TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Dignity looked out of the two crystal windows draped with heavy curtains. Bright flowers sparkling with dew, nodded in the early sunlight. The little room with its black tar-paper roof looked clean and whole. Some amid its dingy neighbors in the poverty settlement. Snow-white sheets hung motionless in the back yard like the sails of a dream ship awaiting the favor of the winds to bear it away to a more pleasant harbor.

Great trucks roar through the dawn loaded with wide-eyed cattle en route to swift eternity. The makes plans for both man and beast; the orders are executed rapidly when the crucial hour arrives.

When the ore of life is sifted and smelted; when the thread of purpose is cooled into glittering metal and cleansed with the acid of tears, it can but serve to procure a little kindness and love.

Gossip is the voice of vengeance which causes the just to turn his ear away if fairness and compassion is to control our society.

Chariots of the wind were rumbled in the darkness that was the black wax in the canyons and mesquite flats. Small flakes of snow whipped the cowboy's lean, leathery face and he would feel its chilled weight on his eyelashes. He had slackened the reins and the horse chose his own way in the night, walking at a steady gait. Hours of the cease night slipped through the flames of time and the journey continued until the horse stopped suddenly and refused to proceed at the touch of spurs. In turning the cowboy felt some object scrape the stiff leather of his chaps. He dismounted and proceeded slowly, feeling in the darkness with his hand until he touched a wire fence. Feeling his way further he found the gate, relief flowing through his wild, tense body. Another mile and he would reach the dug-out line camp, some cold, salty bacon and bread; a bucket of shelled corn for the faithful animal that had led him out of the abnormal night.

Grandeur rode the skies as a mountain of white clouds rose beyond the peaceful hills. A blue ribbon of rain slanted to the earth from the flat base beneath the changing object of splendor and the wind became breathless. The weary cowboy watched the cloud for a moment then dismounted to open the wire gate. Once before the unpainted shack, he called and a man answered. The cowboy asked to buy food for himself and corn for his horse. The man offered to feed the cowboy but refused to sell his precious corn. The cowboy, looked at his sweaty horse, then placed his foot in the stirrup, mounted and rode away.

In profound moments I am given to believe that I have but one sincere enemy who is willing to devote full time to the task of encouraging termites who eat at the tasteless supports of my life. None but my own stupidity could achieve such remarkable results.

A little light on the visible path of youth may scoff the prudence of caution otherwise exercised in the calm knowledge of absolute darkness.

Hunger has led humanity from smoked caves to sunlit plains. Being the essence of reality, it has buried the pagon gods beneath the truth of centuries. Hunger in the heart has led the world step by step to the cool, sweet spring of faith.

When as a child I used to witness the last scribed of eustard being moved to a visitor's plate, and vow within my embittered heart that once I provided for a board of my own, none would wait for the second table.

Violence, revenge and dangerous romance set the dramatic tone for Paramount's "Dark City," the Hal Wallis production opening January 30 at the Home Theatre, Whiteface.

Preview audiences have given enthusiastic acclaim to this powerful melodrama, calling special attention to the exciting screen debut of Charlton Heston who stars as a gambler pursued by women, the police and a killer.

Blonde and gorgeous Lizabeth Scott is seen as a nightclub singer who has her heart set on Heston. He doesn't get much chance to return her affections, what with trying to cash a "hot" check and watching out for the police and the killer. But when he does, it's with a technique that resulted in previewers calling him the most exciting male star since Gable hit the screen.

Morton has been placed in District No. 6 with headquarters in Lubbock, according to Joe Gipson, head of the local unit. At Lions Club meeting last Wednesday Gipson explained that the program is nationwide in scope, with national, state, district and local units participating. As outlined by Gipson, the tentative organization provides for agencies responsible for all categories of civilian relief and protection in time of disaster.

"When the need arises," said Gipson, "each citizen must know exactly what his job is, and be prepared to perform that job immediately and efficiently."

At a time to be announced later a general Civilian Defense meeting will be held, at which time the organization will be set up and unit commanders named. The cooperation of every citizen will be required in order that the program can be made effective.

Senator Corbin Co-Authors Bill For Redistricting

Legislative redistricting of the 30th Senatorial District which includes Cochran County, should result in at least double representation for the people of the 24 counties in the district.

That is the opinion of Senator Kilmer B. Corbin of Lubbock, based on his study of population figures and poll tax payments in the 24 counties.

Senator Corbin is a co-author with Senator Rogers Kelley of Edinburg of the senatorial redistricting bill filed as Senate Bill 1 in the 52nd Legislature.

A House of Representatives redistricting bill was scheduled for introduction as soon as the House started taking bills. Separate bill must be passed for revamping Senatorial and House districts.

Senator Corbin pointed out that the Senate bill, as introduced, does not yet specify what counties would make up the various districts in what is now his 30th Senatorial District. Only single-county districts (Jefferson, Dallas, Tarrant, Bexar and Harris) are specifically mentioned, with the exception of Senator Kelley's own district which the bill specifies would include three Lower Rio Grande Valley counties.

"In that way, the people and their representatives can have their say as to what counties should be included in the various districts," the former Dawson County Judge, who was elected to the Senate in 1948, explained. "We are not in the position of having an author of a bill trying to tell us just how we should redistrict but are given a chance to work it out for ourselves."

While House redistricting must be done on the basis of population, the Constitution provides that Senatorial districts are to be divided according to the number of qualified voters. On the basis of last year's poll tax payments and exemptions, Senator Corbin estimates that the present 30th District is entitled to nearly two Senators instead of one. And on the basis of the House redistricting, the counties are entitled to seven or eight representatives instead of their present three or four. Because of overlapping districts, it is impossible to say definitely just how many representatives the district now has.

Construction, the company pointed out in its bid could be completed within 135 days after delivery of work orders provided defense needs did not take priority.

"We don't want the construction to get ahead of the defense effort in any way," Judge McCann said.

According to plans, the county will build the concrete base and the contractors will erect the steel frame with galvanized sheet iron covering. The walls would be 14 feet high.—Hockley County Herald.

GINNINGS FALL 48 BALES SHORT OF GOAL

With all but a "very few" bales of the 1950 cotton crop accounted for, it appears that Crosbyton will fall short of its 5,000 bale goal. But the shortage is very small, as ginnings in the city up to Wednesday were 4,952 bales.

Other gins in the Crosbyton territory also report the season just about ended. Kalgarr's West Texas Gin turned out 1245, while the Wake gin, in a drouth and hail area, received only 789 bales. These ginnings, coupled with those in Crosbyton, bring the total for the territory to 8,171 bales.

Ginners report the only cotton left is that on the ground which is being picked up following the strippers.—Crosbyton Review.

Right Under Our Nose!
 Sometime back, we got word from the Governor, asking if we wanted to use the State Fire Inspection Team—a group of experts they send around to communities to inspect public buildings. We sent a letter saying: "Okay! Give us the once-over!" They came down, all right—last week. After the inspection, we got their report. Came out pretty well, all told. Town Hall and the School were O.K. Post Office just needed more sandbuckets. In fact, everything got a clean bill of health, except—the Fire Station!

Mrs. Morrow Entertains 1936 Study Club

The 1936 Study Club met in the home of Mrs. Albert Morrow, Wednesday, January 17th, at 4:15 p.m.

Coffee and fruit cake were served by the hostess to 22 members and one guest, Mrs. Carl England.

A business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Scott Hawkins.

Mrs. P. B. Ramby, leader, and her forum, made up of Mrs. H. S. Hawkins, Mrs. Peques Houston, Mrs. Chas Cravy, Mrs. Gage Knox, and Mrs. James St. Clair, discussed the "Essays of Montaigne."

Montaigne (1533-1592) was an old man when he wrote these essays and like to ramble on and on, often contradicting himself. He said women did not need to be educated, yet saw to it that his own daughters were well educated. His essay on Education cautioned against getting knowledge instead of wisdom. He concurred with the opinion of many would-be statesmen of today in that he said, "Educating a man, spoiled him for a soldier."

The forum agreed that if statesmen were all wise enough there would be no wars to need soldiers.

These discussions are highly stimulating. Mrs. Carl England remarked that she well understood the many interruptions from the listeners when differences of opinion became hottest. She said she wanted to put in her two cents worth many times but hesitated to do so as she was a guest.

Adding machine paper at the Tribune Office Supply Dept.

-- annegrams --

The following letter came in late last Tuesday just as we were about ready to "give up the ghost"; we were revived to the extent of staying on at the office after dark for a bit more late minute news reporting.

Route One
 Jane, Missouri.

Mrs. Ann England
 Am sending check for $3.00 to renew our Morton Tribune.

Couldn't do without it here in the Ozarks.

Just like a bundle of letters from "home."

Would like for you to put my son's address in your paper so his friends can write him.

Cpl. Charles E. Farmer
 Hg. USARCIB.
 G-4 Section
 Fort Amador, Canal Zone.

Thank you.
 Respectfully,
 Mrs. E. P. Farmer.

This is another former Morton Boy's address:
 Cpl. Thom. Carrol Niblett

 Hg. Co. 5th Can. Regt.
 APO 201, c/o P.M.
 San Francisco, Calif.

Thought too, you folks might be interested in the addresses sent by Mrs. Farmer. We do appreciate her note and we are happy that she likes the paper.

Also had a sweet note from Mrs. N. J. Russell, she has at long last moved into her new home at 3110 Harvard, in Lubbock.

Mrs. Willie Taylor, Route 1, Denton, Texas, also renewed for another year.

There was a subscriber in a few days ago who said as he wrote out a check for renewal, "There isn't much in the paper but expect we'd feel lost without it." That was such an unusual remark we didn't have a ready answer. However, on thinking it over decided that the view is probably considerably different from the other end of the line. No doubt it only takes a short time to read the paper. BUT gathering up the news, ads etcetera and then typing for hours on the various material that goes into the Tribune takes the biggest portion of our time; consequently it seems to us as if the paper has a WHOLE LOT in it.

Feel certain too, that the mechanical department where our voluminous typewritten sheets have to be set in metal on a typesetting machine, then assembled by the make-up man and finally locked in forms and then run-off on a big press, feel that there is plenty in the paper.

All of which is neither here nor there. Each business and profession looks to the person who doesn't know any thing about it as if it were a "lazy man's job, or the softest way in the world of making money."

Needless to say we like our subscribers. Without them there would be no Morton Tribune.

Buddy Fort (the well known roper) and his wife, Betty, came up with the cleverest birth announcement for their new son, Randal Ray. It is all race horse style, very clever and cute. Randal is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Cooper. His mother is the former Betty Cooper.

Everyone seemed to enjoy the dressing on peach ball salad we served the other night so we will give you the recipe.

Blend one-half cup of thick sour cream with one-fourth cup tart currant jelly and salt to taste. That's all there is to it—this make quite a large amount. And altho we used it lavishly on eight salads still had the stuff left over and the spouse is about to get tired of it as he has eaten it on everything from salad to baked chicken.

Right here and now we'd like to congratulate program committee of 1936 Study Club for a perfectly enchanting program for this year.

We've only heard one of their forums and that last Wednesday but will say it was one of most stimulating we have been privileged to hear in a long time. Of course, we were a nervous wreck when it was over, on account of having to sit there and listen; not being allowed to TALK.

Wednesday's forum discussed Seigneur de Michel Montaigne's essays, a French writer, whose

IN AMARILLO HOSPITAL

Glenn W. Thompson has made several trips to Amarillo lately to visit his brother, Clyde Howell, who is a patient in an Amarillo hospital.

Believing that the Government's Construction Limitation Order is often misunderstood and misinterpreted by many, we wish to point out the following

At this time there is nothing in the Order which affects new home construction, or home repairs. On New homes the down payment is simply a little more.

If a person's credit warrants it, Repairs, Alterations, and Improvements can be had through a Loan handled by us, with as little as 10% down with 30 months to repay the balance.

New Construction on Schools and Churches is not prohibited.

Commercial Construction in the amount of $5,000.00 does not now require an NPA authorization.

As the order now reads, a commercial project amounting to more than $5,000.00 can be built after February 15, 1951, with an NPA authorization.

There are now no restrictions on the construction of wholesale food establishments or wholesale supply facilities for fuel oil, gasoline and etc., gas distribution systems and pipelines.

Maintenance and repair on any building, structure, or project is not limited if materials are available.

Reconstruction is not banned on any building or structure following a fire, flood, disaster, or act of God, which occurred on or after July 29, 1950.

Let it be understood that the above is not a word for word quote of our Government's Order or Orders, but it is merely our interpretation of same after a digest of certain bulletins, and we will not be responsible for errors, nor changes in orders which have not come to our attention.

See Us, And We Will Do Our Best To Keep You Informed.

Levelland Drops Indians For Third District Loss

By KENNETH WYNN
The Morton Indians journeyed to Levelland last Monday and took a 48 to 37 licking from the Lobos. The Lobos jumped into an early 11-7 lead in the first quarter. Then the Indians came back and out-scored them in the 2nd quarter, and by the intermission the score was 18 in favor of the Lobos. For the first half both the Indians and the Lobos were "off". Then the Lobos came back and scored 10 points before the Indians could be reorganized. Time was called and the Indians got together and held the Lobos fairly well. This is the fourth time for Morton and Levelland to meet this year with the Lobos taking the one over the Indians. Darryl Bowman, Johnny Green, Oscar Burns, Waydelle Hill, and Kenneth Wynn have caused the Lobos and their coach plenty of headaches. At the same time the Lobos' Harold Phelan, Peanut Miller, Langford Sneed, James Green, Don Wise, Neal Atchison and Frank Burnett have also caused the same thing on the Indians and their coach. Waydelle Hill and Darryl Bowman took high scoring honors for the Indians with 14 and 9 points respectively. While Don Wise hit 10 for the Lobos. This was the first conference loss for the Indians, while the Lobos have topped only one conference tilt. The next game will determine if the Indians will get into the District Tournament or not.

Joe Ed Sullivan Helps in Barbecue

From the hoof to the barbecue is the summed-up story of the misfortunes of a ram" at the Houston State Teachers College. Celebrating the semester's end, Vocational Agricultural members of a class in meat dressing and their dates had a barbecue last week. Members of the class killed dressed and prepared the meat. Joe Ed Sullivan of Morton was one of the students who helped prepare the meal. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sullivan. Learning the various methods of curing and cutting meats is an interesting to the students in the class because they do not have study charts and books to learn how. Each student watches his fellow students prepare meat in the market, and has a turn at doing it himself.

Joe Sullivan In Newly Activated College Unit

As a result of the tremendous response in recruiting for the "A" and "B" Batteries of the Reserve 352nd Armored Field Artillery established here recently, another reserve unit has been available to the Huntsville area. It was disclosed by Dr. Harmon Lowman, president of Sam Houston State Teachers college. Included among the 57 — all college students—in the two activated units is Joe Sullivan of Morton. The new unit—the Headquarters, Headquarters and Service Company, 39th Armored Infantry Battalion of the Reserve 22nd Armored Division—has spaces for 55 enlisted men and 10 officers. Enlistments are open to both veterans and non-veterans, provided they have not received their first notice to report for pre-induction physical. Although the reserve units are not a part of the college program, they are being promoted by the college, which has supplied office and training space. The administrative officers in charge is Lt. Jack Anderson, an agriculture professor at the college. Members of the reserve units are exempt from being drafted under the present Selective Service regulations, and training does not interfere with their school work. Army plans are to call up the units in their unit status, if needed. The units are required to drill two nights monthly with pay, and to attend a two-week summer drill camp. Several high ratings are in the offing for members of the units. Adding Machine Paper at the Tribune Office Supply Dept.

Not all of the boys have begun track training as yet but there are quite a few out and a lot more are expected when basketball season is over. Soil Testing Laboratory Service Now Available to Local Farmers

By Homer E. Thompson
A Soils Testing Laboratory has been set up as a service in answer to public demand for running a chemical analysis of soils. The address of the laboratory is: Soil Testing Laboratory, Agricultural Extension Service, College Station, Texas.

The County Agent's office has forms and instruction for taking soil sample for soil tests. The forms are ST-1 and ST-2. The first form is instructions on how to take a soil sample test, and ST-2 is information about the soil. The cost of this service is $1.00 per sample. In large fields three or more samples may be necessary to get a fair representative sample of the field's soil. If the soil tests are to have much value, it is essential that the soil sample be truly representative. If soil is taken from a spot that is particularly fertile, the analysis will reflect this fertile spot and may not represent the general area at all. Therefore, the sample taken must be representative.

Three weeks minimum time required for you to expect to get your return on sample report. Be sure ST-2 information sheet is filled out by you to accompany each soil sample. Number your soil sample and then number your ST-2 sheet to correspond.

Here is how to take a sample: Composite samples should be taken to represent the surface of 6 inches of each different kind of soil in the field. The steps to be taken to do this job are: (1) Use a clean bucket for mixing soil samples, and clean heavy bags about 1 lb. size or pint ice cream container. (2) When taking soil samples use auger, soil sampling tube, or spade. When using a spade dig a V in the ground deep enough to be six inches vertical from the surface. Then take the spade, slice 1/4 inch thick layer from surface down.

Where a composite test is to be made, over changing soil, by slope and etc. Take several similar samples over the field. Mix thoroughly and take out about a pound of this mixture and send to laboratory for analysis. When you call for your sample sheet instructions at county agent's office, this information of taking samples will be described in detail as well as pictures on methods of taking and places of taking samples on the sheet which you will receive.

A composite sample of subsoil for field 6" to 14" deep should be sent in for observation, no charge is made of the subsoil sample.

Before limestone and fertilizer recommendations can be properly made, information on past cropping history and soil treatments as well as future cropping and rotation plans must be known. Hence the reason for filling out the ST-2 sheet. If any questions see your county agent.

The information obtained from soil test will aid in this manner: 1. Determine whether there is a deficiency of one or more plant nutrients and making fertilizer recommendations. 2. In determining need for lime and other soil amendments. 3. In diagnosing certain plant deficiency diseases. 4. In diagnosing certain soil abnormalities, such as salt spots. 5. In determining toxic quantities of materials in the soil.

Soil test will not do these items listed below:

1. A soils test will not determine whether a plant has died of root rot or other disease. (Send plant in to plant entomologist).
2. Determine the presence of nematodes or other pests.
3. Determine other physiological troubles unless caused by plant food deficiencies.
4. Determine other plant troubles caused by, excess water, temperature extremes, drought, and drowning.
5. Determine physical character of soil.

If a soil test is desired, the laboratory should be furnished with as much detailed information regarding the area from which the sample was taken as possible. This information should include kind of plants grown, how they grow, the yield, symptoms of diseases, a description of these symptoms, what plants or crops are planned, and any other details that are available. Also state what you are trying to find out. If the laboratory has this information, it will be in a better position in making recommendations.

Mailing instructions, for each soil sample tested, there will be a charge of $1.00. Make check payable to "Soil Testing Service." Place remittance in envelope with information sheet ST-2 and attach envelope to package containing the sample of soil, so they will reach the laboratory at same time. Mail to Soil Testing Laboratory, Agricultural Extension Service, College Station, Texas.

The envelope will require first class postage with information sheet ST-2 but soil sample package may be sent parcel post, both together.

Civilian Defense

Morton, along with hundreds of other small communities in the United States, has been the ball rolling toward a civilian defense plan.

A tentative program was discussed last week at Lions Club with Joe Gipson giving some up to date data on possibilities of such a program in this community.

Such a plan offers much to a community, not only in preparedness for war dangers but other disasters that are likely to occur; such as tornadoes, cyclones, fires, etc.

Morton has a number of persons well qualified to instruct the general public in both first aid and home nursing procedures. It is hoped when the call is made for a defense meeting that citizens will turn out for the meeting and also take advantage of any classes of instruction that may be offered.

On Realities

The present trend continues, said a Houston printing executive last week, "I am going to apply for a defense subcontract to print United States currency."

He was joking, of course. The speed presses the government can grind out money even faster than the other branches of the government can spend it.

It is inevitable that the harsh necessities of defense and/or war will require the government to spend money at a rate hitherto unparalleled in world history.

On the other hand the world has never before been in as sad a state as now.

Thoughtful Americans have no quarrel with the astronomical military expenditures which must be made. We have no other choice.

Yet when we are called upon to pay the price of freedom, we have a right to scrutinize the items for which the vouchers are drawn.

In the electrifying name of defense the President's budget message proposes to draw one of those vouchers in favor of what is popularly known as the Brannan plan and another in favor of what is popularly known as socialized medicine.

Are these really necessary? Or are we just kidding ourselves when we believe every bit of the energy, resource and integrity of the United States must be marshaled for the final showdown between communism and democracy?

The soldiers in Korea have long since come to grip with the realities of their profession. The time is long past for the politicians who send those soldiers into the firing line to come to grip with the realities of theirs.

There is no reality in left-handed politics when the fate of the world hangs in the balance. There is only disaster.

GOOD NEWS FOR AMERICA

Many events of the past few weeks and months have disturbed and alarmed the American people. Some of the calmest among my acquaintances are, for the first time in their lives, down right pessimistic. But this column is written after a swing through several midwestern industrial areas and the things seen and heard would strengthen anybody's confidence in the U.S.A. America has potentially the brain power, the industrial might and the moral strength to become unconquerable. I was never more certain of that.

It will require high calibre leadership to properly channel these elements, but it can be done. In direct circumstances they would somehow mobilize themselves. Last week I spent three days talking to some of the top industrial executives in America and found already subordinating every other interest to the growing urgent problem of making this nation militarily strong. A full day was spent at the big La Grange (Illinois) plant of General Motors' Electro-Motive Division where 11,000 men and women employees and an ingenious management team are daily performing production miracles.

Tumultuous Order

As I walked through the clattering, tumultuous buildings housing Electro-Motive's interconnected assembly lines and saw huge streamliner diesel locomotives rising out of the mile-long jungles of automotive and electromotive parts, it seemed impossible that there could be any strict organization, any pattern or disciplined order whatsoever in all this ebbing and flowing commotion.

But as I paused to closely watch the activities of a unit of men at work and noted the precise movement of materials into their particular orbit of action, then turned by eyes here and there and became aware of the same thing happening all about me, a thrilling tingle began to creep up the muscles of my back. Revealed in bold relief was the miraculous rhythm controlling the whole sweep of activity in this sprawling giant of mass production.

Citizens Know The Score

Millions of parts—for the powerful diesel motors, the big copper electrogenerators, and the sleek locomotive bodies in which they ride—are manufactured in this La Grange plant. It even makes the greater part of the thousands of machines on which the locomotive parts are manufactured. Loads of raw materials flow into the plant throughout the day. Astonishingly, every two hours there emerges a brightly painted, streamlined, diesel locomotive.

The Phychological Corporation has just concluded a nationwide study which revealed that 73 per cent of the people appreciate the part such big industries are playing in improving the American living standard and as bulwarks of our military strength. These people say they want the big companies encouraged or at least not molested by government. They thus disagree with those government officials and politicians who are constantly attacking and harassing big business and industry, apparently for political purposes.

Benefits of Bigness

With my visit to the G. M. locomotive factory freshly in mind I doubt if even a Socialist planner could go through any one of our country's several thousand such big plants without seeing and understanding clearly that they are the pacemakers and the very sinew and muscle of American progress. While the big companies have been having their swiftest growth, the little ones have multiplied. There were 3,200,000 business and industrial units three years ago; today there are nearly 4,000,000. The big ones make business and customers for smaller ones; in fact General Motors buys from more than 100,000 smaller companies.

Lubbock, Texas—Latest figures from local recruiting offices indicate that 337 Texas Tech students have volunteered for military service.

The Air Force leads enlistments with 215, while the Navy total is 100. There have been 22 volunteers for the Marine Corps.

(FORMER MEMBER OF THE LEGISLATURE, NEWS AND RADIO COMMENTATOR)

Having completed the quickest organization in history and jet-propelled itself through preliminary stages, the 52nd Legislature gives every indication of facing the difficult tasks ahead with complete confidence that it can do the job, and, in the words of House Speaker Reuben Senterfitt "with courage and conviction, with caution and cooperation."

It is no small job which confronts our 150 Representatives and 31 Senators any time they convene. An average session will have about 1,000 bills introduced for consideration, according to the records of House Clerk Clarence Jones. The low for the last 15 years being 800 and the high 1,700, with the number increasing in recent years. A minimum estimate for this Session is about 1,500.

In addition, there are about five hundred Resolutions which must be considered, and the number of amendments to bills and resolutions will run into the thousands.

The 43 standing Committees of the House and the 38 standing Committees of the Senate and joint committees of both houses will establish procedure for considering these bills and resolutions, and will plunge into the long and arduous task of working them into constructive laws, representative of the people of Texas and the things in which they believe.

It is impossible in one article to name and detail the many operations involved in the legislative process. However, it is the purpose of this correspondent to accurately present from time to time the actual functioning of

Teenager Gets Appetite Back; Thanks Hadacol

HADACOL Supplies Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron Which Her System Lacked.

According to Sara Loraine Beck, Box 253, Coker, Alabama, when a person is only 15 years old and feels terrible, can't eat or sleep the way they should, it's mighty bad. That is the way Loraine says she used to feel, but that was, of course, before she started taking HADACOL.

Loraine found that taking HADACOL helped her system overcome deficiencies in Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is Loraine Beck's own statement: "I was run-down, sick and skinny, and weighed only 90 pounds before I used HADACOL. I would not eat because I had no appetite. Now I weigh 123 pounds and have an appetite. I feel a lot better. I have been taking HADACOL 10 months and am still taking it. I am 15 years old. HADACOL has done me lots of good."
