TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Thoughts make a flameless white heat to andirons of a wretched hour. They are coals that will not cool until the heart is made to swim in the fiery water of its blisters. When the thick mist of forgetfulness has blown into the ashes until the last scintilla has vanished, then the gravity to importance loses its power.

Winds of spring are playing their harps in the high Texas skies. Yellow buttercups are dancing on the green carpet of prairie and the mockingbirds have returned to spend another honeymoon beneath the secret-keeping stars. Creation perfected the restoration of beauty in the magic cycle of seasons.

Cracking whip of time has driven many weary years thru the gates of memory since my mother planted the lilac bushes whose fragrance returns each spring to pay tribute to her memory. Only the things we do for love of beauty and truth are eternal.

Frequently the inebriate believes everyone soaked in the stupor of liquor but himself. My problem is not affected by the assumption except to hope that my case is not on isolated one; that I may merely suffer from absent-mindedness. During two instances in one week I placed my felt house shoes on the wrong feet. If it happens again I shall begin running from soft-spoken men attired in white suits.

It is much easier to make a mistake than admit it, and a hundred times easier than to attempt to explain it.

Restless with their heritage of duty to shade the verdant lawn with shadows from moonlight and sun, the purple oaks fence with the wind. The hands that planted the saplings in soil are still now in surrender to the slow process of damp, cool clay. Lost in the abysmal memories that ebb and flow on the shore of home, the lonely wife walks among the trees and soft, young leaves brush her cheek.

Whoever borrows from love has a debt which refuses to be ignored. Likewise he may continue to receive statements after the principal and much interest have been paid.

Looking at the fall, leafless trees, his eyes were like rusty bottle caps hammered into the pavement and his face was the wilted flower of a dead dream, limp and pale. He pulled a thin coat tighter about his stooped shoulders and tried to button it with numb and bony hands. A chilled and timorous wind stirred the trees and the man shuddered. The past was dwarfed beside the towering branches and the years were like furrows in an abandoned field. Long winter shadows were on the same ridge when he and the fair-haired girl had dug the holes and planted the twigs. She had laughed and hugged him after each little tree was planted. Time was beating the glowing seconds on an anvil and the man closed his eyes; the trees had grown so great and strong, their roots in the soil of a sacred love.

Astonishing Criticisms Of Red Cross Activities At Texas City

Basil O'Connor, Chairman of the American Red Cross, described as astonishing criticisms of Red Cross relief activities attributed to Mayor J. C. Trahan of stricken Texas City, Texas.

In a statement released Chairman O'Connor said: "In the face of one of the most impressive experiences in Red Cross disaster experience of community, state, and national cooperation to meet the needs of those overwhelmed, I feel sure this local criticism comes as a complete shock to all those who have helped so valiantly throughout this frightful emergency. To those of us who have been in constant touch with this situation such a statement is astonishing.

"Within an hour after the initial explosion on April 16 local Red Cross chapter disaster committees were on the job. The National Red Cross as well as nearby chapters were quick to respond to the ill-fated community's call for help.

"In disaster relief operations there is a clear line of demarcation between Red Cross and governmental responsibilities. In this

Electrification To Be Extended To A Million Farms

Electrification, a revolutionary force in American agriculture, will be extended to a million and a half additional farms in the near future, Arthur Bartlett stated in an article appearing today in Steelways magazine, published by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

All but the most isolated or most hopelessly sub-marginal farms would be reached by power lines within the next ten years, perhaps considerably sooner, the article predicted.

The electrification of a million and one half farms is expected to require $300,000,000 in wiring and $600,000,000 in power line construction. In addition, will provide a market for some $1,800,000 in electrical appliances and equipment.

Pointing out that two and a half times as many farms are electrified today as in 1938, the magazine said that the tremendous expansion in rural electrification had been made possible by the development of compound steel conductors. These conductors, combining steel for greater tensile strength and other metals for good electrical conductivity, have made possible lighter but stronger construction of power transmission lines, cutting construction costs from about $1,500 to around $750 per mile of line.

case the Red Cross has gone beyond its customary functions by reason of the magnitude of this catastrophe.

"In its role as the nation's official disaster relief agency, the governor of Texas designated the Red Cross to take charge of the relief work to individuals and families affected and from the outset, state and federal teamwork and cooperation have been magnificent.

"The Red Cross is dealing not only with the needs of the individual families affected, but is actively seeking every other possible means of providing assistance to the stricken community. Since the first day of the disaster, the Red Cross has staffed the relief operation with scores of its trained area and national disaster workers to assist the hundreds of able chapter volunteers.

"As far as I am concerned all those who have joined hands in bringing out of chaos deserve praise instead of criticism, and I am amazed at the unfortunate utterances attributed to the Texas City mayor.

"The rehabilitation phase of this relief job is still ahead of us. The National Red Cross, augmenting the tireless efforts of chapter leaders in and adjacent to the stricken community, is fully able and intends to see this job through to a successful conclusion."

LOOKING AHEAD

By George S. Benson, President, Harding College, Searcy, Ark.

WHY IS IT COMING?

Many observers are of opinion now that the nation may expect a considerable business recession by August or September. It is expected that this recession will be reasonably severe and might last for six months. Some expect it to bring bank ruptcy to a good many businesses that are weak financially, create unemployment, and maybe interrupt production seriously.

President Truman is so much alarmed that he is asking industry to reduce prices of commodities in order to help cushion the expected recession. Fears are that it might develop into a real depression. In view of our huge national debt and the fact that we must maintain a high national income, this prospect is rather serious. Naturally, we are asking ourselves: "Why must it come?"

Washington Fable

It is on the way because everything is entirely too high. Homes are too high, manufactured goods are too high, food is too high—everything is too high. People are refusing to pay the prices. They are going to continue to refuse until something is done about it. Now, why do not the industrialists just immediately lower prices until there would be no talk of depression?

That's impossible. Prices are regulated by costs. In manufacturing a price is charged that covers the cost. Big item in cost is usually labor, which averages 50 to 60 or 70 per cent, and as much as 85 per cent, of a finished article. Now the fable. When the war was over the President's Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Henry Wallace, recommended that in the automobile industry wages could go up 30 per cent without increasing the prices of automobiles at all.

Spiral Again

If that could have happened in the automobile industry, of course, it could have happened also in many other industries. Labor was encouraged to demand a 30 per cent boost, which they were told should bring no price increases. The facts, however, were on the other side of the fence. After an 18 1/2 cent increase was granted auto workers, and even before OPA died, automobile prices had to be increased an average of 22 per cent. Other industries granted similar raises and prices went on moving upward.

Labor soon realized that it had lost all its gains in the higher costs of living. When we get far enough from the present problems to size them up more accurately and when a correct history is finally written, it will probably be explained that wage boosts in the fall and winter of 1945-46 more than any other one thing were responsible for the inflated prices now threatening to make depression inevitable.

Costly Ride

Neither labor nor anybody else was benefited by those increases in wages which were so quickly followed by increases in prices. The cost of living went up for everybody. Now, when we face a depression as a result, we must realize that the cost of this inflationary ride may total billions of dollars. Price of the ticket was too high, indeed.

If our government could have found in 1945 enough backbone for a firm stand against increases in wages and prices, urging instead a high productivity to get the nation back on its feet as quickly as possible, then the present feared depression would have been mere talk. But when the general inflationary rise in wages and a corresponding inflationary rise in prices came, all thinking people agreed that finally a depression would probably come. We may get back to a reasonable level that way, but even yet we could use a much better way, which this column will outline next week.

"WHO IS YOUR FRIEND"

Many people think that the fellow that tells them what they want to hear and do the things that you would like for them to do is the best friend they have. It is true that Jesus said, "Ye are my friend if ye do whatsoever I command you." This was spoken in regards to Christ and the individual and not man to man. I should be deeply concerned about who my friend is because it could mean death or life. We too lightly consider the practical things of life. When a simple statement is made we conclude that it is too easy and just forget the matter. The man that is doing you favors all the time and talks right down your alley could not in every instance be counted your friend.

Take for instance the one that is seemingly your friend so far as you know; maybe he would divide the last bite of bread he has with you. Perhaps he would give you part of the last dollar that he had and even attend to your needs in many other ways but just because he did this

T. L. (Jack) Bullard

would he be your friend. Materially speaking but what about your soul? Has he showed a personal interest in your life beyond this? Is he really a friend. This is also true: "A friend in need is a friend in deed." Is he really able to see your needs? That person that is vitally interested in the well being of your soul is a real friend. The drunkard will open his heart up and sometimes even give you the last dime he has but is he your friend? The gambler will loan you money when he has it but is he your friend? The man that knows not the Lord as his savior will talk with you down life's way. He will do many things for you but when you have come to meet God in the day of Judgement he can not go any further. Would it not be well to look to that person that is interested in your soul, I would like to introduce you to one that will and can be a real friend,

"The Lord Jesus Christ."

Mrs. Harris doesn't use any don't.

Spring House Cleaning Urged By Health Officer

AUSTIN—A good old fashioned spring house cleaning in every city and community in Texas would do a great deal toward furthering good health in this state, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, who said in Austin today, "From a practical standpoint the old adage that 'Cleanliness is next to Godliness' is still well worth emphasizing."

A general clean-up program of state-wide proportions with the object of bettering health conditions for our citizenship should include the surface cleaning of streets and alleys, proper drainage or fill-in of low areas, cleaning all parks and playgrounds and the clearing of weeds and rubbish off of vacant lots.

"The destruction of mosquito breeding places and rat harborage, the proper disposal of garbage and trash and the general cleaning up of all premises will be," said Dr. Cox, "of inestimable value in helping to keep down summer health hazards such as dysentery, typhoid, and poliomyelitis. Good community house-keeping and ordinary sanitary measures require the prompt removal of all waste matter in and around yards and homes in order to abate the danger of such diseases, and insure good health protection throughout the State."

Dr. Cox stressed the fact that many dangerous diseases are filth-borne, and the only possible way to control them is to eliminate the insanitary conditions responsible for their spread.

Gov. Jester Indicates That He Would Not Approve Appropriation Bills

Governor Beauford Jester today gave clear indication that he would not approve appropriation bills in excess of the present anticipated revenue of the State for the next two years.

The Governor pointed out that, from the General Revenue, the State is now spending $88,230,000 for the two-year period.

He called attention to the fact that in his first message to the Legislature he recommended doubling that amount during the next two years, so that teachers could have higher salaries, and so other worthy services of the State could be expended.

The Governor said, however, that the per capita school bills recently passed by the Legislature would absorb 51 million dollars of the funds available for spending. The Governor favored higher salaries for teachers but opposed the method advanced by the per capita bill, characterizing it as inequitable, inefficient, and improper.

The Governor said today that since the Legislature had seen fit to pass the per capita bill, thereby absorbing a substantial part of the funds available for expenditure, it would doubtless be necessary for him to oppose certain other appropriation measures now being proposed, if he is true to his promise to the people that no new taxes would be imposed upon them.

"I proposed a 100 percent increase in appropriations for State services. That would keep us within the revenues available. New proposals before the Legislature would increase those expenditures of the people's money to several times that amount," the Governor said.

"I cannot approve such action. The Governor may have been wrong last summer when he told the people that there should be no new taxes during the next two years. But the people of Texas by an overwhelming vote said he was right," the Governor continued.

"I would certainly fail in carrying out the mandate of the people if I advocated still additional millions of expenditures—over those already presented by me—and if I approved the suggestions for a huge new tax bill to pay these appropriations."

Weekly SURPLUS NEWS WAA

World War II veterans will get chance to buy 534 government surplus trailers and trucks at the Rover Arsenal, Texarkana, Ark. Veterans will determine own order of purchase by a following registration at sales site. No advantage will be gained by arriving in advance of the sales date. WAA officials issued out. All of the vehicles will be sold individually to both veterans and other buyers on a first-come, first-served basis.

Government surplus coal help fill in the gap in mine holiday production in North Texas. Ten thousand tons of bituminous coal sold to a large distributor through the Grand Prairie regional office of WAA. The coal has been stored at Camp Maxey, Tex.

Paris, Texas, and the sale closes out the last supply of this fuel at that camp.

A forward step in line with War Assets Administration's policy of releasing rented warehouse space in 178 disposal centers was taken when in a single day a stock in excess of $700,000 value was disposed of out of Disposal Center No. 2 in Fort Worth. This made available to private industry by May 1 over 244,000 square feet of closed warehouse space and three acres of open storage space which government agencies have been occupying since the early days of the war.

Metal working equipment, including cutting tools and accessories, will be available through sealed bids until May 15, the Grand Prairie regional office of WAA has announced. The tools are in both unused and used lots and cost the government over $63,300.

With bidders attracted from as far away as South Dakota, over 700 automotive vehicles were awarded mostly to World War II veterans in a high bid sale conducted at the Warehouse of the Grand Prairie regional office of WAA. Ex-GI's purchased over nine-tenths of the vehicles before the residual was turned over to commercial dealers for purchase. Sold were trucks, trailers, scout-

LET'S PLAY EDITOR—At the Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children in Dallas, the patients take their editing mighty seriously as they buckle down to getting out their four-page play newspaper, "Little Scotty" which goes to 57 hospitalized subscribers, "every so often." During the long periods of treatment and convalescence the children find much pleasure in preparing cartoons and copy for their tiny paper. Pictured are "City Editor" Kenneth Garner, 4, of Cisco a polio victim of the 1946 epidemic; Sharon Erenbrack, 9-year old San Antonian, undergoing treatment for a bone infection, and Barbara Allison, 10, another polio patient whose home is in Texarkana.

The Scottish Rite Hospital, which is supported by individual contributions, offers the best possible medical care and treatment at no cost to Texas crippled children whose parents are unable to provide for adequate medical services.

Swing Of Southwest Farm Markets

Weak spots showed up all through the farm markets the past few days; but many items strengthened, and only hogs, feeds and corn registered sharp declines, according to Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Butcher hogs dropped $1.25 to $2.50 per hundred for the week, and sows $1.50 to $3.00. Closing bulk of good and choice butchers sold at $22.50 at Texas markets; and $23 to $23.50 at other southwest terminals. Sows turned mostly at $18 to $22.50.

Cattle moved higher at Houston and San Antonio; and vealers and calves gained at Oklahoma City. Other southwest cattle prices receded to slightly lower levels last week. Common to medium steers and yearlings cleared at $13.50 to $17.50 at Houston; and $14 to $19.50 at Fort Worth. Medium to low good kinds moved at $19 to $21 at San Antonio; $18 to $23 at Oklahoma City; and mostly $19 to $22 at Wichita. Numerous loads of good and choice steers cashed at $23.75 to $24 at Denver.

Spring lambs climbed mostly 50 cents to $1.50 during the week; while old crop lambs and aged sheep held generally steady to strong. Good and choice spring lambs brought $18.50 to $21 at San Antonio; and mostly $20.50 to $22.50 at other southwest markets.

Hens held firm last week, and fryers advanced to 35 cents per pound at Dallas. Eggs weakened at some points. Egg prices averaged 38 cents per dozen at San Antonio; 39 at Oklahoma City; 40 at Fort Smith, Amarillo and Fort Worth; 41 at Denver, El Paso, and New Orleans; 42 at Houston; and 43 at Shreveport.

Indifferent trading last week left most grains little changed. Liberal offerings of corn stepped prices down several cents, however; and oats also appeared in plentiful supply. Corn closed Friday at $1.90 to $1.91 per bushel in Fort Worth and Galveston; and oats $1.03 to $1.05. Sorghums ranged from $3.17 to $3.20 a hundred.

Slightly larger quantities of rice moved into domestic trade channels last week. Rice seeding proceeded haltingly between rains. Feeds registered moderate to drastic declines, as new crop harvest approached. Rapidly diminishing supplies of hay failed to meet daily needs at firm prices. Peanut planting made good progress. Treated shelled seed peanuts sold around 21 cents per pound, and farmers' stock about 15. Some well grown Texas Delaine wools sold at 46 to 46½ cents per pound to the grower.

Sharp early-week rise in cotton markets encouraged spot selling, as demand picked up for some grades. After a midweek slump, prices closed Friday $2.75 to $4.25 per bale higher than a week earlier.

ers, motorcycles, jeeps and ambulances.

Knocking the knock in Southwestern gasoline will be approximately 1,500,000 gallons of xylidine sold to a New York chemical concern through the Grand Prairie WAA office. This chemical product, stored in tanks at Cactus Ordnance Works at Dumas, Texas, was used during the war in the production of high octane aviation gasoline.

A special three-way bid offering covering 585 surplus aircraft has been announced by WAA. The sale offers 95 aircraft on individual bids, on which no priorities are necessary, nine planes on individual bids on which priority holders will get first chance to buy, and three lots of salvage totalling 481 assorted aircraft. Bids on all three phases of the sale will be opened at noon, May 12th.

AUTOMOBILE PARKING SPACE SHORTAGE NOTED AT TECH

A shortage of automobile parking space has been noted at Texas Technological College, despite the fact that the campus covers well over two square miles and is said to be the largest in the world. More than 3000 cars were counted on an average morning recently, and it has been estimated that as many as 4000 vehicles crowd the grounds at times.

Why Cry Your Own Town Down?

So many people living in Morton have a habit of telling strangers of all the disadvantages of living here, and most of their information is made up out of whole cloth and are more their imagination than the truth. So many people come into our office and tell us of things which they have heard on the street to the detriment of the town, that we wonder why they continue to live here when there is a wide open world awaiting them to settle in. To all such purveyors of untrue sayings we say, the world is wide, move on to the spot you have in mind. Morton can well do without you. Chances are that when you leave you will find "It isn't your town, it's you," as so many have found out before this and returned to this town wishing they had never left it. Morton is on the verge of a boom the like of which it has never seen before.

More new faces are being seen around here every day. Add these to the 2,400 or more persons in Morton and you readily see that Morton is growing. These new people will be ready to take advantage of all the opportunities you have failed to grasp, which no doubt has soured your disposition. Try smiling, once in a while and note the difference you experience.

At any rate don't go around knocking the town for that only shows ignorance on your part and causes people to get an idea that maybe there is something wrong with your brain. Try boosting awhile instead of knocking and we are sure that your disposition will undergo such a change that you will begin to wonder where it has been keeping itself hidden.

1947 Panhandle South Plains Fair Plans In Progress

The 1947 Panhandle South Plains Fair, which will be held Sept. 29 to Oct. 4, will open with a spectacular rubber balloon parade, according to a recent announcement by Fair officials. The feature will be supplied by Jean Gros, Inc. of Pittsburgh, a company widely experienced with such processions.

Fair officials also announced the contract had been let for construction of a judging arena and sales ring measuring 90 by 100 feet. The new structure will be similar to cattle and hog buildings already on the exposition grounds. Expectations are that it will be ready for use next fall.

The rubber balloon parade will include fifty giant inflated figures, some of them standing as high as 14 feet and being 50 feet long. About 200 men will be required to handle them. The parade will have such rubber animals as elephants, kangaroos, three-headed dragons, and figures from comic strips and fairy stories. After the procession, the figures will be displayed at a rubber zoo on the Fair grounds.

The three-mile parade will form on the Texas Technological College campus and will march down Broadway to the Fair grounds. The head of the parade will enter the grounds before the last rubber animal has left the campus.

Fair officials expect between 75,000 and 100,000 people to witness the parade.

7500 PERSONS ATTENDED ENGINEERS SHOW AT TECH

Some 7500 persons were recorded visiting the Engineer's Show at Texas Technological College last week-end, and 5100 visitors registered at the Home Economics Open House.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh
We Got to the Fish Fry After All

Community fish fry was a great success. There were great appetizing extras, and everybody did a right wonderful job of frying the fish—softly inside—brown and crisp on the edges. We didn't get to go. The yard was tired after working hard, and we just didn't want to leave her. How did we know the fish was good? Because the folks forgot us. They sent Skippy over with two steaming covered plates of fish, and a pitcher of cool, sparkling beer. And we finished them off in front of our own fire.

From where I sit, that's one of the things that makes our town so nice a place to live in: a spirit of share and share alike. That plate of fish and glass of beer weren't just great eating, they were symbols of the thoughtfulness that makes for better living!
