Expect high county farm income

Prospects in Cochran county "fair to good and might be exceptionally good," is the consensus of opinion among the experts. Much depends yet on additional rain received, the degree of dryness experienced, the weeds and whether frost comes early or late this year.

Cadenhead, Performance Director of the office of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in Morton said, "We have the best crop of their years. Others have hailed out spray as three times, some have flooded out and didn't get final seed in the ground until late that a great deal will now depend on us having a dry, late fall with a late first frost date."

caused several diseases and many types of insects to be greater than average danger. Among these are root fungi types of disease, leaf worms, and various types of small midges. Careless weeds and other pests have been accelerated by the rains this year, too.

dry land crop." Dansby said July and August moisture will be needed but we have a pretty good Dansby said he did not see a restart on a very good crop". cord crop in prospect this year but that it should be much better than last year and "as good as 1963, which was a good year."

★ For the birds

They weren't taking pictures at Allsup-Reynolds Chevrolet Tuesday when they said, "Watch the birdie." A bird which had found its way into the automobile show room and offices led the crew a merry chase for a while. Finally J. C. Reynolds cornered the little rascal and gingerly (?) deposited him outside much to the relief of all concerned except partner Don Allsup. As J. C. came back in the door after releasing his fine feathered friend, Don grumbled, "Why didn't you try to sell him something?"

Morton may win Soap Box Derby—(next year)

Morton entrants in the Lubbock Soap Box Derby Monday night did a fine job of representing the community.

Ronnie Allsup and Dennis Clayton, both competing in Class A of the meet, were eliminated in the third heat, while Andy Haggard and Randy Clayton, running in the Class B division, were both beaten in the first heat of races.

Allsup drew a bye in the first heat, and won his second heat. Dennis Clayton won two races before being eliminated. Allsup was beaten less than a foot by the Class A champion, Ricky Hogan of Lubbock while Clayton was nosed out by the eventual second place winner in the same class.

Randy Clayton lost out to the Derby's first place winner, Steve Walters of Idalou, by about half a car length, and that was the approximate length of Haggard's loss also.

It was noted by spectators at the race that the Morton boys had some of the finest looking and best built cars in the entire event.

Allsup was sponsored in the race by Doss Thritway; Dennis Clayton by Morton Tribune; Haggard by Hawkins Oldsmobile, and Randy Clayton by Silvers Butane.

Liquor violation

Martinez Garcia, 30, of Morton was arrested Sunday afternoon for transporting liquor in Cochran county. Garcia was fined $350 plus court costs and was still in the county jail Wednesday, unable to pay. Garcia had three cases of beer when he was arrested on North West Third Street near the cotton gin in a 1954 Ford car.

Garcia's car will be held by police pending trial. This was the man's first arrest for liquor violation. With the second conviction, a person's car is taken from him and sold to the highest bidder.

Garcia's arrest was the only crime of any consequences reported in Morton during the past week.

May double local mail service

Mail service to and from Morton is expected to be increased to twice daily in the near future, according to Jesse T. George, state representative from this district. Action will be initiated by Morton Postmaster Murray Crone through postoffice channels.

George received a letter Wednesday from George Mahon, Congressman for this district, promising, "I will help in every possible way" and another letter from U.S.

Senator Ralph Yarborough, also promising his cooperation and help in the project.

George had requested the help of the Congressman and Senator in letters addressed to them in Washington, D.C. stating "mail service to Morton is limited to one delivery per day with the possible exception of a small star route. The mail truck arrives from Lubbock at 7:45 a.m. and doesn't depart Morton until 5 p.m. This means the mail delivery man is stationed here all day and this works a hardship on him, too. Until just recently Morton had two mail deliveries per day but now we are cut back to what we had some thirty-five years ago. Morton, as you know, is a growing community and what more could add to its continuing productivity than improved mail service."

George wrote further, "I have conversed with numerous civic and business leaders of the community and they stand foursquare and behind added service. It was their opinion that I write you to see what steps need to be taken." George also told the Congressmen, "our mail service does not have the promptness and effectiveness we need and an additional delivery each day would be a boon to our area."

Robert Taylor resigns coaching

Robert Taylor, assistant coach at Morton High, resigned this week to accept a position in the Friona school system where he taught before coming to Morton last year. Taylor also served as head coach at Morton Junior High. No replacement was being found for Taylor as yet, according to Ray Lanier, Superintendent of Schools.

Low bid awarded paving work by Morton Council

Morton City Council met Monday night at City Hall starting at 7 p.m. and ended its meeting in record time at 9 o'clock.

Paving Bid Let
Three bids submitted on proposed city paving were opened and the award went to the low bidder, Pioneer Pavers, at 13 cents a square yard. Pioneer was the low bidder for the last paving job in Morton and is now working in Levelland. The bid was for a minimum of 60,000 square yards of work.

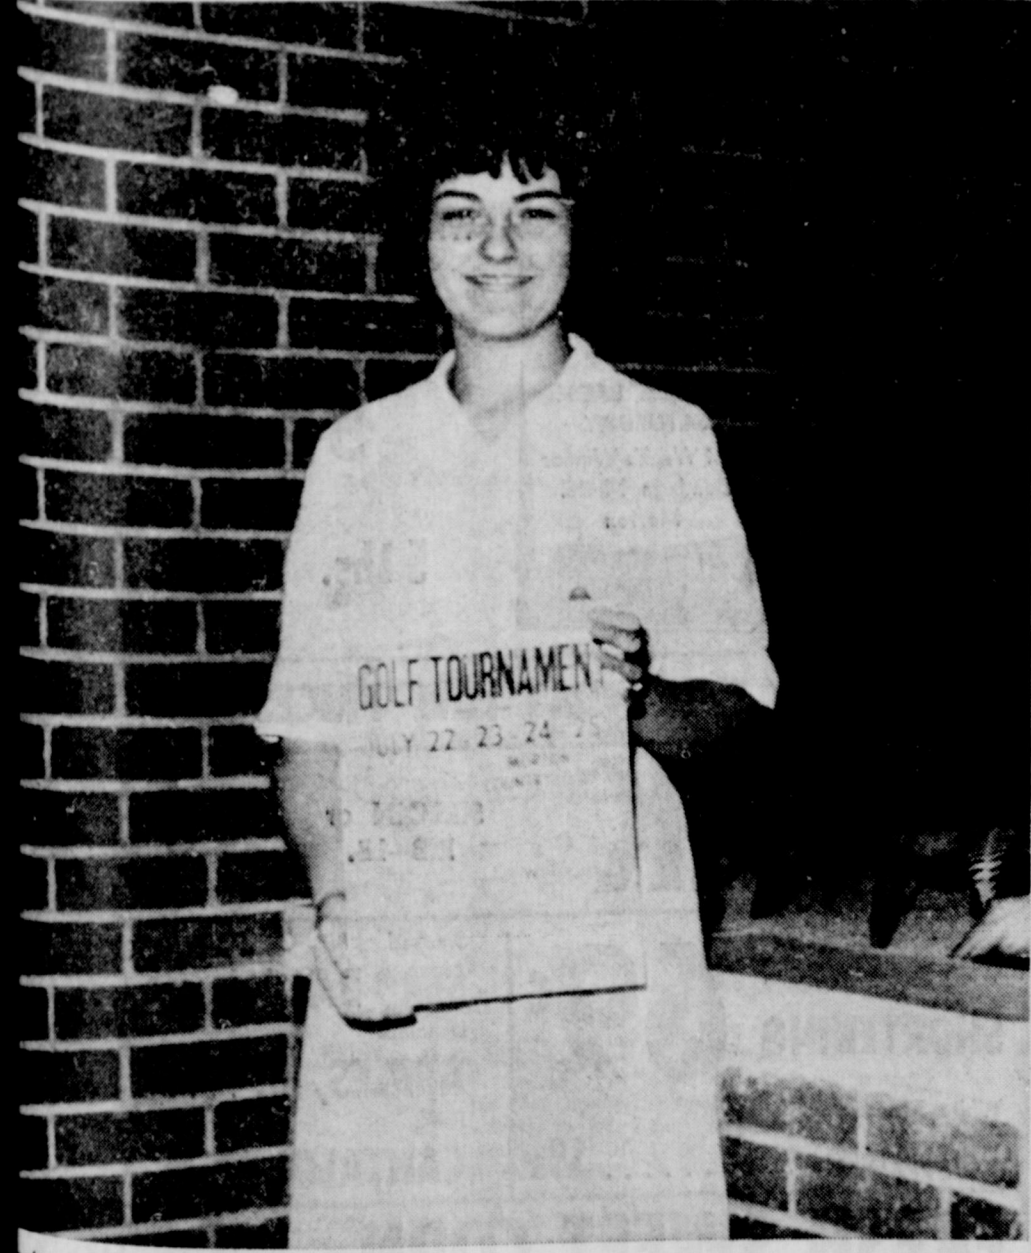

T. J. Hodges of Lubbock bid 15 cents a square yard for the project and Jake Diel Paving of Muleshoe bid 13½ cents.

Ingليس named new business teacher at Morton High

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, Business teacher at Morton High, resigned this week and will not teach here next year. Mrs. Smith has been replaced by Mrs. Cheryl Ingليس, who has been teaching third grade according to Mr. Ray Lanier, Superintendent of Schools.

Mrs. Ingليس is a Business Administration major from Texas Tech and is one of those rare individuals with more than one major field of accomplishment or qualification, Lanier explained. Ingليس is qualified as a primary teacher and also in the field of business subjects.

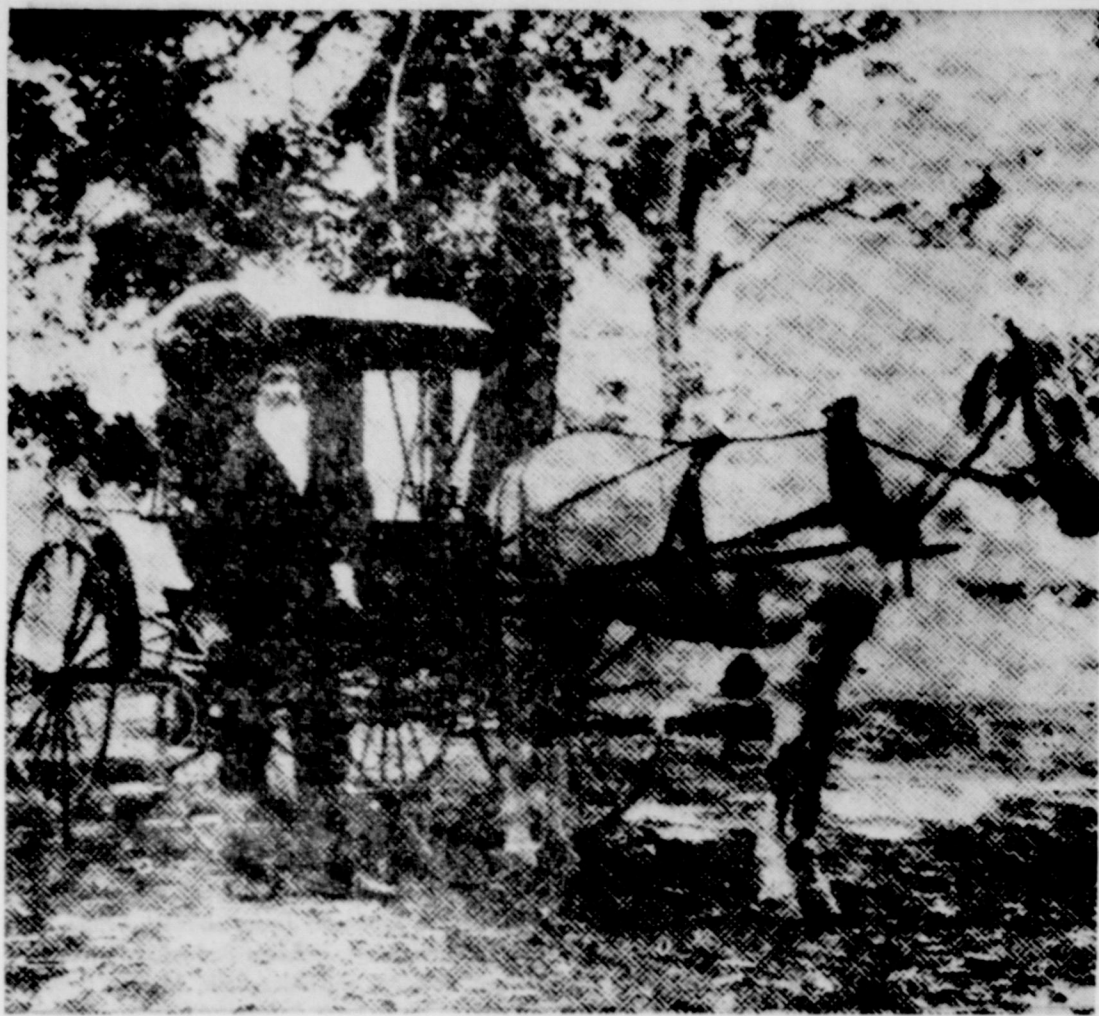

Mrs. Ingليس is the daughter of Mrs. T. W. Roberts of Morton. By re-arranging grade school classes and with a small third grade in store next year, it will not be necessary to replace Mrs. Ingليس in her former position and the schools will be able to affect an economy in the salary of one teacher for next year.

Morton Toastmaster's Club held a ladies night cookout last Thursday night at the Jerry Daniels home. President of the club, George Hargrove, was toastmaster of the evening. Approximately 40 people attended the event, according to Mrs. John Haggard.

Millard Townsend was voted the person to have "contributed the most to the evening." Townsend was the "general critic" for the evening. Judge Fred Stockdale was in charge of the "Table Topics" portion of the evening, which consisted of a round-table discussion of the war in Viet Nam. John Haggard gave the invocation.

Historical marker dedicated . . .

A HISTORICAL MARKER at Bend, Texas, honoring Dr. Edward D. Doss, father of L. T. Doss of Morton, and grandfather of Truman

Doss of this city, was dedicated Saturday, July 3. Ninety-nine people contributed to the marker, taking care of all expenses. The historical marker is on Highway 580.

Memory of Dr. Edward Doss honored

A historical marker honoring Dr. Edward D. Doss was dedicated at Bend, Texas, on Saturday, July 3. The marker stands some five and one-half feet tall, and overlooks the town. It can be seen by travelers on highway 580.

Doss was the father of L. T. Doss of Morton, and the grandfather of Truman Doss, also of Morton. The elder Doss is the only living child of Dr. Doss.

The marker differs from many others throughout Texas, describing early day happenings. It is made of native granite and a history of the different services rendered by the doctor during his 40 years of practice is engraved on the stone, as is a picture of Dr. Doss, his horse and buggy.

Many beautiful tributes were spoken of the beloved Dr. Doss by the speakers at the dedication, and many memories were recalled. More than 300 persons attended the ceremony, including 56 descendants of Dr. and Mrs. Doss. The Doss family of Morton was unable to be present.

Dr. Doss was born in Georgia in 1849, and passed away at Bend in 1928. He was one of the most colorful and beloved pioneers of the early history of Bend. He is buried beside his wife in the Sand Cemetery at Bend.

Dr. Doss went to Bend with his wife and two children about 1875, as a druggist. For 38 years, he served Bend, Chappel, Rough Creek, Colony and Nix as pharmacist, general practitioner, obstetrician, dentist and on some occasions, as surgeon.

He rode a horse to call on his first patients, then he traveled in a two wheel cart. Next, he used a horse, "Old Ross" and buggy, and finally, he wore out three Ford cars. He quit practice about 1924 because of bad health.

Dr. Doss and his son, Lawrence (L. T., of Morton) owned and operated a general merchandise store at Bend for a number of years. Lawrence is his only living child out of seven children.

There are several two-generation families living now, whom he

By JOE KRIZEK
Soil Conservation Service

Irrigation water management is the application of irrigation water to crops where the amount applied is determined by the moisture holding capacity of the soil and the need of the crop. The water is applied in controlled rates and in such a manner that the crops can use it efficiently without significant erosion or waste.

To apply water properly, an irrigator must have a delivery system to deliver efficiently to the area to be watered and an application system to apply water over the area in controlled rates.

For row irrigation systems a pipe line delivery system may be needed and land slopes in direction of irrigation must not exceed 0.8 foot per hundred feet and preferably less than 0.5 foot fall per hundred feet. Sprinkler systems must have lateral lengths, pipe diameter, and nozzle sizes correlated so that the pressure loss from the first to the last sprinkler does not exceed 20% of average operating pressure.

In addition to having a good irrigation system the irrigator must have the knowledge and capability to manage and use this system. This knowledge should include such things as:

The consumptive use rates for the crops grown. Cotton will use up to 0.25 inch per day during the later stages of its growth, while grain sorghum will use 0.30 inch or more per day.

How to estimate the amount of water required for each irrigation. During preplant irrigation the root zone should be completely filled with moisture and all subsequent irrigations are to replace moisture lost by evaporation and withdrawn by crops.

How to determine when irrigation water needs to be applied. Irrigating before the soil is too dry will result in efficient application but waiting too long will result in crop damage due to wilting.

How to compute the amount of water applied to an area. An irrigator must know the rate of application so by timing the sets he can put on the needed amounts. The dry soil zone must be replenished with water and in all cases the newly applied moisture must be heavy enough to meet the existing moist zone. Applying water in frequent light applications results in higher percentage of evaporation losses while in the process of application and by surface evaporation. Also more labor is involved resulting in greater operating cost. On the other hand excessive applications result in waste of water by percolation, damage to crops, loss of soil nutrients, and added pumping cost.

How to evaluate the uniformity of water application. On furrow or row irrigation system an inadequate system and poor management will result in excessive application next to the ditch or pipe line and insufficient application at the lower end. Depth of application along the length of the run can be measured by soil probe tubes or soil augers. For properly designed sprinkler systems obtaining application is not a problem because the sprinkler system will distribute the water uniformly except in cases where the laterals go up a steep hill.

Assistance in getting the best results out of your irrigation system can be had by consulting your local Soil Conservation Service. Technical help is available to help in analyzing your system and advising in the use of it in order to achieve good irrigation water management.

Levelland site of Central Area WMA conference

The Central Area Women's Missionary Auxiliary was held at College Ave. Baptist Church, Levelland, July 6.

The program theme was "God's Will for Your Life". Several parts were given by various churches. Mrs. Bill Hobson of the First Missionary Baptist Church spoke on "It is Important to Know God's Plan."

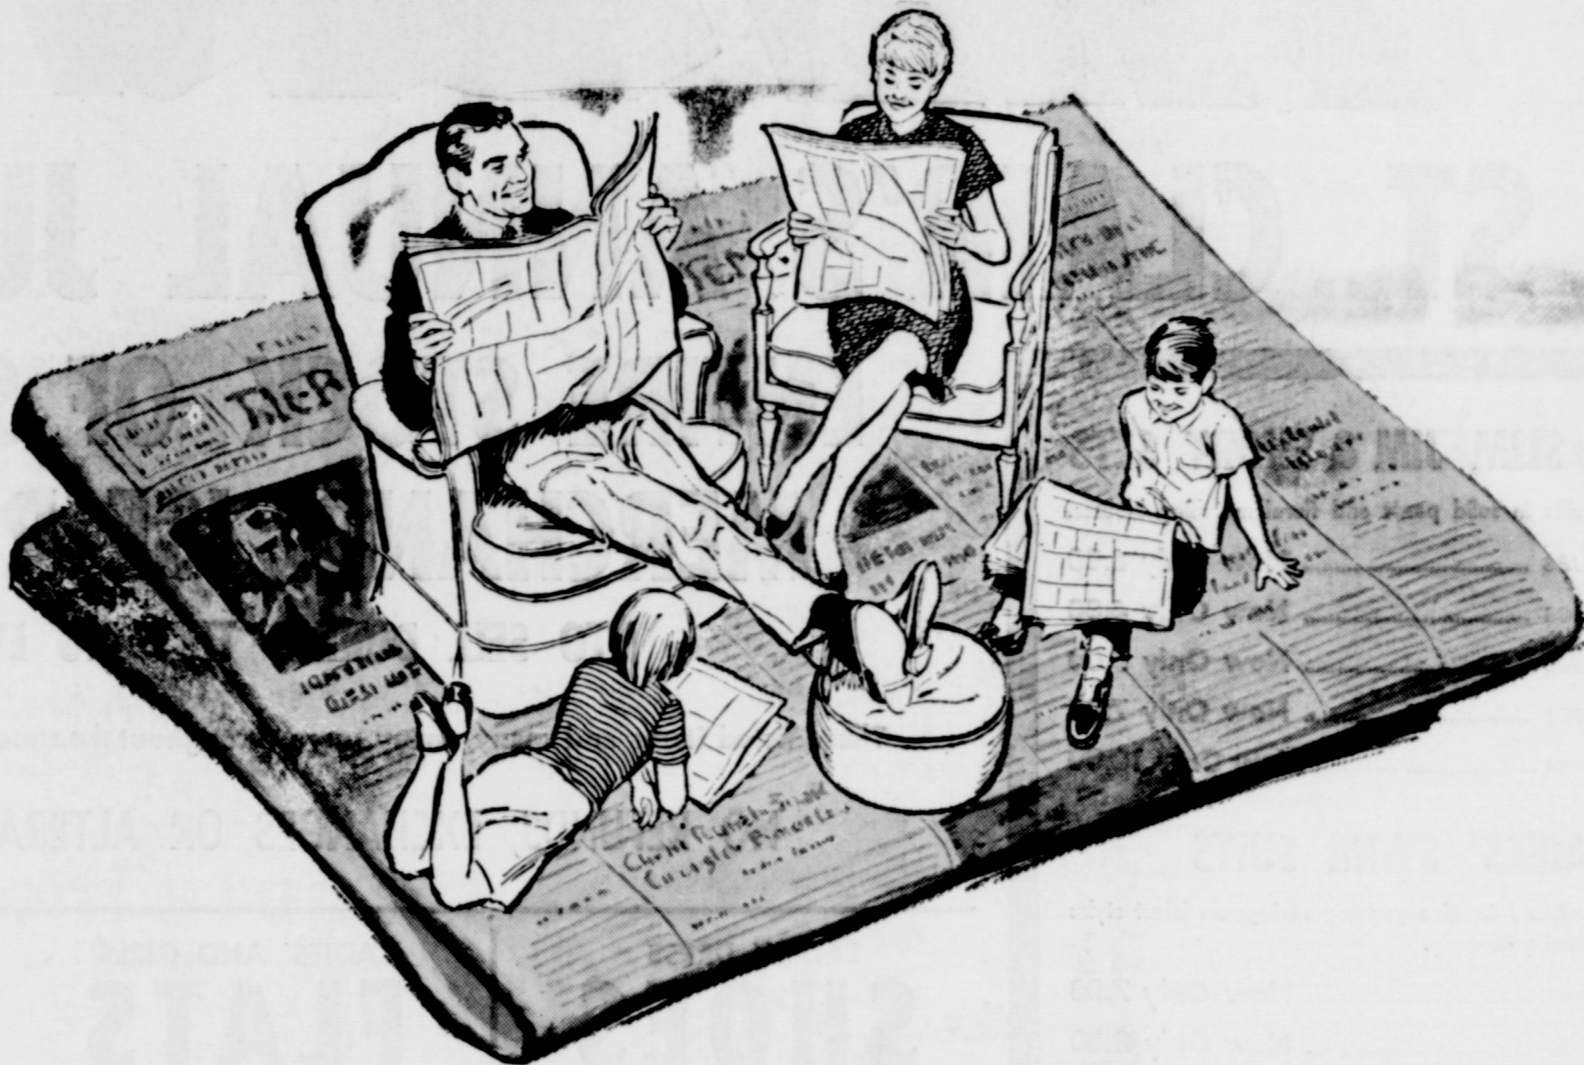

Ruth Ballard of Levelland sang "I'll Tell the World." Mrs. Jack Bateman, guest speaker, then told of her families work in the mission field. Brother James Pope of McAdo brought the message.

After a luncheon, served by the host church, a business meeting was held and new officers were elected.

Those attending from Morton were: Mrs. Lewis Hodge, Mrs. Johnny Houghton, Mrs. Vernon Sublett, Beverly Criswell, Mrs. Bill Hobson and Mrs. C. W. Wiggins.

An airboat equipped with a 1,200-watt generator provided the mobility and illumination for experimental night-lighting waterfowl trapping and banding in coastal marshes by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists. The technique was found to favor success in capturing diving ducks. Cannon net gear effects the actual trapping.

Farmers are warned to look for sorghum midge

Texas farmers should start looking for signs of sorghum midge, says Homer Thompson, Cochran County Extension Agent. The small orange fly is best seen as it crawls over spikelets of young grain sorghum in early morning.

Destroying thousands of dollars of grain every year, midge is one of the most damaging insects attacking Texas grain sorghum. Usually farmers are unaware of the midge until tell-tale "blighted" or "blasted" heads begin to appear. Then it is too late to attempt control, Thompson adds.

He explains that sorghum midge, whose adults are about one twelfth of an inch long overwinter as larvae in cocoons which are attached to spikelets of Johnsongrass. About the same time that Johnsongrass begins to bloom the midge matures and flies to fields of grain sorghum where heads are beginning to emerge from the boot.

because it must be done during the four to ten day period when adults fly to the young heads. Many growers choose to apply insecticides immediately after head emergence if midge damage occurred the previous year. Others prefer to inspect their fields and determine the need for treatment depending upon the number of adult midge among newly emerged heads.

"Research shows that best results are obtained if insecticides are applied when approximately 90 percent of the heads have completely emerged from the boot," Thompson reveals. "The application should be repeated after three to five days if adult activity continues."

He says that sevin, toxaphene, endrin, parathion, carbophenothion, diazinon and ethion are effective insecticides for sorghum control. Farmers should obtain additional information concerning concentration, methods and time of application from their local county agent's office.

Research gives clues

Cotton irrigation research at the South Plains Research and Extension Center at Lubbock gives clues to the most effective use of limited irrigation water.

Shelby Newman, who heads cotton irrigation studies at the center, says their work substantiates the theory that "timing is more important than total amount of water."

"Wait until the first white blooms appear before making the first irrigation," Newman says. "The only exception to this rule is with early maturing cotton. It sometimes pays to water early maturing cotton slightly before the first white bloom stage."

Research shows that the most profitable irrigation schedule for the High Plains is a combination of one four-to-six-inch preplant application, one four-inch application when the first white blooms appear and another four-inch application about the time of peak blooming.

If one summer irrigation is all that can be applied, Newman says it is best to put it on at the peak bloom stage. Peak bloom usually occurs 20 to 30 days after the first white blooms appear.

However, Newman says water applied down alternate rows in two irrigations is more efficient than an equal amount of water applied down each row in one irrigation.

Irrigations of more than four-inches are a waste of first irrigation, he said. Heavier irrigations supply more water than the plants can profitably use.

Sporadic cotton planting dates have made Extension Soil Chemist Jim Valentine reluctant to give general recommendations for side dressing cotton this season on the High Plains.

Valentine, operator of the soil testing lab at the South Plains Research and Extension Center, Lubbock, says studies show sidedressing is a money-maker when cotton is planted before early June and when the nutrients recommended by soil tests have not been applied in preplant applications.

But studies also show that sidedressing late-planted cotton can lower profits.

Nitrogen increases vegetative growth, Valentine explains, and if wet, cool weather occurs in September, excess nitrogen could result in wasty fiber if the frost date is normal.

This year farmers need to do a little thinking before they decide to sidedress. Late-planted cotton on heavier soils where reasonable rates of nitrogen have been applied probably will not need additional nitrogen, Valentine said.

But he says 20 to 30 pounds of nitrogen could be profitable on late planted cotton on heavier soils that have not received nitrogen and have a history of insufficient stalk growth even when supplied with adequate water.

If you have a sandy soil that takes water readily and you fertilized with 40-50 pounds of nitrogen before the rains, Valentine says you will probably need an additional 30-50 pounds of nitrogen to produce 1 1/2 bale cotton.

He says if production is limited by the growing season to 3/4 to 1 bale, sandy soils probably will not need additional nitrogen.

Response from sidedressed phosphate can generally be expected only when soil tests values fall in the low to very low range, Valentine says. In a one bale season, he said sidedressing phosphate will pay only when the level of phosphorus is extremely low.

Valentine says it is essential to place phosphate deep enough so it will be within reach of permanent roots.

Root pruning should be avoided when sidedressing and recent research at the center provides information for chisel spacing.

The research shows that cotton roots extend 10 inches laterally from the row 20 days after emergence. They have extended 20 inches laterally 40 days after emergence.

Invitational golf tournament set for July 22-25

The Morton Invitational Golf Tournament, an annual affair, will be held July 22 thru the 25th at Morton Country Club, according to S. M. ("Smiley") Monroe, who is president of the Morton golfers club. Qualifying will be held Thursday, July 22, for all flights and medalists, Ted Whitlock, Tournament Chairman stated.

Scores may be sent in to qualify preliminarily if attested to by the person's home pro. It is hoped there will be six flights of 16 men each for the tournament. No more than this number will be accepted. There is no age limit, no one is too young or too old, provided they can make a score good enough to qualify, Monroe told the Tribune.

Pro-line irons, woods, and bags will be awarded first, second and consolation winners. There will be a "hospitality hour" Friday during the tournament from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Further information can be obtained by calling 266-2871 or 266-7953 or 266-7986.

Mrs. Bruce Angle and daughter Alicia Shree have been visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hazel Hancock. Other visitors are Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Richardson of Tucuman, New Mexico and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Middleton of Lamesa.

COMMUNICATIONS — Your Tool for Progress

In case of fire, this telephone rings the alarm

In many of our towns, fire protection comes from a volunteer fire department. An effective communications system summons these volunteers by ringing all members' telephones at the same time. What's more, it is a distinctive ring which means "FIRE!" and brings firemen on the run. Here is another example of how Communications becomes a Tool for Progress—a communications service of great value to every town with a volunteer fire department. Council considers variety of items

Electric Co-op Building

Bailey County Electric Co-op has requested the city of Morton to say what the city would be willing to do in regard to tying the Co-op's proposed new building south of the bowling alley onto city utilities. After discussion, the Council voted to tell the Co-op it was welcome to tie onto any city utilities it wanted to at its own expense and subject to city codes, ordinances and specifications but that the city would not be willing to run any lines to the new building nor to the city limits adjacent to the site.

Since the new building is to be located outside the city limits, it was felt the city should not pay for running water, sewer and gas lines to the location. Rates to be charged the Co-op would be at the same scale charged other customers.

Fence Water Installations

City secretary, Elra Oden, said he had contacted Pioneer Fence Company in Lubbock, the company that was awarded the bid approximately one year ago, to fence the city water towers, buildings and other installations south of Morton schools, and the company agreed to start very soon and to complete the job at the price agreed to a year ago.

The new fence will be seven feet high, have 18 inch bayonettes on its top with three strands of barbed wire and have two double gates 14 feet wide, with both sides open at the same time. The fence will be 708 feet long and will cost the city a total of $1,633. The fence is a chainlink cyclone type.

Cleanup Continues

Oden said the city cleanup campaign was just now getting into full steam with collections of trash reaching their highest levels only recently. Oden said after the recent heavy rains, many people who had cleaned up previously, just started over and did it all again. Others hadn't really gotten started seriously until the high waters made a cleanup necessary and once they got started, they just went ahead and cleaned up the whole area, not only of flood debris but everything else that needed cleaning. Oden said the city was receiving many calls to pick up trash, more than it had ever gotten before.

Rates for Cleanup

After discussion as to what rates to charge property owners for cleaning up yards, vacant lots and other areas as prescribed and required in the new vacant lot and building ordinance, it was decided to give the matter further study and closer investigation as to total and actual cost to the city in providing the service, before setting rates.

It was stated the city did not want to make money on the cleanup service but that it wanted to be double sure it did not lose money, so rates would need to be set with care.

Cemetery Problem

The City Council voted to accept the care of the county cemetery another year provided the county "chip in" $400 a month "to help defray a part of the cost of operation".

It was reported at the meeting that a spokesman for the county commissioners had phoned the city to find out if the city would take the cemetery another year without the $300 the county had been paying as its contribution toward care of the cemetery.

Mayor Weatherly told Councilmen that the city had taken operation of the cemetery over a few months ago for "one year, 12 months, provided the county would contribute $300 a month toward the project." Weatherly said the city had agreed to take the cemetery for 12 months and perhaps, another year after that if they decided they wanted to do so. Weatherly said the cemetery was a county project, was not in the city limits and that it was not a profitable operation. He said the city took the cemetery over at the urging of the cemetery board.

Oden gave figures to the Council regarding the operation of the cemetery. Oden said the caretaker was paid $300 a month and was kept busy full-time caring for the grounds. He said it cost as high as $50 a month in summer months for electricity to run the wells to pump water to irrigate the cemetery. Lots are sold for $35 to $100 each, constituting the only appreciable income the project has. Oden did not give a definite figure on its value but said the city had been able to provide the cemetery with a variety of new equipment which had reduced the operating deficit considerably. No one knew how large the deficit actually is in operating the cemetery nor how this deficit will be met as the cemetery continues to grow and expand over the years.

County

missioner, and member of the C of C committee, then presented three ways by which the county could pay for the improvements:

1) Commissioners Court issue time warrants to be paid in a three to five year period.

2) Commissioners Court create an airport improvement fund and transfer the 15 cents special road tax levy into it for one year.

3) Call a bond election.

More discussion followed, with numerous questions being asked by the interested parties, and also members of the court. Jack Russell served as spokesman for those wishing improvement of the north-south road approximately half way between Morton and Whiteface. Russell is chairman of a chamber of commerce committee appointed to look into the possibility of improving the road.

Russell said, "One trip over that road is all you'll need, and you'll agree that something has to be done to it. It's a terrible thing."

Russell went on to state that improvement of the road would benefit not only those people living on or near it, but also many business firms in Morton. "If that road were improved and hard surfaced, it would be a main artery for butane trucks, implement dealers, and all types of repair vehicles," Russell commented. It was brought out that in wet weather the road is virtually impassable, and that even in good weather it is extremely hazardous.

Bob Ramp, who is putting into operation a dairy located on the road in question commented that unless improvements is made to the road, he wouldn't go into production. "The dairy will mean about $100,000 a year to Morton and this area, but I just can't go ahead with my plans unless something is done," Ramp commented. He is currently hauling ensilage and hay over the road, and once he gets into production, milk trucks will be using the road.

Considerable comment from those in attendance followed the formal project presentation, with several Morton business firms being represented, as well as several families who live adjacent to the road. During the discussion of the two projects, a number of people who were appearing for the road improvement spoke out as favoring improvement to the airport, and vice versa.

At the business meeting of the Commissioners' Court Monday, no action was taken on their proposed project, although it was learned that some unofficial discussion on each took place.

Farm income predicted as good

Cotton is usually planted in Cochran county during the last week of April or the first week of May. This year, many farmers got their last planting in about June 20. The first frost here is normally about November first. Normally, there is approximately a six month growing season but this year this period may be reduced to five months or less. Maturity type weather is more important, however, than the date of the first frost. Feed crops were not badly damaged by hail and dust storms this year. Some were badly cut and looked bad but they quickly recovered and now show no signs of their earlier ordeal. A few individuals dual plants were killed or severely damaged but this was not more than is normally expected in any year.

Cadenhead said pastures in Cochran county were "100% excellent, the best they have been in years." Dansby told the Tribune his office was busy sowing and helping to plant grass, Switch, Midland Bermuda, Weeping Love and other types because this is an excellent year to plant permanent grasses. Dansby said his office would pay 80% of the cost of planting permanent pasture including 80% of the cost of preparing the seed bed, the seed itself for those who participated in the government soil conservation program here. This will be a good year to do some brush control work, too, Dansby said.

After last year's blowing and drought, tests will be made to determine how much more loss was suffered by land not having soil conservation practices carried out on it compared to land which has had such practices. Preliminary tests along this line at the agriculture experiment station in this area located at Spur and Big Spring, indicate a substantial difference at this stage of plant growth this year. Land being used in this work has had conservation practices followed or not followed for four years. Conservation practices included rotating of crops, litter on the ground and other techniques to prevent blowing.

Dansby pointed out that conservation is of vital importance in this area if "agriculture is to continue here at all." Dansby said contour plowing alone could increase production 30 pounds or more to the acre in one year and said he had figures to prove just exactly what various other practices will do for farmers. He said farms that had good conservation programs suffered little damage last year but that if all farms were handled like a few of the worst ones, this area would soon be a dust bowl and most of the people would eventually have to leave for other areas.

There is no charge for signing up in the U. S. Conservation Service program and benefits can be as great as life or death, Dansby indicated. This is the year to start, not when the dust is already blowing like it was last year. To be effective, this would be one of the best times and one of the best years we have had to start if a person hasn't already.

Campfire Girls and Bluebirds will leave for Camp Monakiwa near Las Vegas, New Mexico, Thursday July 22, at 6:00 a.m. The buses will be loaded on the west side of the square.

The girls are to bring a sack lunch and enough money for a lunch on the trip home. They will arrive home about 5:00 p.m. on July 27.

Sack lunch, shorts and shirts for daily wear (socks and underwear), levis or slacks for hiking, sweater (evenings and nights are cool), camp fire costume for Sunday services and council fire, one pair warm pajamas and robe, low heel, comfortable shoes, raincoat and overshoes (mountain showers are brief but sudden), two towels and washcloths, toilet articles and soap (plastic container for soap), one roll toilet tissue or kleenex, shower cap, Camp Fire Book.

Bedding: 3 heavy blankets or sleeping bag, 2 sheets, pillow with pillow cases. Cots and mattresses are furnished. Sleeping will be in floored tents.

Desirable, but not necessary: Kodak and film, canteen, flashlight, bug repellent, chap stick, pocket knife, any scraps of colored felt.

Leave all valuable jewelry at home. Bring old clothes to wear at camp. They get hard use.

Likeness

The artist is capturing the physical likeness of this lovely girl on her paper. The likeness is amazing. But her inward beauty, her wonderful Christian heart and soul, can only be captured fully on God's canvas. The Bible says that "Man looketh on the outward appearance but God looketh on the heart."

How would God's painting picture you and me?

One good way to improve your heart condition is to attend church and hear God's word proclaimed from the pulpit. Learn God's plan for your life by listening to His word. We invite you to attend the church of your choice this week

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
