COMMENTS LAST WEEK about the South Plains Fair drew more response than expected. Several business people told us they agreed wholeheartedly, and the eighth graders in Slaton Junior High are holding back part of what they intended to spend at the fair to buy tar and feathers for me.

Actually, most of the class wasn't that upset, but the general opinion of the kids (predictably) was that the fair is great, the money is their own to spend any way they want to, and besides, they like the idea of getting out of school part of the day.

Well, any youngster who didn't like to get out of school at every opportunity and who didn't like to go on the rides at the midway certainly wouldn't be normal. And really, we weren't advocating that the fair be discontinued. The point is simply that it does hurt business, and that some of the activities at the fair would be better left off, because they aren't worth what people pay for them.

Anyway, the only reason I bring this up again is to quote some of the letters we received from the eighth graders. The teachers had the class members write a brief statement of why they agree or disagree with the things we mentioned last week. Surprisingly to me, of the 110 letters, 31 of them agreed. But I found the letters interesting, regardless of whether they agreed or disagreed with what I said. And some of the youngsters made some very good points to support their views.

So, you young people, let me say this: I appreciate your comments. And if you have gone to the fair, I sincerely hope you had a good time. I like to have fun, even though I don't care for fairs.

Here are just a few of the comments from the students:

"I do not agree with Mr. Wood. I know it takes away from businesses, but the fair only comes once a year and they don't suffer that much. Kids don't spend much money. And the fair is for fun, so it don't hurt."

"I do not agree with Mr. Wood. The kids have something to look forward to every year. I do not agree because kids are cooped up in school everyday so with the fair you're able to get out and enjoy yourself. I do not agree with him because at this time of year there is nothing else to do."

"I don't agree with Mr. Wood. Anyway, Slaton has always been able to manage it. Other people may want to have a fair and if he doesn't, he doesn't have to go. The money is yours, not his."

"I don't agree with Mr. Wood. Because there's only one thing the kids have to look forward to, it's the fair. It's fun to go with your friends and girl friends. Because it's fun to blow your money."

"I don't agree with Mr. Wood. The fair has been going on for several years, and Slaton has managed to survive. Shopping and entertainment take a lot of money from Slaton's economy and give it to Lubbock, also. The fair, as far as I'm concerned, is a kind of tradition to be looked forward to, along with Christmas and Halloween, and I haven't heard too many complaints against them."

"I agree with Mr. Wood. The people who take the money cheat us. Last year my brother was trying to throw a ball in a basket. Everytime he made it, the man said he didn't throw it right."

"I don't agree with him. He shouldn't worry what other people do with their money. He should just spend his money like he wants. And forget about everybody else."

"I agree with Dalton Wood. All they are there for is to get your money. The food that they sell makes people sick."

"I don't agree. The kids should get to spend their money on what they want to. The old people like to watch the exhibits. The adults like to listen to the singers sing. So I don't think that it's any of his business."

"I do agree, because it's nothing but a hijack."

"I disagree with Dalton Wood. I disagree because the fair comes to entertain people. And the small communities do not have to go if they don't want to spend money. I think Mr. Wood just doesn't like to have fun or spend money on things for his daughters. He should not go against the fair. Because I happen to like the fair very much, and I don't care if he approves of the fair or not. I just might go every night."

So there.

The Sudan Hornets now stand 2-2 for the football season as they edged an old district foe from Class A Friday night, the Springlake-Earth Wolverines, by a score of 16-14 in the local stadium. This was the second win in as many years for the Hornets who came from behind in the fourth quarter to score the touchdown on a quarterback sneak by Mitch Chester from the one yard line. The play began from the 17 following a Wolverine mishandling of the ball on a 60 yard punt by Craig Pickett, and recovery by Luther Robinson.

Sudan received the opening kickoff to get the game under way. Both teams put out a good defensive effort and held until the end of the quarter when Springlake-Earth put the first tally on the score board with 1:57 playing time left after a blocked Sudan punt. Their PAT was good and the quarter ended 7-0.

In the second quarter, Sudan had several long runs made possible by the blocking and opening up of holes by the line, and determined efforts of the ball carriers. Sudan's Danny Williams scored after a 57 yard drive on a six yard run with 6:51 showing on the clock. Richard Tamplin kicked the PAT. The Hornets then held the Wolverines who had to punt and after more exchanges. Sudan moved the football near the 20 yard line with time running out. With 30 seconds left in the half, Sudan's Richard Tamplin's try for a field goal was good and when the buzzer sounded they went to the dressing room with a 10-7 lead.

The Hornets moved the ball well in the third quarter picking up numerous first downs but could not score. The Wolverine Jake Miller scored late in the quarter and the try for extra point was also good to put them in the lead again with 1:26 left.

The Sudan TD in the final period of play ended the scoring for the night. The TD was scored early with 10:05 into the quarter and a Springlake-Earth Wolverine got his hands on the PAT to knock it down. The final score was 16-14, Sudan, and gave the Wolverines a 1-3 win-loss record for the season.

Coach Jackie Stewart's comments on the game were: "The Hornets gave a good effort to win the game. They played a good game on defense. Springlake had a larger team than we expected."

Our offensive line did a good job of blocking all night long, and the two halfbacks, Richard Tamplin and Kyle Martin did a good job of blocking for Danny Williams. Danny had his best game of the year with 158 yards in 30 carries.

Springlake-Earth had a good offensive ball club that was capable of scoring from anywhere on the field. We loosened up on defense in the middle so that we could contain their outside game and it worked for us. Our defensive ends Haldon Messamore and Craig Harper played better than they have all year and it helped us contain them.

Steve Richards was having a great ball game until he got hurt. He was a sophomore who was really starting to play for us. He received pulled ligaments and will be out for the next few weeks. He will be greatly missed.

In summing up the game, I was proud that the team never gave up and came back to win after being behind twice in the game. Our last two games have showed great improvement and we hope to continue to improve as we start district play this week when we host

WESTERN AUTO MULESHOE

MRS. LARRY DAN BAKER

Vows Pledged

Mary Kay Matthews and Larry Dan Baker exchanged wedding vows Saturday night, September 28, at 7:30 in the First United Methodist Church, Littlefield.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Odell Matthews, Littlefield, and Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Baker Sr., Sudan.

Rev. Eddie Freeman, pastor of the Sudan First Baptist Church read the double ring vows before the communion table decorated with three large arrangements of pink gladioli with a deeper pink shade of king asters. Pre-lighted globed candles and globed candle trees and greenery flanked the altar and glowed in the stained glass windows of the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of silk organza fashioned with peau d'ange lace band insertion around the high Victorian neckline. The same trim continued down the front sides of the bodice and skirt and around the hemline. The full bishop sleeves had deep lace cuffs.

Her matching bridal veil was bordered with lace and attached to a camelot cap and chapel length veil of illusion.

For something old, the bride wore Mrs. Bruce Reagan's original wedding band. Her something new was the wedding gown; something borrowed were pearl earrings from her sister-in-law, Sherry Matthews; and she wore the traditional blue garter. In her shoe, she wore pennies minted in the years of the couple's births.

The bride carried a tapered bouquet of white miniature carnations, stephanotis and English ivy atop her white Rainbow Bible.

Maid of honor was Brenda Hopper of Littlefield, and bridesmaids were Kim Wood of Littlefield and Sherry Matthews of Irving. They wore floor length gowns in the bride's chosen colors. The skirts of candy pink flared from a fitted empire waistline to wide flowing hemlines. The low square necked bodices were covered with horizontal rows of white lace embroidered with pink roses. This lace was repeated in the full puffed elbow length sleeves. Bow tied velvet sashes matched their headpieces. Each carried a bouquet of pink asters and baby's breath entwined with matching satin and English ivy.

Lisa and Leslie Dutton of Las Cruces, N.M. presented wedding guests with pink ribbon-tied memory scrolls and rice bags. Their dresses were identical to those of the maid of honor and bridesmaids.

Patricia Conway of Littlefield registered guests in the pink and white bride's book which she gave the bride for graduation.

Brad West of Sudan was best man. Groomsmen were Gary Edwards and Brent Whiteaker of Sudan.

Ushers were Reagan Baker of Spearman, cousin of the groom, and Bobby Matthews of Irving, brother of the bride.

Traditional wedding selections were provided by Lisa Garland, organist, who accompanied soloist Jan Sisson who sang "More", and the "Wedding Prayer" when the couple knelt at the altar on a satin-covered kneeling bench.

Ushered by her son, the bride's mother wore a fitted formal length gown of pink on white floral design interwoven with threads of silver. A narrow band of seed pearls and rhinestones accented the neckline and the wrists of long pink chiffon sleeves. She wore a white orchid and carried a single rose presented by her daughter as she approached the altar.

The groom's mother chose a blue formal gown. Her

By Mrs. Dan Gerber Although "times are a changin'" one thing never does: the love and attention devoted to a new baby. Yet, with the fast-paced life abounding today, active mothers are seeking new ways to save time. Consider for example, just how convenient the supermarket baby department is for you mothers.

Over the years, the number of baby-oriented products has grown by leaps and bounds until now there are extensive shelves of them, filling a vital area in every supermarket. Busy mothers can save extra stops (and extra gasoline!) by picking up strained and junior baby foods, Toddler Meals, cereals, juices, formula, diapers, vinyl pants, bibs, knitwear, nursing aid products and baby toiletries at the same time as they shop for groceries and other household needs.
