cases. Several other burglaries occurred from two of the men in which they have disclosed their willingness to testify in the case. Two letters from Binkley point out he is serving a 7-year term and has "cases in several other counties." In his letter to Sheriff Hancock, Binkley said, "I would like to get them all settled as soon as I can."

Ross wrote, "My understanding is that you have Thomas Binkley charged with the burglary of St. Clair's Department Store." He goes on, "Since it will probably come out that I was with him, I would like to make some kind of arrangements." He concludes, saying he will cooperate to clear up all cases possible so that his sentences can run concurrently.

Moore, who formerly resided in Bailey county somewhere in the vicinity of Baileyboro and Needmore, was working in the oilfields out of Morton at the approximate time of the burglaries, Hancock recalls. He has denied the charges.

Other burglaries which occurred about the same time included the Whiteface school, on two occasions. Carothers, soon after his arrest gave officers a written statement admitting several burglaries including the Doss break-in in which among other things a valuable wrist watch, a $2,000 ring and a $7,500 note were stolen. They were never recovered.

Other breaking which occurred about the time of the Doss burglary were Willis Food Store, Strickland Cleaners, Lackey's Grocery and Market, and each of the Lumber Companies.

Blanchard and McKinney were charged with beating James Pinkin, local laborer who twice in two weekends was sent to the hospital with severe beatings. McKinney was involved in both beatings, each of which occurred in Morton.

Mesta's case passed on to the next Grand Jury, concerned a charge of receiving and concealing goods stolen at Enochs.

An Apple For The Teachers . . .

Each year, several times, we have a fine opportunity to pay tribute to one of the things that has lifted our nation to greatness, while others drift along in mediocrity—mass, free, public education.

We can do this during Texas Public Schools Week.

We can do this during P-T-A week.

We can do it during American Education Week.

In fact, the proper way to pay tribute, is at all times. Any day of any week your children's teachers, principal, superintendent would be very grateful for the interest you would show by simply going to the school and witnessing modern education in action.

The week of Nov. 7-13 is American Education Week. Nationally the Advertising Council is building its theme for the occasion around the fact that so many parents are totally unacquainted with the school system that is educating their children.

"Isn't it time you brought an apple to the teacher," the Council says in a reminder of the old custom "Are strangers teaching your children?" is the searching question the Council asks.

Morton, like every other community the nation over, has its special school problems. Somewhere every parent of a student in the school system has a part to play in helping solve these problems. Yet often, by sitting back not daring to become acquainted with the teachers, the parent misses the opportunity to be a big help by working hand in hand with the teacher to give his child a better education.

Wouldn't be a bad idea for more of the parents to get acquainted with the faculty and with the School Board members. The Band Parents organization is an example of what can be done along those lines.

Let's not wait until something happens we don't exactly like before we march up to the schools. Shouldn't even wait until American Education Week.

Get acquainted with your children's teacher or teachers. Find out today if there's some problem your child has which you can help solve. Oft times, those poor grades on the report card could be solved with the parent's help.

Amendment Would Rip Secrecy Cloak from Public Aid

Eleven very important proposals to amend the Constitution of the State of Texas will face voters throughout the state in November at the general election. All of the proposals are extremely important because their passage or defeat will rest with the voters of the state of Texas and it is the duty of the voters to become as well informed as possible on these proposals.

The Tribune, in the interest of the public, begins herewith a series of articles that will outline each proposal and will attempt to point out the arguments for and against passage of the proposal. Then, also in the interest of the public the Tribune will take a stand on the proposals just before the election is held.

Remember this! All of these proposals have strong backing. If they did not have, they wouldn't have gotten this far. Therefore we believe you have a duty to study the proposals and to cast a vote one way or another. For just as surely as the press is charged with the responsibility of informing the voters and explaining these issues, so you, as a prospective voter have a responsibility to your fellow man to vote for what you think is right. Not to vote, is to shirk that responsibility.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 7, to amend the section of the State Constitution concerning public assistance is certainly one of the most controversial of the eleven proposals which the voters will be expected to consider and vote upon in the November General election. The controversy concerns (1) whether the proposed increase in funds would be used to help additional families or whether it would generally increase the amount of aid to those already receiving assistance; (2) and about the clause requiring that names of recipients of assistance be available to the public.

Before attempting to answer these questions, let's get the exact caption on the resolution: "AUTHORIZING THE TEXAS LEGISLATURE TO INCREASE SPENDING FOR OLD AGE ASSISTANCE, AID TO THE BLIND AND AID TO DEPENDENT CHILDREN BY $7,000,000 A YEAR AND REQUIRING THAT NAMES OF RECIPIENTS OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE BE MADE AVAILABLE TO THE PUBLIC."

The total amount of money spent per year on the state's three public assistance programs would be increased from $35,000,000 to $42,000,000 if this amendment were adopted by the voters. However, the increase would not be automatic. Under Texas laws the Comptroller would have to find additional funds available, even if the Texas Legislature appropriated the additional money. In other words the Legislature in its appropriations and the Comptroller's work hand in hand on such matters. It seems quite likely, from information now available, that an addition of as few WOULD BE NECESSARY. That is, according to the latest estimate of revenues made by the Comptroller's office.

Would those on the present rolls receive additional funds? A little, perhaps, but in all likelihood, not much. In 1953 for every month except one, the full amount of grants determined by the Department of Public Welfare were paid. In that other month, a 25 cent reduction for each person receiving old age assistance and each person receiving blind assistance was necessary. Dependent children got their full grant every month.

If anything extra were to be paid these people, it would come on a basis of re-studying the case and revising the grant. Records show that 88 percent of the public assistance money is spent in the Old Age assistance program. One out of seven of these receive the maximum of $55 per month. One out of five receiving blind assistance and one out of five dependent children are now receiving the maximum benefit.

Generally, in recent years, the change in amount of maximum benefits has come from a re-allotting or increasing of Federal funds, rather than state funds.

It could be reasonably expected that the increase in funds will mean the addition of more names to the assistance rolls rather than an increase for those already on the rolls. It is rather difficult to obtain exacting information as to how many, if any, should be added to the rolls.

The most controversial point, is the clause providing that the names of those receiving assistance be made available to the public.

This idea in itself often causes a misunderstanding in that people often believe it means that all names of persons receiving assistance would immediately be made public through newspapers, etc.

Naturally, this belief is false. Chances are, only in extreme cases would any actual names be mentioned through newspapers. The contention of most newspapermen, and of others who favor this clause, is, the public is entitled to know who is aided at the taxpayer's expense; the secrecy could conceal administrative errors; the possibility of exploitation of those recipients would be lessened; and that there are probably some who are not in genuine need and who would drop from the rolls, voluntarily, when they know their names.

Those opposing say that revealing the names of unfortunate people who are in need of help is to embarrass them, particularly in the case of dependent children.

It is also conceivable, they point out, that a hardship will be worked on relatives of these recipients. And, finally, the need to make these names available complicates the administration of the law, to a certain degree.

The question is so sharply debated that in Indiana, Federal funds were for a time withheld from the state administrators because of an argument over whether the names should or should not be made available. In the end, the names were made available and certain irregularities in the Indiana administration of funds were uncovered and corrected.

This then is the first proposal upon which you will be expected to vote either for or against.

Bula Bulldogs Rip Three Way With Devastating Power Display

The Bula Bulldogs hammered out a 48-0 triumph over Three Way, a team that was supposed to give them some trouble in a District Two 6-man conference game, Friday night.

Played on the Morton field because Three Way's field was under water, the game turned into a rout in a hurry. The Bulldogs for the second consecutive year, the scourge of the conference, romped to seven touchdowns and held Three Way's highly rated Ronald Coleman without a score. It was simply a case of too many horses for the Bula team and Coach Claude Morrison, in a statement after the game said, "We were lucky. We got lots of breaks." But luck played a very minor part. The Bula boys were fired up and they took advantage of their opportunities. They opened the scoring by forcing Three Way behind their own goal line for a safety. A 40-yard pass play from Gerald Neel to Lloyd Vaughan tallied the first touchdown. Neel also hit Vaughan for the extra point. Score: 9-0.

Burley Roberts then tallied on a punt return with Richard Blanton adding the point. Score: 16-0.

Dwayne Neel, the offensive star, danced 40 yards for the next TD. After the point, the score: 23-0. Vaughan romped 35 yards. Score: 29-0.

Harold Nichols tallied from 24 yards out, score: 36-0.

Dwayne Neel intercepted a pass and covered 41 yards for the TD. Score: 42-0.

And Neel also added the final score to complete the 48-0 rout.

The lopsided score left Bula alone on top of the league without a loss. They have yet to face Cotton Center, Smyer and Pettit.

Mrs. Key Member Of Sewing Club

The Happy Hour Sewing club met with Mrs. L. A. Cochran last Thursday evening, October 7. Mrs. Key was voted into the club as a new member.

After the business meeting, the hostess served a delicious plate to Medames Baird, Baldwin, Hawkins, Knox, McAllister, Polvado, Key, Webb and Cochran.

The next meeting is set for October 21.

Films Shown At Quarterback Meet

A handful of members of the Morton Quarterback Club turned out Thursday night to see a showing of the films of the Morton vs Sudan football game and also were shown the films of last year's Indian game with Friona.

The Sudan films were excellent in clarity, perhaps the clearest football pictures ever taken of a Morton game. However, lack of enough light at Indian stadium, forced the photographer to shoot the films at a high speed and Coach Walters revealed the speed was just too great to gain much out of studying the films. No plans were made to film any other game.

Walters discussed his team and the prospective ability of the other conference foes. He rated Seagraves as one of the real tough teams to beat. He listed Stanton, Denver City and Coahoma as the heaviest teams in the league. Scouting assignments were completed and Walters pronounced the team, except for Coats who still has a painful charleyhorse, in good condition.

Two Mortonites Join Air Force

The following Morton men have enlisted in the U. S. Air Force, and at present are taking basic training at Lackland Air Force Base at San Antonio—James E. Hamner of Route 1, Bobby L. Fred, Route 2, as reported by Sgt. Ulbrich.

Sgt. Ulbrich states he is interested in young men who have completed High School, and are interested in becoming pilots and aircraft observers for the Air Force with earnings of over $5,000 a year. For men who do not wish to fly the Air Force has many different types of jobs to offer.

Sgt. Ulbrich is in Morton every Friday afternoon from 1 until 3 p.m. Young men wishing to contact him for further information may see him at the Court House or on the street between those hours.

In all producing states, schools are substantially supported by oil industry taxes.

Oil and natural gas supply power for industries.

Petroleum fuels the machines of national defense.

Oil powers the U.S. transportation system.

Homes are heated by oil-gas-burning furnaces.

Printing inks, paints and plastics are petroleum derivatives.

Cars burn gasoline, use tires of synthetic rubber.

The products of the petroleum industry are literally everywhere. Every hour of the day, oil or natural gas serves you and virtually every other American. Oil is indispensable to our way of life; it makes the United States a better, safer country to live in.

You may wake in the morning in a room warmed by a furnace burning fuel oil or natural gas.

You drive to work, and your car burns gasoline, uses petroleum oils and greases for lubricants, rolls on tires of synthetic rubber which had their beginning in an oil refinery.

The plant where you work may depend on oil or natural gas as the source of its power. The oil and gas industry supplies 65% of the nation's energy requirements.

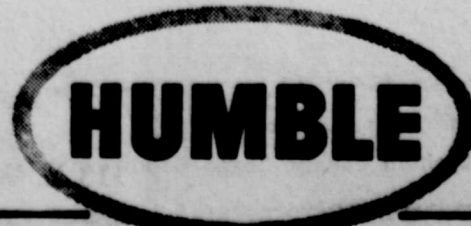

Meanwhile, if you live in Texas, your children are attending schools to the support of which the oil industry pays heavy production and ad valorem taxes. And your U. S. Army, Navy and Air Force plan the national defense with confidence that the oil industry has developed the proven reserves that can fuel their machines of war. Oil also supplies munitions—TNT for instance.

Finally, the lady of the house may prepare dinner on a stove fueled with natural gas, and you may go to bed in pajamas laundered with a petroleum detergent, after reading a newspaper printed with ink made from oil, in a room decorated with a paint manufactured from petroleum.

... And that's only a beginning.

The products of the petroleum industry, oil and natural gas, head the list of our most useful resources. A progressive, competitive oil industry, encouraged in the future as in the past, will undertake the further development that will keep them there.

CONVERSION OF LYDIA

The conversion of Lydia is found in the sixteenth chapter of Acts. Paul hears the Macedonian call, and crosses the Aegean, landing at Neapolis, being accompanied on this journey by Silas, Luke, and Timothy. From Neapolis, the company proceeds to Philippi (vss 9-12).

Verse 13. The custom of Paul was to go where he could find the most people assembled, and then when they would give attention, to teach them of the true God.
Thus on the Sabbath they went out to the river side to a place, where some women had assembled for prayer. There Paul told them the story of Jesus, Him crucified and his resurrection.

Verse 14. Among those women, was Lydia, a business woman, who was a native of Thyatira. She was a worshipper of God, but knew nothing about Jesus, and therefore needed to be saved by his blood through obedience to the gospel. She heard Paul preaching the gospel story, it reached her heart; and as a result it was opened. It was not in a mysterious manner as some contend, but Paul declares the gospel is "God's power unto salvation"
(Rom. 1:16) and it is by the preaching of it that God has "chosen to save them that believe" (1 Cor. 1:21).

Verse 15. Lydia and her household were converted. The way of salvation is just as clear in this case of conversion as in all the others: Belief in Christ, turning to God through Christ, being baptized into Christ (Acts 2:37,38; 8:36,38; Gal. 3:27).

Many have attempted to get infant sprinkling out of this conversion. But to do so, we must assume that Lydia was a married woman; we must assume she had children; we must assume she brought them all the way from Thyatira with her;
we must assume that some of those children were infants; thus, we see that such a theory must be COMPLETELY based on ASSUMPTION, and nothing more.

Lydia's conversion illustrates the glory of small beginnings.
This opened a new continent and proved to be the mightiest thing in European history. When you that are unsaved become Christians, it will be the greatest thing that you have ever done.

OUR LEGION Color Guard became the official "greeting bearers" of Morton this past week end as they went to Las Cruces, N. M., Friday night, to help welcome home National American Legion Commander Seaborn P. Collins, former resident of Morton.

WE THINK, a fine gesture in that Collins who used to manage the Slaughter Farms here, will make one of his early trips in official capacity to the Morton Legion Post.

ISN'T JUST a color guard sponsored project, either. The Lions, the Jaycees and the Chamber of Commerce kicked in funds to enable the guard to make the two day trip. That's as it should be.

The First!

Phillips 66 brings you the first All-Weather Motor Oil which has proved it meets the most exacting standard ever established for automobile lubrication . . .

Mil-0-2104, Supplement 1 level.

The toughest standard ever set up for automobile lubrication is the Mil-0-2104 Supplement 1 test. New TROP-ARTIC is the first all-weather motor oil to meet the requirements of this test. It is an oil which will serve you winter and summer . . . an oil so good it can double the life of an automobile engine!

Compared to ordinary motor oils, new TROP-ARTIC reduces ring wear 40% or more. It cuts oil consumption 15% to 45%. It keeps pistons and bearings cleaner . . . longer-lasting. It saves you money by increasing gasoline mileage. This has been demonstrated in tests representing over 150,000 miles of driving.

TROP-ARTIC is truly an all-weather oil . . . S.A.E. 10W through S.A.E. 30. Therefore it flows instantly for easy starting at sub-zero temperatures, and yet it retains the film strength necessary to prevent engine wear under high temperature driving conditions. It isn't just heavy duty. It's double duty.

Any car, in any climate, at any time of the year will perform better with Phillips 66 TROP-ARTIC. It is a worthy companion product to Phillips 66 FLITE-FUEL, the new high performance gasoline recently introduced by Phillips. It pays to stop at the station where you see the Phillips 66 Shield.

AT THIS WRITING, were afraid they'd have to make the trip by a new, longer route because of the flood situation at Roswell. They'd expected to go through Roswell but any idea of that was washed away by the heavy rains which poured the water down mountain sides into four New Mexico towns, including Roswell.

we are still . . .

NOT EXACTLY SURE where the newest interpretation of the state's new law covering drunk driving convictions leaves us. Formerly, the judge had the right to place the convicted person on probation instead of using the three-day jail sentence. But the higher courts have ruled that this particular power is unconstitutional as far as the presiding judge is concerned.

EITHER, the law will have to be re-written or that clause is just struck out and from here on in when a person is convicted of DWI he or she will go to jail, regardless of what the fine is.

we hope . . .

TO HAVE a clear interpretation of this by the time the paper goes to press, but as you know, this column is written several days earlier.

we're sorry . . .

IF OUR ACCOUNT of the Morton-Seagraves game sounds a little unfair to the boys. It is a natural assumption that everyone should back the team to the hilt and that if you can't say something good about someone, it's better not to say anything at all.

Performance of Mechanical Cotton Picker

A conventional barbed spindle cotton picker was used to compare its performance in harvesting 10 varieties of cotton grown on Miller clay soil in the Brazos River Valley. The picker also was used to test the effect of population on picker performance in harvesting Deltapine D-5 varieties.

Table 4 shows the pounds of seed cotton lost on the ground and left on plants, and the percentage of cotton on the plants that was harvested by the picker. Hi-Bred, which has a short staple and a compact lock gave the greatest ground and plant losses and the lowest machine efficiency of all varieties, 68.6 per cent. The longer staple and more fluffy lock type cottons, such as Empire, Stoneville and Deltapine, gave efficiencies of 93.8, 89.9 and 89.1 per cent, respectively. Machine performance in harvesting other fairly open-boll varieties ranged from 82.6 per cent for Lankart 57 to 88.9 per cent for Northern Star.

Table 4 also shows that in picking all varieties except Stoneville, as much or more cotton was left on the plant that was dropped to the ground. The largest loss on the ground occurred in picking Hi-Bred. This was 124 pounds of seed cotton per acre. An equal amount was left on the plants. The least amount dropped to the ground occurred in harvesting Empire, which amounted to only 18 pounds of seed cotton per acre.

Table 4. Performance of mechanical cotton picker in harvesting 10 varieties of cotton, Brazos River Valley Laboratory, 1952 (1-)

Variety	Number of plants per acre	Storm loss before machine picking	Cotton lost by picker		Yield on plants before picking	Cotton harvested by machine	Per cent cotton on plant harvested by picker
			On ground	On plant

Texacala	25,483	11	40	129	1051	882	83.9
Northern Star	23,653	10	25	70	859	764	88.9

Stoneville	16,988	114	65	41	1054	948	89.9

(1-) All weights shown are pounds of cleaned seed cotton per acre.

Much seed cotton was left on the plants in picking Texacala, and Hi-Bred, amounting to 129, and 124 pounds of seed cotton per acre, respectively. These varieties had staple and boll characteristics which caused the picker to partially pick many bolls. This condition is usually termed "tagging."

Indians Upset, 13-0

BY EDDIE IRWIN

In a performance they'll rue the rest of the season but may never quite find out what went wrong, the Morton Indians succumbed 13-0 to Seagraves last Friday night as the Eagles won by the simple expediency of outthrusting the Indians.

A sizeable contingent of Mortonites who made the trip were absolutely shocked by the lack of offensive punch and by the almost complete abandon of fundamental blocking and tackling on the part of a team they'd expected to see rise to loftier heights than any Indian team in many a year. What went wrong, nobody could exactly figure out.

For one, the play calling seemed to be all mixed up. The offensive blocking just wasn't there and the Indian tacklers repeatedly let Eagle ball carriers slip through.

their arms and romp over them for sizable gains. The reason the game didn't turn into a rout seemed to be simply because Seagraves themselves had no semblance of the tough teams they've fielded in years gone by.

Friday it was a battle of two impotent teams. Breaks ran rampant all over the field, and if you're inclined to see the result on breaks, you could conceivably say bad breaks cost Morton the game.

The game was cleanly fought. Almost unbelievably so, in view of the fact that it was a conference encounter. But the only two penalties assessed against Morton could not have hurt any more, no matter where or when they were called. On Seagraves two yard line, third down, two to go for a TD, Morton caught a five yard penalty for backfield in motion. From the seven, with two plays left, they could not move the ball far enough. The other penalty came when Morton looked like they might halt a Seagraves drive deep in Indian territory. It was third down again and six to go for a TD. Morton was guilty of unsportsmanlike conduct and the resulting penalty took the ball to their one yard line from where most any 60 lb midget could have gained the necessary three feet in two plays.

But these things didn't cost Morton the game. The Indians made their own grief and, in too many instances, Seagraves capitalized. The Indians fumbled the pigskin on nine occasions and Seagraves recovered these fumbles, six times. That wouldn't have been so bad against a team that had no scoring punch of its own, except that when Seagraves reciprocated with 10 fumbles, Morton let the Eagles regain eight of their own fumbles. Thus, with a loose ball rolling around the field 18 times, Seagraves was more alert for lucky if you insist on using that term) 14 times.

You can't take away some of the fine work on the part of Barber and McDonald, Eagle ball carriers who did a splendid job on occasion, and in the fourth period finally gave Seagraves a slight edge in total offense. Nor can you take much from the efforts of Indian carrier Donnie Waller who relentlessly smacked the middle of the Eagle line and slogged out yard after yard for little avail. What few times he ever was handed the ball, Harrison did a fair job of ball toting, almost breaking away twice. But fans were left wondering why he wasn't called upon more often. Alfred Coats made a pair of remarkable pass catches, and Mills passes, most of the night were accurate. But Mills, time and again with 10-15 seconds to look over the field, wound up trying to run the ball or being tackled for a long loss. Jerry Don just couldn't seem to spot any receivers. On one occasion he almost broke loose around right end but with two blockers in front of him, one suddenly pulled out to block a man behind Mills and left the runner unprotected from one side.

But even with all this, the sluggishness of the Indians team and poor judgement on several occasions hurt bad. Only Ramsey and Cox seemed to be tackling clean. When the runner got by or around them, it usually remained for Waller to make the stop if it was to be made.

One Morton fumble was the result of a punt fielded on the run while the Indians back was surrounded by Seagraves tacklers. One time, with fourth down and several yards to go, deep in their territory, the Indians gambled on a run. Though they made it, the play was as foolish as any local fans have seen this year. With time running out in the game they called running plays when they knew nothing less than two touchdowns could help their cause. That, in view of the fact that they moved quicker and more effectively when passing.

With Waller being called upon to do most of the punting because of the injury to regular punter, Alfred Coats' leg, the Indians, late in the game decided to gamble on a fake kick. The decision was alright except that of all occasions to try to fool the opposition, they suddenly put Coats into the game. Naturally, with his injured leg, Coats was easy prey for the Eagles who weren't fooled a bit.

After three solid years of disappointments the fans probably got their worst one last Friday night. But there are other games and other nights and the Indians have shown, against Otton and Sotola that they can hustle and play good ball. Maybe Friday's disastrous battle was only a good lesson.
