THE OTHER NIGHT three couples were discussing how things used to be back in the old days and again we came to the conclusion that despite all of today's hassles, there are many ways in which we're much better off than our parents or grandparents were.

Most of these things have to do with material possessions and the way we do things. We talked about making homemade lye soap, about killing hogs and hanging meat in the storehouse, about putting the butter in a bucket and letting it down into the cistern to keep it cool, and about hanging some of the meat up on the north side of the windmill to keep it cool.

Most intriguing to me was R. J. Clark's comments about the hog-killing and the bacon which they kept around, and how you had to get all the "skippers" out of it. My wife asked what a skipper was, and kind of wished she hadn't, because that was a worm which liked bacon (and tasted like bacon, too, we understand). After hearing that, and how the rats ate the inside out of a beef that was hanging up in the smokehouse, we steered the conversation to daintier topics.

My mother used to tell us how there were so many cracks in some of those old houses that the wind would blow your hat off inside the house. Weldon Meador said he remembered sleeping in the old homes which had such cracks in the roof that you could see the stars.

All of that reminded me of the houses we lived in at Newport when I was a kid. Centipedes behind the wallpaper, tarantulas around the well on the back porch, and such as that. I remember we used to listen to the centipedes crawling behind the several layers of wallpaper, and try to hit them through the paper with a poker. And nowadays we all are horrified to see a little black bug in the house.

Those places we lived in were pretty bad. But they were paid for.

THE MAIN ST. LOONEY has this driving lesson for us: To drive a baby buggy, just tickle its little feet.

That's pretty bad, but here's one more story:

During a lecture on science, the instructor asked a student, "This gas contains poison. What steps would you take if it should by chance escape?"

"Long ones," came the reply.

Shower Honors Miss Ritchie

Miss Debbie Ritchie, bride-elect of Dewayne Phillips, was honored Friday, May 24 with a bridal shower in the Fellowship Hall of the Longview Baptist Church.

The serving table was laid with a lace and net cloth over orchid and centered with an orchid and purple floral and candle arrangement.

Miss Ritchie was presented a corsage made of kitchen gadgets.

SUBSCRIPTION INCREASE JUNE 1

Due to an increase in newsprint, supplies and printing, the subscription rate to The Sudan

Baseball

In baseball action Saturday night in the local park, the Jr. Babe Ruthers continued their winning ways and upped their record to 3-0. They defeated Roden Drug of Littlefield 7-1 behind the pitching of Jerry Williams who struck out 10 batters.

Roden Drug scored their only run in the first inning with the runner getting to first base on an error. They threatened later in the game when the runner stole two bases and almost stole home. However, the threat died on third out.

Billy Williams stole two bases for Sudan; Edgar Tamplin got two hits; Dennis Flowers singled as did Rick Hill; Joel Williams hit a homer and Kyle Martin hit two which scored three runners each time.

The locals will travel to Amherst Saturday night, June 1 for their next game after the May 31st game was cancelled due to graduation exercises here. The game will be rescheduled.

Anton tasted defeat here last Saturday night, May 18 when Sudan won 3-1. Winning pitcher was Kyle Martin.

A schedule may be found elsewhere in this paper.

The Sudan Dodgers of Little League lost their game here Saturday night to Amherst Cubs which gives them a winless season for the year. They are scheduled to play the Angels here Thursday at 5 p.m. instead of the regular time. Friday's game will also be played early with the Cubs there at 5 p.m. Tuesday's (May 28) game was postponed until a later date due to final exams.

The ALMO Babe Ruthers of Sudan were in Littlefield Saturday night and lost their first game of the season 3-0. Don Noles pitched for the locals.

Sudan boys played on the Amherst team last year but had enough boys to sign-up for their own team this year. They are coached by Henry Tamplin; Kenneth Noles, assistant. Uniforms were purchased by Farmers Coop Gin Assoc. and First National Bank. The team and coaches express their appreciation to these firms for their contribution and assistance.

Team members are Carroll Legg, Brian May, Tracy Bowling, Mitch Chester, Freddie Legg, Mark Hanna, Daryl Roberts, Curtis Chester, Richard Tamplin, Don Noles and Roby Lynn.

The hostess gift was a blender. Punch and cookies were served from crystal appointments with Mrs. Trish Lackey serving.

Guests were registered in the bride's book. Special guests were mothers of the bride-elect and prospective groom, Mrs. G. C. Ritchie and Mrs. Morris Phillips; the groom's sisters, Mrs. Darwin McBee of Morton and her daughter, Mitzie, and Mrs. Jerry Cox of Bula.

Students Build Victory Bell For SHS

The "victory bell" trailer for Sudan High School was built by the Ag III Class. The class consists of Tracy Bowling, Mitch Chester, David Aills, Mart Davison, Jim Fields; Craig Harper, Carroll Legg, Richard Tamplin, and the teacher, Don Ham.

The class would like to thank Mr. Dexter Baker for the loan of the bell. We understand that it is an old school bell that is over one hundred years old.

Much of the materials were donated to the school. Tracy donated the sheet metal bumpers and fenders; Mitch Chester donated the pipe for the frame; and the axle, hitch, paint and wheels were furnished by the school. Odds and ends were donated by others in the class.

The art work was done by Tracy Bowling with some help from Mitch Chester and others.

"This has been a class project and I feel that the class learned a lot in its construction and at the same time built something for the school", states Don Ham.

Tractor Driving Course Set June 4-7

A Tractor Safety Driving course will be held at the Amherst Vocational Agriculture Department June 4-7 by Advisors Don Ham of Sudan and Donald Booth of Amherst.

Tractor Driver Education is as important for young farmers as Drivers Education for young motorists according to Donald Booth. "One in five tractor deaths is to a young person between 10 and 20 years of age," he added.

The Amherst and Sudan Voc. Agriculture Departments are conducting the safety program in the Amherst Voc. Ag. building beginning at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, June 4. This course is sponsored by the Farm & Industrial Equipment Institute, the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Labor in the Agriculture Hazardous-Occupation Order pertaining to the employment of youth under age 16.

Any students, boys or girls, 14 years of age or older by July 1, 1974 is qualified to take the four-day course from 8:30 to 3:30 p.m. daily. Anyone interested in taking the course may do so by contacting Donald Booth or Don Ham.

The tractor safety program stresses learning about causes of accidents, rules for safe operation, passing a written test, and a driving test. Upon completion, the student will be awarded a certificate of training by the Division of Labor. This certificate serves the same purpose as a driver's license. If a student has had this course and is under 16, he will be eligible to hire out for farm work.

There will be no fee for the course.

Never Too Young to Cook

If you have young children around the house and you aren't teaching them to cook, you're missing the boat. Every child should learn enough about food preparation so that he can feed himself properly when he's on his own.

Girls soon realize they'll have to feed a family one day, and will need to know what cooking is all about. Boys may need some coaching from you. Not only are the great chefs of the world mostly men, you can tell them, but there are plenty of part-time jobs available to any young man who knows his way around a grill. This cooking skill could put him through college, or pay for his first car. Any teenage boy will get that message.

Teach children how to read a recipe, how to sift and measure ingredients, and how to mix various batters. You may want to start a young child out with prepared mixes for cakes and muffins, but sooner or later that child should have the experience of making cakes and cookies from scratch. Children love to watch Mommy baking something, and they'll be happy to assist. From here, it's just a step to having them do most of the mixing and baking with Mommy providing an occasional assist. Next, the kids can handle the whole process by themselves. Stay out of the kitchen (but don't leave the house.) And don't forget to teach your young cooks to clean up their dishes while their masterpiece is in the oven.

After learning to make a few of their favorite treats, the young cooks will be ready for the main course. They need to know how to put a whole meal on the table. (This could free you one night a week for some outside activity, which is a glorious fringe benefit.)

Introduce your children to casserole country. Teach them the principle of the one-dish dinner—a high-protein casserole plus salad and hot bread—and they can put together any number of nutritious meals that can be served proudly to anyone. To start them on their way to culinary fame, here's a very easy-to-make casserole based on Turkey Salad Spreadables from Carnation. Already seasoned, this delicious turkey salad is a foolproof ingredient.

QUICK TURKEY DIVAN
(Makes 2 servings)
1 cup well seasoned mashed potatoes
4-6 cooked, drained broccoli spears
7/8 ounce can Turkey Salad Spreadables
1/4 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Spread potatoes in bottom of 3 to 4-cup casserole. Place broccoli pin wheel-fashion over potatoes with stems to center. Spoon Turkey Salad into center of casserole covering all but heads of broccoli. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 15 minutes. Serve with hot rolls and fruit salad for a quick nutritious dinner.

REHEARSALS FOR "TEXAS" BEGAN SUNDAY MAY 26

On Sunday, May 26, the rehearsals will start for the ninth season of "Texas". Members of the cast and crew and hospitality staff - about 140 people - will gather in the Brading Iron Theatre on the campus of West Texas State University to meet the staff and directors of the production, to have their pictures taken, to discuss the business of the show and to receive their schedules for the next weeks. The cast rehearses 6 1/2 days a week, eight hours a day to get ready for the opening: singing, saying lines, blocking motion, and going through warm-up exercises so that each one will be able to run to his place on stage (sometimes a quarter of a mile from the dressing room) and to arrive calmly with enough stamina to sing or dance.

Seven actors and their accompanying cast of 73 more people, will open the ninth season of "Texas" in the Pioneer Amphitheatre in the Palo Duro Canyon State Park near Canyon and Amarillo, Texas on June 19, 1974. They will play nightly except Sundays through August 24, 1974. For tickets and information write to "Texas", Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015 or call 806-655-2182. Showtime is 8:30 p. m. CDST.

Coach Campbell presents Bobby Phillips with the History - Social Studies Award at the Awards program last Friday.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Farm-facts

Compiled From Sources Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

Texas Crops Doing Well... Livestock Export Pens Go Modern... Ear Ticks a Menace... Shortages Yet.

GRAIN SORGHUM is reported heading out from South Central Texas southward, and cotton is blooming in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, as most of Texas enjoyed good growing weather within the past week or 10 days. Planting of both grain sorghum and cotton is gaining momentum on the Low and High Plains. There was some hail damage in the Valley recently as there was on peaches in the Limestone and Freestone Counties areas. The rains slowed harvest of potatoes and cabbage in the San Antonio-Winter Garden area. Watermelons and cantaloups were beginning to come off in the Valley. Rice planting is almost complete in the State, compared with about 75 per cent at this time last year. Wheat and oat harvest is well underway.

THE TEXAS Department of Agriculture is now operating five new livestock export facilities at El Paso, Brownsville, Del Rio, Houston and Eagle Pass, and the sixth and final installation authorized by the legislature will be built at Laredo. Texans who have not visited one of the facilities would be interested to see what has been happening in the livestock exporting business which adds millions to the economy each year. Everything has been done at the facilities to make it easier and safer to handle animals and to prevent the export or import of diseased animals. The loading and unloading chutes may be raised or lowered hydraulically, and vats for dipping cattle also are movable. The strong-built pens, all under a roof, have concrete floors and curbs that make cleaning easier. Office space and laboratories also are at each location. The El Paso and Brownsville facilities are the most recent to go into operation of the five now in use. Commissioner John C. White reported that 33,000 head of livestock went through the Houston, Del Rio and Eagle Pass facilities between April and December, 1973.

A REMINDER: Watch out for ear ticks which are making a strong comeback, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Entomologists say that the ticks are being found in greater numbers because of favorable weather and neglect of control measures. And ear ticks can cause an increase in screwworm infestations. In 1973, 80 per cent of screwworm cases in 14 South Texas counties were attributed to ear ticks. The ticks, sometimes called Gulf Coast tick, flourish within 100 miles of the Coast.

FUEL SITUATIONS are reported very tight in Donley, Archer, Lamb, and Comanche Counties, but no Texas counties reported critical situations. Hay baling is getting underway in some Texas counties, and 88 counties have reported short supplies of baling wire, and 66 counties reported short supplies of twine. Other shortages that may affect Texas farmers have been reported in both wood and steel-fence posts, barbed wire, herbicides, machinery parts, and tractor and machinery tires.

TEXAS CATTLE on feed totaled 2,072,000 head May 1, which is four per cent lower than a year ago; 392,000 head of fat cattle were sold in April, which was 11 per cent above April, 1973. In seven cattle growing States (Texas, Arizona, California, Colorado, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas), there were 8,351,000 head on feed as of May 1, compared to 8,803,000 head a year ago and 9,321,000 head on feed a month before. In April, 245,000 head went into Texas feedlots.

Women's Intuition, Curiosity Valuable

That Sixth Sense—intuition—which everyone ought to know women have in abundance, is being recognized as a valuable asset in the investigative field.

Pinkerton's, Inc., an investigative firm, is recruiting women in its 105 offices across the United States. The applicants being sought will be investigators, store detectives, uniformed guards, airport security personnel, and campus patrol guards.

One basic qualification required for entering the security field, according to Pinkerton's, seems to be "curiosity." And, as everybody also ought to know, curiosity is as instinctive to a woman as intuition.

ESSAYS BY LOCAL YOUTH FOR AWARDS

Below are essays written by local youth in competition for the Second Annual Outstanding Youth award presented by ESA. The three finalists were Diana Gardner, winner, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Doug Gardner and a seventh grader in local schools; Traci Cowart, seventh grader and daughter of Mrs. Donnie Cowart; and Sherri Read, ninth grader and daughter of Principal and Mrs. Dale Read. They were given a subject and 30 minutes in which to write.

A COMMUNITY ACTIVITY
By Diana Gardner
A citywide basketball team would be a great project for the community. The city could be divided into teams and the different teams could play each other for the championship.

They could play by men's rules. The teams wouldn't be just men or women, but they would be both. The teams could each have about ten or twelve players ranging from seventh grade to adult.

The rules would be strictly enforced by the youth not on teams. Also, those not on teams would be in charge of the concession stand.

The championship would go to the one winning the most games. Then, there would be two All-Star Teams, who would play against each other in the final game. The winning All-Star team would receive a trophy bearing these words: This trophy is given to this All-Star Team, not because of their looks, their great muscles, or their intelligence, but because they succeeded in beating all those they played. Along with the trophy they would receive forty percent of the profits made off of the concession stand. The trophy would be placed in the Sudan Hornet trophy case. Those not participating would really be missing a wonderful experience. This experience would be both fun and rewarding.

ANYONE FOR SOME SUMMER FUN
By Traci Cowart
The way most towns begin their summers is with the opening of a swimming pool, but since Sudan doesn't have a swimming pool it's kind of hard to start it that way. Even though I think it would be worth the while to have one. So many kids along with the parents would be glad to have one in Sudan. The parents would probably be glad to get the kids out of the house for awhile at least. But not only the kids would enjoy it but also the grown-ups.

If the expenses were to high for a pool the town might like a recreation center where you could go daily and make odds and ends. It would be educational and lots of fun. If your talents weren't painting or knitting maybe a All Sports Clinic would do. Boys and girls could participate. Things like track, baseball, basketball, football or even a cheerleading center. I'm sure at least 3/4 of Sudan's youth enjoy sports half as much as I do. The youth that thought they were to old could give tips to the younger in age. This way everyone could get in on the fun. Maybe you could even invite other towns. We could make new friends and start a pen pal club. To make sure the grown-ups don't get jealous of all the excitement they could maybe supervise or coach teams at the end of the summer. Anyway you look at it you wouldn't want to leave anyone out.

By Sherri Read
I think if there were more activities for the youth in Sudan, it would keep a lot more kids out of trouble. In the summer if you want to do anything, you have to go to either Muleshoe, Littlefield or Lubbock. That's fine for the older youth, but when you're a freshman, you can't go all these places because you have no driver's license. I think Sudan needs some place where the youth can go and talk and just have a good time. Besides, with the energy crisis and all, riding around every Friday and Saturday night can sure eat up your money fast. I'm not saying we begin three or four new projects for the youth, I'm saying maybe pick one or two projects or things (or places) the Sudan youth as a whole would be interested in. Such as a show, swimming pool, drive in, or bowling alley. Any of these would be an asset to the youth. Or at least I feel they would.

The boys will probably tell you they have a place where they can go—the pool hall. But what girls would want to spend a Saturday night shooting a game of pool?

We need something which everyone can enjoy. The things I listed as possibilities not only the youth could enjoy, but so could everyone in Sudan.

I think if we put a big emphasis on making money for a certain kind of new recreation here in Sudan, the kids would all do their share to make sure it went over.

I know any new kind of recre-

Improvements in OSHA Urged by Manufacturers

Employers are "overwhelmed by the volume and complexity of Occupational Safety and Health Administration standards and regulations," according to E. Douglas Kenna, president, National Association of Manufacturers.

In a keynote address at the first annual conference of Occupational Hazards Magazine, Mr. Kenna suggested an immediate government investigation to amend or revoke Federal standards which bear little relevance to occupational safety and health and require huge expenditures for questionable benefits.

He also suggested that the comment period on proposed new rules should be extended to 90 days rather than the present 30-day period.

Commending the administrators of OSHA for resisting the urgings of organized labor and others "to bring a centralized and punitive philosophy to enforcement of the law," Mr. Kenna also suggested that:

- OSHA should be required to publish an economic impact statement with the publication of each rule, to indicate probable costs of compliance.
- Mandatory penalties for first-instance serious violations should be made discretionary, and discretionary penalties for first-instance non-serious violations should be dropped altogether to encourage corrective action.
- Overlap of OSHA jurisdiction with other federal agencies such as the Department of Transportation, the Coast Guard, and the Food and Drug Administration should be reviewed now to relieve frustrations of employers faced with conflicting federal orders.

- The Department of Labor should offer employers on-site consultative services by qualified safety engineers and industrial hygienists.
- OSHA compliance officers should be required to advise employers that Small Business Administration (SBA) loans are available to assist in remedying health or safety violations.

Mr. Kenna pointed out that the health and safety record of American industry has been remarkable, with the on the job death rate declining more than 50 per cent since 1938. He expressed the belief that continued application of space-age systems analysis techniques to safety will result in even further employe safety improvements.

Average hourly earnings in private nonagricultural production and nonsupervisory jobs was $4.02 in January, 6.6 per cent above the year before, according to the U.S. Council of Economic Advisers.

The Afton Star Valley Independent in Wyoming editorializes that, "In retrospect, the concrete accomplishments of private enterprise that have given the country so much over the past century or more could begin to look pretty good compared to empty political promises of perpetual prosperity and abundance for all."

A Southern superstition warns that you should never put a letter in your girl friend's left hand, or your friendship will come to an end... on a bad note!

In Surrey, England, some people still believe that too much lettuce in the kitchen garden will prevent the young wife from having children!
