Waco Judges Help Appeals Court Here

The Texas Supreme Court, apparently feeling that the docket of the Seventh Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo is overloaded, has directed the 10th Court of Civil Appeals in Waco to lend a helping hand.

Two members of the Waco court are in Amarillo today hearing oral arguments in the cases allotted them. The two judges are Chief Justice Frank G. McDonald and Associate Justice Frank M. Wilson.

The Texas Supreme Court in equalizing the dockets of the civil appeals courts in the state has assigned 13 of the appeals filed in Amarillo to the Waco court.

Under statute the cases must be heard in the court in which they are filed. For this reason the Waco judges are hearing arguments in Amarillo.

Elmo Payne, clerk of the Amarillo court, says the Amarillo judges heard oral arguments in nine cases on April 6-7 and currently are working on their decisions in those cases.

The Seventh Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo encompasses the largest Supreme Judicial District in the State of Texas — with 46 counties, Payne explained.

Go forth, young man

... we can't use you here

Is this the word to our young people — able and beloved — when they've finished school and are ready to start making their own living?

Too often it is, in the smaller communities like ours.

Why don't we have more job opportunities and more business opportunities right here, so that more of our sons and daughters can establish their homes and be happy and prosperous here at home?

It's partly circumstance. Partly the natural limitations of the economy of our area. Partly because we haven't been quite aggressive or enterprising enough to build and grow more.

But it's also partly because many of us have let ourselves get into the habit of spending too much of our money somewhere else.

Every dollar that we spend away from home is a dollar less to circulate among us and to account for 2 or 3 or more dollars of added trade volume as it moves from hand to hand.

Keeping more of this easily available trade volume at home is one way by which we could create and sustain more local opportunities for our young people. And for ourselves.

Beauty for the asking

By Inez Swicgood, Beauty Consultant

MERLE NORMAN COSMETICS STUDIO

One thing really nice about being in the beauty business is that you begin to believe that every gal is genuinely interested in improving herself.

Every once in a while, we all see some girl with a perfectly gorgeous complexion, or an older woman who looks absolutely wonderful, and we wonder how she does it.

As a beauty expert, I don't do so much wondering. I know the tricks. You see, beauty is a subtle art, but it's in the reach of everyone. The real trick is to learn how to make the very best of what you have.

I wish I had a dollar for every gal who tells me she can't bear to look at herself in the morning when she hasn't had enough sleep. "Oh, those awful dark circles under my eyes," she says.

Then I have to explain that dark circles are like shadows and you can get rid of shadows with highlights. All you have to do is retouch them, and that's pretty simple.

There's a retouch product—a product like your makeup base, but lighter in color and a little heavier in texture. Your skin absorbs a portion of it and the rest blends in with your base.

Put your base on, but only up to the area where the "shadows" are. Then take your retouch. (Buy it at least two shades lighter than your makeup base.)

Apply pretty heavily and pat it into those little dark depressions. Tap it lightly with two fingers until it completely fills in the area you want to cover. Then blend it into where you stopped applying base, so there's no ridge.

For extra security, dampen a piece of tissue with cold water and pat it over the retouch to set it. Then, lightly, cover the area with makeup base and you're ready to finish your makeup.

For a little extra trick to brighten your eyes, use retouch just near the corner of your eyes and blend into the side of your nose, just at the bridge. Big surprise!

Or better yet, just drop in and see me. For free, I'll show how it's done, and give you a free Hour of Beauty, besides.

Plans underway for vital anti-boll weevil program

Operational plans for carrying out next fall's giant "Diapause" boll weevil control program on the High Plains was laid in Lubbock April 18 at a meeting of the boll weevil Steering, Area-wide and Technical Advisory Committees, sponsored by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., of Lubbock.

Entomologists at the meeting reaffirmed their statement that such a program is an urgent necessity for the Plains area, and discussed plans on extensive surveys this summer for determining the extent of acreage to be sprayed this fall. Forty-five persons attended the meeting, including entomologists and other top officials from both State and Federal levels. The boll weevil experts have recommended the Diapause program to the Plains as the best known method to keep the weevil from invading the entire High Plains as he has other areas, and they are working closely with area committees and Plains Cotton Growers to assure the program's success.

In a report on the progress of weevil overwintering research, W. L. Owen, entomologist at the Texas Agricultural Research and Experiment Center, said a total of 35 live weevils have been recently collected from the weevil "cages" that were installed last fall. Of the total, 16 were found in Crosby County, seven in Garza, nine in Dickens and three in cages on top of the Caprock near Close City. According to Owen, research so far has given the definite indication that Shiner Oak is the habitat in which most weevils hibernated below the Caprock.

Early "trap" crops of cotton are being planted to give more information on weevil overwintering, and the information should be complete before commercial cotton crops begin to square, Owen said.

Dr. J. C. Gaines, head of the entomology department at Texas A & M emphasized the importance of in-season weevil control below the Caprock. He explained that this would reduce the number of weevils migrating to the High Plains and thus minimize the acreage needing treatment this fall. Donald Johnson, Executive Assistant of Plains Cotton Growers said PCG is laying plans for an educational and informational campaign in this area that will touch as many people in as many ways as possible.

Committee members also discussed some of the details of contracts that will be made for chemical suppliers and applicators with Archie Geiser, Chief Pilot for the Plant Pest Control Division, Agricultural Research Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Geiser stated that contracts would be let on a competitive bid basis and that the area would be divided into units, with contract applicants being allowed to bid on one or more units. He said the method and time for bidding would be widely publicized when details were complete.

Denver City youth wins press group scholarship

David Snyder, 17, of Denver City, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Snyder, publishers of the Morton Tribune, was announced today as recipient of the 1964 West Texas Press Association college scholarship.

The Denver City High School senior was selected by the press association's scholarship committee at a meeting recently in Lubbock. The organization of West Texas newspapers presents the $600 scholarship annually.

Snyder is the son of Mrs. Berle Snyder and the late Cal Snyder, publishers of the Denver City Press and Sunday Press. The youth was reared in the newspaper business. Born in Iowa, he has been a resident of Denver City since he was eight years of age.

An honor student at Denver City High School, the youth plans to use the scholarship to attend Texas Technological College at Lubbock where he will study journalism and accounting.

The scholarship winner has been a "working newspaperman" for the past six years.

Covers assignments He has been covering news assignments for the Press, mostly in the field of sports since he is acquainted with the local high school program. He also handles photography assignments and develops his own as well as other pictures for the paper. Snyder has prepared ad and page lay-outs for the Press also. He operates the Fairchild Scan-A-Graver in his front office spare time.

Snyder is equally competent in the back shop, being familiar with everything in a hot-type operation except the Goss Cox-O-Type press and the casting room. He is both a crap and straight matter operator (two galleys per hour), occasionally builds ads, works in the job shop, and makes up pages.

Mustang editor The scholarship winner has for two years served as editor of The Mustang, DCHS 220-page annual, and this year was responsible for changing the yearbook over to one of words as well as pictures. He also is a staff member of the Corral, school newspaper.

Snyder is the only member of his class who has been elected a class officer each year of high school. He served as freshman class treasurer, sophomore vice-president, junior reporter, and is currently senior class vice-president. He was selected to represent the senior class in the Who's Who in American High Schools listing.

The quality of scholarship also finds Snyder near the top of his class. He was valedictorian of his eighth grade class, and also led his group in both the freshman and sophomore years. Although he slipped to third as a junior Snyder has compiled a 94.4 average though the first four six-weeks of his senior year. He has been a member of the National Honor Society for two years, and this year is serving as president.

In other activities at DCHS, Snyder is an active band member and brass lieutenant of the band; a member of the Spanish Club; a member of the National Thespian Society, (speech honor group); and vice-president of the Student Officer's Association. He was instrumental in securing a Student Council for DCHS, and was the "Thomas Jefferson" of the SRA. He personally wrote most of Council's constitution. The student has twice been district also entered number seven in temperance speaking in the terscholastic league contest.

DAVID SNYDER Wins scholarship

Joe Gipson issues statement relative to county office

TO THE PEOPLE OF COCHRAN COUNTY:

Dear Friends:

In seeking the office of Tax-Assessor-Collector, some of my qualifications you probably already know from previous announcements and publicity. I again wish to state some of them that you may know better of my ability, if elected to serve you as your assessor-collector.

While serving previously as assessor-collector I was a member of the Texas Association of Assessing Officers and used the facilities of that organization in doing the best possible job for the local office.

As Assessor - Collector of the City Taxes I was a member of the Assessor - Collector section of the Texas Municipal League and helped in the organization of the clerks and secretaries section of the league and served them as their vice president for a term.

In endeavoring to keep abreast of the times and proper information concerning the office, I was also a member of The National Institute of Municipal Clerks, which is the national service organization.

I am a long time resident of Cochran County; my family and I have always been dedicated citizens of Cochran County. I have two children, Maj. Joe B. Gipson, who at present is serving with the armed forces in Germany, and Mrs. K. I. Neavitt of Corpus Christi.

It is my intention to see all of

Elmer Akin of Forrest Lumber is designated as termite "expert"

Elmer Akin of Forrest Lumber Company has been appointed "ARAB EXPERT" by Federal Chemical Company, Inc., Indianapolis, Indiana - and has these words of warning:

If you see flying termites around your home, or the transparent wings that they shed, chances are good that you have termites feeding on your property this very minute.

Don't shudder at the thought of an expensive treatment to rid your property of these destructive insects. Thanks to the development of this modern do-it-yourself-product, Arab U-Do-It, homeowners can now treat their own homes in spare time at a minimum cost. The product will not harm flowers, lawns or shrubs when used as directed; has no objectionable odor; and is simple to apply with a handy hose attachment - The Arab Applicator.

James K. Walker gives statement on political job

Although it is my desire to meet and talk with each of you, I know it will be impossible for me to see every voter in the County before May Second. Therefore, I would like to take this opportunity to ask for your vote and support in the coming election.

I received my law degree from Baylor University in Waco in 1960 and entered into practice in Lubbock with J. Collier (Buddy) Adams who was at that time a State Representative. In July of last year my wife and young son, Jimmy, and I moved to Cochran County. As a result of your friendly welcome and our feeling that "This is home" we feel that we would like to make Cochran County our permanent home. We are both anxious to work in anyway to help make this County prosper and I hope to be a representative of this County that all of you would be proud of.

I am a member of the American Bar Association, the Texas Bar Association and the Hockley-Cochran County Bar Association. I was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the latter organization last fall by the member lawyers of the two counties.

If elected County Attorney, the County Attorney's office will be my first duty and obligation at all times. I will do my utmost to be available and be fair with all officials and citizens of this County who seek the cooperation of the County Attorney's office. And I

Club installs officers

"The Star of Light and Knowledge" was the theme used Thursday night as Mrs. Jerry Winder installed new officers of Emile Smith Junior Study Club. The meeting was held in Banquet Room of County Activity Building.

Mrs. Winder, charter member and president of Y.M. Junior Study Club, presented lighted tapers on stars to each new officer as she outlined duties and obligations, telling them, "As you go forward into a new year of service you will need light to show you the way. The light of the future is lighted for you with radiant colors of hope. It is with this thought in mind I would like to help light the way for you along your journey to the stars."

Officers installed were Mrs. Jim Johnson, president; Mrs. James Walker and Mrs. Elvis Fleming, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. Sid Saverance, treasurer; Mrs. Danny Tankersley, recording secretary; Mrs. Earl Polvado, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Don Lynskey, parliamentarian; Mrs. Donald Masten, reporter; Mrs. Don Workman, historian and Mrs. Loy Kern, auditor.

Miss Peggy Patterson served as toastmistress, introducing Mrs. Earl Polvado, out-going president, who conducted a brief business session. Concluding the business she extended greetings and welcome to the installing officer and another guest, Mrs. J. C. England. In closing her term of office Mrs. Polvado expressed appreciation to club members for wonderful cooperation during her tenure and asked continued support of the new officers and the club.

The daisy, club flower, was emphasized in decorations. Individual, hand made pots containing a daisy, were used as place markers on the white covered tables centered with runners; lighted candles in pastel colors completed decor for the salonsupper.

Farm vote is important in elections

The general opinion in some political circles today is that the farm vote as a power at the polls is a thing of the past. And on this election eve, the question on farm vote strength is a timely one. It is true that the farm vote now represents only about 9 percent — and maybe less of the registered voters on a national scale. But this figure does not present a true picture of agricultural strength or importance.

Actually, a total of 63 per cent of our population is directly connected with the buying, selling, manufacturing or processing of our farm products. Legislative matters important to agriculture are also vitally important to all these persons.

If everyone who buys the raw products of the farm would vote with the farmer, the strength of the rural vote would increase to 14 per cent. If those who pass these products through the channels of trade were counted, the total goes up to 24 per cent. The processors and manufacturers of these goods would swell the total to 37 per cent.

Retailers of the ultimate product increases the strength to 56 per cent. And finally, those who sell the farmer only those tools and materials needed to produce his crop brings the grand total to 63 per cent of our voting strength. Of course, all of us rely on agriculture for our daily needs. Hardly another single industry affects the entire population so directly.

The primary conclusion to be drawn from this is that the fate of agriculture, its leaders and its legislation, is of concern to us all. For this reason, it is vitally important that every citizen know the men and issues which will guide and affect our agricultural outlook — and then VOTE!

Area newcomers feted Friday at welcoming party

A spring garden scene provided the setting Friday night in Banquet Room of County Activities Building for a welcoming party honoring newcomers to the area. The party was sponsored by Morton Area Chamber of Commerce and hosted by L'Allegro Study Club.

Club members in pastel formals registered, greeted and introduced guests.

A large serving table covered in pink and yellow centered the room. A floral arrangement with driftwood and lighted tapers emphasized the spring motif, a smaller similar arrangement was repeated on the piano.

Johnny Johnson, MA C of C man-chamber and introduced Mrs. Harold Dreenna, program chairman.

Entertainment consisted of vocal numbers by the Girl's Sextet of Morton High School. Members of the sextet are Wadonna Strothers, Lynette Phillips, Dona Mc-Masters, Carla McCarty, Diane Boatright and Kay Peterson. Carol Williams, pianist, accompanied the group.

Mrs. Ted Hammonds, and children and Mrs. Velma Mitchell have been in Childress where they visited with Mrs. J. E. Vaught.

This week's favorite recipe was submitted by Mrs. Donald Masten. A great dessert favorite in her family, it is easily made and quite tasty.

Peach Macaroon Fondue

1/3 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
3 eggs separated
1 cup macaroon crumbs 1 cup finely chopped peaches 1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon almond flavoring

Cream butter until soft; add sugar, beat until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks one at a time, blending after each addition. Add crumbs and peaches, set aside. In small mixer bowl, beat egg whites until foamy, sprinkle with salt and beat until stiff, fold into the egg yolk mixture and add almond flavoring. Pour into a greased 1½ quart casserole. Bake at 325 degrees 30 to 40 minutes until brown. Serves four.

Mrs. Masten and her husband find their greatest joy and pleasure in their three children, Donnie, 4, Susan, 2 and one year old David.

They are members of the East Side Church of Christ where she plans to help with vacation Bible school this summer. Mrs. Masten also attends a Bible class of East Side women members.

Mrs. Masten, the former Margaret Hodges, is a daughter of Mrs. T. C. and the late Mr. Hodges. She is a graduate of Morton High School and has attended the South Plains Junior College since her marriage.

Margaret has plans now to re-enter South Plains College this September, where she will major in journalism.

She likes to write poetry and while in college several of her poems were published in the school paper. She also likes to read, sew and cook.

Margaret enjoys doing with her hands, which are seldom idle. She says she can't bear to waste her time watching TV. Only recently she has completed making a book case. She often covers shoes in new material which is quite a feat.

Mrs. Masten is a firm believer in an old adage, "A person can do anything he wants or decides to do."

As a family the Mastens enjoy visit with relatives and friends. She is a member of Emlea Smith Junior Sister Club and Modern Mothers HD Club and a working member in both organizations.

Union, company negotiations continue

SAN ANGELO — Negotiations between General Telephone Company of the Southwest and Communications Workers of America are scheduled to resume next week (April 27), marking the fifth week of negotiations since the CWA and General of California signed a new contract after a 141-day strike.

According to information released to news media the biggest stumbling block in current negotiations is what the company calls "two-way bargaining" and the union calls "retrogression."

Frank Lennberg, company personnel director and chief negotiator states: "Bargaining is a two-way street and was so intended by Congress in enacting the various labor relations laws. All the company is asking is that the union engage in two-way bargaining which is a right of both sides at the bargaining table. The use of one-way bargaining is strictly the union's prerogative."

A change in contract concerning productive and management employees and hour tours initiated during World War II to encourage business to become night operators are items mentioned by the union retrogressive.

Anniversary date of the new contract now in effect was July 20. Negotiations on a new contract the 2700 General of the Southwest employees represented by CWA began June 20, 1963.

Former resident on earthquake scene own situation and impressions.

This triple disaster — earthquake, fire, and tidal waves — began at 5:26 P.M. Friday, March 27th. It was Good Friday, but no irony is intended. Earthquakes are nothing startling to this section of Alaska. We have several each year, so most of us were not bewildered at the outset. Within seconds, however, we realized that this earthquake was different. It didn't stop, but continued to gain in intensity. The ground was heaving so that we couldn't stand up.
There was an ominous roar everywhere. Suddenly, there a loud explosion and instantly a giant geyser of flame and smoke shot upward. We knew instantly that it was the storage tanks of Standard Oil Co. about seven or eight blocks away.

After what seemed an eternity, 3½ minutes, the earthquake stopped. We were all still alive and unhurt. But one look toward the waterfront did nothing to relieve the terror. The fiery holocaust was racing along faster than a man could run. I believed at the time that the exploding tanks had thrown thousands of barrels of gasoline in all directions. Actually, what was happening was that there were railroad tanks cars, a long line of them, filled with gasoline, being ignited in chain reaction fashion. Within moments, the entire lower end of town along the waterfront was a blazing inferno, flames and smoke rising hundreds of feet into the sky.

With the town apparently destined to be burned to the ground, we followed an age old impulse to flee. We snatched up coats, had the presence of mind to turn off the furnace and electrical switches, and raced toward the car. Already, the streets were clogged with cars. They were going in both directions, and I don't recall that any of them were speeding. I believe that people were too stunned to really know just what to do or where to go.

We drove out of town, the journey taking only five minutes. Our town is small, about 2000 people, and all the cars were moving rather orderly. Upon getting out of town, and to higher ground, we could see the tidal wave. The water was swirling around weirdly and boats and debris were circling about crazily. But, I didn't see anything of immediate danger in all this. Then, all of a sudden, a wall of water, perhaps 15 to 20 feet high, came roaring around the now collapsed small boat harbor. We had stopped at a junction where one road parallels the bay and the other leads away from the bay. It goes without saying, we headed for higher ground.

Once there, on higher ground, we drove slowly back and forth, being careful to keep far enough away from any incoming tidal wave.
Wandering somewhat aimlessly, we again turned off the main highway and up a road toward Bayview School, which sits on higher ground about one and one half miles from the downtown section of town. Dozens of other cars were milling about, as were many people on foot. We drove to Bayview school and it had been opened to allow people to get in out of the cold and bad weather.

Almost immediately, bewildered people came wandering in. I fully expected to see many injured and some dead brought in, but there was none. Wild rumors on the numbered dead and injured circulated throughout the night most of them highly exaggerated. Actually, the final toll of dead and injured in the Seward area was miraculously small, considering the magnitude of the disaster. AS of now, the known dead, the missing and presumed dead totals fifteen. But none of us would have believed then that the figure would be so low.

After an interminably long period of aimless milling, a semblance of direction and guidance began to emerge. We would need food, blankets, clothing, sleeping bags, medical supplies. Even if a dash back into the burning town had been contemplated, we found out that it would have been impossible because the tidal waves had swept huge amounts of debris over the roads. The Civil Defense was in operation within an hour after the disaster.

The Civil Defense had cached supplies in some abandoned buildings further out of town. Several people drove out to the buildings, bouncing across fissures of all sizes on the way, opened up, and began hauling material back to the school. There was a need for water. Trips to all nearby creeks revealed that earth slides had muddied the water so badly that it was unfit for drinking. Later in the night, usable water was found in the well of a nearby resident of Cleavlin Housing and Forest Acres Additions. People living in these areas found out that others were congregated at the school.

By 2 A.M. most people were trying to get a little rest and things were relatively quiet. I don't think any of the adults slept.
After shocks, some of them very heavy, were occurring with terrifying frequency. The burning town cast a weird glow upon the laden skies, from which a soft snow was sifting against the sky told of new fires erupting in town. All of us were sure that we would find nothing but charred remains of our homes.

Daylight came, people began stirring. Some of the women prepared and served lunch meat sandwiches, milk to the children, and something that passed for coffee to the adults. All of us were anxious to get back to town. The fires were subsiding. At length, a bulldozer cleared a path, and we were able to drive back into town. We passed scenes of devastation that are almost impossible to describe. A combination of earthquake, fire and tidal waves produced almost unimaginable destruction. When I saw large railroad freight cars upended a half mile or more from their original location, the tremendous force of the tidal waves (6 in all) began to hit home with great force. Entire homes had been tossed about like corks.

As we entered town, we were very surprised — and elated — to find that most of the buildings had escaped damage and destruction from fire and water action.
The damage from these two terrors was limited to a semi-circular area about two miles in length, and one quarter in width, and encompassing the eastern and northern section of town. But since we were unable to see over the rim of fire from Bayview, we supposed that the whole city was burning.

We drove to our homes, walked across the smoked begrimed yard, and with fingers crossed, entered and began to survey the damage.
We expected the worst. But it wasn't too bad at all. The house was a royal mess, but there was no major damage. Of course, we had no water or power, but we have been sent to Seward asking "What can we do to help?" If people outside really want to help Seward then may I suggest that they write to Senator Clinton Anderson and request that Seward be restored not only to its past economy, but also plan for the immediate future. Also, if I may suggest, write to your own Congressman and Senators and request the following:

1. Seward dock facilities be rebuilt and enlarged immediately.
2. The Alaska Railroad between Anchorage and Seward be rebuilt with all possible speed.
3. The Alaska railroad build a spur (railroad) into the oil fields of Seldotna and Kenai.

Meanwhile, our town, which ironically, received an award as an ALL-AMERICAN City the day before the disaster is digging out and cleaning up. Life is going on in somewhat of a resemblance to pre-March 27, although we will be a long time returning to normal, maybe never. But if courage, faith, and hope counts for anything, Seward will emerge a better, prosperous, and happier community than it has ever been before. — By Eugene Neagle

Other agencies are also performing great and outstanding service. The Red Cross along with Civil Defense, and countless numbers of our own citizens have flung themselves completely and selflessly into this dire emergency.
The immediate needs of every one is being met amply and sufficiently.

In an amazingly short time, public facilities have been put back into operation. We didn't expect to have electric power for many days, or possibly weeks. We all believed that water and sewage lines were shattered beyond repair, and months of work would be required to get them working again. Within 72 hours after the earthquake, most of the town had electricity. Water service was restored to most of the city within five or six days.
Most sewage lines are functional.
Apparently, the earthquake, while very severe, had mostly rolling action which didn't damage underground pipes too much.

Retail stores are reopening as owners clean up the mess and open their doors for business. Special crews are rebuilding fallen chimneys around town. The number of people being fed by Civil Defense at the school is diminishing as homes become habitable and food and other items can be purchased.
There are many homeless, however, and these will have to be cared for for quite some time to come. Schools have been reopened and trying to return to normal daily routine.

The question paramount in the minds of everyone is "what will the future hold for Seward?" The entire economy is gone. Docks, railroad facilities, canneries, facilities of Petroleum Companies and much other property that furnish employment here are destroyed.

WHEELS IN BALANCE at ALL SPEEDS

"In the Galveston Divisional Championship Races the weekend of July 5, I found that after installation of TECO Automatic Wheel Balancers, my car handled much smoother and had no front-end bounce on the turns in speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour. I never want to race again without them.

"I have also had them installed on my 1962 Corvair Monza Convertible. I am truly amazed by the difference that TECO Automatic Wheel Balancers has made."

Norman E. Lamb, Vice President & Account Executive, Tully J. Petty Advertising & Public Relations.

"We first installed TECO Automatic Wheel Balancers on two police cars to find what effect that it would have on city driving. I then installed them on my car to compare both city and highway driving.
The improvement of operation and the savings brought about through the additional mileage on our tires warranted us to install TECO Automatic Balancers on additional vehicles."

George L. Nattin, Mayor Bossier City, Louisiana

TECO Automatic Wheel Balancers are an ingeniously simple device, consisting of hard plastic tubing, formed into a closed, sealed hoop ... one for each wheel ... containing chrome steel balls, running in a special fluid.

TECO Automatic Wheel Balancers dampen vibration in a vehicle, caused by out of balance conditions in tires and wheels or from tire distortion and road shock.

PLACIDITY

"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee. Because he trusteth in thee." Isaiah 26:3

"The peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus." Phillipians 4:7

God has never promised life without trouble nor progress without striving. He has, however, promised that amid the tumult and strife He would give us an inner peace if we let Him live in our hearts.

Learn about this unusual peace offered to all freely. Attend church this Sunday

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Morton area piano students win piano honors

Morton area piano students L. S. McCarty took top honors in the National Piano Auditions in Lubbock April 23.

International Certificate of Merit Vicky Goodman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Shifflett, Sam Feagley, son of Mrs. C. J. Feagley, and Rheda Jane Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Anglin, are seventh graders.

Piano pupils attaining International Certificates must perform a program of 15 graded selections by memory in their particular grade and age level. There is just a particular time and age when this is possible, preferably and usually in sixth and seventh grades in school.

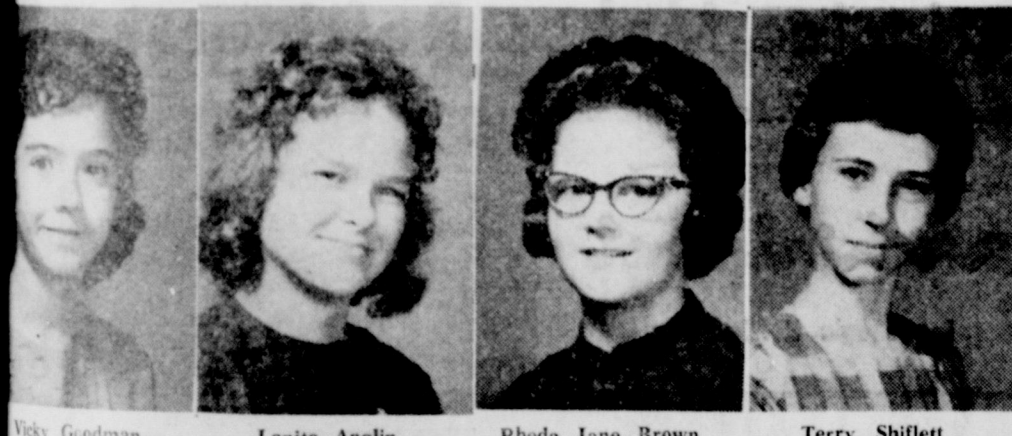

Sam Feagley won an extra honor by entering the Critics' Circle, the highest grade level which can be reached.

Among an estimated 450 piano students from South Plains area taking part in the auditions were 10 other pupils of Mrs. McCarty. Mrs. Lorraine Merrill of Houston served as judge for the auditions, which are not contests.

Each player is graded according to age, ability, selections and length of study.

Local membership winners in National Fraternity of Piano Students, (performance of three numbers) were Arlene Crow, Carolyn Gray, Sue Srygly, Phil Barker and Rita Kaye Bedwell.

Winners in the district level (performance of six numbers) were Glorietta Gray, Sandy Hill, Trezill Hill and Marie Davidson. Susan Bridson, Muleshoe, was a National winner with 10 selections and also proclaimed Critics' Circle, highest grade level. All are pupils of Mrs. McCarty, member of National Guild of Piano Teachers.

When I announced my candidacy for re-election for sheriff of Cochran County, I fully intended to see each and every one of you before the coming primary May 2. After canvassing about one-third of the county, as most of you, Joe Hodge, one of my deputies became ill of a stroke which left us short of help. Since then most of my time has been taken up discharging the duties of the office. Therefore, I will not be able to contact each of you personally.

So please let me come into your home through the columns of the newspaper for a short visit to say these few words to you in behalf of my candidacy.

The invocation was given by Rev. Mrs. Ruth Cooper. Linda Milligan gave the welcome from the seventh graders to the eighth graders. The class wills were given by Chester Huff and Monte Toombs. Rev. Mrs. Cooper then took the group on an oral trip to the "Seven Wonders of the Solar System". The program was concluded by Charley and Geno Abbe, who gave several duets of two-tapping guitar music. The young people were then taken to see a movie in Morton.

Vacation church schools planned

Butane explosion injures woman

Mrs. Garvin Long was critically burned Saturday evening about 8:00 p.m. when butane exploded in a brooder house at her farm home about three miles southeast of Maple. Her husband and their son, Marvin, rescued her from the smoke-filled building, and called an ambulance. She was taken to Morton, where a doctor sent her on to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. Her attending physician there recommended that she be taken to John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, but she was kept overnight in Lubbock because fog and stormy weather at Galveston would have prevented the ambulance plane from landing. About 10:30 a.m. Sunday, the plane was able to leave, with Mr. and Mrs. Long and a registered nurse aboard.

Mr. Long reported to relatives here Sunday evening that Mrs. Long was pronounced to be in serious but not critical condition by the physicians at John Sealy Hospital. She received third-degree burns over 30% of her body, with the arms most severely injured; another 30% of her body received second-degree burns. She is scheduled to receive 20 pints of blood, and blood-donors in the community are volunteering to replace this by giving twice that amount (40 pints) to the Blood Bank in Lubbock. A number of volunteers went Monday morning from Maple to give to her account; others wishing to do so may donate blood at any time by going to the Blood Bank, 415 Ave. R. in Lubbock, and crediting the blood to her account.
