Indians to play Denver City

The Morton Indians, after taking last week off for an open date, get back to business this week and big business it is - as they entertain the state's No. 1 2-A football team, the Denver City Mustangs, at Indian Field Friday night. Kickoff time is 7:30 p.m.

The powerful Denver City eleven has rolled over eight foes, amassing a total of 266 points while allowing their opposition only 31. The Mustangs have played two district 4-AA contests, swarming over Slaton, 74-0 and blanking Post 50-0, last week. Post defeated Morton 7-6, in the Indians' only district affair to date.

Morton carries a 1-6 record into the Friday night game, and because of the difference in their records, the Denver City team should be rated a heavy favorite. However, the situation was the same last year, and Morton battled the heavily favored Mustangs to an 8-8 standstill at half-time. Denver City went on to win the game selves heard loud and clear. Denver City has been rated first in several state-wide polls, and second in another. Last year, the Mustangs advanced to the semifinals in state 2-A competition before being eliminated from the play-offs. Their 1965 ball club is reputed to be bigger and stronger than the 1964 team, and they have just as much backfield speed. The Mustang backfield consists of quarterback David Mitchell, district high hurdles champ last year; halfback Jimmy Young, 100 yard dash champ; halfback Mike Sharp, member of the mile relay team which won the title, and fullback Jim Comer.

Mitchell is a fine running quarterback and a good passer. His favorite play is the famed Denver City power sweep around end which has netted the Mustangs thousands of yards rushing in the past several years. This season, Mustang Coach Don Orr has come build. Owen Young, vocational agriculture teacher at Morton High and in charge of the farm and its projects, said that to build a similiar storage tank would cost the average farmer about $200-$250. He said, "This is just an example of how we take junk and convert it into something useful."

The elevated storage tank stands ust outside the tin building that houses the feed mixing plant. The building itself was constructed by Young and his ag. boys. The tin came from another building that had burned down, and the ag. boys poured the cement floor themsel-

Inside the building is the grinder, feed hopper, and mixer. The grinder is the only part of the plant that the students didn't build. The grinder grinds the milo up, and then a blower pushes the ground feed through a pipe to the hopper. Here it is stored until mixing time. The hopper has a capacity of 700-900 lbs. The mixer itself has a capacity of 1,200 lbs. It is powered by a one and one-half horse power electric motor and has a glass window and an electric light on the inside of the machine. The mixer was constructed by the Vocational Ag. 111 boys for about $65. Young said that it would cost the average farmer about $400 to Young said, "All this makes for a pretty complete operation. We can store, grind, and mix any amount of feed we wish." He added "The agriculture boys use the plant to mix feed for their different projects.

Another example of the ingenuity of Young and his students is the two air conditioned farrowing houses for hogs. A 450 cubic foot cooler is used to send refreshing air through a six inch pipe to the farrowing huts. Young commented, "People sort of laughed at us for air conditioning a hog house. But it gets hot here in August, and the warm weather is not good for

The farrowing houses are constructed so that the sow cannot lay down and smother her pigs. Each house is built so that the nose of the sow is pointed to and is only a few inches away from where the end of the air conditioning pipe enters the hut. This is so that just the head of the sow is

Young said, "Only the front of the sow should be cooled. The rest of the sow's body should be kept at normal temperature while she is farrowing."

The farm has one and one half acres of Dekalb 302 cotton that was planted May 1. Two hundred pounds per acre of 11429 fertilizer were used before planting. A local tractor was borrowed to do the planting, but the rest of the work was done by the ag. boys under the supervision of Young.

The farm has about 53 head of hogs, 26 head of sheep, and a couple of calves. It has one long livestock shed, and about 14 separate livestock pens. The shed, pens, and fences are painted and maintained every year by the ag. classes.

Young, who was graduated from Texas Tech with a degree in agricultural education, teaches three vocational ag. clases at Morton High. Voc. Ag. 1 includes an introduction to the FFA, livestock,

Ag II must attend class one hour

The Texas Education Agency

has a ruling that a student taking vocational agriculture must have a project. Young thinks that this is a good rule. He commented, "We can only go so far with classroom theory, and then the boys need to get out and actually put into use what they have learned." Young said, "This is one program where the students can put their knowledge to actual use his vocational ag. students are in the FFA but that membership in the FFA was not mandatory and that their grades were not affected by whether or not they joined Young commented that one thing he was trying to acquaint his students with was "diversification." He said, "We try to acquaint the boys with the different types of livestock that can be raised and crops that can be grown on a farm." He continued, "It is possible that the cotton acreage may be cut, and that farmers in the future might have to be more versified." Young added, "If a farmer raises cotton, and hogs, and say sheep on his farm, and then if the hail gets his cotton, the year wouldn't be a total loss because he would still have an income from the other projects.' Young believes that anyone who is going to live in this area should acquainted with agriculture, whether they are actually working in it or not. He said, "No matter what your job is in Cochran County, you are going to rub up against agriculture." The students at Morton High certainly have an ex-

COMMUNICATION

AITEND CHURCH SUNDAY

Telephone lines spread across our nation, giving us immediate contact with loved ones. Vital business is rapidly contracted through this medium.

Our linkage to God is prayer. Through prayer we can express our love, our thanks, and seek God's help.

"Hearken unto the voice of my cry, my King, and my God: for unto thee will I pray."

Attend church, join others in fellowship and prayer to God.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that lave by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

ho in turn introduced the 1964 board of directors. Lynch also introduced Don Workman. who will take over the reigns of the organization January 1. Workman introduced the board of directors of the chamber for the next year. George then intoroduced Hildebrand, who challenged those in attendance to make Morton an attractive stop for tourists and develop tourism as a local industry.

"Many chambers of commerce have as their number one thing on their program of work, the procurement of industry," Hildebrand said, "But when most people think of industry, they think of the 'smoke-stack' kind, with long lines of employees, etc. They think this despite the fact that many small cities have no hopes of becoming industrial centers for many re sons - their geography, the labor situation, etc. He went on to say that residents of small communities should not overlook other forms of industry, such as tourism. Tourism is an industry without smoke-stacks that is readily developed for a comparatively small investment, and does not deplete natural resources of an area.

Hildebrand added that a recent traffic count showed that 21/2 thousand cars pass through Morton every day. "If you can get only one per cent of those cars only 25 - to stop on their way through Morton, it means $600 in economy every day for Morton or over the span of a year's time, one-quarter million dollars." he commented. The spaker added that that figure was equal to onethird of the value on all livestock in the county in 1960.

"You ask, 'What have we here to get people to stop in Morton?' You could arrange farm and ranch tours. You could have some kind of a fall festival, you could fix an overnight campground, you can exploit the historical past of this past of the country. Historical sites are the most popular vacation spots, and surveys show that three out of four people want and like to stop to see them.

"But you have to do it - the state can and will help on pro-

take the first step," Hildebrand continued.

He went on to say that the cities that are preparing now for the influx of tourists into Texas are going to have a tremendous advantage in future years. Hildebrand pointed out that in 25 years tourism would be the largest industry in the state of Texas. He pointed out that last year tourists spent $680 million in Texas, and that an increase of 15% is expected this year.

The speaker continued, saying that a modern motel was needed in Morton, and would help attract tourists, but that with what the county and area already has - if developed - this area could become a tourist center.

At the conclusion of his talk, Hildebrand repeated and challenged those in attendance, "Only you can do this thing - the state can and will help - but you have to take the first step."

City Secretary Elra Oden said that the new mercury control valve that regulates the flow of water between the city's water tanks, is not working as it should. The Council decided to halt the payment to the engineer who installed the unit until the valve was functioning properly. There was discussion on the dust and lint problem from the cotton gins. It was decided by the council that Elra Oden should contact ginners and make appointments with them Thursday morning for members of the City Council to pay them a visit and see what measures have been taken to

There was a discussion on the needs for vents on the well houses. Elra Oden said that vents were not called for in the construction specifications and that the engineer could not be held responsible. The well houses must have vents in order for the water supply to be approved by the pubhealth department, according to Mayor Dean Weatherly.

It was brought to the attention of the council that gophers have been severely damaging a circuit line south of the Patton addition. The council decided to place the line above the ground.

The county resolution proposed by the Farm Bureau was also discussed. The resolution stated that the county should have a fire truck for rural fires.

Mayor Weatherly brought up the delinquet gas accounts on the irrigation wells. There is about $4,000 in back revenue due the city on irrigation well accounts. The council decided to study the matter further and to possibly consider putting a deposit on the use of gas for irrgation well purposes similar to the deposits placed on those persons using gas in the city

The meeting adjourned about 9:15. Those present were Mayor Dean Weatherly, City Secretary Elra Oden, Councilmen, Walter Taylor, E. C. Seaney, Walter Thompson, Tom Rowden, T. K. Williamson.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Deaver and children, Marla and Cindy of Lubbock visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Fincher over the weekend.

BLACK SCANDAL

Ordinarily, we would not think of commenting in these columns on a mayoralty race in the nation's largest city, New York. The power struggle of big-city political machines is too involved, and too mucky underfoot for us. But, because there is an impending election to choose a new mayor for the city of New York, one of the most sickening scandals in recent history is being suppressed, and that involves this community's taxpayers quite as much as New York City. As far as we're concerned, it won't wait for discussion until the politicians in New York and Washington are ready.

The fact is that Washington has spawned this disgrace through one of its monstrous poverty programs in New York City's Harlem known as HARYOU-ACT, Last week, Livingston Wingate, executive director of that organization, told the press that an armed group of Negro youths in the area is "prepared to die" in a struggle against white people. "The kids are armed and ready to move," he said, insisting that only his anti-poverty program was stopping them. But, what the executive director did not tell the press is that New York City police have identified more than three hundred of these armed Negro youths as being "employed" by HARYOU-ACT. These three hundred known recipients of weekly pay checks from government funds have been trained in the fine arts of rioting, demonstrating, looting, sabotage, assassination—and armed -by Cuban and Chinese Communist agitators. To head off a Los Angeles - type riot in New York, Washington has been paying blackmail money, weekly, to identified goons. Decent Negro voters in New York City are appalled. Police officials are desperate.

Any properly constituted Congressional Committee has only to ask for New York City Police Department files. And ask, it should. Even one additional day of paying tribute to goons out of the public treasury is one day too long.

Listen to Mr. Wingate's parting remarks to the press: "Believe me, my community is loaded with dynamite, now. These kids don't give a damn . . . . I've talked to police. They're scared, they know the facts. If I tell you too much, I'll be the late Wingate.

New York City has, by reputation, the finest city police department in the world. That department ought not to be subverted by political blackmail money paid out of the US Treasury.

THE RIGHT TO STRIKE

The right to strike is one of organized labor's most prized powers. And there can be little doubt that this right was essential in the days when the unions were weak and struggling, and wages and working conditions, in many cases, were inexcusably poor.

But times change. Today the unions are enormously powerful. Labor has made extraordinary economic and social gains. And the strike, or the threat of a strike, is now frequently used in an effort to take over functions and to make decisions which clearly belong to management.

In one of his recent columns, David Lawrence said: "Certainly a legal redefinition and limitation of the right to strike is long overdue. The right to strike for higher wages is unquestioned. But to permit organized labor to enforce through strikes an alleged right to tell management how to run its business and what machinery it may or may not use is to break down the whole private enterprise system . . . . If business disintegrates, tax revenues will fall sharply while deficits multiply and inflation ensues. The cancer can be eradicated, but it will take courage, and a surgical operation on labor laws to do it."

"IRRESPECTIVE OF NEED"

As everyone must know, this nation has gone a long way toward what is called a welfare state. But it's a safe bet that few realize how fast the trip has been. It's an equally safe bet-human memory being short—that equally few realize how enormously the costs have esculated.

The story is told in a publication of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company of New York. In 1945-a mere 20 years agofederal, state and local government spending on welfare activities come to $6 billion. In the fiscal year that ended in June, 1964 it was $47 billion-almost eight times as much. And the current bill is much higher.

So far as the individual is concerned, social security tax colfurthur increases are scheduled thereafter. And there is good lections show what has happened. The maximum payment in 1949 was $30. Now it is $174. Next year it will rise to $277.20 and reason for believing that the future increases will be greater than the current schedules—government programs always cost more than the optimistic estimates.

The bank's publication, in discussing the welfare programs, says: ". . . . the spectacular growth has been—and will continue to be in outlays for social insurance plans, which provide cash support to designated classes of people as a matter of right irrespective

At one time or another, most human beings require professional nursing care either for themselves or for some member of their In an effort to interest young men and women searching for a challenging vocation, as well as a rewarding one with an assured future, publicity campaigns are being directed to a long-range recruitment program The Texas Hospital Association in a current release announces the plans of its $12 million "pace-setting program" to encourage young people in seeking health careers to relieve the personnel shortage in Texas hospitals. The Texas State Committee on Careers has prepared for interested students a complete list of state accredited schools of nursing in Texas. This is available from TS-Box 203, Austin, Texas.

Last May, the Dallas Morning News published a question-andanswer interview in which Rod Bell, chairman of a Dallas hospital council, described the nurse shortage as "tragic." Bell said that the current national ratio is 286 Registered Nurses per 100,000 population and said that today's vacancies could easily absorb 50 per cent more RNs.

The situation in Texas was cribed as worse with only 170 Registered Nurses per the same population, less than 60 per cent of the sub-standard national ratio.

Now in progress is a series of hearings by a five-member Senate committee to determine causes and solution of the shortage of nurses in Texas.

Licensed Vocational Nurses make a tremendous contribution to fill the needs of patients requiring such bedside care but, here again, the shortage is acute. The U.S. average is 115 LVNs per 100,000 and the Texas average is 140.

Nursing as a profession needs a better selling job to interest the high - school - graduate potential to plan and prepare for such a career. Too many other careers beckon more persuasively.

For the young person who cannot devote the required three or four years of training plus the college requirements to become a Registered Nurse, a career as a Licensed Vocational Nurse or as an aide or orderly with in-service training still offers an opportunity for a humanitarian service where the demand will always exceed the

Highlights and Sidelights—

Attorneys to defend poll tax

are set to make a hard-nosed defense of the Texas poll tax law now under federal court attack.

Pre-trial conferences in the suit were held quietly here and in San Antonio last week (Oct. 21). Trial date has been postponed from mid-November to December 1 in order to allow both sides more time for preparation.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Hawthorne Phillips scheduled a flight to Washington this week to take a deposition from U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach in effort to show that Katzenbach once testified before Senate Judiciary Committee that Texas' poll tax is not discriminatory toward Negroes. In view of late trial date and certain appeals to U.S. Supreme Court regardless of initial ruling here, the three-judge trial court issued a statement in affect advising Texans who want to be sure they qualify to vote in state and local elections next year to pay their poll taxes. Leaders of massive poll tax drives just now gtting under way already had concluded there was no safe course.

Outlook now is that if repeal is ordered, first major state and national elections affected will be those of 1968

WORKMEN'S COMP RATE -State Insurance Board staff has recommended revised workmen's compensation rates that will result in average reduction of 2.9 per cent for Texas employers.

Rates for some 600 categories will advance, others will be substantially slashed. Overall effect is a decrease. Same rating formula produced a 2.3 per cent increase last year. Board Chairman Wm. Hunter McLean concluded that the industrial safety record of Texas business has im-Board Thursday (Oct. 21) held public hearing on the recommended slash, which would reduce premiums about $4,500,000 next year. ATTORNEY GENERAL - Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr cleared the way for state participation in two federal welfare programs. In one opinion, he held that State Department of Public Welfare can pay out of federal allocations cost (estimated at $5,000,-000 a year) of training adults to become self-sufficient.

In another, he said Department can set up advisory committes, with state agency employes as members, and pay their travel expenses out of federal allotments when they are working on such federal programs as day care services for children.

Other rulings by Carr held that: Department of Public Welfare may make a contract with a private insurance company for the protection of trainees on various projects and pay for the premiums with money from the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964.

BOARD MEETS — During its second meeting, the new Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, unanimously endorsed proposed constitutional amendments to create $85,000,000 student loan fund and to boost state property tax five cents for building purposes at 17 institutions. Board also heard report that public junior colleges face potential financial crisis due to a 35 per cent jump in enrollments and fixed level of appropriations. Members certified adequate financing is in sight for new higher education programs approved by Board's predecessor agency and gave clearance to a million dollar repair program for 1966. They further agreed to participate in the new federal program to establish regional technical services and accepted job of administering the higher education facilities (building aid) act. Board will meet again on November 15.
