Travis named to replace Lanier as Morton school superintendent

Ray Lanier, superintendent of the Morton School District for the past four years, has resigned his position to become director of fiscal and contract services of Region 17 of the Educational Service Center in Lubbock.

Bobby Travis, former principal of Morton High School, has been appointed by the School Board to replace Lanier as superintendent. His appointment is effective immediately.

Announcement of Lanier's resignation came at a School Board meeting July 15.

Lanier, who was principal of Morton High prior to being name superintendent, will be responsible for directing Service Center purchasing, inventory, budget control and accounting in his new position.

He will also make contractual arrangements and coordinate computer services for regional schools.

Lanier holds a bachelor and master's degree from East Texas State University and also has done graduate work at the University of Texas and Texas Tech.

The Morton School Board also announced it is now accepting and screening applications for new teachers for the 1968-69 school year.

Eleven vacancies now exist in teaching positions throughout the school system. Those resigning at the July 15 meeting were Mrs. Judy Lanier, Charles Bourland, Mr. and Mrs. Lang, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Johnson and Mrs. Buddy Green-er.

Junior college lists advisory service for low-income students

Cooke County Junior College at Gainesville has initiated an advisory service to inform students from low-income families of their legal free tuition rights, student adviser Paul Thomas announced Wednesday.

Under the Connally-Carrillo Act passed by the Texas Legislature in 1967, Thomas said, a graduate of a Texas-accredited high school can attend a Texas state-supported college with tuition and fees paid by the state if the student was in the top quarter of his class and if his family's total income does not exceed $4,800.

"We estimate that only about one percent of the general public knows about this and we want to inform them."

The junior college has set up an information office to explain the law to prospective enrollees of state colleges. Thomas encouraged students who might be eligible to write or call the scholarship adviser, Cooke County Junior College, Gainesville.

Statistics show that in recent years more and more high school graduates are enrolling in Texas junior colleges, preferring them to the state's larger universities. In most instances these students transfer to four-year colleges after two years, although some complete their educations with junior college work.

Goodland compressor station to be completed in September

The compressor station of the Natural Gas Pipeline Co. near Goodland is now about twenty-five per cent completed, with the station expected to be ready to be in service in September.

Goodland was chosen by the National Gas Pipeline Company because of its geographical advantage, directly between Lovington and Hereford, the adjoining two compressor stations. Cost of the new project will be approximately $489,000. At the present time 53 workers are under contract, many of them living in Morton.

The company services distribution companies serving consumers in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas and Wisconsin. When completed, the station will house two 4,000-horsepower compressor engines and will be manned by a four-man pipeline crew.

The Goodland station is part of NGPL's 1968, 364 million cubic foot expansion program which will boost the company's total delivery capacity on a peak day to more than four billion cubic feet. The program includes the construction of about 216 miles of new pipeline and the installation of 117,700 additional compressor horsepower, as well as construction of additional transmission, storage, and supply line facilities.

Officials connected with the project in Goodland report they have encountered no problems since construction began, and that no injuries have occurred.

Misses Cade, Cloud are top 4-H winners

Marilyn Cade and Vickie Cloud were top winners in the recent County Dress Revue. They will attend the District Dress Revue in Lubbock July 30 at Hodges Community Center.

The top five girls in the senior division will be eligible to compete in the State 4-H Dress Revue October 5 in Dallas in conjunction with the State Fair of Texas.

The older girls' 4-H clothing group which included Nan Ray, Sherri Cadenhead, Christy Cade, Deborah Whitehead and Marilyn Cade were in charge of decorations for the County Dress Revue. The theme, "It's a Mod, Mod World" was carried out with bright colors and latest styles.

About 50 4-Hers attended the all day county 4-H Camp at the County Park last Thursday. Included in the schedule were softball and volleyball, crafts, program, skating, swimming and a cookout.

Fred Weaver gave an inspiration program on citizenship for young people. Mrs. M. L. Phillips taught a class on making tissue paper flowers. Mrs. James Whitehead was in charge of registration and Mrs. James Jones was in charge of games. Inspiration was planned by Mrs. W. O. Fluitt, and 4-Hers Ricky Webb, Terry Shaw, Vickie Hall and Sherita Fluitt.

Vernon Shaw, Roy L. McClung and Morton J. Smith prepared hamburgers for the cookout. Others helping to furnish food were: Mrs. E. C. Hale, Mrs. A. E. Cade, Mrs. Russell Hudson, Mrs. Charles Jones, Mrs. Vernon Shaw, Mrs. Morton J. Smith and Mrs. James Jones.

4-H record books will be due August 2 at the Extension Office. Only complete records will be eligible for District competition. Project record forms must be turned in to receive a yearpin for the year's work.

Charges filed against two men in Cochran

Cecil Williams, a Negro male, was arrested on a charge of giving checks on incompetent funds. He is charged with giving a check for a bus ticket to Tyler, Texas, then going to Lubbock to cash the ticket. Williams pleaded not guilty and bond was set at $150.

Angel Flores was charged with stealing a pistol from the glove compartment of Victor Agula's car. The car was parked on the street when the pistol was stolen. Flores pleaded not guilty and bond was set at $150.

★ Gridders to report

All freshmen through senior boys who are interested in football are to come by the field house to see Coach Tannehill and to fill out preliminary forms, any time from 2:00 to 6:00 p.m.

Work continues . . .
WORK GOES AT a steady rate at the gas compressing station near Goodland. It is expected to be completed in September.

Local Little League All-Stars advance; meet Sudan tonight

The Morton Little League All-Stars, newly-crowned Area B Little League champions, head into second-round tournament action tonight (Thursday) against the Sudan All-Stars in Muleshoe. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Morton wrapped up the Area B championship July 17 by downing the Levelland All-Stars 5-4 in the tournament's championship game for their third consecutive victory. They previously had beaten Plains 9-3 and Sundown-Whiteface 4-3 in advancing to the final round of the tournament, which was held in Morton. The Morton-Levelland game was a nip-and-tuck affair, with neither team ever taking more than a two-point lead.

More than 100 players from eight area teams participated in the Morton tournament last week, and several times played before capacity crowds. The tournament began the afternoon of July 15.

Coaches for the Morton All-Stars are Wayne Gilliam and Jimmy Bilbrey.

In other games last week, Levelland downed Seagraves 1-0, Brownfield beat Denver City 9-2; Sundown - Whiteface squeezed by Ropesville 4-3, and Levelland beat Brownfield 6-2. There was no consolation bracket in the single elimination tournament.

5 Farm-to-market road construction is scheduled for Cochran County

The Texas Highway Commission today announced plans for development of 0.6 miles of Farm to Market Roads in Cochran County as part of the 1968 Texas Farm to Market Road Program.

District Engineer O. L. Crain of Lubbock said the estimated cost of the work is $12,000,000.

The new road will be developed from 1980, seven miles south of Whiteface, to the end of the proposed FM road at the Hockley County line. It will be graded and surfaced.

The Texas Highway Department engineer in charge of the work will be Herbert E. DeShazo of Lubbock.

The 1968 Farm to Market Road Program includes the addition of 545 new miles bringing the designated mileage of the Texas FM-Rd system to almost 39,500 miles.

The Texas Farm to Market Road system is one of the most highly-developed networks of rural highway facilities in the nation, exceeding the total mileage of the entire highway system of most other states.

The program includes advance stage construction on some roads already begun in addition to new mileage. Total cost of the work is $23.8 million.

Included in the program are construction projects in 142 Texas counties. It covers advance stage construction on some roads already begun as well as new routes.

Of the new mileage 377 miles or 69 per cent are school bus routes and 344 or 62 per cent are rural mail routes.

Each day during the school year, almost half a million Texas youngsters are transported to school and back home by an estimated 8,000 school buses. Trips to school and back daily amount to more than half a million miles of travel, much of it over FM roads.

Rural mail carriers drive an estimated 50 thousand miles a day over the FM-Rd system.

Impetus for the modern Farm to Market system was afforded by legislation passed in 1949 to "get the farm out of the mud" —to enable farmers and ranchers to get their produce and livestock to market and to provide adequate, safe highways for school buses and mail routes.

In recent years, many FM and RM routes have taken on additional roles, providing access to recreational areas, daily trips between urban homes and rural farms or suburban homes and urban employment.

Head Start schedules open house Friday

The Headstart participants were recently treated to free rides at the Carnival by the Women's Clubs of Morton. They were also given free rides by the manager of the Carnival.

Friday night will be open house for the program, and conferences with the teachers are encouraged. Also there will be a fellowship in the cafeteria for children and their parents. Refreshments will be served.

Interview of the week... More farm support needed

An interview with Roy L. McClung

Roy L. McClung, Jr. has been County Agriculture Agent since Oct. 1, 1967. He was born in 1939 in Seymour, where he was raised as the son of a county agent. He served three years in the Army, including 15 months in Korea. After his time in the Army he attended Texas A&M on a football scholarship.

In 1962 he graduated with a degree in agriculture. Before coming to Morton he worked in Hale County. His wife Carol is a graduate from North Texas State University and has an elementary educational degree. She will teach the first grade next year in Morton. The McClungs have three children, Trey, Gena and Sara.

McClung says the blowing sand and the lack of water are the most important agricultural problems in Cochran County. Concerning the water problem the greatest hope for the future is plans to bring water from the Missouri or Mississippi Rivers to West Texas, McClung says. Quick work and all-out efforts are needed.

The agricultural problems in which McClung is most involved are fertilization, irrigation, insect-fighting and agricultural variety. He says he regrets that he can't provide personal service to every individual farmer or farm family because of time limitations but he tries to advise and help as many people as possible. Besides his work with adults there are also numerous programs with the 4-H Club.

Finally McClung said that everyone, the government as well as every member of the community, must help and support the farmer in his effort to produce food for our increasing population. "The scientist can bring people on the moon, but someone has to put food into their rockets," McClung says.

Roy L. McClung likes living in Morton and says he is happy to work for it.

Playground equipment discussed by Jaycees

The Morton Junior Chamber of Commerce met at the Wig Wam Tuesday night. Members present were Ed Pruitt, Jerry Hey, Ronnie Johnson, Bill Gray, and a visitor and prospective member, David Mayberry.

A variety of topics were discussed. It was decided to contact the Rodeo association and offer to help in any way during the Rodeo. The possibility of putting playground equipment at the Strickland Park was also discussed. Also, they talked ways to make money in order to purchase the equipment for the park.

Next meeting will be August 6, at 7:30 p.m.

Economics big problem for decision-makers

During the past two years, the American economy has been in a strongly inflationary phase, with levels of production and employment pressing against their practical upper limits. Within that period, however, there have been noticeable swings which have engaged our attention as they occurred.

This kind of situation is common as economic events unfold — the general character of an era is discernible but the picture is confused by interim variations. It raises problems for decision makers, both individuals concerned with their own affairs and national leaders concerned with larger policy issues. Should we be content to adapt our actions to the longer-range underlying trends or should we seek to respond to the short-term swings?

Two years ago the long period of economic expansion was just entering the stage of an all-out boom. Then in 1967 the upward pressure seemed to relax. The growth in output and employment assumed a more moderate pace although, unfortunately, the price level continued to rise about as fast as before. The economy began to regain speed toward the end of 1967 and by early 1968 the boom was on again.

THUS WE HAVE had, if you will, two boom periods (late 1966 and early 1968) separated by an interim pause. The two booms differ somewhat in character. Late 1966 was a capital-goods boom whereas early 1968 was mainly a consumer-goods-and-services boom. Inventory accumulation played an important role in sustaining high levels of output in the last quarter of 1966 but inventory accumulation was below normal in the first quarter of 1968. The manufacturing sector was operating at 91 per cent of capacity in late 1966 but only 84 per cent in the early part of 1968 — a significant difference.

The modest interim slowdown in 1967 seems to have been due to two main causes, one of which was foreseeable and the other not foreseeable. The foreseeable cause was the necessity for a period of reduced inventory accumulation after the heavy build-up of stocks in the last months of 1966. The unforeseeable cause was a substantial rise in the consumer savings rate. Consumers, for their own good reasons, decided to save about 7 per cent of their incomes in 1967 instead of the approximately 6 per cent which had prevailed in the three preceding years. The one point differential was sufficient to have a noticeable effect on market conditions.

During the 1967 interim-pause period, two major indicators were apparently insulated from the effects of the slowdown. The unemployment rate averaged as low in 1967 as in 1966. And the consumer price level went up as fast in 1967 as in 1966. The pause didn't last long enough for its effects to be registered in these two fields.

THIS TWO-YEAR pattern of variations on the general inflationary theme naturally gives rise to the question of where the economy may be headed next. We don't have a pat answer but the question is worth discussing.

The large new element now injected into the picture is the "Revenue and Expenditure Control Act of 1968." The combined effect of the tax rise and the spending cuts will produce a budgetary swing of about $20 billion — from a deficit of about $25 billion in the year ending June 30, 1968 to one of about $5 billion in the year ending June 30, 1969.

It would seem that this would inescapably result in a tempering of the current boom. But the timing of the impact could be greatly affected by more transient factors of the type that have been operating during the past two years. If consumers respond to higher taxes by an abrupt drop in their savings rate, they may for some time offset the market effects of this fiscal action, at least partially. And, if nevertheless a drop in final demand does occur, its impact on employment and production could be postponed by a period of heavy inventory accumulation, as at the end of 1966. Finally, even if output and employment are reduced from present boom levels, the upward price trend seems bound to go on for some time through its existing momentum.

MONETARY POLICIES may be in for some changes. After all, one of the reasons for the tax increase was to "ease the burden on monetary policy" and give the Federal Reserve System some greater freedom of action. Certainly such changes would be made cautiously and with due regard for economic developments. But they could have important effects on the economy. An easing of credit conditions could offset, in some respects and to some degree, the restraining effects of the tax increase and budget cut.

Thus, although the economic impact of the new tax law is clear as to direction it will work out in a period of confusion and unpredictable cross currents in the economy. This period could easily last for most of the next twelve months.

And this brings us to the fact that the major spending and tax provisions of the new law are scheduled to be in effect only over the next twelve months. We may end up that period with no clear and incontrovertible way of assessing their effects on the economy.

The moral, if any, is that economic policy decisions ought to be made on the basis of fundamental principle, rather than in anticipation of short-term swings. The tax increase and expenditure control measures just enacted were the right thing to do, even if no one can guarantee smooth economic sailing as a result of them.

$10 million cotton research program outlined for 1969

Plans for a 1969 cotton research and promotion program approximating $10 million were outlined and considered in Lubbock recently by trustees of the Cotton Producers Institute.

Russell Giffen, Fresno, Calif., CPI president, pointed out that while plans call for continuation of all major projects in the $8 million CPI program for 1968, a significant expansion is proposed in research on durable press to enhance cotton's competitive position in a number of key markets and in promotion keyed to this product development.

High priority would be assigned to durable press (1) sheets and pillowcases, (2) shirts, (3) work trousers, casual slacks, and suits, and (4) dress fabrics. Teams composed of members of the technical, market research, and promotion staffs of the National Cotton Council have been designated in each of these areas and would work as a unit.

The Institute utilizes the staff and facilities of the National Cotton Council in carrying out its program which is financed by $1 per bale payments by growers under the Cotton Research and Promotion Act.

Ernest Stewart, New York, director of promotion, National Cotton Council, said that in other durable press product groups where research proposals are being made for 1969, teams will be set up as progress indicates. End uses in this category are draperies, upholstery fabrics, and knit goods. A floor coverings product development team also has been established.

The promotion outline recommends expansion in national magazine advertising and in newspaper advertising sponsored 50-50 with local retailers. These two items are expected to account for the major share of the promotion budget. Television commercials, sponsored jointly with retailers, will be run in a number of test cities.

Promotion sponsored cooperatively with major chains will be continued. Expansion is planned in the area of fabric development, fabric libraries, shows at market-press weeks, and shopping center activity.

Continued also would be campaigns sponsored jointly with the manufacturers of cotton cushioning, awnings, and piece goods. Similar programs are planned also in behalf of tenting and mattress pads.

George S. Buck, Memphis, the Council's research director, presented recommendations in ten problem areas: (1) insects, (2) diseases, (3) weeds, (4) yield-quality, (5) mechanization, (6) processing-handling-marketing, (7) mill processing-finishing, (8) consumer quality improvement, (9) product development, and (10) cottonseed.

"Coordination of CPI research with all other cotton research—particularly that supported by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and state experiment stations is vital to an effective over-all program," Dr. Buck emphasized in explaining procedures through which CPI works with USDA's cotton research review committee.

Research in cotton planting is being expanded by CPI

Cotton Producers Institute is expanding a mechanization research study in cotton planting at North Carolina State University, Raleigh, as part of CPI's 1968 cotton research program.

This has been announced by Russell Giffen, Fresno, Calif., CPI president.

The increased grant, from $40,000 to $82,750, will permit more intensive work in several promising areas seeking improved planting methods and equipment to reduce the risks for cotton growers in getting a stand of cotton.

Improvements in cotton growth patterns plus savings in fuel, labor, and seed costs in planting, replanting, and thinning are the goals of the research.

The research team includes agricultural engineers, botanists, and soil scientists working together in 16 different basic phases of investigation covering conditions encountered in all parts of the Cotton Belt.

Many factors determine whether a final uniform stand of vigorous cotton seedlings is attained. They include the seed's vigor and inherent potential, the soil, the above-ground environment, and the equipment and techniques used in planting.

The researchers are studying all of these elements and their relationships to each other. From this they will design and test prototype planter components. Major equipment manufacturers are watching the research closely with the view of rapid development and marketing of improved planter units for cotton.

Research on the development of entire machine systems for cheaper and more automated cotton production is being sponsored by CPI at the University of Arizona, Tucson. Improved chemical application methods and equipment are the objectives of CPI-sponsored research being conducted at Jackson by the University of Tennessee and at Stillwater by Oklahoma State University.

The total CPI research program is budgeted at $2.7 million for 1968, and includes some 70 studies ranging from insect control to durable press for cotton products.

Divorce may lead to income tax problems

Every year there are a number of Texas couples who decide to "split the blanket." Divorce is enough misfortune, without getting into tax problems in the process.

Under Texas community property laws, the earnings of both spouses up to the date of divorce is community income. When the couple files their income tax return for the year, each spouse has to have the total earnings up to the date of divorce, the total withholding tax and the total itemized deductions or tax credits, since by law each is required to file an income tax return on their one-half share.

They must also declare their separate income, credits and deductions for the rest of the year after the date of divorce. It works out much better to settle the entire matter at the time of the divorce. In any case, don't be one of the several thousand Texans that will get involved in an income tax audit of your income tax return for the year of your divorce.

Ricky and Gary Willis, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Willis of Brownfield, were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Willis, their grandparents. Gary was a member of the Brownfield Little League team during the tournament.

Wrong prescription can be risky business for pharmacist

Given a prescription for her arthritis, a woman took it to the corner drug store to be filled. But the druggist mixed a dangerous ingredient into the medicine. As a result, the woman suffered a severe reaction—and later filed suit for damages. "Don't blame me, blame the doctor," insisted the druggist in court. "His writing on that prescription was so illegible it was hard to be sure what he meant. I filled it according to my best judgment."

The court held the druggist liable for the harm, blaming him for not checking the doctor before going ahead.

By and large, pharmacists are held to a standard of care commensurate with the importance of their ancient profession, a judge put it.

"People trust not merely their health but their lives to the knowledge, care and prudence of druggists."

For that reason, the pharmacist who is careless in filling a prescription is fully responsible for the consequences. There have been damage verdicts not only for wrong ingredients but also for incorrect proportions and for misleading directions.

On the other hand, even when a druggist does make a mistake, he is not liable if there is no causal connection between the mistake and the ultimate injury. Take this case:

A druggist sold a customer a powerful narcotic, without properly labeling the bottle. The customer, well aware of what he had bought, mischievously slipped the medicine in a friend's coffee.

For the unhappy consequences to the friend, the druggist was held blameless. The court pointed out that his faulty labeling had no connection with what happened, because the prankster would have done the same thing even if the label had been right.

Furthermore, a customer must show a reasonable regard for his own safety. In another "wrong medicine" case, the customer made his purchase from a young, inexperienced clerk while the regular pharmacist was out of the store.

Here the clerk, after bringing out a bottle, confessed that he didn't know what he was selling. Nevertheless the customer insisted the medicine must be what he wanted because it "smelled right."

A court ruled afterward that the customer himself was guilty of negligence, for buying medicine by using his nose instead of by using his head.

THIS CAR TURNED over on a curve about 5 miles from Morton Tuesday. The driver's name was not made available at that time.

TURNROW TUNKEL

According to a political expert, a big factor in President Johnson's decline in popularity was the opposition of "Eastern intellectuals." I wouldn't know about Eastern intellectuals, but some of Lyndon's Great Society programs didn't go over too well with a lot of us Western ignoramus.

What did you think of Earl Warren's statement that he will remain as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court unless the Senate approves Abe Fortas as his successor? When he puts it that way, the Senate doesn't have much choice. It's a matter of the known against the unknown, and in this case the unknown is the lesser of the two evils.

Did you know that a New York travel agency is offering a Las Vegas divorce package for $1,000? The price includes a lawyer and sight-seeing trips. Sounds like a bargain. A lot of people spend that much in Las Vegas and come home with nothing to show for it — not even a divorce.

I read where a safety expert said speeding ambulances kill more people than they save. The same thing happens in Congress. Some of that fast legislation passed to help certain groups hurts many an innocent bystander.

I understand that DuPont has developed a synthetic fabric with the qualities of silk. It will sell for about $8 a pound. I like the idea of selling it by the pound. The way women dress these days, a fellow could hand his wife a $10 bill to buy a couple of dresses, and tell her to bring back the change.

Soil Conservation Service tells about numerous poison plants

"The summertime beauty of our state's lush vegetation in yards, fields, pastures, and woodlands also holds dangers that the public should heed," H.N. Smith, State Conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service in Temple, warned this week.

Smith said that throughout the U.S. and Canada more than 700 species of plants are known to cause death, illness or extreme discomfort to people.

"Chewing, swallowing or otherwise contacting the toxic parts of certain plants, trees and shrubs takes a heavy toll," Smith said. "Each year health services report that about 12,000 children are poisoned or injured by these sources."

Parents should be concerned, the SCS official stated, because many of these plants are quite common in flower and vegetable gardens and in ornamental landscaping, as well as in wild places. Bulbs, roots, seeds, leaves, beans, stems or berries may contain poison, depending on the species of plant.

The beautiful oleander bush, for example, grown all over the country, contains a deadly heart stimulant similar to the drug digitalis. The toxin is so strong that a single leaf can kill a child. People have died merely from eating steaks speared on oleander twigs and roasted over a fire.

The popular Christmas flower poinsettia is full of an acidic, burning juice, so lethal that a child who consumed one leaf might die. Mistletoe berries can also be deadly.

Peach tree leaves contain hydrocyanic acid, one of the most dangerous poisons known. Potato and tomato plants, close kin to the deadly nightshade, have foliage that contains alkaloid poisons which can cause severe digestive upset and nervous disorder if eaten.

Jimson weed, sometimes called thorn apple and stinkweed, grows almost everywhere and causes more poisoning than any other plant. It grows from two to five feet tall, and has large leaves and white funnel-shaped flowers resembling morning glories. All parts are poisonous, especially seeds and leaves.

Duffenbachis, or dumb cane, is a beautiful house plant grown in millions of homes, but merely biting its stalk can cause swelling of the mouth and tongue that can be deadly. It is called dumb cane because of its power to strike its victims speechless. The stalk contains needle-like crystals of calcium oxalate that become imbedded in the tissue of the mouth and tongue causing severe swelling and pain.

Castor bean seeds are especially dangerous because they are so deadly and so readily available. They are sold in garden stores for about 25 cents a packet and are popular because they produce large, lush plants in one season. Yet each seed contains enough ricin, a powerful blood poison, to kill a child.

Mescalbean, or Mountain laurel, is also dangerous. It has a poison bean with a hard coat. If it is swallowed whole there may be no ill effects, but if chewed or crushed it can be lethal.

Other common plants in Texas that have poisonous parts include elephant ear, larkspur, azaleas, lantana, yew, oaks, water hemlock, poison hemlock, poison oak and poison sumac.

"More detailed information on these and other plants can be secured from health and plant authorities," Smith said. "We have requested SCS offices in our state's 184 soil and water conservation districts to cooperate fully with the National Safety Council in keeping the public alerted to plants that cause these problems."

500 KILOWATT HOURS PER BALE!

It takes about 500 kilowatts of electricity on irrigated land to convert a sack of cottonseed into a bale of cotton. There's irrigation water to be pumped, plus ginning and compressing. Electricity is needed for de-linting, grinding cottonseed hulls and pressing cottonseed for oil.

This is just one important area in which the member-owned Bailey County Electric Cooperative contributes substantially to the rural economy. The low-cost dependable electric supply furnished by the Bailey County Electric Cooperative also attracts commercial and industrial establishments to the rural area helping stimulate the rural economy. The Bailey County Electric Cooperative is building a brighter tomorrow today and Helping Texas Grow.

Sometimes the desire to run out the door and chuck it all is overpowering when we are confronted with the mess of an after-dinner table!

Sometimes, insight lets us see that our lives are quite a mess too. In fact, things seem such a jumble, that our reaction to this truth, if acknowledged, is, "What's the use?"

Well, of course, the only thing to do with the dishes is to take them to the sink, put them in hot water, and wash them with a good cleansing agent until they shine.

Less obvious, perhaps, is what to do with a messed-up life. We invite you to seek an answer in church this week. You are sure to find there the Power who will help you with your problems, a power who cares immeasurably for your soul.

"Casting all your care upon him, for he careth for you." I Peter 5:7

"And the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain." Isaiah 40:4b.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
