WE LOST AGAIN; DESPITE A LARGE TURNOUT OF RIDERS

Hale County, still bringing an average of nearly 30 riders to each parade, captured top honors in the posse riding competition at Brownfield last weekend and the Cochran riders failed to place.

The local group brought 20 riders to the Terry County event but according to Crute Snyder, president of the posse association, a new method of judging now places the emphasis on matching of horses rather than on the number of riders entered.

It now appears that the local boys will have to work on the matching of horses if they are to capture any more trophies.

Bussey, 23 years old, had driven to Sunnydale to meet a brother who had just returned from Korea. The two were driving back to Portersville when the accident occurred, 15 miles from home. The brother was only slightly injured.

The funeral was held on Tuesday June 7th at Portersville. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace made the trip to California by car with Jack's sister, Mrs. Howard Swisher of Texas; a brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wallace of Oklahoma City and a half sister of the victim, Mrs. Bill Bassett of Maude, Oklahoma.

Two from Here Attend Legion Boys' State

Dick Kennedy and Carl Proctor, Morton High school juniors returned June 12th from a week stay at Boy's State in Austin.

The two, sponsored by the Morton Lions Club and the Morton Jaycees, were among 580 who set an all time record for number of boys at the annual American Legion Boy's State, held on the Texas U. campus.

So great was the number of entrants sponsored by the more than 700 Legion posts in Texas, attempts to get another Morton boy admitted, failed.

There were no Morton girls attending Girl's State this year, which ends this week. The quota of 380 was already filled before Morton applied for entrance for any girls.

Bureau Seeks County Help In Grass Fight

A small but highly interested group of farmers and Cochran County Farm Bureau directors heard three Farmer County Farm Bureau officials warn, Thursday night that bindweed can bring destruction to farm land.

(NOTE: A story dealing with the fighting of bindweed will be found on an inside page of this publication of the Tribune)

The meeting was called by Mervyn Roberts, county Bureau president, and was the third in a series of practical educational programs being offered by the Bureau this year.

The Farmer group told how they had organized to fight their most destructive weed, bindweed; gaining the support of the ASC, County Commissioners Court, and Texas Highway Department.

Although, according to Homer Thompson, County Agent, there is one spot of bindweed in the county, the group was of the opinion that all efforts here should now be on the eradication of Johnson grass.

The Bureau will seek the aid of the Commissioner's Court in destroying Johnson grass from bar ditches.

The race will be run in four preliminary heats and a final heat, from the inside of a circle set up in the street on the west side of the square. Entrance fee is $10 for each Terrapin.

Morrow said persons may pay their $10 entrance fee to any member of the Legion or the Posse and may pick up their terrapins from the truck, on the square, anytime next Saturday morning.

Posse Polo Team Wins at Slaton

The Cochran County Sheriff Posse, just now getting the feel of things in this Palmetto Polo business, won a League game, Tuesday night as they defeated Slaton's riders by a narrow 5-4 margin.

It was the first victory of the season for the Cochran riders who lost one previous league game and one practice encounter.

No official list of the local team's standing in the league was available as the Tribune went to press.

The local team will face Br-wfield in a game to be played at the local Rodeo grounds on Sunday afternoon at 3 P. M.

There will be no admission charge. Mortonites are invited to come out and see the game that is fast becoming one of the most popular of all games played on horses.

J. A. Petree Recovering; Was Found Unconscious at His Home Here

The condition of J. A. Petree, long time Morton resident who was found unconscious in his home here Sunday afternoon by a son, was reported good on Tuesday evening and he was able to receive visitors at the Cochran County Hospital.

After he regained consciousness on Tuesday, Petree told friends he had suffered a dizzy spell as he was out in the yard and when he got back in the house he fainted. He remembered being in the house alone but was not sure how long he had been there. He lives by himself.

Mr. Petree was found by a son, Curtis. The son knocked on the door and started to leave as he heard a noise and investigated to find the 75-year old man unconscious behind a door. He was suffering from malnutrition.

At first, foul play was feared when the old gentleman was discovered. He had been lying in blood and had evidently at one time or another walked in the blood and tracked it over the house. His glasses were found outside in the yard but the doors of the house were locked and he had quite a few dollars in his pockets. There would have been no motive for foul play other than robbery. But when he was able to talk, Petree convinced the children he was a victim of a dizzy spell.

Members of the family who arrived early this week to be at the sick man's bedside included: Mrs. Betty Richardson, daughter of Hobbs, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Pickett of Midland, a daughter Mrs. Elsie Schuessler and Wanda, of Austin; Curtis (Que) Petree of Lubbock, a son; Chester of Enochs, another son; Andy of Littlefield, another son.

It was the second overall defeat for the local riders who dropped an exhibition to Dawson County, 7 to 5 a week earlier. But manager Holman and the players who comprise the local team figure they are coming along much better and expect to win several games before the season is over.

Little Leaguers Opened Play Yesterday; League Play Today

With the biggest blare of fanfare Morton has given anything in many a year, Little League activity opened yesterday evening at the Little League ball park, with all four of the Little League teams and two pony league teams playing games.

The official season opening is this afternoon, and, although the soil condition is not as good as had been hoped for, the games will be played on the Little League Park and all practice sessions will be on another field.

A tentative schedule has been set up for the actual league games and for practice sessions.

Inspiring was the word for the scene presented on Wednesday afternoon as the Little Leaguers took the field in the ball park constructed specially for them. They were all decked out in their brand new uniforms. The announcer called out the names of the boys. The official umpiring staff was ready.

At that was needed to make the scene complete was the hustle of the youngsters. And hustle, they did — from the first moment they set feet upon the field.

Clad in spanking new uniforms, the Sox, Cubs, Cards and Giants participated in the Little League games and the Indians met the Cubs in the Pony League encounter.

In the games played on opening day yesterday, all exhibitions, the Sox walloped the Cards, 13-0 in the opener as the Cards showed a definite need for experience. The Cubs came to life in the 4th inning to push across six unearned runs and thumped the Giants by a 9 to 3 score. The Yanks hammered out an easy win over the Indians in the Pony League encounter by an 11-1 count.

Beginning today, here's the tentative schedule for workouts by leagues. The Pony League will play on Wednesdays and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. Their practices will be announced by their managers.

Little Leaguers will play their scheduled games on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, at 6:30 each night, one game per day. All boys are requested to be at the field at 6 p.m. on the evenings they play so they can participate in the pregame warmups and so they'll be sure to have their name on the playing roster if they are to play.

Boys not on time, may not get to play. The field will also be reserved from 5 until 6 p.m. for the Little League practice sessions.

Minor Leagues will be in session in the afternoons from 2 until 4:30 p.m., with a definite game schedule to be announced as soon as teams are formed.

Beginning today here is the Little League schedule for the first half of the season:

June 16 Cards vs Giants
June 17 Cubs vs Sox

Referendum On Wheat Called For June 25

The wheat referendum vote, to determine whether or not the marketing quota program will be in operation for the 1956 wheat crop has been set for June 25.

L. L. Taylor, Chairman of the Cochran County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, advised that the referendum will be held at the County ASC office, Saturday, June 25, with the polls open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Notices of 1956 wheat allotments were mailed to wheat farmers in Cochran County on May 31, 1955.

Mr. Taylor explains that if the vote is favorable, the program will be in operation for the 1956 wheat crop, and price support for wheat, depending on the supply, will probably be between 75 and 82 percent of parity. A farmer who exceeds his farm wheat allotment or 15 acres, whichever is larger, will be subject to a marketing penalty equal to 45 percent of parity on the excess production.

If the vote is unfavorable, the support will be 50 percent of parity. In either case, only the wheat from farms where the acreage allotment is not exceeded will be eligible for price support.

At least two-thirds of those who vote must favor the quotas if the program is to be in operation for the 1956 wheat crop. If more than one-third vote "NO", the wheat Marketing Quota Program will not be in effect for the 1956 crop.

Every person, including husband and wife, who will have an interest in more than 15 acres of wheat in 1956 will be eligible to vote.

The office says, "Vote as you wish, but be sure to vote in the referendum."

REA Officials Hold Price on Rodeo Lights

The Cochran County Rodeo Association will be able to stage 4th annual Texas' Last Frontier Rodeo as usual this year, it was told this week when the directors of Bailey County Electric Cooperative unanimously approved the $11.45 per month electric bill for the lights at the arena.

The original contract was for a total of five years and still has three years to run.

Although the REA is losing money on the established price, they felt they should go along with the original agreement they had made.

Local rodeo directors had expressed doubts that the rodeo would be held if the rates on electricity were higher.

ALASKA—Where Hamburgers Bring From 75¢ to 1.25 on the Pretty Days

Enthusiasm is the only way to describe Seth Moore's feelings about Alaska.

And he should know Alaska—he made that north country his home for three years, part of that time as a muskrat hunter.

But all that is a long story, and to appreciate it you would have to talk to Seth Moore, who has been visiting here with Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Doss, the Moores' uncle and aunt.

Moore spent his first year in Alaska alone, preparing a home for his family, Mrs. Moore and Buddy.

The Moores are now living in Stevensville.

And Moore has a standing invitation to speak to the Jaycees the next time he's in town—who knows, some Jaycee might want to exchange West Texas sand for Alaska snow.

"Expensive" is the way Moore describes living up north, but wages are equally high. Heavy clothing is needed in winter, fuel for homes runs into heavy costs, freight is high from the states to Alaska, a good meal at a cafe runs from $4.00 to $6.00 and often $8.00, and hamburgers range in cost from 75¢ to $1.25 each.

Incidentally Moore was a muskrat hunter while awaiting a position with a contractor with whom he had worked in the states.

His cabin was 15 miles from the nearest human life, and his daily round of traps carried him another 15 miles from his cabin—alone, he says, he was careful to steer clear of the 1,000 to 1,200-pound bear that regularly ate the newly skinned muskrats.

Entertainment: the ice carnival, special shows, community projects—but the big thing lacking, says Moore, is sufficient churches to care for the folks who want to go to church. "Alaska is crying for churches," he says.

And, too, there are the northern lights, the fast growing gardens in season, flowers, the wild animals, the breakup of ice in the spring, the heavy snows, and the thrill of being able to be near the frontier.

Fight Bindweed Now, Is Warning Given High Plains Farmers

(NOTE: The following re-print is taken from the State Line Tribune of Farmer county, and was brought to Thursday night's Farm Bureau meeting by the president of the Farmer County Farm Bureau.)

With the weather, irrigation wells, crop prices, insects, finances, and a hundred other things to worry about, most Farmer county farmers just about have their hands full these days, and for this reason, a serious menace to their entire farming economy is sneaking up on their "blind side."

That menace is bindweed—a small, innocent-looking plant that is gradually, but surely, taking acre after acre of productive farmland all over Farmer county.

Bindweed is almost impossible to eliminate. About the only hope a farmer has is to stop it before it stops him. It's a case of control instead of cure.

County Agent Joe Jones this week sounded a warning that "Bindweed is much more widespread over the county than is generally imagined," and he urges farmers to take immediate action to prevent its spread.

Several fronts are united in the fight against bindweed in Farmer county. The State Highway Department has acted in treating infestations along highway rights-of-way, and the county is now participating in control measures to the extent that it will pay for sterilant which is used along county rights-of-way.

Still, the job is up to the farmer as an individual, and Jones says now is the time to get after bindweed. The plants are blooming, and can be easily recognized and isolated. In addition, moisture is available to help dissolve chemicals.

Like cotton, warns the agent, bindweed produces bloom and fruit at the same time, which means that the pest is just about ready to regenerate itself. There will be bindweed seed within the next twenty days," estimates the agent.

At present, the only two places in the county where soil sterilant can be obtained are at Farmer County implement in Friona, where it is available at a cost of $12.25 per 100 pounds, and Cummings Farm store.

Sodium chlorate, chosen as the sterilant, renders the soil unproductive for from two to three years when applied at the recommended rate of five pounds per square rod, or 800 pounds per acre.

For farmers who will make treatments in their own fields, federal assistance through the county ACP program can be obtained. This amounts to an approximate cost sharing of 50 per cent.

Like other programs, however, this requires prior approval, and farmers are cautioned to clear with the ASC office.

Farmer county is very fortunate in being as weed-free as it is, emphasizes the agent, and the object is to keep it that way.

With bindweed on the increase, one might well wonder how it gets here in the first place.

There are many ways in which the infestation of bindweed is spread. Some of the more common ones include planting seed, custom combines, and hay imported from bindweed-infested areas.

Seed brought from other areas sometimes has bindweed seed as a stowaway, and seed sometimes cling to wheels of vehicles that pass near bindweed patches.

In fact, bindweed is about as "mysterious" as the common cold. It pops up everywhere, and is almost impossible to eliminate. Bindweed seed which has lain on top of the ground has been known to germinate after as long a period as 20 years. With this fact in mind, it might be pointed out that a farmer doesn't really know whether he has bindweed or not.

Another thing which makes control difficult is the lack of an adequate set of laws to protect seed buyers. As of now, seed can be sold in Texas which is infested with noxious weeds.

The County agent recommends that farmers buy certified seed whenever possible, and to "read the tag at all times."

Control of bindweed seems to be largely a matter of education. To reduce the general lack of intelligence about what bindweed actually is, Jones has recently conducted short courses with 4-H clubs across the county.

"All club boys have now had an opportunity to inspect and identify bindweed," the agent reports. It is also significant that in visiting the four schools of the county, in every case it was possible to find infestations for laboratory work within walking distance of the schoolground.

Concerted effort against the spread of this hardy little plant began last year, and continued to grow until the present program developed. The Farmer county farm bureau lent its support in the early stages and helped originate a special weed committee which still is in operation.

Today, one entire part of Farmer county is considering waging a war on the pest—the Rhea community. By next week, details of their cooperative effort will be worked out.

Flame Weeding Boosts Farm Output

LA JUNTA, Colo.—Often called "Nature's mortgage" on farm property, weeds can reduce production up to 30%, according to agricultural experts.

Growing in irrigation and drainage ditches, they obstruct the flow of water and increase irrigation time and costs. Weeds along fence rows and other isolated areas contaminate nearby fields and can double the cost of cultivating and hoeing. They can also consume up to 35% of the food values in average farm soil, robbing crops of nourishment.

Mounted on a tractor which tows a mobile liquefied petroleum gas fuel tank, the new weed burner illustrated can direct a 6- to 12-foot blanket of flame to clear a mile of dense weed growth per hour and use only 40 gallons of LP-Gas (butane-propane) to destroy an acre of weed growth along the average ditch bank. Roadside or plots with growth of lesser density can be controlled at lower cost figures.

With such plants as water grass or bulrushes, growth can easily be controlled with three gas flaming applications per eight-month growing season. Research tests show, that after the third year, only one application is needed to maintain a desirable soil condition.

Because it is safe, economical to use and available in all sections of the country, LP-Gas makes an ideal weed-and-burner fuel.

Mill-grade Cotton Urged for Area

(NOTE: The following re-print is from the Dallas Morning News and appears here because it concerns a problem often talked about on the South Plains.)

HARLINGEN, Tex.—Texas and Oklahoma cotton farmers were urged here Friday to change the varieties they grow to the kind which textile mills want instead of growing "unwanted surplus" cotton for sale to the government.

Lamar Fleming Jr., chairman of the board of the cotton firm, Anderson, Clayton, and Company said most of the cotton grown in the two states are too short in staple lengths.

He spoke at the American Cotton Congress, holding its 16th annual session here.

The large part of cotton grown in the Southwest measures fifteen-sixteenths of an inch or shorter. The need by most mills, he said, is lengths of one and a sixteenth to one and three sixteenths inches.

Demand for the short lengths has declined to only 40 per cent of what it was in 1940, Fleming said, while the demand for the longer staple length has more than doubled, and now is 64 per cent of the total demand.

Encroachments of jute and new paper materials upon cotton in the coarse uses, and the loss of the low-income Chinese market—a big user of coarse goods—has caused the decline in short staple cotton, Fleming said.

He said that the present government loan program encourages the growing of the short-staple cotton because farmers are able to get just as much money as they would get from the longer staple.

But looking into the years ahead, he said that other cotton-growing areas of the nation are turning to the cotton which the mills want. And, if the Southwest doesn't too, it may experience more setbacks in cotton acreage.

Fleming offered two ways for the Southwest cotton area to protect against this restriction: Use every means to adapt production to demand; and to attract demand to the surplus shorter staples by pricing them at levels "relative to the prices of the scarcer qualities that will make it profitable for mills to use more of them."

He asked the Cotton Congress to see that the need for this change "is brought to the attention of every cotton grower, county agent, ginner, crusher, cotton buyer, and banker in the Southwest."

"This matter cannot wait," Fleming said. "To avert disaster, we must get the right varieties planted in 1956 and help our congressmen and the administration to hold the government loan to its intended function of reasonable price protection instead of the role of our principal customer."

Touching on the problem of price supports and acreage controls, Fleming said that a change in mental attitude is needed "that gives principal emphasis to costs of production and secondary emphasis to price—the reverse of the attitude that conceived the policies which have brought us to our present condition."

He said that more dollars can be saved by producing cotton cheaper than can be made by selling it higher.

"Producing it cheaper is the way toward greater cotton-grower income that is in complete harmony with the national consumer and tax payer interest," he said.

K.P. Ewing, head of the Department of Agriculture's cotton insect research program, said that cotton-belt-wide evaluation of two new experimental systemic insecticides is now in progress and appear "very promising."

These systemics differ from normal insecticides in that they are absorbed by plants and move through them with the sap.

Norfolk, Va., May 26 — Rear Admiral Arleigh Burke, USN, Commander Destroyer Force, U. S. Atlantic Fleet, answers newsmen's questions at a conference called today immediately after President Eisenhower announced the nomination of Admiral Burke as Chief of Naval Operations.

The conference was held at the headquarters of Admiral Jerard Wright, USN, Commander in Chief U. S. Atlantic Fleet. Admiral Burke's appointment to the post, which calls for a full four-star Admiral, would mean an advancement of two full grades for him. The general admiral is known throughout the fleet as "31 Knot" Burke, since his World War II destroyer commands.

Ask Your Preacher

where the Bible calls baptism a non-essential. No doubt you have heard your preacher say that, so you have the right to ask him where the Bible says it is a non-essential. While you are waiting for him to show you the passage you might show him what Jesus said in Mk. 16:16, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." Ask him why Christ made both belief and baptism necessary to salvation if baptism is non-essential. Ask him why he always puts salvation before baptism when the Bible always puts salvation after baptism. The two ideas conflict and therefore both cannot be true. Either the Bible is wrong when it places salvation after baptism, or your preacher is wrong when he places salvation before baptism. Ask your preacher which is right.

Peter said to sinners who inquired of him what to do to be saved: "Then Peter said unto them, repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." (Acts 2:38). Note carefully the language used by Peter. He said to be baptized "for the remission of sins." I am sure that you can see that if baptism is a non-essential, then remission of sins is a non-essential. Since this passage says that baptism is for the remission of sins ask your preacher if he thinks some other passage will deny what this one affirms. If the Bible did that, it would be a book of contradictions and would not be worthy of acceptance.

Ask your preacher if it is essential for a person to be in Christ? If a person cannot be saved out of Christ, then it is essential for a man to get into Christ. The Bible says: "For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ." (Gal 3:27). What puts a person into Christ? Paul says we are baptized "into Christ." Therefore, if a man can be saved without baptism, he can be saved without getting into Christ. Ask your preacher where the Bible says a man can get "into Christ" before and without water baptism. Send us your Bible questions.

Bledsoe Girl, Mary G. Bryant, Gets Scholarship

Plainview, June 13, (Sp.) — Miss Mary Gale Bryant, Route 1, Morton, has been awarded a tuition scholarship of $288 to Wayland College for the 1955-56 session because of her high scholastic record at Bledsoe High school. She was graduated as Salutatorian.

Miss Bryant, who has enrolled for summer school at Wayland, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Bryant.

During her high school days she served as class secretary and was a member of the choir. She also played basketball.

Miss Bryant, if she completes her college work in the usual four year period, will be a member of the Golden Anniversary Class at Wayland College. Already plans for the celebration of the fiftieth birthday of the college, during the session of 1958-59, are being made, according to President A. Hope Owen.

To be a member of this class will be an experience long to be remembered.

Miss Bryant is a member of the summer school group which has registered a 10 percent increase over the 1st term of summer school last year. During the session just closed, Wayland College recorded a 12 percent increase over the preceding session.

Remarkable Change Comes Over Three Cities As Atomic Age Is Unshered Into Washington

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story is the first in a series of seven, written for weekly newspaper publication by the General Electric company. The purpose is to show the many ways in which atomic power, heretofore generally thought of as a weapon of war, will be used in peacetime projects which will more than likely even amaze the most forward thinking persons.

Seldom in American history have three neighboring villages seen such violent change as Hanford, White Bluffs and Richland in southeastern Washington during the infancy of the Atomic Age.

One of the tiny communities billowed almost overnight into a sprawling boom town and quickly faded away and was lost to the desert wind and sand.

The second village was swallowed up, its value as a potential orchard center overshadowed by the need for an atomic energy plant site.

The third outlived the roaring boom period and since has grown into an unincorporated city of 27,000 persons, its future secure as a business and residential area for atomic plant personnel.

Deep inside the barricaded boundaries of the Hanford atomic energy project today lies the remnant of the town which once was given great promise of becoming a leading producer of orchard crops. The town was White Bluffs.

Once a small orchard community on the banks of the majestic Columbia, it since has been absorbed by the sprawling, bustling Hanford project. Now it is a crossroad in the center of a 600-square-mile government reservation where General Electric company operates the Hanford plutonium plant for the Atomic Energy Commission.

The town which gave its name to the Hanford project also was a quiet community of 300 persons before its selection as a site for the huge atomic energy plant turned it into one of the biggest boom towns the west has ever known.

More than 50,000 workers, comprising workers and their families moved into the area in early 1943 to help construct giant plant facilities. They were people from all over the country recruited from wartime labor markets to build the original Hanford works. When their job was completed, most of them moved on. Those who stayed behind to operate the atomic energy plant moved to little Richland Village, some 25 miles away from the nearest plant area.

Today, the town of Hanford is a ghost town, its blacktopped streets and windswept, wooden frame skeletons offering only slight evidence of its hawling past.

Richland, a village of 250 persons which stood 30 miles down river from Hanford and White Bluffs, survived its sister communities and the fickle prosperity of the era. It expanded and absorbed its new people until today it is one of the largest cities in Eastern Washington.

Johnson Favors Federal Aid on Irrigation Bill

Development of Texas water projects costing up to $10,000,000 for irrigation and other purposes would be given a boost by enactment of a bill Senator Lyndon B. Johnson is now supporting in the United States Senate.

The bill proposes to permit the Federal Government to aid local communities, acting through proper organizations, in financing these projects. The local irrigation and water districts could secure Federal loans up to $5,000,000 on projects costing not more than $10,000,000.

Local interests would be required to finance the difference between the Federal loan and the total cost of the project. Loans would be repayable over a 50-year period. If a community organization can qualify, some part of the sum needed for the project might come in the form of a grant from the Federal Government.

"I am supporting this bill," Senator Johnson said. "I think its enactment would be a good thing for Texas. It would be an important step in helping Texas communities to advance toward a solution of their water problems."

"The legislation is in some respects supplemental to the upstream flood prevention law," the Senator said. "In addition to its irrigation features, it would make funds available to municipalities to capture water for domestic use under the same general rules."

A similar bill has already passed the House of Representatives.

CHAMBER WILL MEET

Morton Chamber of Commerce directors meet tonight, Thursday, for their regular meeting at the East Side Cafe at 7:30 p.m. Any member or outsider desiring to do business with the Chamber is cordially invited to attend.

Because of the almost complete absence of facilities for caring for its increased population in the early days of the Hanford project, the responsibility of providing the necessities of a big town was placed with the plant contractor in those days of E. I. duPont Nemours, prime contractor to the Army engineers.

The essential activities of a municipality — police and fire protection, supplying the necessary utilities and recreational facilities — are now provided by the Community services section of GE.

This group covers all normal departments of most cities in the nation: everything from public works and safety, to parks and library boards. In addition, it manages most of the town real estate rentals and operates the plant administration.

The communities of Hanford and White Bluffs now are chapters in American history, but Richland — a child of the Atomic Age — is making history as this nation's first atomic city.

Joe Petree, cousin of the bridegroom of Seagraves, served as best man. Ushers were Bill Evans and Paul Cox of Morton, close friends of the bridegroom and Beuford Dudley, Lamesa, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride's attendants wore pink organdy over taffeta dresses and carried white carnations. The groomsmen wore light-colored suits. Roland Nitcher, friend of the bridegroom sang, "I Love You, Truly" and "Always" as 70 friends watched the couple exchange wedding vows.

By Eddie Irwin

IT'S HARD FOR us to get thru a column each week without mentioning the progress of the Little Leagues. We realize there are a few folks around here who are plumb tired of hearing about the Little Leagues, not to mention othwell sir... WERE ENTHUSED about it because we feel like its going to accomplish a lot of things that are sorely needed here. We've already gone into that a week or two ago. Our only wish is that we could get our boy interested, but he isnt, and that's that.

THE THREE OR four men who have done so much to get the idea over this year, deserve a rousing thanks for what they have done.

THE LEAGUES begin their regularly scheduled play. Why not plan to come out and see these kids in action, as soon as possible and you'll know what a wonderful program it really is.

TO BE ENTHUSIASTIC over is the work accomplished by the Cemetery Association. They've got some real progress to point to out at the local cemetery, even though the grass is just now beginning to come up.

LIKE ALMOST ALL successful projects, is mostly the work of a few persons who were interested enough in it to really work hard.

IN THE PROCESS of passing our bouquets - a process that we all should practice more often - we're going to thank the REA directors and their manager for their decision to "stay with an original contract" with the local Rodeo Association and charge only $11.45 per month for lights.

THIS BARGAIN is costing the REA money. The cost of the electricity they are furnishing is more than the price they are charging the local association. From that viewpoint, they aren't doing good business by this contract.

but as usual... THERE ARE TWO SIDES to that story. First of all, in voting to stick with their original bargain the directors felt that they should live up to their bargain, despite the fact that according to their manager, more lights were being used than had been originally estimated when the contract was made.

in other words... PERHAPS WE HEDGED just a little on our part of the contract. The minimum cost originally set in the contract is too low, according to manager D. B. Lancaster, because a larger transformer was needed to supply the electricity.

TO GET THIS information - other side of the story. We've seldom seen a problem, when all sides of the question were fairly met and discussed, that couldn't be easily worked out.

THE FACT THAT the Bailey County Electric Cooperative directors decided to stick with the original contract even though they may not have been, and felt like they were not obliged to do so.

WE DO KNOW this Public relations is an all-important part of the operation of any business, especially those which deal with the public in as many ways as do utilities. These directors also are very aware of this.

FOR ONE MINUTE believe the REA directors overlooked this very important facet of the problem. Its entirely possible that to lose a little money on this issue may win them many friends on another issue - and others are at stake, right now, and here in Cochran County.

THANKS, to the directors and to Mr. Lancaster, both for their cooperation with the association here which is a non-profit organization, like theirs, formed to provide a service; and for also giving us their side of the story. Many of their customers will attend the rodeo, of that we are sure.

THESE THANKS are echoed by our Rodeo Association directors and all the people of Cochran County who care enough about the future of the county to take an interest in this type of matter. Unfortunately, we like Bailey County, have many persons who do not.

once again... IT'S TERRAPIN DERBY time and if as many people proportionately turn out as came all the way out to the County Barn for the event last year, folks'll be so thick on the streets of Morton on Saturday afternoon you won't be able to stir em with a stick. We dub 'there'll be - here this year, just wasn't built up this year like it was last, but it was... LOTS OF FUN last year and should be even more fun this year, now that people know just exactly what a terrapin derby is. So get your turtle (terrapin, we mean) and your $10, and join in the fun. Its all for a good cause to benefit the Legion and the Posse.

Local Women Golfers Pace SPWGA; Capture Five Trophies In Meet

Unless some drastic changes are made, Morton women golfers, who would not enter the South Plains Women's Golf Association as a Morton team, are going to win the championship.

The strange turn of events by which Morton women golfers are getting plenty of publicity, but as Levellanders, came about due to the fact the SPWGA is not accepting entries from any more 9-hole clubs. Since Levelland had already been in the competition for several years, the will be permitted to remain. However, the rules will allow Morton ladies to compete as members of the Levelland team, and as such they've been slightly terrific. All of this wasn't so hard for the opposition to take until the most recent tourney at Lubbock. Then, when every woman that turned up playing for Levelland was a Mortonite, the others began to get a little uneasy. There was talk that another year, the teams might not be allowed to use women from another city. If such a rule were inaugurated, the Levelland club would probably withdraw. They haven't been able to drum up any interest in women's golf for the past several years.

But back to the story about the most recent meet. It was here that eight Morton ladies entered and five came home with trophies. Mrs. Button Silvers, with a 79 took low net honors in the first flight. Mrs. W. W. Williamson was low gross and Mrs. T. K. Williamson's 73, was good for low net honors, in the third flight. Mrs. Luke Cole was low gross in the fourth flight and Mrs. Virgil Riley's 75 was good enough for low net honors.

Two Teams Dropped Out Of League; Morton Still Ahead

Two teams dropped out of the City Softball league this past week paring the league to six entries as the first round of activities was completed on Tuesday of this week. Howard-Shaw of Sundown and REA of Muleshoe experienced difficulties in getting enough players here each night to compete and thus decided to drop out of competition.

The dropouts affected only one game which had already been played. It reversed a victory originally won by Howard-Shaw and gave it to the Muleshoe Printers. Otherwise, all other games were already won by the two teams opponents or had not been played and were given as forfeit victories.

At the end of the first round of activities, Morton, as yet undefeated, was in first place one full tilt ahead of Bula. Enochs and Maple were battling to stay in the top division. Morton in handling the Enochs men an 11-9 defeat, completed a sweep over the first round opponents.

The Morton - Enochs clash was a thriller all the way. Enochs took an early 3-0 lead, fell behind 5-3, tied it up at 5-5, and then dropped behind to stay. The clincher was a 5th inning single in which the runner at second base was thrown out at the plate but then was safe when the Enochs catcher was unable to hold the ball. Each team collected nine hits in the game and each team numbered three unearned runs in their scoring. Cal Kerneil was the winning hurler and Johnny Van was charged with the defeat.

The game was played on Friday night as a makeup game when each of the teams drew an opponent that dropped out of the league. It had been started the previous night but was called at the end of the top half of the first inning on account of rain.

In Monday's games, Muleshoe's Printers turned in their best defensive game of the season to defeat Llano - Grande and Bula bested Maple in a fine pitcher's duel.

The loss for Llano - Grande assured them the bottom rung on the league ladder at the end of the 1st round. Bula won its game 5 to 1 though four of their runs against Maple starter, Don Lamar were unearned. Lamar and Wynn were hooked up in a real fine pitching duel. Keith gave up just three hits while Bula got five off of the Maple hurler. A double, a wild pitch and a fly ball lost Wynn's shutout in the 7th inning. In 3 league games he has fanned 41 batters and allowed just seven hits, four of them bunts. He tossed a no-hitter his second game out.

Tuesday, ending the first round of play, the Printers turned in an upset as they took advantage of Maple errors for a 9 to 6 triumph. Wayne Caffey hurled his first game for Maple. Lewellan got credit for the victory.

The victory left the Printers a game ahead of Maple, in fourth place in the league. Maple, in the first round of play, had the dubious distinction of being able to trace every one of their defeats this year to unearned runs.

Softball Teams Sought for Big Tournament at Local Diamond

City softball Commissioners began this week the job of trying to secure enough entries in the mid-season invitational softball tourney to provide fans with two weeks of real softball thrills.

At this stage, though its still a little early to tell, probably two or three of the local teams will enter competition. A lot will depend on whether or not they can obtain the services of a top notch pitcher.

It'll be a no-holds barred tourney, with anyone eligible to enter. Probable entrants at this writ.
