

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Pulling the old rope of frayed memories from the cool well of childhood years, there is delight in the refreshing cup of twilight and milking time. The clean scent of cows and foaming milk and the mewling of impatient cats awaiting their supper; only the little things of life are important and eternal.

My knowledge of wildlife is far too limited to satisfy intervals of speculation. When I witness frequent flocks of mourning doves rise and wing their courses across the sage and mesquite, I meditate on the restrictions of bird society. Perhaps there is no eternal triangle to feed cooing gossamers. It is probably that the extra dove is a relative. They always seem to be happy, as happy, as doves can be.

Age has overtaken me and placed a grey cape of acidity on my weary shoulders. I am no longer able to appreciate certain modern versions of "live" music. Visions of splintered juke boxes and radios produce a morbid satisfaction in the depths of my tormented heart. I feel a personal obligation to offer an apology to every heathen on earth who has been influenced by this nation's claim to civilization.

Each day the sun blazes with the same fury and cattle bellow at dried water-troughs. The heat rises like a curse from the burned prairie, but the tyrant power of summer has lost some of its strength. Autumn is high in the skies, in the shadows of thirsting trees and in the dawn, like the sigh of an enchanting girl who waits her cue in the wings of the stage.

If all the time that man has consumed with romancing could have been salvaged from the ages it is probable that the world's progress might be advanced. However, it is equally probable that within the adventure of love so little interest would remain in life that few would care to endure it.

Perfect ingredients do not make a perfect cake. The skill of the baker is more important than sugar, flour and leveling. A man is not remembered for that which he has collected, but rather for the good he has achieved with the materials available to his hands.

The man who knows where he is going is half way to his destination.

All the substance of religion feeds a golden flame which penetrates the world's most profound darkness. Its wick is in the heart of the righteous.

When we deny consideration to others, we forge a shackle greater than our own strength.

Snowflakes sizzled in the fire that burned resentfully as the fury of the blizzard increased. We removed some dry wood from beneath the waterproof tarp that covered our bed and waited for the coffee to boil. We had taken up the traps and had prepared to abandon camp when the storm struck. My companion rubbed salty lard on his chapped and bleeding hands then picked up the ax and started cutting limbs from the large fallen cottonwood. The coffee was ready when he returned and we poured two steaming cups. He emptied the loose tobacco from a shirt pocket and removed pieces of lint and broken bits of matches before rolling it into a cigarette. He inhaled the cigarette, sipped his black coffee and smiled. We did not speak since we had been together constantly for two weeks and conversation was exhausted. In the fraternity of men words are not essential.

Treva Thompson Reported Doing Fine At Gonzales

Judge Thompson received a letter from Treva Jo's doctor at the Warm Springs Foundation for Crippled Children at Gonzales, Texas, stating that Trevo Jo is doing fine. He stated in checking her a few days ago, he found only a trace of weakness in her foot and her shoulder is much stronger. He stated that he thought we would all be pleased with her outcome. There are about twenty crippled children at the hospital now. Most of them are unable to walk without braces or the assistance of someone to hold them up. There are others, who are bed-fast. There is nothing that will brighten the faces of these little crippled children more than a small package of some kind. It need not contain more than 15c or 20c worth of toys, color books, paper dolls, candy, etc. Judge Thompson and the Commissioners Court visited the Foundation about two weeks ago and carried them some candy and toys and took some of them riding in the car. It was the first time some of them had been away from the hospital in several months. If anyone cares to send a little package to these crippled children, Judge Thompson will be glad to bring them to you in person. Dr. Boyle wrote in the letter to Judge Thompson: "You are in a position there to perhaps know of other crippled children who might be in need of treatment. If such be the case, I would be glad to hear from the parents of such children in regard to them."

Farm Bureau Membership Drive Ends Mon.

Membership in the Farm Bureau in Cochran County is growing by leaps and bounds through the efforts of recruiting teams designated in a meeting a few weeks ago. The drive for new members ends next Monday and an actual count of new members is not available at this time. However, one team, composed of E. P. Farmer and Gene Thompson, have 75 new names on their list.

The Farm Bureau is the only recognized farm organization that has sufficient pulling power to affect legislation. Through the combined efforts of farmers the Stegall Bill, which assures the price of grain and cotton being 92 1/2 percent of parity, will be reinstated after its expiration this year.

Gene Thompson, secretary of the Bureau, urges the teams to increase their efforts in getting new members. With a powerful Farm Bureau the farmer can be sure that legislation will favor that organization's desire.

DID YOU KNOW
the oil in your watch is the most expensive product that can be made from petroleum chemicals. At $800 a gallon, it figures out to something like $44,000 a barrel. But don't worry, you'll never need a barrel of watch oil. The drop that collects on the blade of one of those tiny little Jewelers' screwdrivers when dipped into the liquid is enough to oil three timepieces. The protection from wear offered by the dollars worth of Jewels in a 17-Jewel timepiece and a fraction of a dollars worth of scientifically compounded oil give your watch a life expectancy of 200 years.

DON'T lay your watch up when it stops; bring it to us immediately for expert repair.

Resolution Adopted By Farmers That Water Belongs To Surface Owner

About 700 farmers and ranchers from the Plains and valley areas of Texas unanimously adopted a resolution at a water hearing in Plainview March 8, emphatically setting forth their views "That this natural resource, the same as oil, gas, sulphur and other underground resources belongs to and is the property of the surface owners of the land and that the unconstitutional proposition that underground water belongs to the state be forever forgotten and discarded."

The meeting was held to formulate such a resolution to combat the possible legislation of underground water regulation. The underground water in this area comes from the Rockies and belongs to the man with an irrigation well, at the present time. Counties lying below Cochran county contend that water should be prorated, thereby assuring all farmers a portion of the supply.

The committee that drafted the resolution in Plainview included in their proposal that if it becomes necessary to pass legislation to carry forward the conservation and development of the water resources that separate Acts be provided for surface water and underground water. The proposal also asked that agriculture take precedence over other industries in the use of underground water.

Easter Seal Sale Underway For Crippled Children

DALLAS—The fifteenth annual Easter Seal Sale of the Texas Society for Crippled Children was inaugurated this week with the mailing throughout Texas of 850,000 sheets of the colorful seals. Proceeds from the sale of the seals finance the Society's numerous services to the handicapped youngsters of the state.

In a brief summary, the Society points out how many ways each dollar is put to work for the benefit of less fortunate children. It states that the cerebral palsy program has surpassed all expectations, with treatment centers having been established throughout the state. An informational library also has been established to further acquaint parents of the cerebral palsied and interested laymen with the problems of treating these small victims.

In conjunction with this service, one of the greatest bottlenecks in carrying out the program, the lack of trained personnel, is being alleviated by scholarships for the training of physio, speech and occupational therapists in the treatment of the cerebral palsied.

"Texas must open its hearts and purses in proportion to the ever-increasing work being done by the Texas Society for Crippled Children," Roscoe L. Thomas, Dallas, president of the Society, said. "Each additional project undertaken by the Society opens a door to children to whom help previously has been unavailable. We are confident that the 1948 Easter Seal Sale will enable us to continue expanding our services."

STRONG AND RESILIENT COIL SPRINGS AT ALL 4 WHEELS IN OLDSMOBILE "60" AND "70"

To insure a comfortable, enjoyable ride Oldsmobile has equipped the "Dynamic" Series "60" and "70" cars for 1948 with strong and resilient coil springs at all four wheels. As a result the chassis of the car glides along smoothly over the roughest of roads. Annoying vibrations and jarring shocks caused by uneven road surfaces are almost fully absorbed by the sturdy quad-coil springs.

Fort Sam Houston National Cemetery Has Plenty of Space

All the Texas dead of the past war, returned for permanent burial, could be buried in the national cemetery at Fort Sam Houston and still leave plenty of space, officials of the American Graves Registration Division at San Antonio declared today.

The statement was prompted by recurrent rumors in various sections of South Texas that the national cemetery at Fort Sam Houston is now filled to capacity and that no more war dead can be buried there.

American Graves Registration Division officials estimate that approximately 7,000 Texans, killed during the past war, will be returned to this country for reburial. The national cemetery at Fort Sam Houston is now undergoing an expansion program that will provide space for about 10,000 graves.

Harding College, Searcy, Ark.

WHY SAVE MONEY?

In 1776 a Scotchman named Matthew Boulton risked $200,000 of his savings to help James Watt develop a new device known as a steam engine. In 1948, the estimated capital expenditures of the nation's chief railroads (the railroads grew because of Watt's invention, though now steam is not the only motive power) approaches one billion dollars! Our Class I railroads expect to spend $319,958,000 during this quarter of 1948.

How our nation finances its industry is an interesting story. The American way of doing this explains the high standard of living we enjoy today. Not all nations do it as we do. In some countries everything is owned by the government. The government does everything. Of course, the people foot the bill, but in these totalitarian countries the rewards never come. In America anyone has the opportunity of investing and sharing in the progress of industry.

You May Share

Critics of "capitalism," who say that government is the only agency big enough to do things that have to be done in a progressive economy, really miss some important points. They don't know their American system. Did you know that over fifty million Americans pool their savings to provide the tools for workers? Perhaps you are one of them. These men and women have saved up something for a "rainy day" and, meantime, have invested it.

Perhaps you have a share in industry you did not know about. If you have life insurance, it is quite likely that your insurance company invests the premiums you pay to provide tools for industry. Savings banks likewise invest deposits. In this way, the "capital" funds that our people own and invest actually turn the wheels of industry.

Unfettered Growth

Then too, industry itself saves and reinvests. Every live company or business will find it advisable to take a portion of its income and "plow it back under" right in the business. Of money that every industry pays out "for use of tools," only a comparatively small amount goes to the thrifty people who really own the tools. Most of it goes to buy the actual tools. Industry has constant need for new investments for expansion and new facilities.

The growth of industry has been tremendous within our own generation. The American way of private initiative and investment has made it grow by leaps and bounds. Unhampered, the American people have seen fit to put capital into our industry, to provide it with the life-blood it constantly needs. That the government ought to take over this function, is not argued by history. Russia is a country where government has taken over.

Keep Security

I say, let the people do it. They can provide the savings to make our industry grow and grow. That way there's no ceiling on progress. No limit to the standard of living. Let us replace old models, invent new machines, develop new methods. Our population is growing, and our needs will be tremendous in the future. We can continue to be great consumers, if we keep a system that permits us to be great producers.

Right now, there is an important reason why we should save, and save to invest. We must stop adding dollars that could be savings to the inflation stream, bidding up prices and damaging our economy. The railroads represent just one industry that is calling for capital. There are many other industries in which savings may be put to work. Under the American system, there will continue to be more jobs, more pay, and more security as well opportunity for all.

Some Folks Are Old at Sixty;
Others Alert at 80

AUSTIN—Some folks are old at sixty; others are mentally and physically alert at eighty. The number of years one has lived may not be a true index to one's physical condition. Actually, the length of a person's life span is influenced by the condition of his arteries. Premature hardening of the arteries, often due to avoidable infections, improper diet, and possibly worry and strain is to a certain extent, preventable, said Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

Many of the problems connected with the hygiene of old age are due to lowered mental power. Therefore, a cheerful and optimistic attitude toward the aged, especially during sickness, is essential to their well-being.

Old people regard their condition as far less serious when they can be fully dressed and out of bed. When they can be up, the excretory organs function more satisfactorily, too. However, when an elderly person complains of being overtired, or otherwise not physically fit, a day of rest in bed is advisable. By providing light and easily digested food and applying warmth to the body of an aged patient, he is often tided over a mild or threatened illness.

Special attention should be paid also to proper clothing, diet, and exercise of the elderly. With reasonable attention to certain well-defined and easily followed principles of personal hygiene, it is possible to grow old gracefully. Furthermore it is also possible, in many instances, to retain one's faculties to such an extent as to make old age a pleasure rather than a burden.

Manufacturers will reduce prices of medium-cost shoes this spring in order to dispose of all they can make by quantity production methods, according to the New York Journal of Commerce.

"REAL" WAGES HIGHER

Despite inflation, real weekly earnings of production workers in manufacturing during 1946 and 1947 were considerably above prewar, the National Industrial Conference Board says. Real hourly wages—wages adjusted for cost of living—were also above 1945 levels during most of 1946 and 1947.

GOVERNMENT COSTS SOAR

Measured by tax collections, the cost of government in the United States has risen to more than $1 per day for each person in the nation. The prewar cost was only 30 cents a day. The Federal government took the largest slice, but State governments cost $6 billion and local governments over $5 billion.

TWO GREAT PROBLEMS

Two great problems face railroad operations for the year ahead. One is to secure an increase in the car supply; the other is to restore a balance between income and outgo. Both are necessary to maintain rail transportation adequate to the nation's needs.

Secret Given Of Longer-Wearing Synthetic Rubber

Refrigeration is the secret of the new longer-wearing synthetic rubber recently announced by Phillips Petroleum Company. After years of scientific research Phillips scientists and engineers have perfected a new technique in rubber manufacture. In the present rubber plants the various chemical ingredients are converted to rubber by mixing them at high temperatures. Phillips has reversed the operation and has designed and built a refrigerated rubber pilot plant which operates at temperatures far below freezing. Scientists have known for some time that rubber made at lower temperatures was of much higher quality, but their attempts to use lower temperatures resulted in a slow-down in manufacture. Like the flow of cold molasses the production was so slow it was uneconomical.

Phillips has solved this problem. Its process not only uses low temperatures but also attains rapid production. Its refrigerated rubber pilot plants at Phillips, Texas has been producing the new rubber, which Phillips calls Philprene, for over a year. Tested alongside tires made from natural rubber, tires with Philprene have, in numerous road tests, given thousands of miles longer wear—twenty, thirty, even as much as fifty per cent more. According to Phillips technicians this striking new rubber is one of the important improvements that may be expected in chemical rubber.

A pioneer in the synthetic rubber industry, Phillips and its associates were operating a synthetic rubber plant in the United States even prior to Pearl Harbor. During the war the government financed the large expansion of the rubber industry and Phillips participated by designing, building and operating a government owned plant producing quantities of the principal ingredient of synthetic rubber.

Intercollegiate Press Assn. To Meet At McMurry

Loula Grace Erdman and Vernon T. Sanford have accepted invitations to speak at the annual convention of the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association to be held at McMurry College, Abilene, April 29-30. William A. Ward, TIPA president, and McMurry senior has announced.

Miss Erdman is a recent winner of the $10,000 Dodd-Mead literary award for her novel, "Fair is the Morning," and is a member of the English department of West Texas State college.

Mr. Sanford is manager of the Texas Press Association.

Approximately 250 Texas college students are expected to attend the two-day convention at McMurry. There are 18 member colleges of the Association and all have indicated that they will send 10 to 25 delegates each. The program will include conferences for creative writers, newspaper, magazine and yearbook staff members, and sessions in other related fields.

Announcement of winners in newspaper, yearbook and magazine contests, and individual entries in literary and newspaper competition will be made at the closing session, a banquet on Friday night, April 30.

Measles Incidence Higher Than In 7 Year Median

AUSTIN—With the incidence of measles more than three times higher than the seven year median, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, has issued a statement concerning the use of gamma globulin for protecting very young or frail children from an attack of this perennial childhood disease and its often serious complications.

"If you have a child less than five years old who has been exposed to measles, your family doctor may recommend giving him gamma globulin, Dr. Cox advised. "Through city, county or state health departments, doctors can obtain gamma globulin, free, when parents are unable to pay. Infants and children, whose health makes it inadvisable for them to suffer an attack of measles, may postpone the disease if gamma globulin is administered within eight days from the time of exposure.

The State Health Officer emphasized the fact that gamma globulin cannot give a child permanent protection against measles and added that the protection against measles is ordinarily of about three weeks duration. However, there is no limit to the number of times it can be used, and a baby who is protected by it now can be protected by it again in June or July. Gamma globulin can go on shielding him against measles until he is old enough and strong enough to stand an attack without serious consequences.

During an outbreak of measles Dr. Cox said that it is well to keep children under five years of age, and more especially frail children, away from all other youngsters who might serve as sources of infection. Statistics show that nine-tenths of all measles deaths occur in children under five years of age.

Livestock-Grass Aided By Good Care In Spring Specialists Point Out

Green grass, welcome sign of spring and reduced feed costs for livestock producers, should not be asked to do a man-sized job while still a baby, livestock specialists point out.

Young grass, like young animals, needs a good start to reach maximum production. New plants, authorities explain, have a small reserve food supply from their seed or rootstock. Close grazing, before the leaves have opportunity to rebuild this reserve, weakens the plant and may eventually destroy it.

Good management allows pasture plants to make good growth before being grazed heavily, and supplies supplemental feed, such as cottonseed meal and roughage, for livestock. This benefits both the pasture and the livestock.

Early grazing also is too high in water content to provide nutrients which livestock require for full growth, maintenance and production. Often, for the first few weeks after pasture becomes green, it does not supply enough forage to satisfy animals' appetite; and, even when the appetite is satisfied, animals cannot eat enough to provide nutrients they need.

To supply dry matter and help prevent scouring, early pasture should be supplemented with hay, cottonseed hulls, sorghum bundles or other dry roughage.

Beef cows which are nursing calves should also be fed 2 to 4 pounds, daily, of cottonseed meal, pellets or cake until grass contains sufficient nutrients to carry them in good condition. Growing heifers, calves and stockers need 1/2 to 1 1/2 pounds of protein concentrate, daily.

Dairy cows need their regular concentrate mixture and dry roughage to maintain milk production, promote growth, repair body tissues and aid reproduction. Even though young grass is high in protein content, it cannot be depended on to supply all of the protein the producing cow needs. The concentrate mixture should contain 20 per cent protein until the grass loses its "washy" nature and is supplying all the good grazing the cow can eat. Then, the protein content may be reduced to about 15 per cent.

Sheep need dry roughage and 1/8 to 1/4 of a pound of protein concentrate daily until grass is providing good grazing. Because of the danger of digestive disturbances from early grazing, authorities recommend that sheep be allowed to "fill" on dry roughage before going on pasture.

Sermonette

Commencement Being Held!

Suppose you were told that you were to begin a journey, that you were to travel straight to your destination without pause or interruption, and that when you reached your destination you would die. There is no need to suppose. That is exactly the case. Every man is making his journey through life. Death waits for him at its end. The prudent man meditates on death during life—tries to find its meaning.

Two types of men fear death. Those who are afraid to die, and those who are afraid to be dead. The first is a reasonable, Christian fear which all men should have. The second is an unreasonable, pagan fear which most men do have.

Death is much like graduation from school. It is the end only of tedious preparation. The fullness of life lies ahead. That is why graduation is often called commencement. There is some uncertainty about the future, and this engenders a healthy fear. But the student who has prepared himself well is not upset by these fears. In the true sense, death, like graduation, is a commencement.

The fear to be dead, on the other hand, is an unreasonable, pagan fear. It frightens me with the prospect that death will end my existence; that after death I shall no longer be able to think, to love, or to enjoy; and pagan though this fear be, it seems to beset the most Christian of us.

Aware of our fear, Jesus reminds us: "If any man keep my word, he shall not see death forever." Death for a Christian, that is, for one who keeps the word of Christ, is not the end, but the beginning of life. It is a commencement! After my death I shall be able to think, to love, and to enjoy as I have never thought, loved, or enjoyed anything in this life. Jesus assures me of this. And Jesus is God. And God is truth.

Afraid to be dead. No reason why a Christian should be afraid to be dead!

Social Security Official To Visit Morton March 25

Elliott W. Adams, Social Security Administration Representative, will be in Morton at the U. S. Post Office at 11:00 a. m. on Thursday, March 25, for the purpose of answering any questions you may have on Social Security; discussing possible benefits and taking claims from persons who seem to be entitled to benefits; and taking applications for Social Security account numbers.

Are you sure your employer has your name and social security number exactly right on his records? If so, then your card should be put away with your valuable papers—not carried in your pocketbook. There are two times when you are justified in carrying your card with you—when you are looking for a job, and when you are going to file a claim for benefits.

How to Keep 'Em Down On the Farm

The other day Pete Swanson's nephew, Bud, allowed as how he was fed up with farm and country life... and was going to the city where there was a lot more opportunity and excitement.

Some folks might have tried to stop him. But not Pete. He even advanced Bud carfare for the trip... figured that when he'd had a good look around, he'd come back where he belonged.

And what happened? After seven days of big-town hustle and excitement, Bud was back behind the wheel of a tractor, with color in his cheeks again. And he'd traded the night life of the city for a quiet glass of beer with Dad.

From where I sit, that's how it goes. Try to prevent some one from getting what he thinks he wants—and he'll go on wanting it. But give him his head, and he'll settle for the sensible thing—whether it's country life, or a temperate glass of beer!

THANK YOU, BUNNY! On behalf of the thousands of crippled children of Texas, 11-year-old Joann Frost of Dallas expresses her appreciation to the Easter Bunny for being the symbol of aid for handicapped youngsters through the Texas Society for Crippled Children. Joann urges every Texan to share his Easter joys by supporting the Society's Easter Seal Sale, March 8-28.

For safety's sake, and for your sake, the 1948 "Dynamic" Series "60" and "70" Oldsmobile are equipped with self-energizing, super-hydraulic brakes, with cast iron braking surfaces and triple-sealed drums.

BOYCE HOUSE 'Gives You Texas'

A deed that you might consider so light a thing that by tomorrow you will have forgotten it may yet have untold effect on the whole life of some youth.

When I was attending high school in Memphis, Tenn., the Memphis Press published a "feature story" about a young tax assessor out west who had unusual ideas on taxation. I wrote him a letter and he replied, making a suggestion which, indirectly, led to my becoming a "cub reporter" on the Commercial Appeal and to a career as a newspaperman.

So when my newest book, "Cub Reporter," was published, I wanted to present a copy to my benefactor of so many years before—he was still living. I recalled that his name was Knapp and that he lived in Pueblo, Colo. So I wrote to Lloyd Wilson (who used to be manager of the Waco Chamber of Commerce and before that at Vernon); he's manager of the Pueblo C of C and he enlisted the aid of the Pueblo Chieftain.

After the news item appeared, Knapp wrote me. Oddly enough, he had moved away from that city about the time I was entering newspaper work and he lived in Utah, Iowa, Minnesota, Arizona and Missouri (engaging in newspaper work himself) and then had returned to his old home city.

And so a copy of "Cub Reporter," suitably inscribed, was sent to the man who, by answering a schoolboy's letter, helped to shape an individual's destiny.

Austin is a sea-port—at least, you can take a voyage there. You go out at Lake Austin, board a luxurious motor-boat (almost a yatch and glide on the moonlit waters up the lake and across the Cliff House, where you climb a flight of rock stairs to the building on top of the hill and there you enjoy an excellent dinner, then make a return voyage and take your car from the landing on back into the city.

May we again remind our readers that we do not accept unsigned material for publication in the Tribune. If you want wedding and other stories published be sure to sign your name, we will not use your name if you request but the article must be signed, else it goes in the waste basket.

The Tribune is very happy to receive items of local interest so do not fail to either write or call in about them.

On a recent trip to Gonzales, Judge and Mrs. Thompson found that a number of children in the ward with Treva never receive gifts or packages of any kind. If anyone is interested in sending small gifts we feel sure the Thompsons would be glad to deliver them on their next trip.

Some of Morton's school children might like to fix little boxes. Incidentally any kind of foodstuff, candy or gum sent, must be enough for all the children in one ward.

Received a nice card this week from Amy Stevenson, who with her husband and son, live in Merton. They were here in the Piggly-Wiggly Store when we first came to Morton and Amy used to gather locals for us while checking at the store on Saturday. We miss her for that, for the very entertaining readings she used to give and other reasons too.

Also had a note from Jo Ann Thompson. She used to be in the F. S. A. office here. Jo Ann is attending school at Wayland College and working part time in the office of Veterans Coordinator in Plainview.

Noticed signs on several highways out of Morton designating the route to Bledsoe. Which reminds us that the new farm to market road thru Bledsoe, soon to be constructed, will shorten the distance between Morton and Tatum considerably—this ought to please a lot of Morton people.

So many good looking doctors at the hospital now they will probably be swamped with patients who just think they are ill. That is our category more or less.

Tuesday was a lovely day—high time too, after that perfectly horrible sandstorm on Sunday and again on Monday.

Saw Eva Rowden with her precious baby girl in town last Saturday. First time we had seen the baby. Mothers of the tiny ones are pretty wise to keep them away from crowds.

Mrs. Bill Minnix, pretty sister of Van Greene, is living here now; Tolliver Court number 4. She probably gets lonely sitting out there while Van and her husband are working and slaving.

Carl Ray and his Mrs. have gone off to the Texas coast on a vacation. He told us that they hadn't had a real vacation since coming over here in 1945. The hardware people are sort of like newspaper ones spend all their time at conventions and trade meetings.

Francie and J. D. Hawthorne have done some remodeling on the house they bought recently. They took out partitions and made a breakfast room, added cornices to separate the living and dining area in that huge room that serves both purposes. The children will use the large basement as a playroom.

One of our best and most consistent advertisers came in this week with an offer to buy a little extra advertising the next few months, he said. "I want to help pay for the Buick Roadmaster you are driving." Actually tho he wants to increase his own business to where he can buy one. We know of no better way to increase business than by advertising.

Met Mrs. Ed Neutzler of Maple this week. She is a very attractive person. We have known Edwin for some time.

Noticed this sign on a laundry: Oldest and most dependable diaper service. We began at the bottom.

-- annegrams presents --

Ray Louis Cravy, third son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Cravy. Ray will be three years old in May.

MRS. W. A. JOHNSON of Hereford is visiting her son, W. A., Jr., and MRS. JOHNSON this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Abbott and two children, Linda Sue and Douglas of Pampa, are visiting her mother, Mrs. Bessie Curtis.
