KNOTHOLES: After his team's getting the first Slaton football victory since last year, Coach Eddie Cook probably could be elected mayor. . . . And right now, John Landrath might vote for him. . . . A lot of folks around here who have suffered long at the hands of Denver City would give much to see us win Friday night. Last year's 14-7 loss was the closest Slaton ever has come to DC, which has scored 519 points in 12 games against the Tigers, who have scored 51. Only once have the Tigers ever scored more than a single TD against DC, and that was in 1966, when the Mustangs won 24-13. . . . The Fat Frau on Fifth St. says the best way to lose weight is to develop a belief in some religion that doesn't allow any fun. . . .

. . . World's Lions Day is Oct. 8, and Gov. Dolph Briscoe has proclaimed a statewide observance. District 2-T2 Lions Governor Hack Lasater of Slaton says every club in the district is planning some sort of observance, also. "There'll be something going on in every club in the district that day," he said.

HORNETS DEFEAT PATRIOTS, 22-13

The Sudan Hornets are still on the winning route with their first district victory of the year here Friday night. They held on to a 22 point halftime lead to win by a score of 22-13 over Valley Patriots.

GAME AT A GLANCE
SUDAN	VALLEY
208 Rush Yds.	243
2/6/59 Passing	2/12/4
11 1st Downs	13
3/3 Fumbles Rec.	3/2
7/60 Penalties	4/25
3/34 Punt Avg.	5/29
267 Total Yds.	247

The Hornets elected to receive the opening kickoff and scored their first touchdown of the night after a 75 yard drive. Danny Williams plunged over from the three at 7:50 into the game. The PAT kick was blocked. The Hornets led 6-0 at the end of the first period of play. . . .

Shortly into the second quarter, the locals took a short punt by Valley on the Patriots' 46. The Hornet drive ended with a TD by Kyle Martin on a six yard run at 8:48. Martin also made the run for the two point conversion. The score now was 14-0, Sudan. With 24 seconds left in the half, Valley gambled on a fourth down play which failed. Then Sudan began passing and scored again, on a 36 yard double reverse pass from QB Mitch Chester to Craig Pickett with four seconds left. . . .

Monday, Oct. 14—Weiners in barbecue sauce, pear salad, cream potatoes, rolls, milk, butter. . . .

Tuesday—Pizza, lettuce/tomato salad, blackeye peas, jello with fruit, milk. . . .

Wednesday—Brown beans, potato salad, cornmeal bread, pineapple pudding, milk. . . .

Thursday—Beef-vegetable stew/crackers, cinnamon rolls, cheese slices, milk. . . .

Friday—Fish portions/tartar sauce, steamed rice, green beans, rolls, milk, syrup cups. . . .

The down people did a good job of getting the passer and when he did throw, we had someone on the receiver. . . .

We did not play a good second half. Valley has been a second half ball club all year and they really proved it against us. They didn't give up. We expected them to come back passing like they had all year, but they didn't. We played a looser defense because of that fact, and they hurt us with some long runs. . . .

The Hornets go to Happy Friday and will play at a different time, 7:30 p. m. instead of 8:00 as in previous games. . . .

The JV will go to Seagraves to play at 5:00 p. m., and the junior high team will play Sundown here at 5:30 p. m. both games on Thursday (today). . . .

The JV team eked out a win last Thursday against Farwell, 12-6. The Sudan team scored once in each half and controlled the ball during the whole first quarter with the exception of two plays. And they more or less controlled the ball all during the last half. Able to score were Edgar Tampin and Joel Williams with the help of the other Hornets. They now stand 1-1-3 for the season. . . .

The local junior high team lost to host Ropesville 28-0. . . .

CENSUS TO BE TAKEN

A sample of households in this area will take part in the Federal Government's annual survey on education to be taken the week of October 14-18 by the Bureau of the Census.

Percy R. Millard, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Dallas, said that interviewers will visit homes to obtain information about the number of school years completed by household members. There will also be questions about the number of children attending nursery school or kindergarten.

Questions on education will be in addition to those asked regularly in the monthly survey on employment conducted nationwide by the Bureau for the U. S. Department of Labor.

The survey provides a continuing measure of conditions in the labor force. The August survey found the Nation's employment situation little changed from July. The unemployment rate was 5.4 percent, up slightly from 5.3 percent the month before. Total employment was 86.2 million, practically unchanged for the past two months and up only 375,000 since January. About 50,000 households across the country, scientifically selected to represent a cross section of American households, take part in this monthly survey. All information provided the Bureau is confidential by law and can be published only as statistical totals in which no individual or household can be identified.

you get it all with

NATURAL ENERGY Gas Heating

Fresh, warm air gently circulating from floor to ceiling... so nice to take for granted. Comfort is clean gas heat.

And that dependable comfort is such a bargain here in West Texas. Though gas energy costs a little more than it use to, gas furnaces still cost less than one-third as much to operate as similar electric furnaces.

And at the same time you're saving money with gas heating, you can also have a warm feeling knowing that you're helping conserve energy. Gas heating uses only half as much energy as an electric system doing the same job.

Comfort, efficiency, and economy... you get it all with natural energy gas heating.

COTTON TALKS

The U.S. Department of Agriculture on October 2 rendered use of the Commodity Credit Corporation loan in 1974 slightly less attractive to producers of agricultural commodities, according to Donald A. Johnson, Executive Vice President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

USDA announced October 2 that the interest rate on CCC loans after that date would be 9.375 per cent, up 2.125 per cent from the 7.250 per cent announced on March 8 of this year and 3.875 per cent above the 5.5 per cent interest charge on 1973 crop loans.

Johnson said this changes previous PCG calculations which showed the necessity for a .302 cent per pound per month price increase from the date of loan to date of sale if use of the loan was not to result in a loss. This "break-even point" allowed for 75 cents per month storage charge and 70 cents per month interest on a loan of $115.20 per bale, or a total cost of $1.45 per bale per month.

Using the same loan value per bale and the new interest rate, the monthly interest charge would come to 90 cents per bale instead of 70 cents. Thus, since the storage charge is not expected to change, the total cost of carrying cotton beyond harvest would be $1.65 per month and the break-even price increase per month becomes, .3437 cents per pound.

Under the anniversary date loan regulations instituted in 1971, growers can retain control of cotton up to 12 months under the CCC loan. CCC will forgive up to two months' storage charges at the time the loan is made, and the loan doesn't mature until 10 months after the first day of the month in which the loan is executed.

The difference in the break-even point under the higher interest charge on cotton held 10 months, for example, is only .417 cents per pound, less than one-half cent.

"But on 100 bales," Johnson cautions, "it could mean the difference between breaking even, losing over $2,000 more, or realizing over $2,000 less gain." ***

In the event of any early frost or freeze, application of a defoliant or desiccant on this year's cotton crop will be of no benefit, and with normal October weather and a normal frost of freeze date, loss of yield and micronaire is inevitable.

This is the consensus of experienced High Plains cotton research people at the Texas A&M Research & Extension Center with regard to all but a very small percentage of area cotton. Dr. Bob Metzger, Cotton Specialist with the Texas A&M Extension Service, now at College Station, says "My recommendation is to stay out of these fields with any type of harvest aid chemical or topping equipment," and adds, "This is certainly an area where money should not be spent." Before moving to College Station, Metzger was Area Cotton Specialist for the Lubbock research center for over seven years.

According to Dr. Lavon Ray, a veteran of over 25 years of cotton study at the Lubbock center, some area farmers with green, sappy cotton are thinking that a moderate amount of defoliation will allow more sunlight penetration and hasten maturity of full size bolls. "And this thinking is not totally erroneous," he admits, "except that the degree of defoliation achieved with chemicals is near impossible to control."

A light defoliation is equal to a light frost, a heavy defoliation is equal to a hard frost, and the application of chemicals may well produce one effect when the other was anticipated, Ray says.

Furthermore, Dr. Metzger points out that in most cases wilt, wet weather and leaf blight are already causing considerable leaf drop, and additional defoliation is not advisable unless and until the crop is mature.

Years of research have proven that defoliation before 65 per cent of the bolls are open, or discation before 80 per cent or more are open, will adversely affect lint yield and micronaire. "And this year is no exception," Metzger contends.

From August 11 to September 25 of this year the High Plains crop made very little progress toward maturity. Warm, sunny weather is often scarce during the remainder of the growing season, which makes it all the more important, Metzger says, "that we leave our cotton in such condition that it will take advantage of any good weather that may occur before frost."
