Invitation Tourney Opens Friday

Tomorrow (Friday) is the big day in the Morton Country Club Invitational Golf Tourney with an expected large group going after medalist honors and the favorite's roll in the championship flight.

Though many of the 96 golfers who will enter the tourney will not fire a practice round but will simply turn in a score — those who wish to vie for medalist honors must qualify Friday.

The invitational will be the 3rd held at the local course, though only two have been sponsored by the club. Last year the Jaycees sponsored what amounted to a club invitation, and the local club did not sponsor an outside meet.

James St. Clair is tourney director.

Golfers should plan to hang around for the barbecue late Friday evening, or at least should phone the club that night to get their tee-off times for Saturday since there are bound to be some flights teeing off for their first match around 6:00 or 6:30 a.m.

Nathan Tubb, Whiteface Superintendent IS APPOINTED REGISTRAR AT SOUTH PLAINS COLLEGE

Cochran County lost its second school administrator in the past month, in mid May with the announcement that Nathan Tubb, Superintendent of Schools at Whiteface would assume duties, July 1, as registrar of the new South Plains College which opens in the fall.

Previously, J. E. Roane, Superintendent of Schools at Bledsoe had announced his resignation.

Mr. Tubb could not be reached for comment late Wednesday as to whether or not he had submitted his resignation.

The announcement of Tubb's appointment as the college's first registrar was made by Dr. Thomas M. Spencer, president of the college, on May 17th, through a story in an edition of the Hockley County Daily Sun - News. The Tribune did not receive notification.

Tubb was one of a group of Whiteface citizens who favored the recent inclusion of the Whiteface School District in the Junior College District. The voters okayed the annexation thereby assuming some of the tax burden and reducing the burden on Hockley County taxpayers. Inclusion in the district meant the students of their district can enroll in the college at the same tuition as those already in the district and that bus service would be made available to Whiteface area students.

As registrar, Tubb will keep the records, act as student counselor, make up classroom schedules and will be chairman of the curriculum committee.

Tubb, associated with the Whiteface school system since 1946, and for the past two years Superintendent of Schools, worked his way up the ladder at Whiteface, starting as Commercial teacher and assistant coach; being elevated to Junior high school principal; and then to high school principal. After the resignation of Noah Cunningham, Tubb was made his successor.

Nathan was highly popular at Whiteface. He has served as Mayor for two years, was chairman of the Board of Stewards at Whiteface Methodist Church on two occasions, is a Mason, and is a director in the Whiteface Lions Club.

A recent honor was his inclusion on the list of Who's Who in the South and Southwest. The Tubbs have three children, Terry, 15, who is a sophomore in high school; Elizabeth, 10, a fifth grader; and Jerry, 3 years old.

Nathan has four brothers and one sister, three of the four brothers still in the teaching profession, the other having coached and now in the sporting goods business.

Tubb attended all 12 grades of school at Levelland where his family was a pioneer family. His father was the first trucker between Levelland and Lubbock.

Nathan is a graduate of Southwestern State College, Weatherford, Okla., and formerly worked with a seismograph crew in the Levelland area. He taught at Pop, for his first teaching job; later was Superintendent of Schools at Pop; served a hitch in the Army; and came back to resume teaching duties at Whiteface. He got a Master's degree at Texas Tech and has four summer's work on his doctor's degree.

OIL COMPANIES ENTER PROTEST ON HOCKLEY TAX EVALUATION

Hockley County, and other oil producing counties around the state, are facing major tax fights this year as tax equalization time comes around — a fight Cochran County already had one dip of last year.

The real question, as it was in Cochran County's case a year ago, evolves around the fairness of valuation of oil properties compared to other taxable property, such as farm land.

Until last year, the oil companies had not put up little fight on the issue, though it had been reliably whispered that the oil property might be placed at a higher percentage of its value on the tax roll than was farm land.

Last year some of the oil companies protested in Cochran County, took it to court, and in the final count, a readjustment of valuation was made when the court held that neither the county's nor the oil company's figures were correct. The result was a downward adjustment in evaluation.

What will be the final outcome in Hockley County rests with the June 29th meeting, or an agreement to be reached before that time. However, the net result, may have an important and direct bearing on the situation in Cochran County when the Commissioner's Court, through their oil evaluation firm of King, Latham and Stults, comes up with the tax evaluation for this year.

Protests over a sizable sum of tax money, and consequent court action, could make the money uncollectible until the court action is decided, and, if Hockley County, like Cochran County, depends upon the oil companies for as much as 90 percent of its tax money, the situation of available funds to carry on county business could be very serious.

LEE BENHAM IS AWARDED RICE SCHOLARSHIP

Lee K. Benham, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Benham of Morton, has been notified that he has been awarded a college academic scholarship to Rice Institute, Houston.

Lee was graduated June 1 from the New Mexico Military Institute High School division, Roswell, N. M., with "many honors."

He ranked first in his class of 162 cadets this past semester with a four point, or straight "A" average.

At the graduation ceremonies, Lee received, among other awards, a Bronze medal for the outstanding high school student in mathematics and science, a silver tray awarded by the American Legion Charles DeBremont Post for winning the individual discount drill competition, a $25.00 United States bond awarded for public speaking, and the Willie Morrison Memorial scholarship for general excellence in school activities and scholastic aptitude in the field of mathematics.

Lee was designated best new cadet of his company his first year at NMMI and has consistently been on the honor roll, earning a gold medal. He was a member of the debating team two years, a letterman and member of the track team two years, a member of the basketball team one year, and a member of the NMMI band for three years.

He received a medal and cup for having the best squad in his company his second year at the institute.

Lee attended Morton schools for nine years prior to going to NMMI for three years of work.

He has not announced his decision in regard to the Rice scholarship yet.

The Rice scholarship offers a student tuition that amounts to some $1,700.00 per year, or roughly, $6,800.00 for an academic scholarship, four years.

In receiving the scholastic recognition, Lee said that it reflected the work of "good teachers" he had studied under during the past twelve years, nine of which were in Morton.

The Anesthesiologist: An Important Role
 The use of anesthetic agents to make a person unconscious to pain during surgery is a comparatively new science. People of ancient times knew of the pain-relieving properties of certain herbs, chemicals and wine, but not until later was used for a local anesthetic. Modern medicine began to realize the possibilities of total anesthesia, while it has some disadvantages, for many years was the best anesthetic agent, and is still widely used.
 Today, however, the anesthesiologist has many agents at his disposal, including a large variety which are administered intravenously, as well as those given by breathing. While better and safer agents were being developed over the years, the technique of administration was progressing to the point that better anesthesiologists are highly trained and important members of the operating team. A large portion of today's anesthesiologists are medical doctors.
 Since most of the anesthesiologist's work is carried on while the patient is unconscious, few realize there will be done for them and how important the role is. Let's suppose you enter the hospital for an elective operation. Your doctor discusses details of your operation with the anesthesiologist. They discuss your general health, age and any operations with anesthesia. Changes in the anesthesiologist will wait until you are in your room.
 Before you go to the operating room you are given premedication, prescribed by the anesthesiologist, to relax you. Before you are "put to sleep" he again checks your mental state, blood pressure, pulse and other vital signs. Then he administers the anesthetic drug by and your surgeon have agreed upon.
 During the operation, he is guardian of your whole being beyond the region in which the surgeon is operating. He keeps continuous watch over your heart action and your breathing, and he must administer fluids, plasma or dextrose, or even change the anesthetic drug during the operation.
 Following the operation of this specialist will keep a close check on your general condition and possibly administer measures necessary to speed your recovery from the anesthesia. While it may not be obvious, the anesthesiologist will see that you stay in the hospital.

The Nation's Editors Speak . . .

Do the electronic screens in America's living rooms belong to NBC, CBS and ABC or do they belong to the people who have bought them? Is it in the interests of 'free enterprise' to give the three networks dictatorial power over what one shall see in his home, or shall the home-owner be allowed to buy a program if he thinks it's worth the price?

Apparently, the television industry is afraid to give the people the power to make their own decision on (pay-TV)... The only way that the television industry's charges can be validated is to give pay-TV a fair test—to see just exactly what its effect is on other forms of entertainment and how responsive the customer is to it.

So help us, we can't understand why pay-television shouldn't at least have a chance... Strange situation, isn't it, when giant corporations join in restraint of business imagination and initiative, and we little people find ourselves pleading for freer enterprise. Not so strange, though, in those long, shot-up hours when we know we have nothing to lose but a lot of whistery Westerns.

Despite this scare technique the truth is that sponsored TV will not be damaged by competition. If experiments in pay TV are permitted, there still will be so-called free TV. The government should not be influenced by the television industry in banning experiments in pay television. After all, the still is a free country and why should one form of communication hold a monopoly sanctioned by the government?

At this point, absolute control of television communications is in the hands of the heads of the three major TV networks; it is a virtual impossibility for an independent station to exist in any but the most populous areas... An example is the recent campaign against subscriber-paid TV, which has resulted, through unequalled pressure on Congress, in a decision by the Federal Communications Commission to cancel a limited test of the idea...

The fact that this result was obtained by action of just one network points up contentions that the concentration of television's power in the hands of a few network officials is a real threat to our Constitutional guarantees of freedom of information... It seems to us that America should test the theory of subscription television for two reasons — first, the public should have a right to buy its choice of programs if it wishes to, and second, if the experiment should be commercially successful it would do much to break the television monopoly which potentially is a real threat to our culture, if not our very freedom.

Summer Home Economic Students Complete Series With "Play Day"
Girls participating in the Summer Home and Family Life Program completed a series of ten lessons Friday, May 30. The first week of the series of lessons was devoted to the study of Child Care and Development. In addition to studying what makes children behave as they do, the students made stuffed toys and artist smocks for the little folks to play with and wear on the play-day that the girls conducted on Friday, May 23.
The play-day was conducted in the homemaking department with the students leading nineteen children in such activities as singing, active games, quiet games, finger-painting, crayon painting, modeling with clay and a period of free play when each child was allowed to do any activity he wished. During the refreshment hour the girls served cookies that they had baked as a part of their preparation for this activity.

"A $5.60 Investment Netted Me $54.85 In Cotton."

Jack Shelley, Hale Center, Tex., says: "I put down Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia on my irrigated cotton and got an average of 847 pounds of lint per acre. This compared to a yield of 633 pounds on a check plot. My increase netted me $54.85 an acre. I got more well matured, five-lock cotton bolls, too."

Other Southwestern farmers have discovered that the 82% nitrogen in top quality Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia helps them to get more profit per acre, through higher yields and lower production costs.

They have found that, by using Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia, they get more cotton that grades out higher at the gin; yields of sorghum grain and ensilage are increased; more marketable vegetables are harvested, and profits on wheat are increased through better forage, and higher yields of grain.

Simple—and Simply Delicious

Can you imagine serving a cream pie tonight that takes no work or preparation whatsoever? This is no pipe dream... Simple Simon now brings you frozen cream pies in four delicious flavors: chocolate, lemon, coconut and strawberry. These cream pies have the same flaky, tender, golden brown crusts you've learned to expect in Simple Simon's frozen fruit pies. Now it's filled with the smoothest, most luscious cream filling you've ever set foot on. Puffs of creamy-white topping give this cream pie quarter lots of eye as well as taste-appeal.

"Preparation" is the easiest part of serving these pies... take them from the freezer and let them defrost 45 minutes at room temperature (less than that if the weather's warm) or about 3 hours in the refrigerator. Each pie measures 8 inches in diameter and weighs one pound... plenty for six servings. Get in a supply of these pies now... they're fine fare for family suppers or company dinners, as TV snacks and just any time you want a light, cooling snack. A hot weather idea is to serve Simple Simon cream pies still frosty cool.

BETTER SCHOOLS -- AND YOU

by HENRY TOY, Jr., President National Citizens Council for Better Schools

WE NEED MUSICIANS AND DIPLOMATS ALSO

According to the Department of Labor, there are 30,000 ways of making a living in the United States. No one on earth could devise a single course of study that would be the proper preparation for each one of those vocations.

And yet, even in the face of these statistics, there are those who today are trying to do something very like that. State and national spokesmen, as well as community leaders, are advancing crash programs to deal with our shortage of scientists and engineers. "Let every high school student study math and science for four years," they are shouting and they have suggestions for binding laws and regulations to push through these ideas.

Fortunately for America, there are other spokesmen. They admit the technological lead of Russia but their view is a longer one. In the race to the moon, they're saying, let's not forget the things that made us free. Some of these voices bear repeating. McElroy, Defense Secretary, says this: "Our country will be as great and as strong as the minds and will of the people who live in it, who operate its businesses and its improvements, and whose standard of living is keyed to the kind of education they receive."

Justice Brand, president, National Academy of Sciences, appearing before the Senate hearing committee in January, said this: "There is far greater need for an educated people here than in Russia where they are told what to do... Our people must have an educated mind to make decisions wisely." In his Oklahoma City speech, President Eisenhower said this: "We must also have a people who will keep their heads, and, in every field, leaders who can meet intricate human problems with wisdom and courage. In short, we will need not only Einsteins and Steinmetzes, but Washingtons and Emersons."

I remember a couple of years ago, talking with John Hersey, Pulitzer-prize winning novelist. "Certainly we need scientists," he said. "We also need leaders. And we need poets. Who else can speak to us of our needs?"

If your household is like mine, your children are as different as day from night. They have different abilities, different desires, and different contributions to make to the world. What they need is an education that will bring out their full potential, whatever direction that potential may lead. If we force science down the throat of a child who could serve his country better as a musician or a diplomat, or a historian or a political leader, we will do him and America irreparable harm.

Pineapple Sundae Sauce

HERE'S A SUNDAE SAUCE that can be served to the family as a special treat or to guests any day in the week. Excellent as a topping for ice cream, it is equally delicious over cake or cottage pudding. The sauce is simple to prepare because its base is a no-cook instant pudding. The silken-smooth texture comes from the use of rich evaporated milk in the blending. In the time of roses, bridal showers, and June wedding parties, this sauce is excellent over store-bought ice cream for that "extra special" touch.

PINEAPPLE SUNDAE SAUCE

- 1 package Jell-O vanilla instant pudding
- 1/2 cup evaporated milk
- 2/3 cup light corn syrup
- 1/4 cup pineapple juice concentrate, thawed
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Combine the pudding mix and syrup in a bowl. Mix until smooth. Gradually add evaporated milk, pineapple juice and salt, and stir until blended. Allow to stand about 10 minutes to thicken sauce. Serve on ice cream, cake, or other desserts. Makes 1-3/4 cups of sauce.

the 1959 crop.
Acreage allotments will remain in effect for the 1959 wheat crop as a condition of eligibility for price support.
Price support for growers who comply with their allotments will be available at an average of about $1.29 a bushel (50 percent of estimated parity as directed by law.) County ASC committees are responsible for handling this program.
Wheat and grain sorghum counties need more storage on the farm to supplement current local situations when big production of crops exist.
Local elevators have done an excellent job with the limited means available, and when crops are harvested with the proper moisture content.
As of April 1, 1958, stocks of corn, barley, sorghum grain and soy beans in all storage positions were the highest of records for that date in each case. Oat stocks were the third highest of record.
On May 1, 1958, the estimate of wheat crop was estimated at 1,810 million bushels, third largest of record. Counting the spring wheat crop together with carryover stocks the total wheat crop this year will be the largest on record.
Need for ample storage is a must if the 1958 grain crop is to be handled in an orderly and efficient manner that serves the needs of the farmers the grain trade and the consuming public.
The initial and most direct interest is the farmers. Orderly marketing gives him income protection. Substantial losses can and do occur when a crop is sold on a glutted market at harvest time. If a farmer intends to participate in the price support program he must have adequate warehouse space or have a reserve feed supply for live stock, adequate storage on the farm is a key to close at hand reserve that is promptly available anytime for feeding.
The USDA has (just) aid to farmers to expand the storage program by:
(a) Loans to help expand farm storage.
(b) A grain resale program.
Two types of farm storage loans are available. These are 5 year 4 percent loans covering up to 80 percent of the cost of an approved structure for the storage of wheat, barley, cottonseed, grain sorghum etc. Any farm operator, share tenant, share landowner or producer partner is eligible for this type of loan. See the county ASC office if interested.
The Farmers Home Administration's farm housing loan is also available to farmers who qualify. The borrower must own a farm. Loans are made up to 33 years at 4 percent interest for building farm houses or other essential farm buildings as storage granaries.
If you need a mobile dryer to keep grain drying and conditioning, there is a mobile dryer loan for 3 years at a 4 percent interest to finance up to 75 percent of the delivered and assembled cost exclusive of labor to keep stored grain in the proper condition.
Remember it will pay to buy or build the storage you need.

Local Schools Have 12 Month Program In Home Economics

Morton High School is one of the few schools in the State that offers a twelve month program in Home and Family Life Education. It works on the theory that "one is never too old to learn" and that "education is a continuous process."

Classes will be set up for adults or young people on request. Plans are now underway to conduct a class in simple sewing during the week of June 16 - 20. Any person interested in enrolling in the class can contact Mrs. Mabel Sanders in the high school homemaking department from 1:45 to 3:30 P.M. any day during the week except Saturday.

The women of the district may also use the sewing machines, but-hole attachments and other equipment if they will come to the school in the afternoons when Mrs. Sanders will be on hand to assist them.

There are a number of books in the department on Family Life, Child Care, Foods and Nutrition, and Home Management that are available for reading in the department. There are also some copies available of the Journal of Home Economics Forecast and What Is New in Home Economics for those that like information on a professional level.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Many so-called economists express puzzlement over the fact that despite increasing unemployment, living costs continue to go up to new record highs.

A few short months ago, in the drive to stop inflation, the official word went out from Washington urging people to buy less.

Now the time has changed and people are asked to buy more.

This is probably no question but what inflation is a grave danger.

In fact, on several occasions, nation's independent businessmen, through National Federation of Independent Business, have pointed out this danger.

The question then gets down to what causes inflation to continue in a time of a business and job fall off.

Basically, a dollar does not have any magic value. In actuality, it is a measure of productivity. When dollars are exchanged for non-productivity, then the value of the dollar gets less; and this results in inflation.

Thus, today, government is undoubtedly the greatest inflationary force in the country; a far greater force than Mrs. Jones splurging at the apparel shop on Main Street, or her husband signing a contract to buy a flashy, expensive new convertible.

There are a few firm facts that cannot be escaped. It has been the fashion in government to attribute inflation to people having too much money. Yet Commerce Dept. figures show the per capita income only increased from $1,727 per year.

SOX WIN 1-0 THRILLER FROM CUBS TO MAINTAIN LITTLE LEAGUE LEAD

The Little League Giants, with runner broke for second and the return throw got through both the second baseman and shortstop. The third baseman was backing up the play but that left third uncovered and the wide awake baserunner scampered to third. Moments later he tallied the only run on an infield out.

Monday, the Giants won their 3rd game, as the Cards put up a good battle before falling, 6 to 2.

That left the standings, Tuesday night, reading this way:

Team	W	L	Pct.
SOX	5	0	1.000
GIANTS	3	2	.600
CUBS	3	2	.600
CARDS	1	4	.200
PIRATES	0	4	.000

Actually the Cubs outthrew the Sox 2 to 1. And the Sox did not utilize that lone hit in scoring the only run. But in the end it was superior play afield that won for the league leaders, as both pitchers hurled fine ball.

The winning run came in the 4th inning as an infield roller was fielded cleanly by the Cubs but the first baseman failed to hold the throw. As the ball got away from him, the
