crop would only be 20 percent of amount harvested in 1963. Cotton production was figured to be down 20 percent from last year also depending on the amount of moisture received on the crops in the coming days. Farmers from various areas in Cochran County discussed the conditions in their particular area including the state of the present crops and the amount of rainfall they had received in the past

It was determined that in the last year the Precinct One area had received a general total of six inches of rainfall. It was further explained that most of this total was received in small amounts which were not generally profitable to farming due to the small amount and the length of time between the rains.

In many sections of Precinct Two only two inches of moisture has been received in the past 11 months. Dryland farmers in areas receiving such a small amount of moisture are in serious trouble with both feed and cotton crops. Much of the grain planted either failed to come up or failed to porting less than two inches in the past 11 months although some spots had received up to four inches of rainfall.

Approximately two inches of moisture was reported to have fell in Precinct Four within the past 11 months.

One stockman reported that he was presently feeding 30 percent of his cattle at this time and contemplated feeding more if moisture was not received in the very near future. Another said that he was not feeding cattle now, but expected to begin soon if moisture was not received by August 1.

One man noted that the growing period was growing shorter each day and that crops in poor condition now would experience difficulty even if moisture was received in the near future. It was generally thought that one general rain would not be enough for the dryland session Monday, approved the putting of the ordinance to vote by the electorate. Neal Rose made the motion to hold the election and it was seconded by Councilman Tom Rowden. The vote was un-

Three proposals make up the $280,000 sought. Largest of these $200,000 for improvements to the waterworks system. Next is a $60,000 figure which would be used to upgrade the gas system. Finally comes a $20,000 proposal for use in improving the sanitary sewer system.

Any property owner whose name appears on the currently approved 1963 city tax roll or whose name appears on the 1964 city tax roll as having rendered property for taxation will be eligible to vote providing in addition that he has lived in Texas for one year and in Cochran County for the

must have paid the poll tax or have an exemption.

Absentee voters can cast their ballots on the proposals as soon The City Council, in a special the ballots are available. Absentee voting will take place at City Hall between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The waterworks improvement program, which will receive the bulk of the bonds should the proposition pass, includes various improvements. The distribution system will receive an additional 30,000 feet of 4, 6 and 8 inch water main lines which will provide effective looping of water mains around the city. This will alleviate water shortages in certain areas and provide for development and expansion of the city's water system in the future with only the addition of lateral lines.

To aid in the water shortage problems three new tanks will be added including an 80,000 gallon capacity concrete ground storage tank and a 100,000 gallon capacity steel ground storage tank. Also an elevated storage tank with a capacity of 250,000 gallons will be installed

These improvements in storage capacity will bring the city from its present deficient position in both elevated and ground storage to a position of having adequate storage capacity through the anticipated growth period from 1964 through 1974. Water for fire flow will be greatly improved and effective contributions will be made to the efficiency of the distribution

Water supply system improvements consisting of two 700 gallon per minute wells and the necessary eight inch supply lines and booster pumps for delivery of the water to the distribution system and storage. These wells should provide the city with a firm supply of water for the foreseeable future, with dispersal of sources of supply.

Providing the issue passes, improvements in the sewer system would include the addition of 4,500 feet of six inch sewer lines and the construction of a new sewer system lift station. This construction would allow efficient operation of the sewer system without an enlargement to the present

The $60,000 asked for the gas system would be used for improvements by the addition of approximately 25,000 feet of two or inch gas lines with needed plug valves and fittings.

The lines would allow the reduction of pressure in the system and thereby reduce leakage. More efficient operation at peak period should also be achieved. There will not be any taxes involved in the payment of the proposed revenue bonds. The principal and interest on the bonds will be repaid solely from the net revenues of the waterworks, sewer and gas system. The bonds will provide that the holder shall never have the right to demand payment of these obligations out of funds raised or to be raised by taxation.

An increase in water, sewer or gas rates will not be necessary. The present revenues of the system are entirely adequate to pay

Action discussed on futures market for livestock

A cattle futures market. Ridiculous, you say? Maybe not, according to Ed Uvacek, Extension livestock marketing specialist at Texas A&M University.

The Chicago Mercantile Exchange has hired a private consulting firm to study the possibility of such a market. Although most segments of the livestock industry feel there is a need for a futures market on livestock, they do not fully understand how it can best be used, says Uvacek.

There are many problems in establishing a livestock futures market because of the nature of the product. In live cattle trading, there is difficulty in establishing specifications, carcass beef contracting isn't very appealing to either producers or buyers and boneless beef normally doesn't have the price variation needed for attractive speculation.

Early investigations show that live cattle contracts combining carcass specifications might be the best solution.

Another problem with establishing a futures market is the large amount of educational work that must be done to insure a full understanding of the program by cattlemen.

However, eventually the difficulties will be worked out and the thing that couldn't work, a futures trading market on live cattle and beef, will be a reality, says Uvacek.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Evans and children returned home Saturday evening following a nine day trip to Gatesville to visit his mother, Mrs. Maggie Evans. From there they went to Corpus Crhisti and to Padre Island, Laredo and into Old Mexico.

Starting the fire

Line the bottom of the fire bowl with heavy duty aluminum foil for easier cleaning.

A fire base of gravel or similar material about 1 inch deep permits the fire to "breathe", giving more heat from the coals. If the fire bowl has a rounded bottom, use enough fire base to make a level bed out to the edge of the bowl. After 4 to 6 barbecues, wash the fire base to remove drippings and ash. Be sure it is thoroughly dry before use, since gravel may "explode" if heated when wet.

Start the fire far enough in advance so you will have a good bed of coals at the time you plan to start barbecuing. The usual method — which takes about 45 minutes — is to stack briquets in a pyramid shape, soak lightly with charcoal lighting fluid, let stand 1 minute and light. Soon small gray spots will appear on the briquets. When the surface is covered with gray ash, spread the coals evenly and the fire is ready for cooking.

Spread briquets evenly over the cooking area of the fire base in brazier or fire box for even heat, leaving about 1" space between briquets to help avoid flame ups. If dripping fat flames, squirt lightly with water. Keep small supply of lighted briquets along edge, add to cooking area to maintain an even heat.

To test to see if the fire is hot enough to cook beef, hold your hand over the fire at about the same position the meat will be. Begin counting "one thousand one, one thousand two," etc. The number of seconds you can comfortable hold your hand over the fire will tell you how hot the fire is.

If you count to only one thousand one or two, that's HOT — and ready for steaks or hamburgers. A one thousand three or four fire is just right for kabobs, pot roasts wrapped in foil or roasts on the spit.

For faster starting — about 30 minutes — use a No. 10 can. Punch large, closely spaced holes about 1" from the bottom of the can. A pointed beverage can opener can be used. Remove the bottom of the can. Place can, bottom edge

Students advised about reservations

LEVELLAND (Special) Girls desiring reservations in dormitories at South Plains College are advised to make their request as soon as possible. Accommodations will be available for some 100 girls.

"Request for Dormitory Accommodations" forms may be obtained from the college business office. A deposit of $20 will be required for those making advance room reservations.

Dormitories will be open for occupancy at 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 6, preceding the first day of registration. down, in the fire bowl. Ful the can with briquets and soak with charcoal lighting fluid. Let stand I minute and light. When briquets are covered with gray ash, simply remove can with pliers or tongs and spread coals over cooking

For smoke flavor

Use wood chips such as hickory, oak, apple and cherry for giving extra smoke flavor to the meat. Soak chips in water at least I hour before using so they will give maximum smoke and will not burn. Add a few chips at a time to the charcoal while cooking. If chips flame-up, replace them with wet ones. Liquid smokes are also used in marinades and basting sauces.

Marinades and sauces often accent the flavor of meats cooked on a grill or rotisserie. They vary from mild to highly seasoned, but should not mask the natural meat flavor. They are used to baste meat during cooking or may be served as an accompaniment. When basting, a heavy pastry brush or narrow paint brush is helpful.

Fresh air and the pleasant aroma of outdoor cookery sharpen appetites and call for generous servings of the meat course. The cut of meat and the way it is prepared influence the amount to buy. For bone-in cuts allow 3/4 to 1 pound per serving; for boneless cuts allow 1/3 to ½ pound. Roasts, patties, frankurters, etc., are usually selected when serving a large group unless facilities for grilling are extensive. Roasts provide more servings per unit of cooking space.

Palo Duro Canyon State Park

Etched deeply in the high plains of the Panhandle, just south of Amarillo, lies a spectacular gorge, widely renowned for its scenic beauty. This is Palo Duro Canyon, a great 15,000 acre state park of Texas. You enter it on a road which winds for miles along the bottom of the vast gorge. You see many remarkable formations such as the "Lighthouse" and "Balanced Rock" which have been formed by centuries of erosion which created the Canyon. As you drive slowly along the Canyon's beauty is enhanced by constant changes in delicate coloring. Coronado explored the Canyon in 1541, and in 1876 Col. Goodnight drove the first wagon train down a huge rock slide into its great gulf. Palo Duro Canyon is easily reached on major highways through many of our towns, and is a high spot in places to go and things to see in General Telephone Country.

At this time the cause of the blaze has not been determined, but a safety expert in Lubbock is currently looking into the causes of the fire. The truck was ruled a total loss, but the damages to the tank have not been set as yet. The incident occurred one and pitching pattern of low strikes. Ralph Soliz demonstrated a remarkable talent for keeping an eye on the ball. At the top of the fourth, he stepped up to the batter's box and transformed Pharies' low pitch into a spectacular home run. He cracked the ball to leftfield where it dropped behind the fence and left Morton with their only score of the game.

Morton Braves, having worked together only three times, staged a fine defensive effort. They stopped Levelland from scoring in the first two innings, but Levelland broke the game wide open with a four-run third inning. With two outs on the team, Larry Harden scored on Dan Mulloy's rightfield hit, then James Brockman slugged homer that brought in Gary Petty and Mulloy.

Levelland held a 4-0 lead at the bottom of the third. Soliz posted Morton's score in the fourth; but Wendeil Bickett was out when first baseman caught his fly ball, then two more outs sent the Braves out to field.

James Kensley walked, then scored on an error to third. Hightower caught Harden's pop up for the first out. Petty and Mulloy scored on two doubles by Mulloy and Brockman, but Hightower stopped Levelland's advance by striking out Pharies and McCrutchin in the bottom half of the fourth

Fifth inning saw Morton try to pull out of their trailing position. Eddie Garza walked but was out at second base. Mike Bryan got a single but Jackie Miller made the third out on first base. The score was Levelland 7, Morton 1, Morton's manager, Harvey Balko, sent in Donnie Hoover for Earnest Soliz as catcher, Mark Balko for Ralph Soliz in rightfield, and Larry Mc-Clintock for Eddie Garza in leftfield. Garza took Bickett's position on second base. Both teams remained scoreless in the fifth and sixth inning leaving Levelland on top 7-1 in the annual A-Star contest.

Built in the middle 1940's by the late W. G. (Buck) and Mrs. Briley, the house is unusual in many respects. One being that two barracks formed the nucleus for the structure, which something like Topsy "just grew.'

Buck, as he was affectionately known to all, young and old, had an unusual zest for life and a particular enjoyment of people; in building he blended the house with the site, merged indoors with outdoors and allowed functionialism to dictate styling rather than

Supply and demand controls market

Depressed beef prices resulted in a familiar charge - that some elements, notably the chain stores, were profiteering at the expense of the producer.

This is a matter which is as sensitive as it is important, and it led the authoritative Farm Journal to follow a fed steer from feedlot to the dinner table in order to investigate the charges.

The steer in question moved from a Nebraska feedlot to a packing plant, at a $34.92 cent loss to the feeder.

The packer sold it to a major chain store netting a mere $2.08

The chain then sold it to its customers—at a loss of $10.33.

If anyone can find evidence of profiteering in this typical case, the word has lost all meaning. Beef moves in a supply and demand market. That market can, from time to time, produce big profits-or losses, It is a free market in which all concerned are free agents. And it is the only kind of market that can meet the needs of the American economic system and, over the long pull, do the most for consumer and producer alike.

Pesticides aid in farming

Those who would banish pesticides from use in farming are given no support by the head of one of this country's leading agricultural organizations, the National Grange.

In a letter to the Secretary of Agriculture, Grange Master Newsom has said: "The fact is that we, as farmers, are applying science and technology at the very forefront of man's knowledge. The benefits of this are enjoyed by all Americans in terms of an abundant low cost food supply. If a reverse trend were initiated, depriving agriculture of these production tools, food costs undoubtedly would rise, and money now being used for a higher standard of living would, of necessity, be spent for food. Futhermore, human health could be jeopardized through lack of pesticides to control disease spreading insects.

What does the record show? Mr. Newsom touched on that in these words: "I do not believe there is a medically documented case of a person becoming ill from eating food treated with pesticides where instructions have been followed." Those last five words should be underlined. Misuse of pesticides can result in very real dangers. So can misuse of any number of other things - including the ubiquitous automobile! But no one seriously urges that anything and everything whose improper use involves risks be outlawed.

Much of the credit for the fact that your family eats extremely well must be given to the pesticides.

A lot of publicty has been generated over the new topless bathing uit, and the designer has gotten famous in some circles for having dreamed it up. While a few daring your ladies have modeled the suit in public, we predict that it will not catch on - primarily due to modesty and morality, but somewhat because not every fe-male is built for it. These topless suits pose a lot of problems, too. For example, if you are a male and were to be introduced to a girl wearing one of these topless bathing suits, how would you react in such a way as to prove you are indeed a gentlemen of re-

Would you look steadily into the girl's eyes, never wavering your glance downward for even a little peek? Would you throw restraint the winds and glare boldly at he bosom? A certain amount of friendly respect and admiration would be called for in any introduction. The question is how much and for how long. We can see that topless bathing suits present a lot of problems, none of which will bother us because we doubt if we ever see such a suit in public

It was completely obvious by mid-week that Barry Goldwater's supporters held tight control over the Republican National Convention in San Francisco . . . and they were not hesitating to flex their muscles at every opportunity. Their uncompromising muscleflexing may prove a sore embarrassment to the Grand Old Party before November, however.

The unitra-conservatives who have captured the Republican Convention in the name of Barry Goldwater are already an embarassment to many party leaders who have discovered, too late, that they have premitted the GOP to be taken over by a new breed of

This was most obvious in the key votes on platform amend-ments offered Tuesday night . . . amendments which would have put the Republicans on record as de ploring extremists of the right or left (specifically naming Communists. Ku Kluxers and Birchers). on record as supporting enforce-ment of the Civil Rights Bill, and on record as favoring continued civilian control (by the President) atomic weapons. All three of the proposed amendments or additions to the platform were overwhelmingly shouted down by the triumphant Goldwater forces . . . putting some Republican leaders in the embarassing position of having to publicly oppose condemnation of Communists along with Birchers and even of refusing endorsement of Civil Rights legislation which they had helped write.

The big split was wide op and laid out on nationwide TV for everyone to see. It was an obvious victory for Barry Goldwater, but what he has won remains to be seen. It is not inconceivable that what he has won is the remains of a Dead Old Par-

Although Communists and Ku Kluxers were named also as the extremist groups which the liberal Republicans wanted to disavow, the real issue was the John Birch society and everybody knew. It is doubtful that many Communists have tried to infiltrate the Republican party . . . and Ku Klux Klansmen are not exactly a power block in the GOP councils . . . but

ALTHOUGH the number of people on Texas farms and ranches is decreasing, many of those leaving the country are not leaving the agricultural industry, according to an economist with the Extension Service of Texas A and M University.

Today, he said, nearly 40 per You just wait here about 15 cent of all Texans derive their income wholly or in part from farming and ranching or connected business. These businesses supply the production needs of farmers and process and distribute agricultural products.

Increased efficiency in farm and ranch production has released much labor to the urban areas but much of this labor retains its connection with agriculture. The workers simply do not live in the smaller towns and that is what is creating a major problem.

The average Texas newspaper reader almost lost sight of the congressional redistricting issue in the final hectic days of the civil rights legislation and the feverish maneuvering of the Republican party just prior to its national convention, which began Monday.

But the redistricting problem is creeping back into the headlines, bigger than ever, and most observers seem resigned to the inevitable, to the realignment of congressional and legislative districts to reflect "population only" in the mposition of both houses of the Legislature.

A federal court already has orered the realignment of congressional districts in Texas to produce 23 districts of substantially equal population. The court set a deadline of Aug. 1, 1965, for compliance with its order.

Gov. John Connally is one of those apparently resigned to the inevitable. In addressing the Texas Bar Association's 82nd annual convention in Houston, the Governor said congressional and legislative reditricting will "cast a long shadow" over the proceedings of the next Legislature. Redistricting, he added, will "most certainly bring a great change."

Great changes indeed will take place as a result of the revolutionary alteration of representation in the Texas Legislature, Yet it is impossible now to predict the nature of that change in the absence of the redistricting plan it-that the new Legislature will be much more responsive to the needs of the great population centers than previous ones. But what will be the attitude of members of the new Legislature toward such issues as water supply? Would the new Legislature be more sympathetic to a state income tax, a city income tax, or a city sales tax than its predecesors?

For many legislators it will be a heart-rending experience. Senators and representatives who have come from sparsely settled districts face the pospects of legis-lating themselves out of office.

Great political and economic questions are in the balance that will affect us here in Garza County and the people in all 253 of the state's other counties. But it is, alas, premature to predict the out-

Education plans are outline for "catching up" with other states in the field of higher education has been outlined to Texans by the Governor's Committee on Edu cation Beyond the High School.

It will take considerable money to accomplish just one of the major tests of excellence in education bringing Texas faculty salaries up to the national average. More is needed for libraries and research facilities.

To help achieve goals in those three fields, the Committee recommended that further college construction be delayed. By using the present classrooms and laboratories more hours a day and more days a year, this saving can be accomplished, the committee felt. Gov. John Connally conceded that it will take new taxes to finance the program which he has termed his No. 1 interest. Neither he nor the committee recommended a financing plan. Committee did say the Leigslature should double college tuition, so students and their parents would share more of the cost of education. Plan calls for expansion of the junior college system, and wide use of vocational training to prepare students for skilled and semiskilled technical jobs in industry.

Coordination, to eliminate duplication between state colleges. would be placed in the hands of an 18-member board appointed by the governor. Board would take over duties of the present junior college division of the Texas Education Agency and the Commission on Higher Education. This would put junior and senior college and university supervision in single group.

Goal would be to make junior college training available to all, and to raise its level of excellence so all junior college credits would be immediately transferrable to senior colleges.

Committee, headed by H. B. Zachry, San Antonio construction executive, is taking its case to the public in a series of meetings with business leaders in their com-

A POPULAR PLACE - Texas' State Capitol is being invaded daily by both Texans and out of state tourists who come here to pay tribute to the history of the state. Men, women and children about three times as many children as parents it seems - literally crowd the Capitol's halls, their numbers reaching as many as 1,-200 a day.

One of the most popular stops on the informal tour (there are no guides) of State buildings is the State Archives and Library, just across a walkway from the Capi-

There renowned artists Peter Hurd and his son-in-law Peter Rogers are executing a mural of Texas' history, featuring remark-able likeness of Stephen F. Austin, Sam Houston and Anson Jones, as well as Davy Crockett and liam B. Travis. The mural depicts the conquistador as well as the cowbov.

Visitors are invited to pull up a chair and watch the artists at work, and they do. They are also treated to a newly-arranged recreation of a room from Gov. Elisha Pease's (1853-57, 1867-69) mansion, Furniture was donated to the archives when former Gov. Allan Shivers bought the venerable mansion.

MAKING WAY FOR 1990 - A large number of Texas cities with populations of less than 50,000 are planning now for the year 1990 by developing a blueprint for program under a Federa-local program being administered by State Health Department. Under this program, a city can obtain studies of current facilities and projections of future needs in every area from economic and sociological needs to budgeting for capital improvements. The Hous-ing and Home Finance agency makes grants for the master plans and the city pays one-third the cost, while the Federal agency pays two-thirds. A typical town under study is the Wildlife Department will advertise a second time for bids for concession rights on the new State fishing pier at Port Lavaca. Only one person submitted a bid July 1 and after 13 said they were interested.

The 3,200-foot-long pier, which replaced one destroyed by Hurri-cane Carla, is said to be the world's longest fishing pier. Access to it will be free to the public, but the department is trying to provide a source of bait, soft drinks and fishing gear via a concessionaire contract

Decision will be made at a meeting to be hosted by Chairman Ed Knolle of Sandia at his Knolle Jersey Farm in Jim Wells County. Knolle said there have been several "well qualified" applicants for the post, but declined to list them. However, it has been rumored that a staff veterinarian with the commission, Dr. S. B. Walker, will be favored.

BRUCELLOSIS PROGRAM -Animal Health Commission postponed to September a decision on whether to let a Type II brucellocontrol program be set up in one part of Brooks County. Commission has been informed that many Brooks County producers want to organize a program, but the King Ranch which has 3,991 of the 16,000 head of cattle on the county tax rolls does not. Approval of the owners of 75 per cent of the cattle in a county is necessary so the proponents want to organize a program in just the soil conservation district which covers all of the county except King Ranch property.

Commission said it lacked sufficient information for a decision

WEST TEXAS SCHOOL - West Texas cities that want to be home to a new West Texas School for the mentally retarded will have to wait until at least September 14 to learn which will be chosen. Chairman of the Board for

State Hospitals and Special Schools' site selections committee. C. E. Bentley of Abilene, said his committee will report to the board on that date. However, Bentley did not say that the committee will make a definite recommendation on a single site at that time. INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

-Texas Industrial Commission is boasting in the July issue of Texas Parade Magazine that 27 new plants were announced in Texas in May. Gift tea honors Jeanette Barry

Miss Jeanette Barry, birde-elect of Ronnie Caffey, was honored with a gift tea Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Charles Assisting with the hostess duties were Mesdames J. W. Allen, Leanard Gaines, Don Lackey, E. E. Jennings, Jr., Linder, Leland Sufres, Lloyd Wemkem, R. K. Mc-Coy and H. L. Fitzgerald.

The table was laid with white lace bordered with net over orchid. The centerpiece was an arrangement of white majestic daises with leather sprayed orchid centered with two white hearts bordered in

The bride's chosen colors of orchid and white were brought out in the serving of orchid punch and white angel squares centered with orchid wedding bells. Hostesses alternated at the register and punch bowl. They were assisted by Misses Judy Wemken and Diane

The honoree was wearing a dress of combed cotton lawn. The full unpressed pleated skirt was bordered with wide cotton lace. Her corsage was of white pom

One hundred and fifty guests were invited to the home of Mrs. Charles Cumpton for the tea.

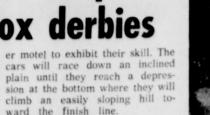

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burleson. Round Rock, and Mr. and Mrs. Neal Rose are guests this week in Ruidoso of Judge and Mrs. M. Ledbetter.

The winner of the area contest at Lubbock will receive a $500 big All-American Soap Box race United States Savings Bond, a Chevrolet City Championship trophy and a free trip to Akron, Ohio to compete in the 27th Annual All-American Soap Box Derby to be held on Saturday, August 15, 1964.

The Derby race has become, in recent years, the greatest amateur racing event in the world. Strict rules must be followed by the entries and the work done by the boys makes the Soap Box building a worthwhile project.

First, the boys were required to go to a local sponsoring Chevrolet dealer with a parent or guardian to fill out an entry blank and receive a 1964 Rule Book.

Next the boys found a sponsor which can be any business, club, church or any other similar organization. The sponsor's responsibility is to purchase the wheel kit for the boy. The sponsor also usually pays for the painting of its sign or trade mark on the side of the racer.

Rules require that entries spend only $20 on a racer besides the wheel and axle and paint. The car must be not more than 80 inches in length and must not weigh more than 250 pounds.

Entries have recently returned from a preliminary inspection in Lubbock. Final inspection will be held in Lubbock at television station KCBD.

Morton boys entering are Tom-my Debusk, Clinton Craddock, Ralph Soliz, Dennis Clayton and Ronnie Allsup at Lubbock.

Tommy Debusk is sponsored by Cobbs Department Store on the west side of the square. Clintock Craddock entered the contest at Levelland but he has been staying with relatives in Morton this summer. He is sponsored by Star Route Co-Op Gin, Rose Auto will sponsor Ralph Soliz and Morton Tribune will sponsor Dennis Clayton. Ronnie Allsup will be sponsored by Allsup-Reynolds.

Local champions will spend an exciting week in Akron. They will spend much of their time in Derbytown, a beautiful YMCA camp just outside Akron. Then they will compete with city champs from all over the country. First place in All-American race will win a $7,500 college scholarship.

PROGRESS

Progress is on the march. There is a great boom in building. Cures are being found for maladies that have killed mankind for centuries. Industry is doing magnificent things. But what sort of progress is being made in human relations—this term that includes respect for the person and property of others and good will among men.

There is one agency striving for progress in this field. This agency is the church. At the birth of Jesus Christ, the following prophesy and promise was given to mankind by a host of angels: "Glory to God in the Highest Heaven! Peace upon earth among men of goodwill!" Luke 2:14, (Phillips translation). Only when the majority of men on earth are men of goodwill, will we have peace.

Attend church this week and align yourself with the forces of God.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
