Deborah Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Miller of Morton, was crowned "Cochran County Farm Bureau Queen, 1969-70" at the annual pageant last Thursday evening at the county auditorium in Morton.

Miss Miller, a 1969 graduate of Morton High School, also took second place in the Talent Find Contest. She sang a sacred song.

Randy and Jerry Dale Brownlow, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brownlow of Morton rural, took top honors in the Talent Find contest. Randy, a student at South Plains College in Levelland, played popular and country instrumentals on the five-string banjo, the piano, and the electric guitar. Jerry Dale, a student at Whiteface High School, accompanied his older brother on the guitar.

Runner-up in the queen contest was Patsy Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Collins of Morton. Miss Collins is also a 1969 graduate of Morton High School.

The first and second place winners in both the queen and the talent contests were presented plaques by Olen Cooper, president of the Cochran County Farm Bureau. Cooper also presented all eight

Dr. Frey announces departure from Morton

Dr. Fenella Frey and her husband, Calvin Frey, announced Monday that they are moving to Hominy, Oklahoma, at the end of this week. Dr. Frey has been in general practice at Morton's Cochran Memorial Hospital since May, 1967.

In an interview with the Tribune, Frey stated that his wife would assume an existing practice in a clinic from which another doctor is leaving. A recently-discharged Navy doctor is expected to join Dr. Frey at the clinic.

Frey also said that he has accepted a position as personnel director for a hosiery factory which employs some 300 workers. Hominy is about 35 miles north of Tulsa.

In expressing regret at leaving their friends in the Morton area, Frey stated that they had "enjoyed knowing people here." They plan to retain their house on South Main Street as a rent-house.

Cochran County voters approved six of the proposed constitutional amendments in Tuesday's special election, but they failed to vote favorably on the other three.

Given the largest margin by the voters as expected, was the second proposal, which was the "Texas Water Plan." Cochran Countians approved the measure by a vote of 433-69. The latest statewide returns as the Tribune went to press, however, indicated that the water plan was turned down by a slight margin.

The other proposals which met approval in Cochran County were No. 1, constitutional deletions; No. 4, water supply tax exemption; No. 5, welfare fund; No. 7, state employee survivor assistance; and No. 8, student loans.

Those proposed amendments which were rejected in the county were No. 3, legislators' salaries; No. 6, bond rates; and No. 9, annual legislative sessions.

Statewide, proposals No. 2, 3, 4, and 9 were voted down. Cochran County voters disagreed with the state results on proposals No. 2, 4, and 6.

The complete vote in Cochran County is analyzed in a chart which accompanies this article. The totals for each of the voting boxes is shown for each of the first figure given being the "for" vote and the second figure the "against" vote.

Tuesday's election was the first since a new law took effect which abolished voting boxes which had fewer than 50 voters. The six boxes which the county formerly had has now been reduced to four.

The total number of voters in the election was 507, which is slightly less than one-third of the qualified voters in the county. Precinct No. 1, Morton, had 268 voters; Precinct No. 2, Whiteface, had 102; Precinct No. 3, Bledsoe, had 60; and Precinct No. 4, Star Route-Neely Ward-Griffith area, had 51. The absentee box at the county clerk's office contained 26 ballots.

Rodeo blast-off set!

Miss Cochran County entries close Friday

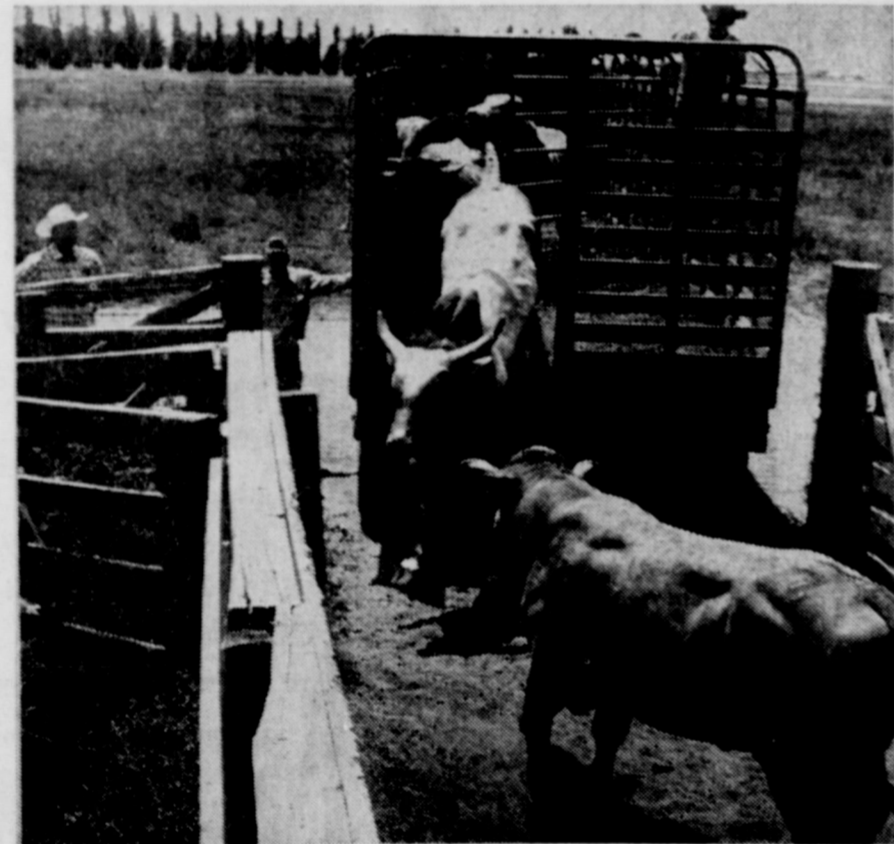

Friday, August 8, is the final day for entering the "Miss Cochran County of 1970" contest, according to Mrs. Fred Weaver, who will serve as one of the judges.

Cochran County girls who want to compete for the title are urged to sign up at the Morton Area Chamber of Commerce Office.

Contestants must be single, high school graduates, and between 18 and 28 years of age. The winner will represent the county in the "Miss South Plains" pageant, which is sponsored by the Levelland Jaycees.

Because of the late start, there is not time to prepare a full pageant in Morton this year. The girls who enter the contest will be presented to a panel of judges in the county auditorium in Morton next Wednesday, August 13, at 2:00 p.m. They will be required to present a talent performance.

The contest will be judged by the presidents of the Lions Club, the Chamber of Commerce, and local women's clubs, as well as by Mrs. Weaver.

WHAT TOWN IS THIS?...

O. K., COACH, where is the field and who are we playing this week? seems to be the attitude of this giant Brahma bull as he nimbly jumps from the stock truck that brought him to Morton for the rodeo which begins tonight. No ramp was necessary for the twenty-odd bulls to unload. They showed the nimble-footedness that makes them such terrors in the arena as they each one jumped lightly to the ground from the approximate five-foot height. The rodeo stock is being furnished by Red Whatley of Crosbyton.

Talented local artists

Valuable art display at bank

By ELVIS E. FLEMING

Visitors at the First State Bank and the Cochran Memorial Hospital in Morton are exposed to some of the finest western art in the country, thanks to the generosity of Morton art collectors.

In addition to the collection of the bank itself, bank president D. E. Benham has a number of works from his and Mrs. Benham's personal collection on display in the bank. Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Dean have also placed three paintings from their collection on view in the bank, and they have hung three others in the hospital.

Insisting that "I'm no connoisseur of art; I just like beauty," Mr. Benham has nevertheless assembled a collection that would arouse the envy of any collector of western art.

Two watercolors in the Benham's collection have a local flavor. They were painted by John Meigs, one of the outstanding living western artists who resides in the artist colony at San Patricio, New Mexico.

One called "Headquarters Tank" features the surface tank with two windmills that was formerly used at the headquarters of the C. C. Slaughter ranch in this county. The other, "Harvest Stop," features the depot and grain elevator at Lehman. A third work by Meigs, an egg-tempera called "Riding Out," pictures a cowboy who could well have been a Cochran Countian 50 years ago. The three Meigs works are valued at about $750 each.

Five oils by Benham's former pastor, Kenneth Wyatt, are in his collection. One features two horses belonging to Mr. Benham and his wife. Others are of flowers, a windmill, and other horses. The Wyatt paintings are worth $350 to $1000 each. Wyatt formerly pastored the First United Methodist Church here.

Two peaceful scenes of grazing cattle, mountains, streams, etc., were painted by J. W. Thrasher. The two large oils are appraised at $750 each.

The bank display also includes a number of prints of famous art works and one oil by Morton artist Mrs. Roy "Crickett" Hickman.

The most valuable works on display in the bank are three oils by Fred Harman, from the collection of Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Dean. Harman drew the "Red Ryder and Little Beaver" comic strip from 1937 till 1962. Since that time he has been doing western works which are highly sought-after by collectors.

His paintings are of the realistic school in the tradition of Charles M. Russell. "Trapped," a large picture in Mr. Benham's office, and "Color, Cowboys, and Cattle," hanging elsewhere in the bank, are valued at a minimum of $7000 each. A smaller work, "Fetching Them In," is worth about $5400, according to Mr. Benham.

Dr. and Mrs. Dean also have four other See VALUABLE, Page 7a

SHOW US A HOME where the buffalo roam, where the beer and the cantaloupe play, and we'll show you a domicile which is soiled beyond the tolerance factor.

PEOPLE WHO GO ALL-OUT for all this new-fangled "mod" clothing and outlandish hair styles sometimes puzzle us. A middle-aged man wearing a turtle-neck sweater, a peace medallion, mutton-chop sideburns, and all that kind of hog-wash, might just as well wear a sign around his neck saying "I have a psychological need to be 'IN'." Of course, if they keep it up, we may all be forced to look like that. That's how styles change. Guess we're too old-fashioned.

TOOTIE HODNETT, one of the Cochran County landed gentry who have so many farms that they have to number them, is the new president of the local chapter of the Windshield Farmers of America. The WFA organization meets four times each day in the local coffee joints, from which its members operate their agricultural enterprises.

SERIOUSLY, Tootie tells us that Bobby Smith of Morton figured out that if he were to do the labor himself that he normally pays a hand to do, his income taxes would be enough higher that he would realize only a little over a dollar a day for his own labor. By hiring it done, and paying a decent wage, he can give a hand the opportunity to support a family. This gives the farmer more time, then, to do other things. Like attending the meetings of the WFA.

QUANAH PARKER, the Comanche chief who visited Cochran County occasionally about 100 years ago, had several wives at the time he went to the reservation in 1875. As the story goes, General Mackenzie told him to pick out his favorite to keep, then he'd have to tell the others that they couldn't be his wives any more under the white man's peculiar laws. Quanah thought it over a while, then implored the general, "You tell 'em."

THE ANNUAL RITUAL of having close-out sales on this year's cars in order to prepare for next year's models has started. Does the fact that the prices have been lowered mean that they've been selling them for more than they're worth all year? Why would anyone want a more modern body-style than they now have, at least for a few years? Styles could be changed about every five years, but changing them every year just for the sake of change is asinine. In our opinion, the annual changes just make the cars cost more and the public therefore buys fewer cars. Keeping the same style seven

THE RULES of the Inter-Scholastic League are sometimes hard for us to fathom. For instance, high school students who win money in the junior barrel race or roping events at the rodeo are disqualified from participating in ISL sports and band activities. And, if a ball player doesn't have passing grades, he can't play. We've had a few students who couldn't pass an academic subject if they took it ten times. But they can play ball. Seems a shame to prevent them from playing ball when that may be the only activity at school in which they can succeed. Of course, we know the reasons for these rules. If they weren't necessary, we reckon the Society of Cool and Hip Operators of Learning (SCHOOL) wouldn't have written them.

OUR FOUR-YEAR-OLD, Fran, was alone with her father in a cafe a while back, so she decided to count the tables in the place. When another customer came in, she stopped counting aloud. We thought that the number of tables exceeded her counting ability, so we asked her how many she counted. Being exceptionally bright, naturally, she answered, "All of them."

A LOCAL TEAM of softball players had a game here a few days ago with a team from Lamesa. The other team showed up in fancy uniforms, spiked shoes, the whole bit. The Farmer's Wife
By Libby Mudgett

WELL, NOW we know what to expect. If Ted Kennedy is President someday, that is.

Can't you just see it now? "MR. PRESIDENT, don't forget that tonight is the night the Russian Ambassador and his wife are making a formal visit to the White House."

"Joanie's going to stand in for me on that, I, er, have to attend another little, er, party that conflicts there."

"Your wife, sir? Are you sure?" "She'd better if she knows what's good for her."

"MR. PRESIDENT, sir, you simply must get up. There's riots in the East, foreign submarines off the West Coast, floods in the North, and the South has just seceded again."

"Come back in eight or nine hours. With things that serious, I'd better be sober before I try to solve anything."

"MR. PRESIDENT, I hate to rush you, but you have three more Inaugural Balls to make and we mustn't linger at this one any longer."

"I've promised another dance to that little redhead. See if you can get the Vice-President to go to the other balls for me. I, uh, may be, uh, busy later."

"MR. PRESIDENT, we hate to bring this up again, but you simply must start using your official chauffeur. The people are complaining about your daredevil driving again."

"MR. PRESIDENT, sir, I hate to call your attention to this, but the latest Gallup Poll has only 7 percent of the people approving of your personal habits while you are President."

"Get ahold of Mother and have her get those fellows to take a poll that took that one after that unpleasant little incident at Chappaquiddick Island in 1969. I like them a lot better than Gallup anytime."

"Call Robert McNamara and Ted Sorenson and have them arrange a TV production for me. I can throw myself at the mercy of the women, I mean the people. Telegrams from all over the country will flow in backing me in my desire to be free and do my own driving."

"MR. PRESIDENT, The Secret Service is complaining again that you're still trying to give them the slip. They're quite frustrated, sir."

"Not as frustrated as I am trying to get some privacy to attend a little cousinly get together once in a while."

"MR. PRESIDENT, sir, Congress feels that you owe them some explanation for being out of pocket when Red China attacked."

"I owe Congress nothing, but call McNamara and Sorenson and have them arrange another nationwide TV production for me. And tell my valet to dig out my old back brace and neck brace before we go on the air."

"MR. PRESIDENT, sir, the leaders of all the Latin countries are much concerned over your explanations of your handling of their complaints. There seems to be a lot of conflict in your statements."

"Well, tell them I'm sorry, I'm guilty, and I was confused and in a state of shock. Also call my lawyer."

"MR. PRESIDENT, sir, I'd like to have a few moments of your time to get something straightened out."

"Joanie, all you do is nag, nag, nag. I wish you'd quit believing every little flip that comes along. Why don't you take up the hems in your skirts or something?"

The Marvels of God's Creations

WHY DO FISH LIVE IN WATER? We can answer this question partially by saying: that their lungs were created to draw oxygen from the water. However, to know how and why, we must look to God's word. "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." . . . "And God said, let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life . . ."

Attend Church and worship the one who created these marvels.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Two local homemaking teachers attend meet

Two Morton High School homemaking teachers, Helen Crone and Janette Young, participated last week in the State In-Service Conference for Homemaking Teachers at the Statler-Hilton Hotel in Dallas. The meeting ran from July 28 through August 1.

The theme of the meeting was "Homemaking Education — Declaration of Purpose and Action." The week was devoted to an in-depth study of consumer education.

Principal speakers for the week were Ruth Stovall, Alabama State Supervisor of Home Economics Education; Flossie M. Byrd, dean of the School of Home Economics, Prairie View A&M; and Mary Lee Dickerson, assistant professor of home economics, San Diego (California) State College. A number of other consultants completed the conference staff.

The awards banquet of the Vocational Homemaking Teachers Association was held Wednesday night. Tenure pins were awarded to 69 members, and special recognition was given to 10 school administrators, a college trainer of homemaking teachers, and a member of the state homemaking staff for their leadership in vocational education.

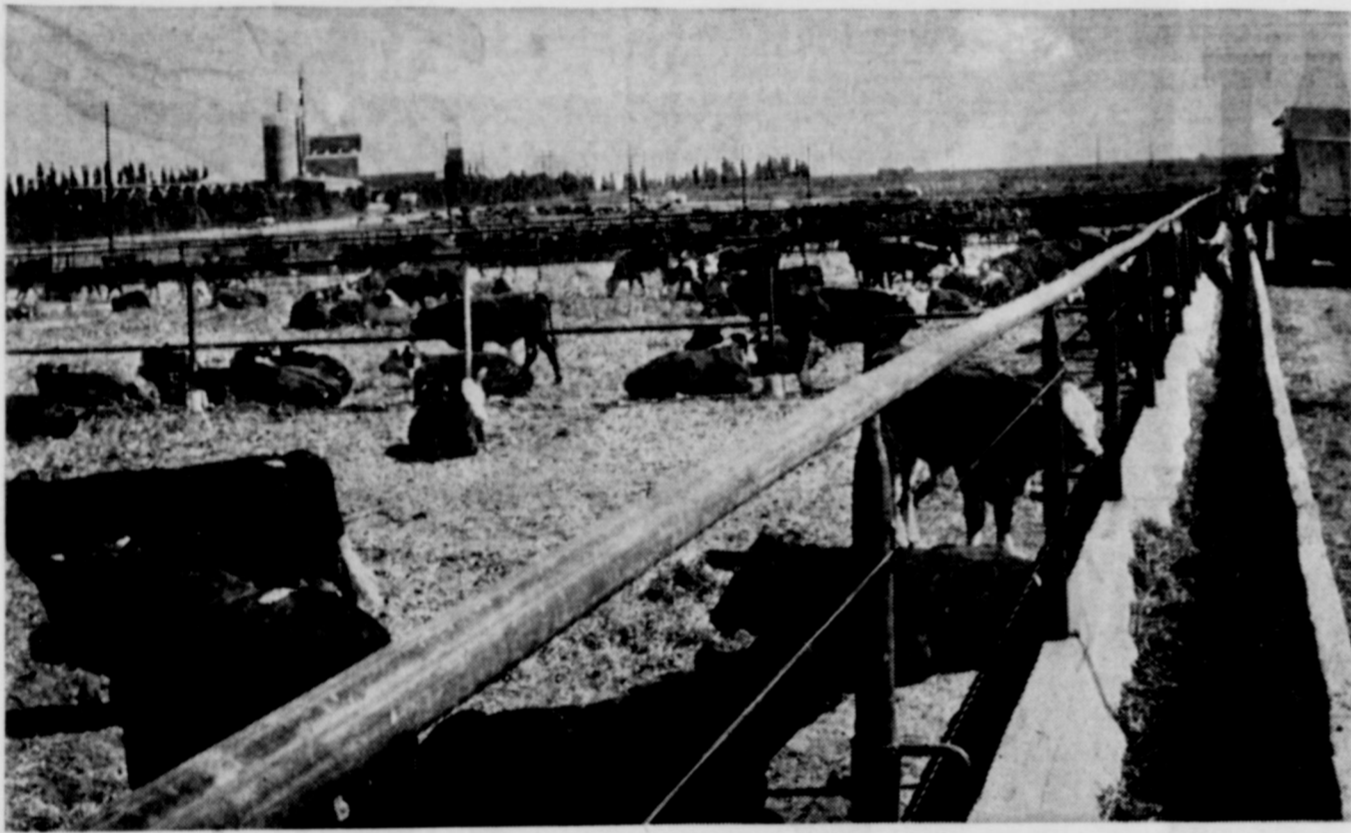

Mrs. Crone and Mrs. Young joined a group of other teachers at Lubbock and traveled to the conference by chartered bus. More than 1700 teachers attended the conference.

PURE VANDALISM . . .

A CASE OF malicious vandalism that undoubtedly took considerable time and effort on the part of the perpetrator was discovered at the county park Sunday morning when the caretaker found four of the barbecue grills substantially damaged by persons unknown. Due to their brick and mortar construction, a heavy tool of some kind was necessary to cause so much damage, Sheriff Hazel Hancock stated after viewing the damage. A full investigation is underway by the sheriff's office and "we think we have a pretty good idea who is responsible," the sheriff said.

Campfire Girls return from week at camp

Morton Campfire Girls returned last Friday afternoon after having spent five days at Scott Abel Camp in the mountains of New Mexico. There were 42 girls and a number of adult leaders in the group, according to Mrs. Daniel Rozell, Camp Director.

The girls and their leaders travelled to the mountains on July 28 in a school bus. Activities at the camp included hikes, led by Rheda Brown and Janella Nebhut; sports activities, led by Mrs. Gary Williamson; and handicrafts, led by Mrs. Bob Travis.

Refreshments for the campers were sent by the Campfire Leaders Association, whose members recently painted rodeo-advertising pictures on the windows of Morton businesses to earn money for the project.

Skits were presented on Tuesday and Wednesday nights for entertainment. A "Band from Hippie Land" on Wednesday night, made up of Granville Lasseter, Leroy Owens, Travis Owens, Daniel Rozell, and Johnny Rozell, proved to be popular with the girls.

Camp Director Mrs. Daniel Rozell, assisted by Miss Brown, Miss Nebhut, Karen Rozell, and Karen Fred, conducted a campfire ceremonial on Thursday night. The various grade levels of Campfire Girls took part, and each girl was presented with a camp honor badge designed by Mrs. Travis.

Others who assisted during the week in various ways included Mrs. James Dewbre; Mrs. Bob Polvado, Mrs. Earl Polvado, Mrs. Don Lynskey, Mrs. Owens, Mrs. Lasseter, Mrs. Raymond Hall, Sharon Hall, and Mrs. Deryl Bennett.

The returning campers were escorted into Morton Friday afternoon by Morton police, and the parents of the girls met them at the courthouse square.

of Harman's works, two in Cochran Memorial Hospital and two in the Dean home. "Grub Time" and "Way Station" hang in the hospital. The latter work formerly hung in the Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City. In the Dean home are "Home Again" and "High in the Saddle" by Harman. The Harmans, who live in Albuquerque, are personal friends of the Deans.

Also included in the "Dean" collection are two works by Porfirio Salinas, who is famous for his paintings of bluebonnets and other features of the Southwest. The late Speaker Sam Rayburn had Salinas' "Texas Bluebonnet Time" in his collection and the Lyndon Johnsons have Salinas' "Autumn in the Hill Country," so the works of Salinas are seen in many prestigious collections in Texas.

The Deans have one of Salinas' specialties, "Bluebonnets," in their home; his "Padre Island" hangs in the hospital.

One palette-knife oil by Windberg and a number of works by area artists, including nurse Shirley Richardson, art teacher Mrs. Black, both of Muleshoe, and Jerry Roberts of Littlefield, round out the Deans' collection of originals.

Mrs. Dean stated that it was the desire of her and the doctor to share the beauty of their collection with others which motivated them to display some of the works in the bank and in the hospital.

Cochran County residents are fortunate to have access to such fine works of art as those displayed in Morton through the courtesy of the bank, Mr. and Mrs. Benham, and Dr. and Mrs. Dean.
