

Absentee voting for primary underway

Absentee voting — which began Monday — heralds the home stretch of a tepid primary election campaign that will be climaxed at the polls May 7.

Cochran County Democrats will decide local races and vote in three out of the district level. No contests developed in the Republican primary.

Absentee balloting will continue through May 3. It is being conducted by the courthouse office of County - District Clerk Lessey Silvers.

Qualified voters who cannot make it to the polls on election day must cast their ballots in person at the clerk's office before the May 3 deadline.

Mrs. Silvers said those who will be out of the county or too ill to vote in person may obtain ballots by mail. They must send their poll tax or registration receipt along with their application to the clerk's office.

Headlining the Cochran County ballot is a two-man race for county judge, with Fred Stockdale, local attorney, seeking the post now held by Johnny Love, who is a candidate for re-election.

In another county-level race, political newcomer Richard Houston is opposing incumbent Bill Cro for the office of county treasurer. No opposition.

Mrs. Silvers, seeking re-election as county-district clerk, is the only candidate for county office who did not draw opposition.

Four candidates are fighting it out in the race for county commissioner of Precinct 2, and it appears likely the position will not be settled until after the June 4 runoff. Candidates are T. A. Washington, L. L. Taylor, Vern C. Beebe and Ed W. Burton.

Three candidates are embroiled in the campaign for county commissioner of Precinct 4. U.F. Wells is seeking re-election but is opposed by J. C. O'Brien and R. Z. Dewbre.

For the first time, opposition has developed in the campaign for county Democratic chairman, with Mrs. H. B. Barker asking for election in her race against incumbent Carl Ray.

Competition also developed in the race for the two justices of the peace positions open. Candidates in the Precinct 1 race are Joe Gipson, currently holding the office, and Cecil Barker. Seeking the Precinct 2 post are Mrs. Lillie May and H. J. Knox.

Also on the ballot is the name of Leroy Johnson as candidate for Democratic chairman of Precinct 1.

Other candidates

In addition to the local-level candidates whose names are on the ballot, voters will also be balloting for candidates for state offices and for United States Representative and Senator.

U. S. Rep. George Mahon, representing Cochran County in Congress, is unopposed in his re-election bid. Also unopposed are State Sen. H. J. (Doc) Blanchard and State Rep. Jesse George.

Rubinoff thrills audience

The siren strains of violin music melted softly away.

Listeners gripped the listeners, as if a compliment to the superb mastery of a performer as can be heard.

Then came thunderous applause, as the entire audience gave a standing ovation to pay homage to the brilliant performance just completed.

Thus ended a once-in-a-lifetime concert for Morton and area residents, presented by the master, Rubinoff and his Violin, and brought here under sponsorship of the Lions Club.

Playing his two-century-old Stradivarius, Rubinoff ranged from the popular to the sublime, being equally at home with his own composition, "Fiddlin' the Fiddle" as with Chopin's moving "Polonaise."

Composer, soloist and concert artist, Rubinoff lived up to his international reputation and gave his enraptured audience an evening long to remember.

For most, it was the first time to attend a Rubinoff concert. For all, it is probably the last, for Rubinoff told his audience this was his final tour.

At 68, Rubinoff is a short, energetic, restless man, his heavy eyebrows accenting keen eyes and his husky voice having definite traces of his Polish background. That he enjoys a warm kinship with his audiences, that he possesses a finely attuned sense of humor, and that he is also the possessor of an artist's temperament, is readily discernible.

Rubinoff, while on tour, follows a schedule which would be too vigorous for many a younger man. Leaving Portales, where he had

Resignations of three teachers accepted by board

Resignations of three faculty members, effective at the conclusion of this school year, were accepted by the board of trustees at a regular meeting Monday night.

The session was the first for the newly re-organized board following the recent trustee election.

Submitting their resignations were Mrs. Thelma Cogburn, Mrs. Mamie Cunningham and Mrs. Joyce Matthews.

Mrs. Cogburn, second grade instructor, is completing her fourth year in the local school system, and an additional half year, before leaving at the close of the year to join her husband, former post office mail carrier here who is now employed by the post office in Abilene.

Mrs. Cunningham, first grade teacher, is moving with her husband to Oklahoma. It was reported that Mrs. Cunningham taught in the local school for five years during the 1940's, and is now completing her third year after returning to the system.

Mrs. Matthews, reading and English instructor in the sixth grade, and her husband, Bill Matthews, had submitted his resignation, and plans to move to Lubbock where Matthews plans to work on his doctor-

A public meeting to explain proposed improvements and expansion of Morton Memorial Hospital, called for Friday night, has been postponed temporarily, it was announced today.

CofC search for professional men results in inquiry

Letters searching for a dentist and a veterinarian for Morton began to pay dividends Monday. A veterinary student who will graduate in August from Texas A&M appeared Monday to discuss possible practice here with the Morton Area Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

The student returned Tuesday morning for a closer look at the area and a tour of some of the nearby farms, ranches and dairy operations.

The letters were sent out two weeks ago at the suggestion of the directors to schools of dentistry and veterinary science, seeking to fill these vacancies in the community. The visit Monday was the first return on the inquiries.

In other action, Don Workman officially concluded his leadership as president of the Chamber and installed vice president Joe Seagler into the top post. "I have enjoyed known and working with each of you," Workman said. "And I feel that we need a Chamber of Commerce in Morton. I hope that all of you will support Joe as you have supported me this year."

Fishing trip is set by firemen

Volunteer firemen will be leaving next week on their annual trek to Lake Brownwood to spend a few relaxing days fishing.

The first group is scheduled to depart by car on Wednesday, with others to follow as time off from business and work permits.

About half of the 25 members of the department — those who enjoy the challenge of the rod and reel — are expected to participate in the outing.

Should the excursion provide enough fish, a "fry" will be held at a later date for firemen, their families, and special guests.

Jaycees launch new flag service project for town

A new service for local businesses has been launched in Morton by the recently organized Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Cleve Bland, president, reports initial contacts, have proved its importance and acceptance.

The organization is currently contacting merchants on a special flag service plan, in which businesses contract with the group to have members put up and take down flags on national holidays, as well as local observances.

The Jaycees will install flag holders, furnish the flags and the personalized service. Eight holidays are designated for such observances.

Bland said five committees working on the project are headed by Shelby Chancey, Wayne Bracken, Alton Lamb, Bill Owens and Dean Weasterly. It is expected that the flags will fly for the first time in the project, a continuing one, on Memorial Day, May 30.

Undertaken as a moneymaking project, the plan however has as its underlying aim the patriotic goal of seeing American flags flying before all places of business on holidays.

Support of referendum voted by FB directors

Cochran County Farm Bureau directors, meeting Thursday night at the Farm Bureau office in Morton, went on record as favoring a referendum for cotton producers to determine if they want a $1 per bale charge for cotton research and promotion.

Action was taken only with the understanding that two amendments have been made to the Cotton Research and Promotion Act, which in its original form was vigorously opposed by the Texas Farm Bureau. The amendments had been requested by the Farm Bureau, it was pointed out.

The Act passed the House of Representatives, and is scheduled for sub-committee Senate hearings April 25 in the amended form. Upon approval by Congress, the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture will call a referendum for cotton producers, which would pass if either two-thirds of the total growers voting or two-thirds of the total cotton production voting approved the $1 contribution.

The amendments provide that all monies from the assessment would be used for research and promotion, prohibits use of the funds for legislative or political purposes, and provides that any producer would have up to 90 days to request return of the funds assessed, thus eliminating the "mandatory" portion of the Act. These funds would be returned to the producer within 60 days of receipt of the request.

Meeting with the board of directors was Pete Brown, regional representative from the National Cotton Council in Lubbock, who showed films depicting what has been done in research in the past to benefit cotton producers and how advertising financed by the funds has helped in the promotion of cotton usage.

Brown, in his effective presentation, also answered questions put by the board in regard to the Act, known as H.R. 12322.

Action on endorsing the referendum on the local level was taken by the board after extensive discussion and careful study of the bill and the amendments.

Area farm groups, Brown said, such as Farm Bureau, Farmers Union, Plains Cotton Growers, and various other cotton associations, would nominate representatives who would serve on the national cotton board. Texas would have about five representatives, he ex-

NCTE achievement awards nominee is Gail Rowland

Gail Rowland of Morton High School, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Rowland, has been nominated for the annual Achievement Awards Program, sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE).

For the ninth year, NCTE is conducting the national Awards competition to grant recognition to outstanding high school seniors for excellence in English. Most Awards finalists report that they have been admitted to one of the colleges of their choice, and many have been given direct scholarship assistance.

According to James R. Squire, Executive Secretary of NCTE, the Achievement Awards Program is part of a comprehensive program undertaken by the Council in cooperation with American high schools to encourage improvement in English language and literature at all grade levels. By stimulating interest in English studies and by supporting the improved instruction in English, the NCTE seeks to contribute to an educational program of excellence.

Oceans key to man's future, club is told

The Y-M Study Club met April 14, in the home of Mrs. David Stowe. The regular meeting was preceded by a potluck supper. Mrs. Stowe was assisted in the serving by her daughter, Connie Stowe, and Miss Nancy Webb.

Mrs. George Hargrove, president, presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Hargrove gave a report on the United Fund Organizational meetings. Mrs. James Cogburn gave a report on "Project Head Start". The club will support "Head Start" through clothing donations and class room assistance.

A fund-raising rummage sale was planned for Saturday, April 23.

The theme of the meeting "Stars of Conservation", was carried out with a program given by Mrs. Francis Shillett, chairman of the conservation department. The program was "Experiments conducted by the Oceanography Department." With more than 70 per cent of the earth's surface covered by water, it is quite necessary that research and exploration of the oceans is becoming increasingly more important. It has been estimated that the oceans hold twenty times the present world's need of protein. The effect of the ocean heat upon our weather is being studied with the hope of possible weather control and especially rain production.

Through the idea seems remote, sea cities are thought by some to be the answer to the increasing need for space by the rapidly growing world population. In experiments, men have spent as long as 23 days in undersea chambers to a depth of 367 feet. Research is being done in the realm of farming in the sea, on creatures of the sea, whales and porpoises in particular and medical research. The first radio active iodine was discovered in the sea.

The sea holds many secrets but they are less a mystery to us now through the efforts of Oceanography.

Present at the meeting were: Mesdames, Richard Biggs, Garnett Bryan, James Cogburn, Leonard Groves, George Hargrove, Robble Key, Bill Matthews, Ray Lanier, Kenneth McMaster, Dexter Nebhut, Pete Pierce, Francis Shillett, David Stowe, Lowell Webb, Jerry Winder and Weldon Wynn.

Re-organization of school board completed Monday

Re-organization of the school board of trustees was completed Monday night in the first session of the group since the recent election.

Returned to the position of president was Francis Shillett. Named as vice-president was Henry Williams, taking the office of the late Max Bowers, and E. E. Thomas was selected as secretary to fill the vacancy caused when Millard Townsend was not a candidate for re-election. Other members of the board are Don Hofman, newly elected, L. T. Lemons, Weldon Newsom and O. L. Tilger.

The board agreed to permit the high school gym to be used next week as a site for an "Outsiders" volleyball tournament, teams to be comprised of adult players playing the tourney as a benefit for the Great Plains Boys Ranch to be established at Pettit. Raymond Lewis appeared before the board to present the request, and said the tourney would be conducted Monday through Saturday, with the exception of Wednesday night, starting at 7 p.m.

Tuition charge for transfer students attending the local schools was also set at $193 per year student. This is an increase from the $166.50 previously charged.

Supt. Ray Lanier said the charge is based on the per student cost to the system derived from census enrollment figures and tax money available. When the charge was originally initiated, he explained, students from out of the district then attending the Morton schools were exempt from the charge, since they had already begun their high school planning. This year, transfer junior and senior students only will not be required to pay the tuition and the following year, no exemptions will be allowed.

Preceding the conducting of business, board members were sworn into office by Dub Hodge, school tax assessor-collector.

When you pay too little, you sometimes lose everything, because the insurance you bought was incapable of doing the job you bought it to do. The common law of business balance prohibits paying a little and getting a lot—it can't be done. # Garden Club makes its annual Lubbock visit

The Cochran County Garden Club met Saturday, April 16, at the home of Mrs. Charles Jones. The club then proceeded to Lubbock for its annual Pilgrimage. The group had lunch at Hemphill-Wells and then began a tour of the Municipal Garden and Arts Center. At the Center, members viewed Art Exhibits and an exhibit by the South Plains Procelain Art Guild.

The group saw the construction work now underway at the rear of the building which will eventually be a Tea House for outdoor parties. The construction site is just below the Japanese Garden which was designed by Mrs. Jacques Cartier. This garden tells a story of the first novel written by a woman in Japan. Each item placed in this garden has a specific meaning to the story. Of particular interest to garden clubbers was a lovely Rose Almond Tree in bloom.

After touring the Garden and Arts Center the pilgrimage continued to Wolf Nursery and then on to Tom's Tree Place for a look at the new bedding plants, trees, shrubs and rose bushes.

Farmers turn to fumigation to combat nematodes

CHOMER THOMPSON
County Agent
Cochran County's irrigated cotton farmers this spring are working harder than ever before to combat a tiny, soil-dwelling beast that may be robbing the county of 5,000 bales of cotton and a half million dollars a year.

Fighting nematodes . . .

FARMERS IN COCHRAN are introducing a new way of fighting root knot nematodes, which cuts production on irrigated cotton. This is through soil fumigation, a relatively new method of control. Above can be seen an application rig in operation on local land.

Through the telescope by luck
I've never cared for critics' comments about films or plays, preferring to judge for myself. But after Monday night's Academy Award presentations, I am boiling over about an actress I haven't seen. The Best Actress award went to England's Julie Christie for her performance in "Darling". She might be one of the world's greatest actresses, but I deeply regret that the Motion Picture Academy saw fit to reward her performance.

PCG cites success of weevil control program

All entomologists on the Technical Advisory Committee of the massive diapause boll weevil control program coordinated since 1964 by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., continue to agree that the program has been highly successful. Westward migration of the pest has been stopped. And the two years of spraying have reduced overwintering weevils to an average of about five per acre, and the 1966 spray operation is expected to cut the overwintering population to less than an average of one weevil per acre.

This information is not new to those close to the control program, but it was reiterated in Lubbock Thursday when the technical advisory group, made up mostly of entomologists, met with the program's areawide and steering committees, composed of cotton producers on the Plains. And a bona fide success story is always good to hear, even for the second time.

The group also discussed the 1966 spraying operation, but postponing making firm decisions pending answers to several questions. First, they will need to know the distribution of those remaining weevils over the control zone. This is still time for farmers to infest land before planting 1966 crop and it seems obvious we ought to do it. The research homework is done. We have the problem and we have done the work to prove that fumigation pay — results that have been proved right here in Cochran County — farmer who has spots in his irrigated cotton field where the cotton fails to grow off properly at least try a test to see if he can profitably use soil fumigation.

gether early in August. At that time the probable cost of the 1966 sprays, terms of the spray contract to be let by bids, extent of the control zone and other things will be decided on.

Also to be thoroughly discussed by the Advisory Committee at the August meeting will be what kind of program may be necessary to prevent weevil populations from rebuilding after the fall sprays in 1966.

Entomologists have pointed out that even though weevil numbers are brought down to less than one weevil per acre following the winter of 1966, this will be an "average" figure, and there are likely to still be enough weevils getting together in some locations to reproduce. And once reproduction begins, numbers could build up fast without some kind of control measure. Further, there is always the possibility of reinfestation from other areas to be guarded against.

Research entomologists from Texas A&M, Mississippi State College and the Federal Boll Weevil Research Center in Mississippi reported on progress being made with the sterile male technique of control, systemic insecticides and other methods. But they were unsure whether any of these would be ready for field testing by the time they would be needed on the Plains in 1967.
The results of the 1966 Summer survey efforts with regard to distribution of the remaining weevils, limits of the control zone and weevil numbers will also be highly important to any plans made beyond 1966.
While there is no assurance of it, there is some hope that the extremely low populations of overwintering weevils which may emerge from hibernation sites in 1967, and even in 1966, can be "trapped" in small acreages of early planted irrigated cotton. If this can be accomplished, they could be almost wiped out with two early season

Of course things happen closer to home than Santa Monica that we don't like to hear, either. And we heard this week that a number of youngsters have been shooting mockingbirds with their guns in the city limits. This is distressing news, especially to one who applications of insecticide before the period of oviposition, thereby preventing reproduction and population buildup.

With regard to control measures after 1966, PCG Executive Vice President Donald A. Johnson said: "It would be a terrible tragedy to lose the ground we have gained in this program toward eradicating the weevil from the Plains area. We simply cannot afford it. We must keep weevil populations at a low level in order to be prepared for any scientific breakthrough which will help us complete the job."

Election set for new water district

Water district election, on the proposal to form a district from parts of Cochran County and nearby Texas counties, will be held April 26.

The board of directors of South Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 4, a temporary organization, set the April 26 election, Tuesday, for the election to confirm establishment of the district.

The area involved in Cochran County has been learned, includes 30 sections of land in the southwest corner. Approximate boundaries, as described, are north from the county line to the Sundown cut-off road, and east of the Morton-Plains highway about three miles, with the state line being the west boundary.

Polling place for residents within this area, which has been designated as Election Precinct No. 8, will be the Charles Compton residence. Compton has been named as presiding judge; Donald Ray Lackey as assistant judge and Mrs. Compton and Mrs. Lackey as clerks.

Only qualifications for balloting in the special election are that the voter must be resident of the proposed district area, must be a property-owning taxpayer or property owner who has rendered taxable property on the tax rolls and must have a poll tax receipt or voting registration form issued under the recent "free vote" program.

The proposed water district would comprise major portions of Yoakum, Gaines, Dawson and Terry Counties and smaller areas of Andrews and Lynn in addition to Cochran.

Boundary line of the proposed district follows, insofar as can be determined, follows the boundary of the Ogallala water formation from which the affect counties obtain their municipal and agricultural water supplies.

The Texas Water Rights Commission, following a public hearing authorized the up-coming water district election.

In the face of dwindling West Texas water supplies, water conservationists banded together to promote the water district election. The water district could be empowered with controls over the drilling of water wells in the district.

Fearful that state controls might be imposed, if no local conservation action was taken, the conservationists launched their efforts.

Temporary president of the water district is John Kendrick, a Brownfield banker. Vice president is Bob Loe of Plains and secretary is Joe Anderson of Seminole. Other directors include Claude Hearne of Seagraves and M. R. Stewart of Lamesa.

Voters in the election will also ballot on directors, and on the proposal to grant the district the authority to levy and cause to be collected an ad valorem tax at the cents on each $100 valuation of rate of not to exceed five cents on each $100 valuation of taxable property within the District for maintenance and service funds.

Balloting for directors will vary within five precincts, persons to vote for only one director, that is, the director for the precinct in which the voter lives. In the case of Cochran County, the director listed on the ballot will be Bob Loe. Write-in space will also be provided.

It was pointed out that the formation of the new Water Conservation District would in no way effect the existing Water District which includes the majority of the remainder, and major part, of Cochran County.

TB tests given students Monday

In accordance with a state-wide recommendation by the state board of health, first and seventh graders in the local school system were tested Monday for early indications of tuberculosis.

Two representatives of the state health department, Lubbock, visited the schools Monday where the students were given the test. They will return Thursday to check for any positive reactions.

Supt. Ray Lanier explained that a reaction does not necessarily mean an active case, but that the individual has been in close contact with tuberculosis and needs to have a medical check-up.

The administrator said the program had been also strongly endorsed by Dr. W. B. McSpadden, county health officer, as an important health aide.

Adult volleyball tourney planned here next week

A week-long "Outsiders" volleyball tournament has been scheduled for Morton, with some 24 adult teams to be participating, it was announced today by Raymond Lewis.

Arrangements have been completed to stage the tourney in the Morton High School gym. Games will start at 7 p.m. and will be held on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Soil stewardship breakfast planned for area ministers

In preparation for a May 15-22 national observance of Soil Stewardship Week, Cochran County Soil Conservation District will sponsor a breakfast tentatively set for Wednesday, May 4, for all ministers of the area, it was announced today by Budd Fountain, the soil district's work unit conservationist.

Ministers of all area churches are being invited to participate in the soil stewardship breakfast, said Fountain.

It is also possible that a soil stewardship tour of the Morton area may be scheduled following the breakfast, if the work schedule of the ministers will permit. Purpose of such a tour would be to better acquaint the clergymen with the area's soil and water problems and what measures are being taken to solve those problems.

At the breakfast, church program inserts with a Soil Stewardship theme will be distributed to the ministers, who will be asked to use them for a service during the Soil Stewardship Week.

In so do: g, they will team with soil conservationists during national Soil Stewardship Week in efforts to emphasize to the public the need for protection of the natural resources.

Members of the local soil conservation board who plan to be present at the breakfast include Eddie Silhan, chairman; Ike Williams, vice chairman; Ronald Ray Lackey, secretary-treasurer; George Burkett and H. G. Barker.

Serving on the local SCS staff in addition to Fountain are Sandy Asbill, soil conservationist; Gordon Houghton, conservation technician, and Dan Keith, who is working on a part-time basis with the office.

Residents may sign for summer water rates now

City residents desiring to take advantage of lowered water rates this summer should sign up now at city hall.

The lower rates, adopted by the city council in a move to encourage beautification of Morton through the use of more water for lawns and flowers, will not go into affect until May 15, it was emphasized, and will be reflected first in the June 15 billing. The lower charge will continue through September 15.

The sign-up period will continue from the present time until May 15, and persons desiring to take advantage of the lower rates must visit city hall in person to sign the necessary request form. No phone calls will be accepted for that purpose, it was again reminded.

The reduced rates were set by the city council at its April 11 meeting at $3.50 minimum charge per month for 10,000 gallons, with a 30-cent additional charge per thousand for all water used over the 10,000 amount.

City Secretary Elra Oden pointed out that the summer rates afford a savings only to those who plan on using a large quantity of water for irrigation of lawns, flowers and shrubs. "If a consumer doesn't plan on using up to 6,700 gallons a month," he explained, "it will not mean a savings to sign up for the summer program."

CANDIDATES SPEAK

A "candidate-speaking" for all Student Council officials hopefuls was conducted Tuesday morning at an assembly program. High school students as well as 8th graders who will be freshmen this fall were present to hear the speeches, preparatory to voting for the candidates that afternoon.

*Make a

FOR HIS FUTURE

A birthday party really thrills the children, and probably the climax comes when they blow out the candles, and make a wish. His wish would probably be for a bright shiny new toy, but you as a parent would wish for him the things that really count, such as good health, happiness, friends and along with these deeper and more serious things should be a prayer for him to have the right interest and relationship to God. You can help these things by taking him to church Sunday.
