farms has declined slightly as of January 1 from a year ago. It's estimated there are 2,821,000 farms in the nation now, compared to 2,844,000 in 1973.

Average size of a farm in the nation is 385 acres, an increase of almost 100 acres during the past 15 years.

In Texas, there are 141,800,000 acres in farms, for the nation there is slightly more than a billion acres in farmland.

FERTILIZER use in Texas during 1973 as of June 30 showed a slight increase from 1972. The June 30, 1973 total is 2,556,371 tons of fertilizer compared to 2,514,837 tons in 1972.

Fertilizer is broken down into three categories: mixed fertilizer, primary nutrient, and secondary and micronutrient.

Mixed fertilizer utilized in Texas in 1973 was up four per cent from the 1972 usage.

Primary nutrient fertilizer used in the state was one per cent below 1972.

Secondary and micronutrient fertilizer applied amounted virtually the same in 1973 and 1972.

Nitrogen fertilizer accounted for the biggest use in Texas in 1973.

BASED on February 1 prospects, the 1973-74 citrus crop for the state is forecast at 18,500,000 boxes, which is four per cent below the production of last season.

The February 1 forecast is one per cent less than the January 1 forecast reflecting freeze damage which is now apparent in the Balencia orange crop.

The grapefruit estimated at 11,500,000 boxes and the early and mid-season orange estimate of 4,600,000 boxes is unchanged from a month ago.

Grapefruit harvest was active in January. Harvest of early and mid-season oranges is virtually complete.

COMPLETE details of the experimental program to control predators in 44 Texas counties are now being implemented. The Texas Department of Agriculture is in charge of the program on a state level.

Through the cooperation of the Environmental Protection Agency and several state agencies, the use of the M-44 coyote spring ejection device will be available to eligible producers.
