Finding may answer UFO question

(EDITOR'S NOTE:--The following story was written by Joyce Wrinkle of the Levelland Sun News staff following her and others investigation of a giant balloon found by hunters in southwestern Cochran county. Since it occurred in Cochran county, the Tribune asked and was granted permission to use the story and picture. As of this writing, there has been reported another downed balloon of similar size near Levelland. It is reported to be of a flesh color).

By Joyce Wrinkle
The possibility of "UFO's" (unidentified flying objects) reported in our area lately could very likely have been experimental balloons, according to Lubbock weather meteorologists and other balloon specialists.

The Sun News and Morton Tribune have received a number of reports of "strange flying objects" in the Hockley and Cochran county areas.

Maybe the strange sightings were of an experimental balloon found Saturday by three local men on a hunting trek south of Bledsoe. The balloon, which reaches the size of a 10-15 story building, is used by several experimental agencies, including the U.S. Government.

According to Lubbock Weather Bureau Meteorologists Larry Peabody and Alan Johnson, the balloon was one used in scientific experiments. It is used at White Sands, Holloman Air Force Base in New Mexico, and the National Balloon Research Institution at Palestine, Texas, among others.

Following a report of the downed balloon, Sun News staff members Ruby Martin and Joyce Wrinkle checked out the information. The plastic material was too heavy to move around, so they returned to Levelland, notified the Weather Bureau in Lubbock, seeking information as to what the plastic could be.

The Weather Bureau dispatched Peabody and Johnson to check on the remains of the balloon. Bruce Kenley returned to the scene along with the men and Sun News staff members.

The five found no evidence to show where the balloon had been launched from or what it was used for in the beginning.

The balloon was made of light-weight plastic, similar to that used by dry cleaners. It had a strong nylon thread running through it at intervals, making it unbreakably strong. The balloon was attached to a heavy weight which was cut off, and a large piece is here at the Sun News Office. A tube was found, made of stronger plastic. This is used to inflate the balloon, according to officials.

According to a Palestine research specialist the balloon could have been used to

WHAT COULD BE THE ANSWER to all the UFO (unidentified flying objects) sightings made on the South Plains recently was found in the sandhills of southwestern Cochran county by three Levelland hunters Saturday. The one above is a huge experimental balloon, which when inflated is as tall as a 10-15 story building. At press time a second balloon of similar size and reportedly of a flesh color was reported to have been located a few miles from Levelland. Is this the answer?

MRS. JOSE FLORES surveys some of her household effects which were saved from a sudden fire in her home on the John Wheeler in five miles east of Morton Wednesday morning. The fire apparently spread from burning grease on the kitchen stove and caused extensive damage to the kitchen and living room. Morton volunteer firemen brought the blaze under control within a few minutes and held the damage to an unofficial estimate of $700.

SPC homecoming activities varied

Homecoming and Parents' Day at South Plains College will offer a variety of activities for students, faculty and alumni.

On Thursday, Nov. 8, an intramural rodeo will begin at 3 p.m. in the rodeo arena, followed by an all-college talent show at 8 p.m. in the SPC auditorium. To boost the spirit

OFFICERS OF THE SANDYLAND GRAPE ASSOCIATION are now going over the tally sheet of county farmers who have signed with the association to commit themselves to a certain amount acreage for growing grapes in this area. It was recently announced by officials of a Texas Tech experimental farm that the Cochran county area is ideal for growing both wine and table grapes. The association was formed for the purpose of promoting the growing of grapes with the object in mind of getting a winery to cater here. With several farmers adding their names to the rolls at a meeting held Monday morning, the goal of a 200 acre commitment was close to reality. Left to right are Donald Bales, association president; Dan Keith, secretary and George Martin, vice-president.

Countians affluence rising

According to a nationwide survey of income levels and income distribution, most Cochran County families have made significant gains in the last few years.

As a result, more of them than ever before are now in the middle and upper brackets. By the same token, there are fewer in the lower brackets.

The upward shift has been noted all along the line. Many local families who were in the $5,000 to $10,000 group formerly are now at the over-$10,000 level. Their former spots have been occupied, in turn, by families who had been in the $5,000 to $8,000 category.

The changes have been recorded in a special study released by Sales Management, a marketing publication. Its copy-righted report analyzes each community to determine what segments of its population fall within each income grouping.

The purpose of the study was to obtain a clearer picture of family earnings and buying power in each area that was afforded through its "average income" figure by itself.

It sheds light on whether that average is enjoyed by a large part of the population or whether it represents a small proportion with big incomes offsetting a large number with

BY BILL SAYERS

As the witching season again, with the moon just around the corner and the old Daylight Saving Time in its waning hours, the former we look forward in child-like anticipation—to the latter, with a further adue, we wish to congratulate and express our appreciation to the Emlea Smith, Jr. Club for their sponsorship once again of the Halloween Carnival to be held in the George Seagler building on the corner of 1st and 2nd streets.

They have presented an outstanding party for the past several years—an event that undoubtedly has prevented some unfortunate incidents had our attention not been diverted to the street mischief of the really some fun of the carnival. Girls, especially, congratulations and keep up the good work. If there is any way we can help, let us know; and we are sure that this for many other firms and individuals in the community.

I confess to having lifted the party from the Publishers' Party—who in turn lifted it from a paper.

Why This For A Classified Ad?

The boat and motor disappeared from the boat at Moosehead Lake. I send the boat breaks in half in the lake and that your mother is successful in attracting help as she hangs along the shore.

Sandyland Grape Association met at the Tic Toc Restaurant Monday and transacted a considerable amount of business. The grape prospects in Cochran county area holds a great deal of promise and it behooves the farmer and businessman to study this possibly highly profitable new crop venture very closely. There may be hidden obstacles not immediately apparent, but as of now, the prospects for a very lucrative new crop here looks very bright.

MINN., RECORD—We have been told that the element is going to put a lot of money in the pocket and... rumor has it that it is named the "Civil Servant"... you are it... it won't work... and it'll cost you a fortune.

How lucky can we get?—The redistricting of Congressional districts in the state of Texas has rearranged Mahon's and Cong. Burleson's districts where Mahon loses all of Lynn and a portion of Dawson county to Burleson.

It could have been Cochran county! How would you feel if you lost probably the most influential Congressman in the House from your district through a "lipput" deal like that? Well, that's how the citizens of Lynn and Dawson counties feel also.

By this we mean no disrespect to Cong. Burleson.

Let us thank our fortunes that Cong. Mahon is still one of "Cochran County's Own" and we hope he will be for many, many years to come. He is without a doubt a rock of integrity that the present government, in its trials and turmoil, can look to for firm advice and council that can direct the nation back upon the course our forefathers set for us when they formed this most perfect of all governments.

Cong. Mahon and other men of his stature in Congress, will see us through this crisis—there is a thing said about such situations: In times of crisis, some strong, selfless person always comes to the front—and another that says: Good men will always respond to unusual responsibilities thrust upon them in times of national stress.

Let's have a little faith—as long as we have people like George Mahon in the Congress—and there must be many more Congressman Burleson included, — we can have faith that the right thing will be done.

The report shows that, in Cochran County, some 52.5 percent of the households and disposable cash incomes of $5,000 or more last year after paying their personal taxes.

By way of comparison, the proportion was larger than in many sections of the country.

Since the survey is concerned solely with cash income, farm families do not appear to their best advantage, as no adjustments are made for the income-in-kind that is available on farms.

The Cochran County breakdown shows the position of each group of local households on the income scale. It lists 19.4 per cent of them with net cash incomes of $5,000 to $8,000. Another 8.8 percent are at the $8,000 to $10,000 level and 24.3 percent above $10,000. The rest are below $5,000 net.

Just how much better off people are with their higher incomes is a question. There are indications that inflation has wiped away nearly all the recent gains.

gainer scientific data from 90 to 140,000 feet high, or it could have been used in some experiment at White Sands or Holleman Air Force Base in New Mexico.

This type of balloon is also used to lift the re-entry vehicle used by the Apollo Space program, Peabody stated.

Gene DeFreee, with the National Balloon Research Institution in Palestine, Texas said his company used the balloons to obtain scientific information for universities and other agencies.

He further stated that his company usually recovered all their balloons, so he felt this one wasn't theirs.

The Palestine-based company hasn't launched a balloon that would come our way in the past 6 to 8 weeks, according to DeFreee. When the summer winds are right, some of their balloons would reach the Levelland area, DeFreee said.

The balloons can move at speeds of 60 to 80 mph and would appear to be a bright gold, then turning red as the sunlight hits them, at sunrise and sunset, DeFreee said.

Other officials questioned said the balloons would reflect light from the ground while some said, "no."

But local residents have seen something strange in the skies over Cochran and Hockley counties lately.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

What to do with 11 million tons of municipal refuse each year? Bury it? Shred it? Burn it? Recycle it? These are just a few of the alternatives open to municipalities throughout the state of Texas, says the State Health Department.

While activity in the past has been devoted primarily to getting rid of refuse in the most convenient, healthful and inexpensive way, the attitude these days is toward recycling or use of waste products.

"Resource recovery" is a term being used by environmentalists in the field of solid waste to encompass their efforts. Much research and action is underway to make possible the recovery of our once-used resources.

Some of these projects will be under consideration October 24-26 at the State Health Department in Austin when a statewide seminar is held on solid waste management, water supplies and sewage disposal.

Most of us are aware of recycling efforts in various fields. Aluminum and glass beverage containers are being collected and recycled. Waste paper is being reused. Some metals are being sifted out of refuse and used again. The time may come when you'll be driving down the street in a car made partially from your recycled refrigerator, or maybe washing clothes in a machine which was once your kitchen range. It may seem far-fetched, but it isn't impossible.

Throughout Texas today, research engineers and scientists are trying to untangle the mass of solid waste which accumulates at five pounds per person each day.

In Houston, for example, a salvage company is reclaiming metal and paper.

At a plant in East Texas, compost is made through a process which uses ground up refuse and sewage sludge to produce an acceptable conditioner for the soil.

In Odessa, they're hoping to make the desert rangeland bloom by removing metals from municipal refuse, grinding the waste and tilling it into the soil to retain moisture and stimulate growth of vegetation.

An operation at Galveston is grinding up the city's solid waste, recovering the ferrous metal and spreading the milled refuse on the ground, a final cover of dirt will eventually be applied to the landfill.

Some research is centered toward burning combustible refuse as a fuel resource. And, glass bottles are being ground up for use in highway roadbeds.

By far the largest amount of solid waste in Texas is being covered up in sanitary landfills—a practice which in these days is being frowned upon since valuable resources are going unclaimed. Economics and expedience are factors in this practice. There will always be a need for some landfills, however, since not all wastes can be recycled.

Before World War II and for some time thereafter, the principal concern for solid waste was the health implications which result from poor garbage and trash disposal practices. The decades of the fifties and sixties were times of increasing concern for air and water pollution, and solid waste was recognized as the source for some of the pollution.

Today, concern for the health aspects of waste management continues; pollution control efforts currently are being accelerated; but environmental resource management is just on the threshold of realization.

Riding around yesterday's discarded metal, as mentioned earlier, isn't as faraway as you might think. For every 100 automobiles manufactured today in the United States, 85 old ones are recovered and recycled.

Most constituents of solid waste—steel, aluminum, glass, rubber, paper—if separated and cleaned, could be used as easily as virgin materials, and at great savings to our natural resources. For instance, 17 trees get the axe for every ton of paper milled. Twenty percent of raw material requirements for paper is recovered from paper wastes, saving about 200 million trees per year. Savings of virgin materials is being realized through the recycling of other materials.

The fight against solid waste pollution isn't something to be left entirely to the government and manufacturers. Here are some things that you can do, says the State Health Department:

- Use only returnable bottles.
- Don't buy products that have unnecessary packaging.
- Carry a litter bag in your car and boat. Empty it only in proper receptacles.
- Reuse paper bags, containers and plastic bags.
- Use your ashtray—not the car window. Better still, don't smoke.
- Flatten containers before discarding them to cut down on bulk.
- Help organize and participate in regular paper, glass and metal campaigns in your community.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Compiled From Sources Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

More For Your Money...Turkey Breeders Plan Increases...Milk Production Declines...Cattle, Calf, Sheep Sales Above Year Ago.

When you visit the State Fair of Texas at Dallas this year, be sure and visit the Food and Fiber Pavilion. There, you will be able to find out how to get the most out of your food dollar.

The Texas Department of Agriculture will again be in charge of the Pavilion this year for the fourth consecutive year. Almost 1,000,000 persons annually have visited the Pavilion in the past three years. It is expected the number of visitors this year will exceed 1,000,000.

On display will be ways the consumer can get the most for the food dollar. Cooking demonstrations will be given to show how to prepare food on a cost per serving basis. Recipes will also be available to help you prepare economical yet tasty dishes.

In addition to Texas food products on display you can see a variety of ways in which you can use Texas-produced fibers, too.

A number of private companies and commodity organizations will have displays as well.

TURKEY production should show some good increases in the coming year, according to figures released by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Texas turkey breeders' intentions to market as of Sept. 1 increased 26 per cent from the January 1973 inventory for all breeds.

Turkey breeder flock owners in the 26 major turkey-producing states report at the beginning of the 1974 hatching season they expected to keep 15 per cent more breeder hens than the previous year. Flock owners also expect to increase heavy breed flocks by 15 per cent and plan to increase light breeds 18 per cent.

A word of caution, however; these are intentions only and can change due to feed, supply and price of hatching eggs and poults as well as prices received for turkeys during the next few months.

Milk production in Texas during August is one per cent below the 1972 production and three per cent less than the previous month's production. Nationwide, milk production is four per cent less than a year earlier.

One of the reasons for the decline in production can be seen in the milk-feed price ratio. It was down 34 per cent from a year ago and is the lowest since August 1947. Last year's ratio was the highest since 1968, pointing up the increased costs of production for dairy producers.

During August, the number of milk cows nationwide dropped three per cent. Some dairy groups are warning that a definite shortage of milk will be felt by the consumers as early as November.

SALES of cattle, calves, and sheep in Texas were above levels of a year earlier while sales of goats and hogs declined.

Is now the time to buy land?

Acquiring that farm might seem more practical with financing through the Federal Land Bank. Land is easier to pay off when costs are amortized over extra years with a long-term Land Bank Loan. Your total cost of borrowing, too, can be less. Ask us for help: We know land values; we will inspect the property. We will then try to make a loan that meets your exact needs.

ALFRED B. CAMP

Alfred Camp to observe 100th birthday

Alfred B. Camp will celebrate his 100th birthday Friday. Members of the Emlea Smith Junior Study Club are helping make it a special day by hosting a reception for all those wishing to come and bring their "best wishes" for many more. The reception will be held at Roberts Memorial Nursing Home from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m.

The reception will also honor Mrs. Florence Evans who will be celebrating her 82nd birthday. Mrs. Evans and her husband, George, who celebrated his 92nd birthday last month are also residents of the home.

Camp has lived here since August of this year. Prior to then, he lived with his daughter Mrs. Erma Gentry in Tucumcari, N.M. He was born October 26, 1873 in Penola County. In 1908 he filed a claim west of Nara Vista and lived there until 1916. He was a railroad engineer for forty years, retiring in 1938 and was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers for 65 years.

He and the late Mary Kemp were married in 1897. They have two daughters, eight grandchildren; five great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren.

"We are excited and honored to have a part in this celebration and are most anxious for everyone to come and make it a day Mr. Camp will remember," Mrs. Dwin Hester, chairman for the club, stated, in issuing an invitation for all area residents to attend.

The performance of High Plains "discount" cottons in open-end spinning tests drew high interest from a majority of 25 cotton textile mill representatives visiting Lubbock October 14 and 15 from Europe and the Far East as guests of the Lubbock Cotton Exchange and Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

The Lubbock stop was part of the group's orientation tour of the U.S. cotton belt sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Foreign Agriculture Service, the National Cotton Council and Cotton Council International.

Donald Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President, was coordinator of the High Plains activities which included calls at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center north of Lubbock and the Textile Research Center at Texas Tech University.

At the Texas A&M facility the textile and trade association executives had an explanation of narrow and conventional row cotton production and the economics of one-over stripper harvesting, plus a narration on the effects of temperatures on cotton quality.

Textile Research Center personnel provided a guided tour of spinning, weaving, knitting and finishing activities and a demonstration of the instrument cotton classing line in operation there.

Although open-end spinning frames ordered by TRC have not yet arrived, TRC has supervised testing of High Plains cotton on the relatively new open-end system in the Southeast, and knowledge of this fact brought a barrage of questions from the visitors.

Stressing that results were "preliminary," Jack Towery, TRC's Head of Mechanical Processing, showed charts which indicated that low micronaire cottons may actually be superior to "premium" micronaire cottons in the formation of lower count yarns on the open-end system. Greater yarn strength and better uniformity of yarn were the primary advantages shown from the low micronaire tests.

To this Albert H.Y. Chang, managing director of Nam Hwa Textiles, Ltd. of Hong Kong said "If these test results are confirmed it will call for new study by open-end mills to see if cheaper cottons can successfully replace the raw materials now in use." Similar comment was made by others of the group.

Open-end spinning requires considerably less labor than does conventional ring spinning and four members from areas with high labor costs all expressed interest.

Towery assured the group that additional testing will soon be in progress on two open-end spinning frames due for delivery at Tech within a few weeks and that results will be widely distributed. One of the frames was donated to Tech by the Plains Cotton Cooperative Oil Mill to expedite open-end research.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Bar Value of Housewife

How much is a housewife in dollars and cents? This is a question that comes up every day in our courtrooms. Every day a housewife has died in an accident and her family is left with damages, some amounting to thousands of dollars. The amount for her dollar value—the value of her services—has been lost because of her death.

In most cases, the key issue is how much it would cost to substitute a housekeeper to do approximately the same work as necessary. Sometimes the work is broken down into the functions that the deceased has been performing.

was higher because the woman helped her husband in his plumbing business; in another, because she worked part-time as a bus driver; in another, because she gave special nursing to her ailing child.

Does the law allow compensation also for the "society, care, and attention" she gave to her husband and children? Some courts do, on the theory that these too are "services" with a price.

Other courts, however, don't go that far, saying such benefits are too intangible to be measured in money.

Furthermore, factors that may be plus in one situation may be minus in another. In one case an award of $75,000 was held too high, largely because the woman had functioned at a below-average level in family matters. She had been on unfriendly terms with her husband, and, because of her own frailties, had played only a minor role in the upbringing of their children.

A public service feature of the American Bar Association and the State Bar of Texas. Written by Will Bernard.

For example, an award may be based on such items (per hour) as 10 hours of services as a housewife, 7 hours of services as a waitress, 10 hours of services as a babysitter, 2 hours of services as a bookkeeper, and so on.

Suppose, for instance, the deceased was exceptionally capable in her domestic duties. That could increase her value. Thus, the dollar value of a housewife—killed in an auto accident—was held to be higher than average because she made the family clothing and considerable produce in her backyard garden.

In another case, the figure

Every time you spend a dollar at home for goods and service, a substantial part of that dollar automatically becomes an investment in an enriched social and business life for you and your family and friends.
