FIFTIETH YEAR NUMBER 40

SUDAN, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS

WOODWORK

THE OTHER day I picked up a copy of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and when I found the comic section. When I turned to the last page, instead of a comic strip, I found a full page ad, mostly in little type, containing about a zillion words on the subject of a kind of super-fantastic system of staying healthy. It was a pretty bad presentation.

After I looked it over for 30 minutes or so, I remembered that someone had called my attention to the same thing some months ago in the comic section of the Lubbock Landslide-Diary, and it was in the A-J again last week, I think. I don't remember who it was that asked me to read it, but I do remember that I never did get it all read then, either. There was just more information there than the human mind could absorb.

I never was sure just what it was they wanted us to do, but I think it was a pitch to buy a book or something. The whole idea was, as I understood it, that if you would adopt this system (which had something to do with Vermont), you'd lose ugly pounds, never have colds, and maybe never die.

Somewhere in there, I got the idea that the main thing you're supposed to do is eat a mixture of honey and coal oil, or honey and something, instead of all the stuff we normally eat, which either has too much or too little carbohydrates, I forget which.

(All the carbohydrates I consume must surely come under some other name, since I'd never knowingly eat anything with a name like that).

So if you want to be slim and trim, and fit as a fiddle, and ready to go nine rounds with Cassius Clay, and live forever, just leave all that old steak and French fries and beans and cornbread and chocolate pie and ice cream alone and take a big mouthful of honey and Vick's salve (or whatever "it" was that was supposed to go with the honey) every day.

There are some things worse than death.

Besides, I want everyone to like me. People who stay slim and trim and never have colds are impossible to live with, because they spend all their time telling everyone else how they got that way. ("I don't smoke or drink, and I don't eat anything but honey and ketchup, and I run 16 miles every afternoon and do 76 pushups, and I'm the healthiest 42-year-old guy in West Texas, and if you'd do like me, you'd be healthy and pretty, too, instead of such a slob. . .")

So, most of us would rather be likeable slob.

Mary Ann Bellar, Sudan FFA Chapter Sweetheart, will compete for District Sweetheart in Muleshoe on Monday, Nov. 25, at the Littlefield District Banquet. She will be competing with "sweethearts" from other FFA chapters in the Littlefield district. The winner of this competition will compete for Area I Sweetheart at Tulsa at a later date.

ROUNDBALL SEASON OPENS

Basketball season officially opened for Sudanites this week when the teams at Sudan High School played their first games here Tuesday night, winning two and losing two. The Hornets won over visiting Whiteface 56-13 after having led by as many as eight points at the close of the first quarter. In fact, they led throughout the game, 35-29, half, and 45-43 at the start of the final period of play. Tamplin paced the locals with 19 points and Luther Robinson was runner-up with 14. The teams were called for numerous walks, as were other teams during their games for the night. However, with the season young, perhaps that problem can be solved. Sudan had seven walks, one lane violation, 15 steals, led the ball 10 times, caused nine mistakes, had five offensive rebounds and 18 on defense.

The Hornets had a cold night having trouble hitting the basket in their 40-33 loss

HARPER GROWS BIG TURNIPS, RADISHES

This seems to be the year for turnips and greens with many in the community sharing with their neighbors and friends. The reason for the abundance may have been due to the plentiful rainfall of the past few months. A turnip grown by L. M. Harper who lives some five miles southwest of Sudan was reported to have weighed four and three fourths pound and 21 inches around.

Harper has also grown some large radishes this fall. A white radish grew to 11 inches long and a red radish to 14 inches around the middle and were found at Fay & Save Grocery, Sudan, in the fresh vegetables.

Harper is one of many to share his harvest with friends.

On April 20-25 of next year, the 51 state Family Leaders of Tomorrow will gather in Washington, D. C., for an expense-paid educational tour of the capital city and Williamsburg, Va. Personal observation and interviews of the state winners during the tour will be added factors in the selection of the 1975 Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow and three runners-up. Scholarships awarded to the four national winners will be for $5,000, $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000. A $1,000 Nutrition Scholarship is also awarded to a student planning a college major in nutrition or a related field.

More than nine million students have been enrolled in the Betty Crocker Search since its beginning in the 1954-55 school year. With this year's grants, total scholarships awarded will exceed $2 million.

to Whiteface who they defeated 38-35 last week at Whiteface. They scored only four points to seven for the visitors in the first quarter who were held by the fine defensive effort by the Sudan guards. Mary Ann Bellar led Sudan with 12 points, Phyllis Ray had 9, Kay Tamplin 4 and Sharon Burton 8. Three Sudan guards fouled out and one forward was in foul trouble, with a Whiteface forward fouling out. Whiteface fans were held scoreless the entire third quarter and Sudan went ahead 22-21. Toni Smith led Whiteface with 20 points. Sudan made seven out of 13 free throw attempts to 18 of 39 for Whiteface, and committed 26 fouls to 18 for the visitors.

In junior varsity girls' action Sudan came from behind at halftime to win the game 40-38. Terri Chester hit the nets for 12 points followed by Lori Harper who scored 10 points.

Whiteface won the JV boys game by a score of 45-28. Edgar Tamplin was high scorer for Sudan with 10 and Brad Pierce had 9. Junior Lopez led Whiteface with 11 and Rodney Cooper had 10.

Army ROTC Newsboat

Although Donald Cain, an 18-year-old freshman, attends classes at Penn State University this year, he and his family are not concerned about rising tuition costs.

Donald is one of thousands of young men and women attending college through Army ROTC four-year scholarships.

Donald's scholarship pays for his tuition, textbooks, lab fees and other educational expenses. Additionally, he receives $100 a month up to 10 months of each school year.

The Army ROTC program blends officer training with civilian academic pursuits and is available at 291 colleges and universities across the country.

Donald hopes to become a physician. Because he was awarded a scholarship, the high cost of pre-medical training won't be an obstacle in his career path. As he noted, "If I don't make it to medical school or I change my mind, I have a job waiting for me after graduation in the field I was trained in at college." In today's tight economy a guaranteed job is an important consideration for any career-minded person.

If a student, after his military obligation is completed, decides on a civilian career, his managerial and leadership skills learned through Army ROTC give him a competitive advantage over his peers. An ROTC graduate can also pursue a part-time military career in the Army Reserve or National Guard, if he desires.

To be eligible for one of the Army's ROTC scholarships, the student must be 17 years old by October 1 of the year the scholarship is effective, be able to complete all the requirements for a commission and a college degree and be under 25 years of age on June 30th of the year of graduation, meet certain physical and character standards, and agree to serve either in the regular Army or one of its reserve components.

Four-year scholarship winners incur a four year obligation in the active Army.

"Don't cut the pile and increase wear and tear on carpets", according to television hostess Cindy Kidwell of the "You Can Do It!" series.

Lessons in this week's half-hour program will cover carpet care when "What's Afoot in Carpet Care" airs Saturday, November 23, 1974 at 4:30 p. m. on KIBK-TV CHANNEL 13.

Sponsored locally by the Lamb County Family Living Committee and KIBK-TV, the 13-part educational television series was created and produced by home economists with the Texas Ag-
