SHOES MATCH COSTUME COLOR; FORMAL COATS LIGHT IN TONE

STYLES may come and styles may go but there are three things we will always have with us—the silk frock and the cloth frock in sports models, and good-style kid shoes of the conservative type to wear with them.

Of the many creations in styles, fabrics and colorings we have a way of choosing the best and sticking to our choice. So with all the flares and drapes and ragged hemlines exploited we find ourselves clinging to our sports-model frock with little flare, no drapes, no temperamental hemlines, because it is the most practical and comfortable of styles for day time wear. For the same reason we are loyal to neat well-modeled shoes for general wear.

The frocks illustrated are looking forward to the early spring days when we go coatless. The vogue for the cloth coat-dress is clearly foreseen by those who are studying fashion's movements. It will come more into its own—the coat dress of light woolen weaves—than for many a year, but it will not, however, cut into the vogue for silk. As to the handling of the material in the sports and street models, silk is manipulated like wool and wool like silk.

Bordered woollens and silks will be very fashionable during the coming months. In the picture the coat-dress to the left is made of beige cloth chevron bordered in navy, the border used as a trimming. Navy blue kid pumps and a navy felt hat add the finishing touch to this fetching color scheme.

To the right is a printed silk in a two-piece sports model that borrows its design from tweed. Like its companion frock of chevron bordered shoes. You can scarcely distinguish them from black, they are so dark. After all, there is nothing lovelier than white for evening wear, and the elite are proving it out during the present social season. Not only do frocks of satin, moire, taffeta and velvet proclaim the exquisiteness of white, but wraps are most often of snowy ermine, often with white fox.

Every conceivable styling from capes to coats is given to these white fur wraps, sleeves being particularly elaborated. The ruffled sleeves which impart such a degree of distinction to the ermine coat to the right in the picture, convey some idea of the extent to which fanciful styling is carried. The sleeves of the companion ermine coat are also styled in generous graceful lines.

Very beautiful evening wraps of white velvet are also much in evidence this season. These are usually colored with white fur, although many of the very new ones have very high-standing shirred ruffs at the necklines. When white is not worn then the wrap is very near certain to be in the lovely new honey beige shade. Many prefer this delectable color to white. The collar is exactly what its name cloth, it uses its border as a trim. With this distingue silk printed in brown and beige, brown kid shoes are worn, for fashion demands that our shoes blend into the color harmony of the costume.

Kid shoes are taking to simpler lines and less trim with no intricacy of straps. The pair pictured in the foreground are of black glaze kid, piped in gold. A very new note is the separate strap with metal buckle which slips through rings on the side. And now, speaking of colorful kid shoes, give ear to this! According to the annual exhibit of fashionable footwear which recently was held in New York, men are going to wear blue imples—an indescribably delicate honey tone. A wrap made of honey beige transparent velvet furred in matching color is enchanting.

Not only does white feature in evening furs but for daytime wear the swagger coat of the hour is of white ermine.

There is also a decided tendency to trim coats of black or color with white or honey beige fur. These fur-trimmed modes are all the more captivating because of the ingenious placement of the fur in cunning hoods, novel cuffs, versatile collars which in every way depart from the usual stereotyped form.

COGITATIONS AND APHORISMS OF "JODOK"

Some people get so wrapped up in their religion that it is next to impossible to see any religion wrapped up in them.

A benefactor is one who confer a benefit—therefore a community benefactor is one who confers a benefit on his community.

For instance: many people in our community are interested in growing poultry, especially chickens and other poultry now being produced here are not especially noted for their productive qualities, either as layers or as show birds. They are just simply chickens or turkeys as the case may be.

If some citizen introduces a strain of chickens that is noted for its bountiful egg production and all the poultrymen in the community get foundation stock of this strain and thus increase their profits by securing more eggs from the same number of hens, the same amount of feed and care, then the citizen who introduced the strain is a community benefactor, even though he may have charged a higher price for the foundation stock furnished. The same logic applies to the citizen who introduces a heavier type of turkeys. For since turkeys sell by the pound the heavier a turkey may be, the more profit he produces for his producer.

The feed grown near Friona is among the best varieties to be found anywhere in the land, but in its rough state the feeder is unable to secure much more than 50 per cent of its value when fed in that condition.

Practically all the ingredients of the high priced dairy and poultry feeds are grown right here on our farms from one variety or another of our grain and forage crops, but our farmers fail to get the full benefit from them because they are not properly prepared and mixed. Now, if an individual firm or corporation shall install a mill and mixing plant which shall properly grind, combine in the proper proportions and thoroughly mix these combinations so that our growers may secure it in its most profitable condition, that same individual, firm or corporation is a community benefactor, even though he or it realize a good living profit from the investment and labor.

BIRTHDAY SUPPER.

Mrs. D. W. Hanson entertained at supper a few friends of her son, Dayton, Jr. in honor of his fifteenth birthday on Sunday, December 30.

A delicious menu of fried chicken, fruit salad, hot rolls, angel food cake, olives, hot chocolate, and fruit gelatin with whipped cream was served to Dayton Hanson, Jr., Helen and Dorothy Crawford, Virginia Lillard, Janet and Harriet Hanson, John Beattie, Albert Coffeway and Nelson Welch.

Preaching services were held here last Sunday at the Methodist and Congregational churches and owing to the splendid weather a number of people were able to be present.

It being the fifth Sunday only those churches having whole time preaching services had appointments for the day.

OUR HEAVENLY FATHER.

Matthew 6:24-34

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Two topical courses are given in the first and fourth quarters of the year. From April to September, the lessons are in the old Testament on "Prophetic Teaching and Leadership in Judah"—Isaiah to the Restoration. During the coming three months the lessons present "Some Great Christian Teachings" and deal with the Persons in the Trinity, Sin, the Bible, the Church, Repentance, Faith, Sacraments Sabbath, Repentance, Missions and the Future Life.

Only a few verses are given in the lesson text next week. In addition careful reading, at least, should be devoted to the other passages indicated by the lesson committee. This week those portions are Exodus 34:4-7, Psalm 103:1-5, Isaiah 40:27-31, John 3:3-6, 4:20-24, 8:40-47, Romans 2:2-11, 8:14-17, John 4:7-16. "Search the scriptures" has an added meaning during this quarter for teachings are not based upon isolated texts but are developed by the study of the Book as a whole.

"God is a spirit" was the declaration of the greatest Teacher when He talked with the woman of Samaria. God is the eternal One—the uncaused Cause of all that followed. Man's understanding of Him has come through progressive revelation and acquaintance by living consciously with Him. Being a "spirit" does not make Him any the less real.

Moses had converse with God at the burning bush and followed the Presence during the forty years of wandering in the wilderness. We know Him by many names, such as Lord, Jehovah and words that define His attributes—Omnipotent, Omniscient, Omnipresent. By reason of His relationship with His creation there is no more familiar title than

Suspicious.

The following item appeared in the Bacon Ridge Banner:

"One night last June the editor heard some prowling about in his chicken coop. Not having any shot handy, he loaded the gun with quinine pills and blazed away. The intruder was peppered, but managed to crawl away. As there is only one man in the village who has not had the ague this season we have our suspicions."

WELCOME, JUPE CULOtte
RAY-BITE FEVER
THE BEST BUY—A HOME

The Jupe Culotte is coming. The French work jupe means "skirt" and culotte means "trousers."

Paul Polret, who knows fashions says that jupe culotte will soon cover the love; half of lovely woman from Peking to Palm Beach. It will be a sort of compromise between trousers and skirt, a partition for each leg.

Woman will be like the Ornithorhynchus, the animal half way between bird and mammal.

You might think she would go from the jupe culotte all the way to real trousers but you don't know her.

She will flounce back in all probability to hoopskirts on her legs and waterfalls on her head as like as not.

A new disease is called "rat-bite fever." Widespread and one of many carried by rats, the disease comes from the bite of a rat or of a dog or other animal that has come in contact with rats.

If men could stop killing each other for a few years, devoting all their killing energies to rats, mosquitoes and other dangerous pests this would be a better world.

An end to rats alone would produce savings enough to offset the billions lost in the last war.

What are you going to buy for Christmas? Do you own a home of your own, for your children now, or for your children when you get married and have them, a home for your old age. A PIECE OF THIS EARTH WHICH IS YOURS?

If not, the best thing to do with Christmas savings is to buy a home, or start buying one. Buy only what you are sure you can pay for. There are ten thousand good investments in this country but no investment is as good as money invested in a home of our own.

Thomas F. Ryan, who left not less than one hundred millions of dollars and probably several hundred millions, owns nothing now but the coffin that holds him. Funeral services were held in the beautiful church of St. Jean Baptiste that he built in New York. His body will rest in the cathedral he built at Richmond, Va., not far from the spot where he lived as a poor orphan boy.

"Where does he live now?" an official at the funeral service whispered to the undertaker.

"Have you the men ready to carry it?"

"It" is all that is left of what once controlled wealth and power.

Tears on the cheeks of many at the church, servants, friends and relatives showed that the dead man had been generous and kind.

The American Federation of Labor, ably led by President Green will rejoin the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness in a national campaign.

There are in the world at least 6,000,000 totally blind. To know what great is the affliction, stop reading for a moment, close your eyes and ask yourself what life would be like if you could never open them.

Ignorance increases blindness, and disease, born of vice and superstition increases it. In Egypt today you may see infants with flies attacking their eyes, the mothers afraid to hurt the flies because it is a sin. Your grandmother's spirit might live in one of the flies. That superstition alone has caused thousands of Egyptian children to lose their sight.

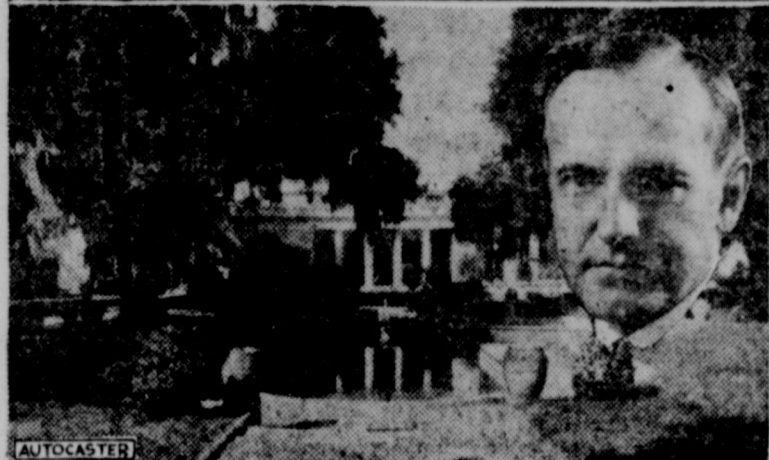

Ten boys' clubs have been organized by County Agent Prewitt of Brady in various communities of McCulloch county. Raising baby beavers, terracing and other subjects will be taught the 180 boys in these clubs this year.

TEXAS JERSEY CATTLE CLUB MEETS ON JANUARY 9 AND 10

All Dairy Farmers Invited to Meet With Organization at Amarillo.

For the first time in history of the Texas Jersey Cattle Club, a meeting of this association will be held in West Texas at Amarillo on January 9 and 10.

This meeting was secured for this section of the state largely because of the great development of the dairy industry here and is a recognition of this development by the Jersey breeders of South and West Texas, and will offer an opportunity of contact that is of vital interest to the future dairy development here.

Everyone in or near Friona who is interested in dairy development is especially invited to attend both days of the session, since the invitation covers the entire Panhandle. The entire program is to be of educational nature and will be interesting and valuable to all Panhandle dairy farmers.

Practically all the speakers on the program are men of national reputation as successful dairymen and as workers in the development of the dairy industry throughout the nation.

For the benefit of our Friona dairy farmers we are appending all of that part of the program which will be of interest to them, which is as follows:

MAY BE OF INTEREST TO ALL CLUB WOMEN.

Gardeners Advised to Try New Varieties of Vegetables in Home Gardens.

The Friona Woman's Club has a record for achievements and progress that has given it quite an enviable reputation among the women's clubs of the state and its members have shown a decided disposition for advancing new ideas and for grasping and developing new ideas advanced by others, which has evidently been one of the leading factors in winning the said enviable reputation.

Realizing the success which this modern organization has met with practically every move it has inaugurated for the good of the town and community and its desire to try out other plans or ideas, the Star gives the following suggestions which have been handed us by the Cooperative Extension Work in Agriculture and Home Economics:

"There are scores of varieties of vegetables not commonly grown in home gardens in Texas that should be found there to add health and relish and variety to the daily diet. Very seldom are such healthful and easily grown vegetables found in gardens as cauliflower, spinach, rhubarb, asparagus, kale, collards, carrots, dill, parsley, Swiss chard, lambquarter, horshound, alvender, mint, sage, catnip, jimson or mullein. Yet every one of these and many others are among the eighty-two new vegetables grown by the Bailey Woman's Home Demonstration Club in the black land of Fannin county the last year. The club reached its goal by having every one of its twenty-seven members grow at least one new vegetable and learn to prepare vegetables in four new and different ways.

Asparagus can be grown in any garden from roots set in the spring. New Zealand spinach is a valuable leafy vegetable which withstands the long dry Texas summers admirably. Cauliflower does well nearly everywhere from seed planted in February. Swiss chard is another good garden crop that matures quickly and is ready for use early in the spring and late fall.

That the chap who bought the Daily News.

Really. How much did he give for it?

Two cents.

BOUGHT COCKERELS.

Mrs. J. W. Ford has bought ten of the celebrated Parks strain Barred Rock cockerels from Dr. Me-

Elroy. She already had an unusually good strain of Barred Rocks and this selection of new blood will be a splendid addition to her flock.

A delegation of Ballenger people including the chief of the fire department, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, city secretary and others are visiting nearby towns with the view to inspect new city halls and modern fire stations with the intention of making the ones which they will have in the near future the very best.

"To be told that it will take you three hours to get round St. Andrews in the season, that if you take only an hour and a quarter to the turn you will inevitably take an hour and three-quarters home—this is, to be sure, a little daunting, but the real thing is not nearly so bad as the imaginary picture, writes Bernard Darwin, in the London Spectator.

Sunny Jim Most Valuable Player

IN A very close election, Jim Bottomley of the St. Louis Cards won the National league valuable player contest over Fred Lindstrom of the New York Giants by six votes. The final vote stood: Bottomley 76, and Lindstrom 70, out of a possible 80.

Jim Bottomley.

Burt Whitman of Boston, president of the Baseball Writers Association, who announced the result of the committee vote, called on the members for their ballot before the world series, so that Bottomley's showing in that struggle was not considered in this vote. It is not to be doubted that the St. Louis first baseman won this honor because of his incalculable value to his team during the first four months of the pennant race.

"Buckley," corrected Duane. "The nickname's not of my choosing."
 "I'm certainly glad to meet you, Buckley Duane," she said, as she took the seat Duane offered her. "Sorry to have been out. Kid Fuller's lying over at Deger's. You know he was shot last night. He's got fever today."

"When Bland's away I have to nurse all these shut-up boys and it sure takes my time. Have you been waiting alone? Didn't you see that slattern girl of mine?"

She gave him a sharp glance. The woman had an extraordinary play of feature Duane thought, and unless she was smiling was not pretty at all.

"I've been alone," replied Duane. "Haven't seen anybody but a sick-looking girl with a bucket. And she ran when she saw me."

"That was Jen," said Mrs. Bland. "She's the kid we keep here and she hardly pays her keep. Did Euchre tell you about her?"

"Now that I think of it he did say something or other."
 "What did he tell you about me?" bluntness asked Mrs. Bland.

"Wal, Kate," replied Euchre, speaking for himself, "you needn't worry none, for I told Buck nothing but compliments."

Evidently the outlaw's wife liked Euchre, for her keen glance rested with amusement upon him.

"As for Jen, I'll tell you her story some day," went on the woman. "It's a common enough story along this river. Euchre here is a tender-hearted old fool and Jen has taken him in."

When Euchre had shuffled into the house, Mrs. Bland turned to Duane with curiosity and interest in her gaze.

"I'll tell you, Duane," she said earnestly. "I'm sure glad if you mean to bide a while. I'm a miserable woman, Duane. I'm an outlaw's wife, and I hate him and the life I have to lead. I come of a good family in Brownsville."

"I never knew Bland was an outlaw till long after he married me. We were separated at times and I imagined he was away on business. But the truth came out. Bland shot my own cousin, who told me. My family cast me off and I had to flee with Bland."

"I was only eighteen then. I've lived here since. I never see a decent woman or man. I never hear anything about my old home or folks or friends. I'm buried here—buried alive with a lot of thieves and murderers. Can you blame me for being glad to see a young fellow—a gentleman—like the boys I used to go with?"

"I tell you it makes me feel full—I want to cry. I'm sick for somebody to talk to. I have no children, thank God. If I had I'd not stay here. I'm sick of this home. I'm lonely—"

There appeared to be no doubt about the truth of all this. Genuine emotion checked—then halted the hurried speech. She broke down and cried. It seemed strange to Duane that an outlaw's wife—and a woman who fitted her consort and the wild nature of their surroundings—should have weakness enough to weep.

"Would Bland object if I called on you occasionally?" inquired Duane.

"No, he wouldn't. He likes me to have friends. Ask him yourself when he comes back. The trouble has been that two or three of us men fell in love with me, and when half drunk got to fighting. You're not going to do that."
