Mutilated animals found in county

Paralleling reports in other areas

At first it was cows. Now it's dogs that are being killed and mutilated.

Real estate investor Sam V. Snell of San Antonio said Tuesday he stumbled upon the carcass of an expertly skinned dog. The dog was strung by its hind legs to a barbed wire fence, its blood had been drained and its genitals removed.

Cows have been slaughtered in much the same fashion in Texas and other parts of the Midwest and Southwest. Theories on the killings range anywhere from a cult of devil worshippers to visitors from another planet.

Two cases of the apparent mutilations have been investigated by Morton and area veterinarian Bob Lawdermilk.

Dr. Lawdermilk indicated that one case of mutilations was in eastern Cochran County and the other case was in northwestern Cochran County.

"The cases were clean cuts involving 500 to 600 pound steer and a 1000 pound steer. The smaller steer was found missing its scrotum and the larger animal was absent its lower lip and tongue," Lawdermilk said.

He said the cases were investigated by himself approximately two weeks ago before he had heard anything about the other mutilations around the country. "I thought it was rather strange that the parts missing were the only ones gone. I could not understand why the whole carcass in both cases was not taken," he said.

Lawdermilk said he did not investigate too deeply and carry out complete autopsies because the carcasses were "too far gone for a complete tissue study."

Snell's discovery was the second in less than a week in the same area.

Snell said if a Satanist group removed the hide from a dog he found its members must have been expert skinners.

"This is the strangest sight I've ever seen," he said "I've lived on the farm all my life and I've seen animals butchered. I've THOUGH APPEARANCES INDICATE OTHERWISE, this accident which took place at SW 4th and Taylor Tuesday evening could be deemed fortunate as there were no apparent injuries to persons in either car. The collision occurred when Mrs. Sharon Ellis was driving west on Taylor and Earnest Evans was proceeding north of 4th and they met in the intersection. The force of the impact forced them both over the curb where the Ellis car struck that unyielding tree. Mrs. Ellis was cited for failure to yield right of way.

RC&D representatives hold Levelland meet

Representatives of six counties involved in the Sandyland Resource Conservation and Development project, met Saturday, February 8 at the Levelland State Bank in Levelland. The committee is in the process of submitting an application to the administrator of the Soil Conservation Service in Washington for assistance to the Sandyland Resource Conservation and Development project.

This project has been in the process since May of 1971, and has now reached the point for official application. The next step in the process is a draft application, which was completed Saturday during the meeting.

The completed draft application will be presented to the South Plains Association of Governments office for review and comment. Comments are expected to be received within approximately thirty days. The comments from the SPAG offices will be incorporated into a final draft of the application. The draft will be returned to the same committee for review again, then will be sent to the overall executive committee of the

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

By Bill Clayton

The need for this session of the Legislature to pass some form of school finance reform bill has been widely reported for months. It is the one issue everyone agrees will receive top priority.

Because of its importance, I believe the questions we will be considering in committees during the next four months should be thoroughly presented to the public.

Therefore, it is my goal to try to familiarize you with the past role Texas has played in school finance and what we will be considering this session.

A review of the recent history of public school finance in Texas shows that recent court decisions have greatly affected the significant role the Legislature must take in this area.

In 1971 a federal district court held unanimously in the case of Rodriguez vs. The San Antonio Independent School District that the Texas system of financing public schools violated the federal and state constitutions.

The court said that depending heavily on local ad valorem taxes for financing schools made the quality of a child's education dependent on the wealth of his parents and neighbors.

However, in 1973 the U. S. Supreme Court reversed that decision saying it recognized the apparent inequities of the Texas system but could not agree with the lower court that the judicial system should take the responsibility of making school financing equitable.

Furthermore, the Supreme Court said that this responsibility clearly lay with the Texas Legislature. It was shortly thereafter that the Legislature, Governor and many interested groups began researching this problem.

The task of creating a sound school finance system is extremely complex. Inadequacies presently exist in the way money is raised and in the way it is dispersed. This session we will need to take into account that proposals striving to make the system fair do not interfere with the rights of local communities. Nor should we interfere with a taxpayer's ability to survive economically.

Some of the questions we will have to consider this session are:

—What pupil populations will be recognized for funding? In other words, will students in different grades and types of programs like vocational and special education be funded differently? The Governor has offered what he terms a weighted pupil approach to solve this problem. All considerations along this line should be given close examination.

—What type of student attendance figures will be used to determine the amount of state subsidy given to a local community? The question here is whether to remain with an average daily attendance figure or move to some other means of determining a formula for state share.

—What types of staffs and staff salaries should school districts have? Presently wealthier communities have greater flexibility because they have more money to attract highly qualified people.

—What is considered a fair tax effort on the part of the local community? And should the local property tax assessments be regulated by uniform state standards?

—Will the Foundation School Program be financed from state or local revenues? This actually boils down to what percentage of public school financing should be the state's and what should be local?

—To what extent can a school district raise money to enrich school programs above the minimum Foundation School Program? The obvious question to follow this one is how can we better equalize the amount of money rich and poor districts raise.

It is my hope that we will look long and hard at any proposal that restricts a local community's right to control the amount of local money it wishes to spend on making their school system the best it can be.

The last consideration is whether a full market value tax assessment be placed on farm, ranch and timber land. I believe the approach we took in the Constitutional Convention in Finance Article VIII is a fair one. The article states that all real property and tangible personal property must be taxed equally and uniformly in proportion to market value. However, farm, ranch and timber land would fall under separate formulas so not to overly tax people with land in production.

Of course, these are not all the considerations, but I feel they are the main ones. All of them will have to be aired thoroughly, and hopefully with your input, we will come up with a solid piece of legislation.

There will be many bills and proposals introduced to the Public Education Committee, and I'm sure the best parts will be taken from each to make a public school finance bill that will provide the children of this state with equal educational opportunities.

I want to stress to you that the problems facing us will not be fully solved this session, or next session, or the session after that. Public school financing will be an issue that requires updating and revision for years to come. However, I hope we can come up with a flexible and durable plan that will allow us to build on it in future years.

For J.D. Oliver &
Breaking Plows

In our exchange papers this week we noticed two things of special interest — the old "one piece of good news and one of bad" — that come from Big Spring and Olton.

First the good news: Big Spring is planning to paint all their fire plugs in the form of Continental Soldiers in celebration of our nation's bi-centennial. This is just one of the things the town is planning. (Wouldn't you hate to see a Minuteman fall victim to a poole on a leash?)

Now the bad news: "Tiny bits of red and white remain along with the charred gilt eagle from the flagpole staff lie in ashes on the smoked floor of the Boy Scout House in Olton. These are remnants of the burned American flag that is just a small portion of the vandalism that took place in the building this week."

This is a quote from the Olton Enterprise after vandals wrecked the Boy Scout hut and burned their flag last week. It strikes us as a sad commentary on the times. We didn't think flag burnings could take place in West Texas.

Mrs. Walden rites Friday

Services for Mrs. Laura Walden, 68, will be held at the First Baptist Church in Morton at 2 p.m. Friday with Rev. Paul McClung, Pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the City of Lubbock Cemetery under direction of Singleton Funeral Home.

Mrs. Walden died at 8:45 a.m. Wednesday in Roberts Memorial Nursing Home.

Survivors are two sons, Robert Yeary of Morton and Glenn Yeary of Houston; three brothers, Ray Hudson, of Morton; Kay Hudson, of San Angelo and Euell Hudson, of Stratford, California; five sisters; Mrs. Ella Boone, of Duncan, Oklahoma; Mrs. Blanche Robinson of Burns Flat, Oklahoma; Mrs. Ethel Dinwiddle, of Carlsbad, New Mexico; Mrs. Myrtle Britton of Phoenix, Arizona and Mrs. Stella Rodgers, of Shafter, California; and four grandchildren.

Local student pledges McMurry social club

Joe Roberts Greene son of Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Greene of P.O. Box 341 is among the 44 men who have signed bids to pledge social clubs this spring at McMurry College in Abilene, Texas.

"There are 12 social clubs at McMurry," says Dr. Alan Staley, dean of student life at McMurry. "These are founded upon democratic principles and are dedicated to the promotion of wholesome social activities."

Bob Greene is a 1973 graduate of Morton High School.

The social club tradition at McMurry is almost as old as the college itself, which was established in 1923, and celebrated its 50th anniversary year last year.

McMurry College is liberal arts college which belongs to the Northwest Texas and New Mexico Annual Conferences of the United Methodist Church.

Cottonseed Cake vs Range Cubes
Fed lb. for lb. range cubes are about 20% more efficient than cake. Why? Cake is crude protein. To change crude protein to digestible protein takes starch. Starch comes from grain. So a cow getting cake must take starch from the grass to make this change, where a cow on range cubes containing grain has this starch. Also cake is about 12% fiber where range cubes are about 6%. Cake is short on vit. A - range cubes has this added. Calf weaning wts. on range cubes are higher & the % of cows bred back are greater on cubes than cake. The above has been proved many times from many different sources. So if cake is $100 per ton good range cubes are worth about 120.00.

Club elects Shower honors new officers Mrs. Johnson

The Exploring Foods Club met in the home of Mrs. Harvey Blackstone on Thursday, February 6.

Lisa Zuber was elected president, Sara McClung, committee chairman and Shanna Blackstone, reporter.

The group made Strawberry milk and Moonburgers. Those present and giving demonstrations were: Sara McClung, Donna Zuber, Renee Bell, Shanna Blackstone, Gena McClung, Lisa Zuber and Rhonda Abbe who helped the girls with their four food group studies.

Adult project leaders for the group are Mrs. M.L. Abbe and Mrs. Harvey Blackstone.

CEASE-FIRE HAILED

On Feb. 1, 1973, Premier Chou En-lai hailed the Vietnam cease-fire agreement as a great victory for China's Vietnamese allies.

An afternoon gift tea honoring Mrs. David Johnson, the former Leslie Taylor, was given recently in the home of Mrs. E.C. White, south of Whiteface.

"Pre-Plant Irrigation"

Pre irrigation is a practice used to insure adequate moisture at planting time. This moisture is usually needed to sprout seed and provide continuous growth until the root system meets the ground water or spring rains begin. The amount of water needed is determined by the soil, and crops to be grown.

This water needs to be managed just as regular irrigation "sets." Caution should be exercised to prevent puddling and to keep water out of bar ditches. This water should be applied with an adapted irrigation method. Water should be applied at a rate that the soil and plants can use it. The producer must control the steam and length of "set" so as to prevent erosion and minimize water losses.

Pre planting practices are used on all land that is suitable for irrigation and an adequate

"Thou wilt show me the path of life... in thy presence is fulness of joy..."
PSALM 16:11

HERE IS THE PATH

shall love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself.
Luke 10:27

The basis of God's first and greatest commandment is love. God gave man the freedom to choose... and therefore will not force his love on anyone. God took the first step and is always ready to receive any who would come to Him.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this, grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

THE SCIENTISTS TELL ME ...

By Robert L. Haney, Science Writer

We May See Vintage Wines Made in Texas

Texas has considerable potential for producing commercial wine grapes according to preliminary research results. Growth of U. S. wine consumption, and its resultant interest in grape growing here, is justified expanding grape research. If wine grapes could be successfully produced in Texas, they would provide a significant new source of income.

Possibilities vary widely in the state according to Ron Perry, Experiment Station horticulture researcher. "Injurious temperatures and diseases seem to be the primary limiting factors to successful grape growing in Texas," Perry says. But hail, wrong soil type, poor water quality or lack of water can also limit grape growing in some parts of the state.

Diseases such as Pierce's disease and cotton root rot are major drawbacks to grape growing in some parts of Texas, according to Perry. No feasible control has yet been found for either disease. At present, where Pierce's disease is a problem, growers can set out southeastern muscadine varieties such as Hunt, Scuppernon, Pride and a few American bunch grapes known to be resistant. Researchers are working to Station and the Extension Service are testing several grape varieties in various parts of the state. These varieties will be judged for yield and quality of fermented and unfermented juice.

Potential of grape production in Texas looks good. We know they can be grown here; they have been in the past. In earlier days, Texas had as many as 30 Class B wineries; Del Rio has the only commercial one today. (A Class B winery grows all its own grapes. A Class A winery buys all or most of its grapes from other vineyards.)

Now, let's focus on one area of Texas and see what's being done there. A great deal of interest in wine grape production has developed in the South Plains area. According to Dr. William Lipe, plant physiologist at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) at Lubbock, there are three organized groups in the area making tentative plans for wineries in the next few years. About 50,000 vines of several varieties were planted in 1974. The Lubbock Center began trials on grapes in 1968 and in cooperation with the Abernathy Chamber of Commerce. This research has expanded until 1983 as a much sought-after vintage wine.

Who knows, we may one day see a "Texas Champanel" after vintage wine. Editor's Note - Any questions regarding this column should be addressed to Science Writer, Dept. of Agricultural Communications, Texas A & M University, College Station, Texas 77843.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

AS HEARD BY HEARD

A Worthwhile Production

As every editor knows, the Federal government is most prolific in turning out reams of materials: film, and booklets espousing some program or other.

However, the United States Department of Commerce has now produced a 27 minute color film on the energy situation which should provoke from every citizen serious thought on the subject of conservation. This film is available to any group for showing by contacting the local office of the Department of Commerce.

The National Federation of Independent Business has taken a strong interest in this problem of future energy supplies. A special survey conducted by this organization by a group of economists has indicated that almost 12 per cent of the nation's 5,700,000 independent enterprises would have to dismiss employees if their supplies of gasoline or diesel fuels are reduced. On this basis, unemployment would zoom. Wilson Johnson, president of NFIB is a member of the National Industrial Energy Conservation Council.

What makes this particular film outstanding is that it traces the history of the use of energy, and the current demands as well as the conservative projected demands for the next twenty-five years.

It also recognizes that there are legitimate environmental

Why gamble on a herbicide that's not made for sandy soils?

Now you can get one that is.

SANCAP.® It's made specially for your sandy soils. It's made for cotton on your land.

You can forget about experimenting with rates to adjust for sandy soils. Just follow the recommendations, and you'll get weed control you can depend on—without injuring your cotton.

You'll get control of the most troublesome weeds in this area—carelessweed and Russian thistle.

And you can forget about moisture loss due to incorporation. Just apply Sancap at planting, or within two days after.

Then watch your cotton come through, clean and healthy. No more experiments. No more mistakes.

Because now you've got a herbicide for sandy soils.

Tips on Wood Finishing

HOW TO MATCH TRIM TO PANELING

Prefinished wood paneling is quick and easy to install but it's not always easy to find matching moldings and trim. The only alternative is to buy unfinished trim and stain it to match the paneling.

The best bet for achieving a professional result at minimum cost is to use wood finishes that can be mixed with each other to lighten or darken the tone.

Most stores will have actual finished wood samples to help you come close to the color you want. Always choose the color closest to your paneling but slightly darker. Then, by adding a "neutral" or "natural" wood finish, you will be able to lighten the tone to match your paneling perfectly.

These and many other hints are contained in a 16-page booklet, "Tips on Wood Finishing." For a free copy, write Minwax Company, Inc., Dept. AV, 41 Oak Street, Clifton, New Jersey 07014.
