Jesse T. George presented gavel

Monday, Speaker of the House, Ben Barnes, expressed gratitude to Representative Jesse T. George, Cochran County's state legislator, for his outstanding service as Vice Chairman of the School Districts Committee during the 60th Session of the Legislature. As a token of his appreciation, the Speaker presented Representative George a gavel engraved with his committee vice chairmanship. Speaker Barnes states that Representative George has rendered outstanding service not only to people of his district, but to citizens throughout the state of Texas. Barnes said "Representative George has rendered many extra hours of service and work to this legislature in the fulfillment of his duties as Vice Chairman."

George also serves on the Education, Motor Traffic, Agriculture, and Constitutional Amendments Committees.

Philip Vogel led the singing of two patriotic hymns. One of them was drowned out momentarily by the "whoosh" of a four-plane formation skimming across rooftops. It was a salute to Cochran County's observance from Rees Air Force Base. Guest speaker was Chaplain (Ma.) Asa E. Hunt III, chaplain at Reese AFB. "Many of us are here because others are not" he opened. He recalled the many battles for freedom waged by Americans from Valley Forge to Pork Chop Hill. "Many do not understand what we are trying to do in Southeast Asia. But those who have died, felt that the principles of freedom are more important than their wealth, their homes, even their lives. "We are defending more than real estate, or even lives which will someday be snuffed out. We are defending ideas." He pointed out that Hitler had an idea for a superiority of one race, as expressed in "Mein Kam

Bill Clayton of Springlake will become Cochran County's state representative, replacing Jesse T. George, as the result of a revision in state representatives' districts passed by the State Legislature last week. The re-districting bill throws George's Cochran and Bailey Counties into the current district of Rep. Clayton of Lamb County. George's Terry and Hockley counties will be placed in with Lubbock County while his Yoakum County will go into a district represented by Randy Pendleton of Andrews. George will run as the fourth man in the three-seat Lubbock district. At the present time Rep. Reed Quilliam and Rep. Elmer Turbox campaign in Lubbock County alone while Rep. Delwin Jones campaigns in Lubbock and Crosby Counties. Crosby County goes to Rep. Renal Rosson of Snyder. The re-districting would cause these three men to run in Lubbock County and George campaigning in Lubbock, Hockley and Terry counties. However, there will only be three seats at stake. George is completing his second term in office as representative of a district that includes Cochran, Yoakum, Hockley, Terry and Bailey Counties. He spoke in opposition of the Lubbock-Terry-Hockley grouping saying that he was not unhappy about being placed into the Lubbock district but that the bill as drawn, is not fair to the rural areas.

Memorial Day ceremony salutes our servicemen

The re-districting proposal is a second outgrowth of a 1965 ruling of the United States Supreme Court, which cause the state to be re-districted at that time. The Court ruled in February that the 1965 reapportionment was not close enough to the court's one man, one vote standard. The court said the districts ranged from 14.8 per cent over representation to 11.64 per cent under representation. George had been manager of the Morton Area Chamber of Commerce before resigning to devote more time to his district. He had also been a teacher before coming to Morton.

In less than ten years, Germany began to wage war for this idea. Karl Mark wrote "Das Kapital" to express his idea of a classless society. In October, 1917, a small group who believed this idea had taken control of the Soviet government. Now, less than 50 years later, the world is again in a state of war. See CEREMONY, Page 2

Kenneth Wyatt moves to Tulia

It was moving time Tuesday for Kenneth Wyatt, former pastor of the First Methodist Church of Morton. Wyatt is moving to Tulia to pursue a career of public speaking. New pastor of the church is Rex Mauldin, presently serving as pastor of the First Methodist Church of Hale Center. He and his family were expected to arrive in Morton Wednesday, May 31. Wyatt, who has been pastor of the Morton church since June 16, 1965, will be a speaker on the Associated Knife and Fork Clubs circuit whose headquarters is in Topeka, Kan. He said that most of his circuit speeches will be out of state. The club dates are set up a year in advance through the association. "However, I'll be free to accept speaking engagements in this part of the world because of my reputation and people's past association with me," he said. "I feel like I was just getting to know the people in Morton," he said. "But, I know I was called to the ministry and I feel just as strongly about this facet of my ministry as actual pulpit work," he added. "My wife said she must either love me or trust me for going with me on this venture," he said. Wyatt and his wife and children, Mark, 11, and Jill, 6, will live at 1009 10th St., Tulia. Mrs. Wyatt has accepted a position with the school system there subject to assignment.

Official reports said that .68 inch had been received. However, if the heat continues as expected then irrigation will be in full swing shortly. (Staff Photo)

Cochran County goes to Rep. Clayton in re-district move

The undersigned scroll is to be presented to Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of American forces in Vietnam, upon completion of the signing. Signing began prior to the Memorial Day ceremony held in Morton May 30.

Scroll Presentation

The scroll will be available for signing in the Morton Area Chamber of Commerce office, 106 SW 1st, for a few days. We, the undersigned citizens of Morton, Cochran County, Texas, do hereby express our support for the American and Allied Troops who are fighting in Vietnam in support of freedom. We realize that thousands are offering their lives in defense of freedom that millions of us might enjoy it, America's freedom was not easily won, nor does it come without price in other lands. But, we do support the actions of our government at this time and pray for your safety. We ask that God be with you as you seek to guarantee a free world for others. You are carrying on a task begun almost 200 years ago . . . a task that will not end so long as any man is oppressed and denied freedom.

Mortonite visits Germany following 19-years' absence

Following 19 years of absence, Mrs. Elmer Jones of 712 W. Garfield, Morton, returned to her native home to visit her mother, sister, and other relatives. She was born in what is now part of Frankfurt, Germany. Mrs. Jones left Morton May 3 and returned from Germany May 23. Her impression of present-day Germany is that "It's all so small and crowded." Used to the wide-open spaces of Texas, she felt crowded in Germany's narrow streets and small buildings. "It's just about like New York City, what with all the tall buildings, bright lights and cars," she said. After the Second World War, and just before she came to the United States, she recalled that there were few lights and fewer cars. That has all changed now. She noticed that the parks were becoming Americanized. . . they were infested with peacekeepers. When asked about the German political situation, the much-talked about upsurge of Nazism, Mrs. Jones said, "My mother didn't say much about it but my nephew said he wished people would stop talking about it." "But," she added, "I don't think people want another dictator." Mrs. Jones said that she saw the barriers that divide East and West Germany. "I saw the Germans working on one side and the Russians working on the other side," she said. "The day before, the Russians had exploded all the old mines in the no-mans-land and were putting up new mines." She also told of the erection of a metal sheet along the barrier on the free side. "I felt like a stranger going back to Germany," Mrs. Jones said, "even though I didn't have any trouble with the language." You never forget your mother tongue she said. "I feel like an American now." She went on to say that she was a teenager when the war was going on and that she left the country for the United States when she was 19. On difference she noted between the past and the present Germany is the cost of living, primarily with the cost of food. She said that food now takes about 15-20 percent more of the paycheck than before. While visiting in Germany she saw many of the places that she had visited while a child. "Most of them are about the same even though there have been changes," she said. Turning the conversation again to the divided Germany, Mrs. Jones said that all highways and railroad leading into East Germany have been torn up near the border. "On the Western side you could see farmers in their fields, cars, and people working. But on the Russian side there was nothing. It looked dead," she said sadly. "I like the democratic way," she said. "Dictatorship is the hard way. I don't want any part of it." She also commented on the American protest movement. "I wonder about the beatniks. Why don't they enjoy freedom? I enjoy it. They mis-use it. They should be proud and uphold the American flag, not burn it." "They should stand behind the flag and uphold it. I tell my son 'If the army calls you to serve, go and be a good soldier. It's your country and you should stand up for it,'" she said strongly. Mrs. Jones said that her mother wants to come to the United States in two years, after she retires. Mrs. Jones' sister is married to an American officer and lives close to Fort Sill, Okla. Asked if she was ready to return to Germany, Mrs. Jones said, "It's nice to visit there, but I don't feel like I belong there. I belong in Texas."

THE COUNTY-OWNED swimming pool, located in the county park, is not yet open for swimming as can be evidenced by the suction pump and glove in the bottom of the pool. Buck Tyson and Terry Anglin, who will manage the pool, say it should be open in a week or two. (Staff Photo)

Colts squeak by Cubs 2-1 in Monday contest

Randy Bedwell needed a one-hitter to carry the Colts past the Cubs in the closest, best-played Little League game of the season Monday evening. The Colts remained undefeated by taking a 2-1 decision. In the nightcap, the Pirates blasted loose for 12 runs in the fourth inning to defeat the Giants 15-2. That lifted the Pirates into a second place tie with the Giants, as Ted Thomas also twirled a one-hitter.

50 years later, those who follow this idea control half the world. "How do you beat an idea? You don't bomb it or machine-gun it. You fight it with a better idea... the right of individuals. We are in Southeast Asia by invitation to defend this idea. You prove you have the best idea by taking it to the market place. You and I are the products of this idea and it is up to each of us to prove that our idea is best."

George Hargrove presented the dedication, closing with a reading of "The American's Creed."

"Taps" rang sharply across the square to close the brief program. It was played by Byron Willis.

Before and after the ceremony, hundreds of residents — men, women and children — lined up to sign a scroll of support for the servicemen in Vietnam. The scroll was arranged by the Morton Jaycees and will be sent to Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of American forces in Vietnam.

Decorations for the speaker's platform were handled by the Cochran County Garden Club.

COTTON QUALITY
One of the major problems in market cotton produced on the South Plains is the lack of fiber uniformity — within the bale and from bale to bale. Fiber uniformity can be improved through block ginning; and thereby, create a greater market demand for the area's cotton.

What is block ginning? This concept is the ginning of cotton from a single variety and with similar fiber properties in large lots (40 to 50 or more bales). One variety gins or communities would be classified, of course, as block ginning. However, this program can be carried out without all farms within the community being involved or even the total acreage of the participating growers.

The cotton grouped within a block should be not only of the same variety but also produced under similar conditions — soil type, irrigation practices, planting date, etc. Insect or disease damage should be considered. It should be remembered that the main objective is to obtain bales of uniform fiber quality to better supply and meet the demands of the market.

BLOCK GINNING

As a result of uniform fiber quality, several advantages can be realized under this program. A few are listed below:

1. By approaching the market with a large supply of uniform fiber, the producer is in a better position to market cotton from a quality stand point.

2. The fiber properties — length, strength, etc. — can be represented to the mill with a good degree of reliability.

3. The movement of two-sided bales into market is avoided.

4. Ginning in large lots enables the producer and ginner to meet mill demands. Specific markets may be attained through variety selection, production control and custom ginning.

5. As a group, quality problems which may arise between the producer and the mill can be solved more effectively. Also assistance from county agents, specialists and other agriculture leaders can be furnished more effectively under such programs.

6. The production of good planting seed is simplified. Varietal mixtures of seed are avoided by ginning in large lots.

7. Group action by producers can accomplish better insect and disease control in the area.

DEVELOPMENT OF PROGRAM

Employing the block ginning concept will usually be initiated by producer groups in a county or community. The program may involve (1) cooperative effort among producers and ginners, (2) working through cotton breeders and seed producers, (3) cooperative organizations and (4) working independently as producers. The method employed to best meet their objectives must be determined by the local producers and county agricultural leaders.

MICRONUTRIENTS IS TOPIC
The use of micronutrients is a topic of much discussion among farmers and representatives of the fertilizer industry. There are six generally recognized plant nutrients in the micronutrient group, namely: iron, zinc, manganese, copper, boron and molybdenum. In addition to these, chlorine has been proved essential to plant growth, but deficiencies have not cropped up under field conditions.

Iron and zinc have been the two accounting for the most problems, according to Dr. Charles D. Welch, Extension Soil Chemist at A&M. Soil tests are available to determine whether or not a zinc deficiency exists. "So far, there are no suitable soil tests to determine if an iron deficiency exists," Welch said.

Iron deficiencies are most common on sorghum growing alkaline soils. The deficiency readily makes itself known by causing a yellowing between the leaf veins. Sorghum is better indicator crop than either soybeans or field peas or beans, two other crops that will show iron deficiency symptoms.

Severe deficiencies will cause yield losses. The most common and effective method of applying iron where needed is by the use of foliar sprays.

Corn is a good indicator crop to detect zinc deficiencies in the soil. Preventing or correcting zinc deficiencies is a less complex problem than is the case of iron deficiency. However, the need for zinc and iron should be established before applications are made. Zinc may be applied broadcast or in bands. Applications of zinc sulfate should be 10 to 30 pounds per acre. Chelated zinc compounds also are effective.

Interested persons may contact Homer E. Thompson, County Agent for more information.

IRRIGATION

Two cotton irrigation result demonstrations were set up Monday May 15 in Cochran County.

Bill Lyle, irrigation specialist for District II Extension Service visited County Agent Homer E. Thompson Monday and they conferred with two farmers — Hardy Rhyme and Ken Coffman. Plans were developed and agreed upon by the farm demonstrators on how each would carry out the irrigation of cotton land on their respective farms in 1966.

Both demonstrators agreed that irrigation water was not being used wisely in the quantity applied and the timing of the applications.

The purpose of these demonstrations is to determine the frequency of application, amount of water to apply, and proper timing of summer irrigations on cotton at various stages of growth, to give the greatest net returns.

The results will be published at the end of the harvest season. These are in the bracket of goals established by the crops sub-committee and the Program Building Committee in previous planning meetings as outlined in the 1966 Plan of Work.

Cotton disaster relief provision

It now appears that cotton producers in some sections of the Plains this year may be forced by weather conditions to avail themselves of the "disaster relief" provisions of the current cotton program.

Under certain circumstances these provisions permit farmers to plant certain other crops on acreage intended for cotton production.

They apply when a farmer, after an "honest and workmanlike" effort, is unable to get or unable to keep a stand of cotton early enough in the season to allow for the expectation of a crop. Under these conditions the producer may apply to the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Office for permission to plant certain other crops on the acreage intended for cotton.

With ASCS approval soybeans or other crops on which no marketing quotas or voluntary acreage reduction programs are in effect may be planted, harvested and sold on cotton land without loss of cotton price support and diversion payments.

The date after which a producer will not be expected to plant or replant cotton is left to the discretion of each individual ASCS county committee and will vary from one geographical location to another.

It is also the responsibility of the county committee to determine whether an honest and workmanlike effort has been made to plant and grow cotton.

Walter Wells, Lubbock County ASCS Office Manager, says the important thing for growers to remember is that an application must be made to the county office prior to planting another income crop on cotton land. Otherwise, both price support and diversion payments may be denied.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Nail of Amarillo and Mr. and Mrs. English Cox of Lubbock, attended the graduation of Jeanette Childs. They spent Friday night with the L. B. Childs.

Walter Sandefer attends VA meet

Walter Sandefer, Veterans Service Officer for Cochran County, attended a rehabilitation conference for the American Legion last weekend at the Big Spring VA Hospital.

The Sixth Annual Memorial Service for the hospital was also held at the same time.

Sandefer said that the VA hospital in Big Spring contains 250 beds and was opened in 1950. The first patient was admitted on Sept 17, 1950. As of April 30, 1967, 43,329 patients have been admitted. The hospital serves a veteran population of 118,100 from 53 counties in Texas and two counties in New Mexico.

Cost per patient at this hospital is approximately $30.07 per day. This cost includes salaries for all employees, food, room, x-rays, laboratory tests, transportation, utilities, and ancillary care.

Memorial Day speaker . . .

TAKING PART IN the Morton Memorial Day ceremonies, held Tuesday on the courthouse square, were George Hargrove, Maj. Asa Hunt (1), and Mayor Jack Russell. Russell acted as the master of ceremonies while George Hargrove gave the dedication. Maj. Hunt, a chaplain at Reese Air Force Base, was the speaker. (Staff Photo)

It was a wonderful Memorial Day observance in Morton Tuesday afternoon. The program worked out quite well, despite the short planning time. The only thing lacking was people. A crowd of 300 is respectable, but nothing like it should have been. Applause is due for Rev. Fred Thomas, who talked about how something needed to be done . . . and then had enough energy to go out and get it organized. Leon Kessler, the chamber of Commerce manager, put a lot of time and legwork into the program, too. And special thanks to John Stockdale and his hard-working handmen for getting out their instruments and music, holding an extra rehearsal and providing the much-needed music.

Thanks also to the Boy Scouts, Cochran County Garden Club, Mayor Jack Russell, Rev. Roy George, George Hargrove, Chaplain Hunt, Reese Air Force Base, and Philip Vogel.

Colts down Giants in extra innings; Sox beat Cards 19-0

The Colts needed an extra inning to subdue the pesky Giants, 14, Tuesday night and remain undefeated. It was the first extra-inning game of the season. In the first game of the evening, the Sox beat the Cards 19-0.

The Sox lost little time getting on the scoreboard as Steve Thompson, Kevin Franks and Jim Risenger connected for successive singles. Dub Hill hit a double. Then followed four walks. Franks and Risenger singled again before the inning closed with the Sox holding the 10-0 lead.

Jay Carouther scored in the second on an error and a hit batter. Four more runs came across in the third as Thompson walked, Franks singled and Hill and Carouthers doubled.

Franks and Hill singled in the fifth and both came in four more runs during the sixth as Steve Thomas singled, Larry Shaw and Steve Thompson got on by error. Franks singled and Risenger er doubled. Hill got on by error. Steve Thompson went the distance to get the victory. He gave up no runs on three hits, walked three and struck out eight.

David Palmer had two singles and Steve Newton doubled to account for all the Cards' hits.

Kevin Franks led the Sox in hitting with five singles. Risenger had two singles and a double in five trips. Hill had two doubles and a single in five trips.

Alex Perex and Steve Cox shared mound duties for the Cards. They gave up 14 runs on 13 hits, two.

In the second game, neither team was able to score in the first inning. In the bottom of the second, the first three Giants walked. Bryant Lewis came off the bench to relieve Ronnie Bedwell. But catcher's interference and two walks pushed in three runs.

The Colts got one run back in the top of the third as Lanny Tyson got on by fielder's choice and scored on James Partlow's double.

The Colts got a three-run effort in the fifth to go in front 4-3. Mark Fluitt and Randy Bedwell singled, James Partlow doubled and Ricky Woods singled.

Darrell Smith walked and came in on an error for the Giants in the bottom of the fifth.

Each team got a runner on base in the sixth, but couldn't bring him in.

The Colts really went to work in the seventh, when Randy Kuehler had to retire as pitcher. He was replaced by Billy Joyce. The Colts tallied seven runs. With one out, Partlow got on by error, Ricky Bedwell doubled, Ricky Woods got on by error, Coy Merritt was safe on a fielder's choice, Elton Jonas singled, Bryant Lewis was hit by the pitcher, Robert Davidson singled and Mark Fluitt singled.

Lewis still had one more inning of pitching eligibility and he used it well. He struck out the first two Giants on six pitches, walked the next better on four pitches, then used three more fast balls to strike out the next batter.

Ronnie Begwell started for the Colts. In one inning-plus, he allowed three runs, no hits and walked three. Bryant Lewis went the other six. He allowed one run on no hits, walked six and struck out 14.

Randy Kuehler went the first six innings for the Giants. He gave up four runs on six hits, walked four and struck out seven. Billy Joyce worked the last inning. He gave up seven runs on four hits, walked none and hit one.

James Partlow had two doubles in five trips to pace the Colt hitting attack.

Following Tuesday night's games the Colts are in front with a 7-0 record. Then come the Pirates, 4-3; Giants, 4-4; and Cubs, 3-3; Sox, 3-4; and Cards, 0-7.

Most of those attending didn't know that a jet plane fly-over had been scheduled. But the four-plane formation came whistling overhead right on time to add an extra-special touch to the observance.

Next big event on the calendar is the Second Annual Little Britches Rodeo on Friday and Saturday, June 2 and 3. There will be a parade at 4 p.m. Friday with trophies for top three junior and senior riding groups. The junior and senior cowboys and cowgirls will have to have their entries turned in by midnight Thursday, June 1.

If you missed the Little Britches Rodeo last year, you really should go out this year. These youngsters are dandies and they'll ride 'most anything the sponsors will allow them to climb on. And the pole bending and barrel races are great spectator events, too. Advance tickets are cheaper than those at the gate, so get yours now.

ADVERTISING DOES GET RESULTS! Example: Cochran County had been without moisture of any consequence since the first week in September, 1966. The Tribune ran a full-page ad asking for rain last Thursday for the First State Bank. Saturday it sprinkled and Sunday it RAINED. The amounts varied all over the county, but some parts did get the requested two inches. The gauge in Morton had about .60, but we think the gauge might have been filled with sand that kept the results from being absolutely accurate. Anyhow, it RAINED and everyone wore smiles of joy to church. The clouds were heavy and threatening again Monday, but we missed out.

We are going to miss Kenneth Wyatt and his family. Kenneth used to come by and try out his newly-acquired jokes on the Tucks before incorporating them into his speeches. But our sense of humor is sometimes warped, so I rather suspect that Kenneth discarded the jokes that made us laugh and used those that left us merely smiling politely. We wish Kenneth great success as he becomes a fulltime speaker. And we are anxious to meet the Rev. Rex Mauldin and his family, who were to arrive in Morton Wednesday evening. We hope they will enjoy their stay here.

Although a safe driver is saluted each week in the Tribune through the Weekes-Russell Insurance Agency ad, we would ask that you particularly notice the safe driver chosen for this week.

Frontier Babe Ruth League opened Monday night. The teams are having a lot of fun, but there are some openings for boys 13, 14 or 15 years of age who want to play baseball this summer. Just be out at the ballpark about 5:30 Thursday evening before the doubleheader and talk with the coaches. The league also needs some umpires, both to work behind the plate and the bases. If you would volunteer to serve one night a week, get in touch with Maurice Lewal-

Buying at Home

is much like The Golden Rule

Everybody Recommends It for Everybody Else

But . . . the sad fact that some folks who preach buying at home don't practice it much, doesn't keep it from being a wise habit. There always will be people who regularly stand in their own light, even when they know better.

Unlike The Golden Rule, the principle of buying at home has few moral aspects. It's just a matter of good hard dollars and cents, and fuller living.

Because somebody else does . . . or doesn't . . . is no good reason to give away what is ours.

Yet that is just what we're doing when we spend our money off somewhere else, with the excuse that our neighbors are doing it.

Let's quit watching them, and examine our own habits, reminding ourselves selfishly that of each dollar we spend, nearly one-third goes to pay for community progress and upkeep.

But it's no soup in our pot, no schools for our kids, no churches for our souls, nor increment for our property, if it is some other community.

...ATTEND CHURCH

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also"

The TIE that Binds...

Man and woman began their married life in church and according to God's holy word are joined together. With the Bible as the basis for the beginning of a new life together, it seems only reasonable that a continued study of God's word would strengthen and serve as a guide to any couple. The Bible can truly serve as a tie that will bind two together in accord. The church as God's agency on earth can help you in Bible study, and with the guidance of the Holy Spirit can help you to understand God's will in your life.

"And the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in drought, and make fat thy bones; and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters fail not." Isaiah 58-11

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
