Cotton Forecast Spins Rosy Picture

THEY DON'T MESS AROUND--But they do an awful lot of fiddlin'. The three stalwart bow pushers above downed all competition in taking the first three places in the Last Frontier Days Old Fiddlers Contest held at City Hall Park Thursday night. First place winner on the right is Cecil Caldwell of Lubbock. Middle is second place winner Chester Derrick of Odessa and third place winner Henry Lester of Idalou is on the left.

Being Compared To 1973 Harvest

A joint cotton crop forecast released by the Lubbock Cotton Exchange and the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. released in Lubbock yesterday will likely have Cochran county farmers cliff-hanging, with one eye on the weather and the other on the calendar.

The highly optimistic forecast brings back very heady memories of 1973, which has the power to put any cotton farmer or agribusinessman on Cloud number 9 (and hoping that it isn't a hail cloud.)

The joint exchange PCG estimates committee, in the first crop forecast of the season, projected production in the 25-county area at 2,103,000 bales, up from last year's drought-shortened 1,193,100 bales.

Value Placed At $433.2 Million

A crop of the size now in prospect would be the seventh largest ever harvested on the High Plains and would be expected to pump an estimated $433.2 million into the region's economy in terms of the gross value of the lint and seed at the farm level.

The gross value, which would be multiplied several times as the crop moved through various processing-merchandising channels, would exceed the monetary return to growers from last year's crop by $215.6 million.

Cotton now flourishing under sunny skies, has made "tremendous progress" during the past week or so, officials said.

Rapid Progress

"This crop has made more progress during that time than I've ever seen out here in such a short period," one member of the estimates committee commented.

The prospective High Plains crop is almost as big as the entire

Trueman Murdoch, president of the Cochran County Rodeo Association, presents the queen a bouquet of roses symbolic of her office. ## Rodeo Competition Lively

As a solidly successful Last Frontier Days celebration and Rodeo wound its way into obscurity here Saturday, there were those on several levels that were feeling the flush of victory -- and others who were suffering the agonies of defeat. Oh, well, there is always next year...

The rodeo attracted an especially wide-spread field of contestants for the 1975 contests, with riders and ropers from all parts of Texas and at least three other states competing. The rodeo stock appeared to be of extra quality this year, also, which contributed heavily to the fine show presented to the

Hill, McCasland Tabbed as Senior Citizens Of Year

Mrs. Rolly Hill and R.H. McCasland were named Senior Citizens of the Year at the annual Senior Citizens Luncheon Thursday in the Cochran County Activity Building. Nominations were made by citizens in the community and selections were made by a panel of judges.

Mrs. Hill and McCasland are both longtime residents of the county and have contributed much to the growth and development of the area. Mrs. Hill has lived in Cochran County for forty years

CORRECTION

In a story about Mrs. Simon Marina and daughter Mary's trip to Lebanon in the July 24 issue of the Tribune, it was mistakenly stated that a Mr. Assad Hamati was killed in the street skirmishing taking place in Beirut at that time.

This report was in error and the Tribune apologizes to Mr. Hamati, who is alive and well enough to resent our premature report of his demise, and assure him that we wish him well and hope that he will forgive an honest error on the part of the Tribune.

County Divorce Rate Lower Than Average

How high is the divorce rate in Cochran County compared with that in other communities? How many local residents are divorced? How many have remarried after being divorced? For the great majority of men and women in the local area marriage is a once-in-a-lifetime undertaking. For others, who start out with equally high hopes, their marriages end up on the rocks.

In general, the divorce rates have been on the rise for a number of years and is still mounting. This is indicated in the latest surveys by the Department of Commerce, the National Center for Health Statistics and others.

In Cochran County, it appears, the number of marital splitups is on the low side. There are fewer divorces and separations, in proportion to population, than in most parts of the United States.

Livestock Loans Liberalized

Changes in the Special Livestock Emergency Credit Program are now in effect in Texas, according to Trueman D. Murdoch, County Supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) announced today.

The program, originated under the Emergency Livestock Credit Act of 1974, will continue to be administered through county offices of FmHA, the U.S. Department of Agriculture Rural Credit Agency.

Under the program, FmHA guarantees loans made by banks and other commercial lenders to help farmers and ranchers continue in various lines of livestock production through a period of adverse economic conditions.

The Bill (Public Law 94-35) signed June 16, by President Ford amended terms of the program established last year and extended its duration through December 31, 1976.

Major changes in the program are:

Farmers and ranchers assisted by loan guarantees must be primarily engaged in agricultural production, and livestock operations must account for a substantial portion (at least 25 percent) of their gross income, working time or investment. Previously FmHA required that more than 50 percent of gross income or time be devoted to livestock operations.

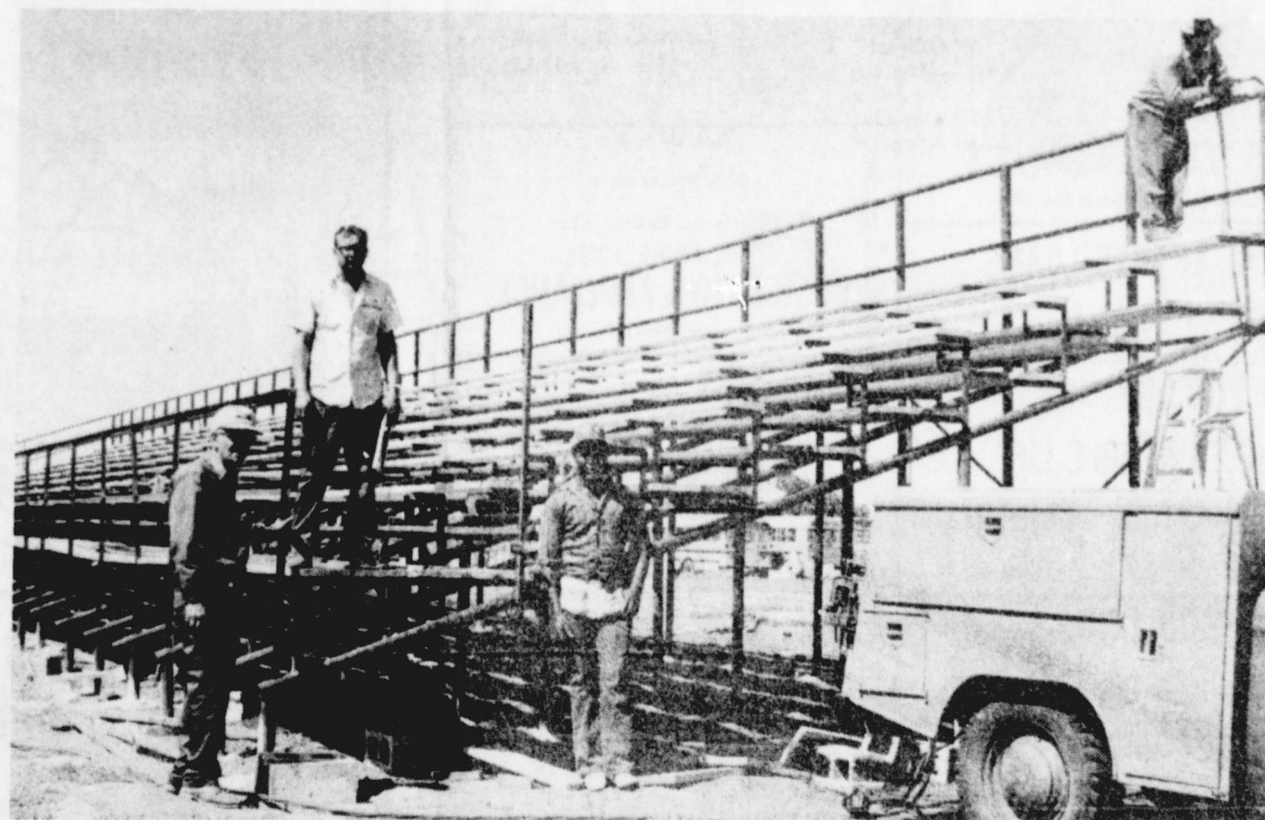

The limit on any one borrower's guaranteed credit is raised to a $350,000.00 line of credit from the previous loan limit of $250,000.00.

The maximum guarantee to a lender is raised to 90 percent of principal and interest from a previous guarantee limit of 80 percent of loss.

Maximum term of a loan was raised to seven years, with a three-year renewal permitted. Under the previous terms, loans could be made for three years, with a two-year renewal permitted.

Under certain conditions, satisfactory evidence of a borrower's repayment ability can be accepted by lenders in lieu

NEARING COMPLETION--The visitors' bleachers on the east side of Indian Stadium were nearing completion early this week when this photo was snapped. Being constructed mainly by employees of the school and volunteer help, it lacks only the finishing touches to give the school a fine new athletic facility. The new stands have been moved back some distance from the former structure to make room for construction of track around the football field. The new seats were so constructed as to give all spectators a clear view of the entire playing area.

Washington Grows Impatient With 'Rag-Tag' Citizens Army He Is Taking To War

George Washington was usually a patient man. However, two hundred years ago this month, his patience was undoubtedly running short.

Only a few weeks earlier he had been named commander-in-chief of the American army. The militiamen of Massachusetts had driven the British away from Lexington and Concord; in August Americans were still basking in the afterglow of Bunker Hill, even though technically a defeat, that had shown American courage and ingenuity.

When Washington arrived in Cambridge to take command of the hastily-assembled Continental Army, he was not so impressed. He took command of a force that could truly be called a "citizen army."

Equipment and supplies were virtually non-existent. Since each man had provided his own materials, no standards existed at all. Particularly in short supply were munitions. In fact, the supply of powder and shot was only about eight or nine rounds per man, so few in fact that Washington dared not fire a morning or evening salute. This shortage was all the more critical because Washington's forces had the British sealed off in Boston; if the British had known the American condition or had decided to break out of the city, continental forces would have been able to do very little.

Appeals for powder and supplies were made to the states, but the response was very poor. In New Jersey, however, a young Elias Boudinot, recently converted to the patriot cause, was able to find six to ten quarter-casks of powder that he secretly forwarded to Washington. When they arrived on August 20, 1775, they were the first received from any colony. Boudinot's action was significant in three ways. First, he weakened the defense of his native New Jersey by his action, a situation that could have been personally difficult had New Jersey been attacked. Second, Boudinot was brought to Washington's attention, a fact which probably had some influence later when Washington appointed him the first commissary-general of prisoners. Third, in 1782, Boudinot was elected President of Congress, an act that made him Washington's commander. The relationship between the two men was close throughout their lives.

The Virginian, mentioned last week, faced a very different situation in the Spanish Southwest. Sailing from New Orleans to St. Augustine, Florida, John Peyton's ship was blown off course in a storm in the Gulf of Mexico. Captured by a Spanish vessel the whole crew was taken to the mouth of the Rio Grande where they were held for several days before being marched to Santa Fe.

The next several months proved to be very trying on Peyton and his associates.

Texas production in 1974 when farmers across the state harvested 2,462,000 bales of upland cotton.

Lubbock County, which led the state in cotton production last year with an output of 174,800 bales, even though this area was in the throes of the worst drought since the early 1950's, appears likely to retain its ranking as Texas' No. 1 cotton county.

The estimates committee assessed the county's 1975 crop in bale-plus-per-acre dimensions of 285,000 bales, a conservative assessment by some yardsticks but one which, if achieved, probably would rank Lubbock among the top cotton-producing counties in the nation.

Leading Producer

The High Plains as a whole is the nation's leading cotton-producing region, usually turning out anywhere from 15 to more than 20 per cent of the U.S. crop and from 45 to more than 50 per cent of the Texas production.

Officials pointed out that a critical period in the fiber development process is still ahead of the 1975 crop.

Temperatures in the August-September period will be especially important in determining micronaire readings, a quality factor which reflects fiber fineness or maturity and an element which also can affect yields.

Heavy rains during July have bolstered production prospects, officials said, and below-normal temperatures last month have not had a material effect on the quality outlook, since cotton is just now entering the most important period in the fiber development process.

With bountiful subsoil moisture going into the crop season, there is little difference at this stage in irrigated cotton and the dryland crop. In fact, dryland cotton in places at the moment looks superior to some irrigated crops.

The estimated gross value of the 1975 crop is calculated on the basis of current prices for lint and on recent trends in the prices of cottonseed and cottonseed products. The end value of the crop to growers, of course, could be affected by subsequent price movements and quality factors as well as by the final production.

THREE WAY DATES

Three Way School superintendent has announced the following key dates leading up to the opening of the school year:

August 14, the school board will meet for the purpose of adopting the budget for the 1975-76 school year. Faculty members will report August 18 to begin in-service training and the first full school day will be August 20.

Greenbugs & Maize
This will probably be one of the worst green bug infestations in years. Dekalb will be coming with green bug resistant this coming year. We have been watching these varieties in tests all this year, & they are definitely going to help. The bugs just don't hurt these varieties as bad as the others, but they are not going to cure all our problems. I want to be the first to say that greenbugs are going to hurt this new resistant maize, and they are going to be in it just like the other, but the extent of damage is just not as severe. We are attending the Western Div. Conference being conducted by Dekalb on these new varieties & we will pass on to you what we find out later on. There will be no extra cost on these resistant varieties.

guess the market, industry officials said the estimated farm value of the 1975 crop "is, if anything, conservative." The projection is almost double the $217.6 million farm value of the 1974 crop, which produced lint returns totaling $160.4 million and seed income of $57.2 million.

The estimates committee, on the basis of new information, revised the standing acreage estimate to 2.4 million, up 118,500 acres from a survey a month ago. The estimated yield per acre is 420 pounds.

The record crop on the High Plains stands at 2,888,600 bales in 1973.

The forecast for Cochran county is for a yield of 60,000 bales from the 71,000 acres planted.

The county's 1974 yield was 25,400 bales.

of collateral for a guaranteed loan.

The national ceiling on total guaranteed loans outstanding at any one time is reduced from $2 billion to $1.5 billion. (Loans guaranteed by FmHA through mid June totaled about $325 million.) The amended Livestock

Emergency Credit Act continues the previous guarantee authority for loans to farmers and ranchers in connection with the breeding, raising, fattening or marketing of feed or dairy cattle, swine, sheep, goats, chickens and turkeys. Interest rates are negotiated between borrowers and lenders.

Farmers and ranchers who may benefit from loan guarantees should apply to banks or other lending institutions. When details of a loan are negotiated, the lender may apply to FmHA for a loan guarantee.

Benefits of FmHA programs are available without regard to race, creed, color, sex or national origin.

County Supervisor, Trueman D. Murdoch, said further information about the program can be obtained from the Cochran County FmHA office located at 200-E West Taylor, County Activity building, in Morton.

tabulations, some 24 out of every 1,000 local residents over the age of 14 are either divorced or separated from their spouses.

The comparable national average is 53 per 1,000. In the West South Central States the rate is 55 and, in the State of Texas, 56.

During 1974, the figures show, there were approximately 970,000 divorces in the United States. That was 57,000 more than in 1973.

On the other hand, the number of marriages that took place in the year, 2,235,000 was unexpectedly small. It was the first time since 1958, in fact, that a drop was recorded.

The decline, at a time when the population of marriageable age was larger than normal, is attributed to prevailing economic conditions. Many young people have postponed their marital plans.

Because of the decrease in marriages and the increase in divorces, there was 1 divorce in the year for every 2.3 marriages.

In Cochran County, according to the most recent figures, there are some 90 men and women who are divorced or separated.

Many others, who were once in the divorced column, have since remarried. In general, it has been found, there are about 2.5 such persons for every one who is currently divorced.

On that basis, it is estimated that there are about 230 local residents in that category.

It's Superlative!

Diamonds are, chemically, pure carbon. But it was the carbon copy that actor Richard Burton brought in October, 1969, for Elizabeth Taylor, then his wife. It was a 69.42-carat flawless diamond ring and he paid $1,200,000 for it, making it the highest-priced diamond ever sold at auction.

The most valuable metal used for engagement and wedding rings is platinum. It's rarer, harder and heavier than gold, and because of this many women prefer it for rings. They also like the fact it's so tough it resists nicks, scratches and corrosion. And platinum is so strong it's the most secure setting a diamond can have.

The world's most expensive sugar bowl is probably the one on display in New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art. Made in 1786 by the Parisian master-smith Marc Etienne Janety, it's 7 inches long, 5 1/4 inches high and, except for a glass liner, made entirely of the purest platinum.

Jaclyn Claye

has her say . . . . .

DEAR JACLYN CLAYE: I've seen some pretty nutty situations printed in your column, but I'll bet you can't top this one. I don't know whether to laugh or cry. I attended a farm auction some weeks ago and bought a whole bunch of jars and vases. The trouble is that one of the "vases" turned out to be an urn and you guessed it, it is filled with the ashes and remains of a fine old lady. At first we thought it was pretty cute and we put it by the fireplace as a conversation piece. The trouble is, it is making me spooky. I'll just be watching television and soon my eyes will slowly wander over to that darned urn and there it sits. If my husband or children aren't home, I'll face the television with my back to the urn. Well, to make a long story short, I want to get rid of it but I feel it would be disrespectful to just throw it away. And don't tell me to give it to an undertaker because I phoned one and he just laughed at me. Now what do I do? Signed, L.T.

DEAR L.T.: Right. Sours is the nuttiest. And I guess you can't just leave it on somebody's doorstep. But I'm surprised that the undertaker you phoned won't take it off your hands because I called one whom I know and he would have cooperated in the matter. The only other suggestion is that you get in touch with a public cemetery and they will probably bury it in a recent grave. Good luck.

DEAR JACLYN CLAYE: A pox on high school re-unions. I recently attended one and as far as I'm concerned they are just ego trips for the materialistic. My husband and I are rather bookish people. Our pleasure is the library. We have never had a real desire to acquire wealth. But at this particular re-union, the star studded Cadillacs arrived with each couple trying to outdo the other. It made me ill. You can tell your readers that if they have reached middle age, they can soon expect to receive a high school re-union invitation and that they can respectfully decline unless they get their pleasure, from flaunting. Signed, MR. & MRS. J.R.A.

DEAR MR. & MRS. J.R.A.: Oh heck, I don't know. I recently attended my re-union and I don't have a star studded Caddy.

DEAR JACLYN CLAYE: Life is full of awful surprises. My husband, to whom I was married for 14 years, recently died. Being married to Eddie was no bed of roses. He was on the road for a fastener company and I saw him only on weekends, if that, for most of our married life. He had a hard liver and I ran myself ragged keeping the creditors from the door and I guess he had a girl in every city and he hardly said two words to the kids in all those years. It was a bad trip. Well, Eddie died by himself in a motel room, of a massive heart attack, on the road. After the funeral, his lawyer handed me a letter which Eddie had written and sealed ten years ago. It said: "Roslyn, I'm a rough-neck. I should never have been a husband and a father and I know it. I know I'm going to burn myself out early, so I've done just one good thing in my life: no matter how short of cash I've been, or how big the debts, I've kept the payments up on this $100,000.00 life insurance policy. It's all yours. I want you to take it and have all the fun you deserve. You are a fantastic lady, and in my own way, I have loved you very much. Love Eddie". ### The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

by John L. Hill
Attorney General
AUSTIN — Some home gardeners are facing a critical shortage this year of an item many have always taken for granted — home canning lids. The problem has reached crisis proportions in parts of the country, where home gardeners have planted crops in hopes of saving on grocery bills. As harvest begins, these home gardeners are discovering that the canning lid shortage means there is no way of preserving their ripe fruits and vegetables for fall and winter use. Texas gardeners are having their share of such problems, as evidenced by the complaints received in our Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division about the lack of lids.

Both our Consumer Protection and our Antitrust Divisions are currently looking into the canning lid shortage in Texas. On the national level, the House of Representatives subcommittee on small business has been holding hearings on the problem. The Federal Trade Commission and the Justice Department are also conducting investigations into the shortage and its causes. Part of the problem is the tremendous increase in the number of home gardeners. The federal Office of Consumer Affairs estimates that 12 million new gardeners have joined the market for home canning equipment in the last two years. Another part of the problem is that, in addition to the greatly increased number of gardeners who need lids, some home canners have been buying far more lids than they will need. Because of this hoarding for future use, the shortage has been aggravated.

Due to these real and exaggerated demands, some manufacturers have been unable to supply enough lids, although industry figures indicate that 1.6 billion lids have been produced. According to these figures, that ordinarily would be enough to supply 70 lids to each family engaged in home canning.

Without canning lids, home gardeners who hoped to save money by raising some of their own food may find that their efforts have been wasted. They could end up having to give away part of their harvest or watch it go bad.

Texas Department of Agriculture spokesmen say that many Texas home canners stop searching for lids after finding that their customary source has none in stock. They urge home canners to shop around for canning equipment, since some supplies are available in such non-traditional locations as department or discount stores and specialty shops.

Try the following additional recommendations, also, to avoid problems at harvest time: Buy only as many canning lids as you

IS THE CHURCH PART OF YOUR LIFE?

For centuries men have been using nets to reap the rich harvest of the sea. There is a classic rhythm to the saga of the sea and fishermen. It is a tale filled with danger and persistence—success and failure. Indeed, it is a very much akin to life itself. You may not have to wend your living from the sea, but you can learn a lesson from those who do. Fishermen the world around are, for the most part, devout folk. They've learned the meaning of faith. They know God. Seldom will you see even the smallest harbor town without a church. There men—and the women who wait for them—go to pray.

Have you been to your church lately?

New Sunflower Crops Seen Upping Dove Count

Unfavorable cotton prices, heavy rains and large fields of commercial sunflowers could produce a bumper dove harvest in the South Plains and Panhandle of Texas.

This ready cash crop for farmers could give the Texas bird shooters a boost as the dove, quail and pheasant move into the sunflower fields following the normal harvest in late August.

"The 5,000 acres of sunflowers harvested in 1974 did very well with a rate of 1500 to 2500 pounds of seed per acre," Dr. Raymond Brigham, soybean and oilseed expert, Texas A&M Extension & Research Center near Lubbock, said.

"There is from 250,000 to 300,000 acres of sunflowers planted this year," said Brigham. "Game birds prefer the rich high oil seeds such as sunflowers and hunters would be wise to hunt these harvested fields in September."

Some of the late planted sunflower fields will not be harvested until late November or early December furnishing the resident quail and pheasant food.

Brigham said that most landowners will be reluctant to allow dove hunters in the unharvested sunflower fields due to the ease of shattering the seed from the sunflower head.

Even with the modern harvesting techniques and machinery used to cut the sunflowers, an estimated five to ten percent of the seed will fall to the ground ready for the game birds to find and eat.

During the harvest of the sunflower seed, most of the leaves and stock are chopped off leaving sparse cover in the field. Although this might not allow enough cover for the hunter, it will increase the bag limit by allowing hunters to find their downed birds.

Brigham said that once the birds find the sunflower fields only cold rains or winds will

TU Student Collecting History Of Bracera Program

The Southwest Collection at Texas Tech University is collecting the history of the bracero program in West Texas, a program described by a Texas Tech graduate student in history as being "a unique labor and agricultural movement that we probably will not see revised or enacted again."

"The bracero program, begun in 1951 and administered under federal law, admitted thousands of Mexican workers annually into the United States to work in agriculture," said Jeff Townsend, an agricultural history student enrolled in the university's doctoral program. "In order to implement the provisions of the law, area farmers and other labor users formed associations which administered the recruitment, processing and transportation of the Mexican workers from Mexico to the farms. The program grew quickly and by 1959 more than 400,000 workers entered the U.S.," he reported.

Materials related to several of the labor associations have been acquired by the Southwest Collection, including the voluminous records of the Trans Pecos Cotton Association which served six counties in West Texas.

"The Trans Pecos Association was typical, but it also was special in that it was one of the largest and earliest in Texas," the Texas Tech historian said. "It brought 20,000 workers a year into an area which had an urban population of only 10,000. This caused strains on various public facilities in towns which were not equipped to handle the influx. As a result, the association had to build public restrooms and help with law enforcement and other problems."

A native West Texan, Townsend first encountered the bracero program at Morton, Texas, where his father was a cotton ginner. "The bracero activity stimulated a need for more restaurants, stores and theatres," Townsend explained. "The local economy boomed and the streets were full every Saturday."

Other collections acquired by the Southwest Collection pertaining to the bracero program include the records of the El Paso Valley Cotton Association, the Western Texas Farm Labor Association, the West Texas Agricultural Employers Group, and several oral history recordings.

Townsend said that the materials provide avenues of study for several disciplines, including those related to agriculture, economics, international diplomacy and history.

"The records of the West Texas Agricultural Employers Group, for example, give an idea of the variety of activities within the associations," he reported.

"What is valuable about the Southwest Collection is its diversity of sources," Townsend pointed out. "It has material for almost any disciplinary field, including economic, social, cultural, and political."

Now comprising more than nine million leaves of manuscript material, the Southwest Collection also preserves microfilmed sources, books, periodicals, maps, and oral history tapes related to the history of West Texas and the Southwest.

DPS Seeks Applications For Both Sex Officer Recruits

The Texas Department of Public Safety is in need of qualified applicants of both sexes and from all racial backgrounds. "The next class for Department of Public Safety Recruits will begin on October 28, 1975, with what we hope will be a full compliment of 110 persons," Major C.W. Bell, Regional Commander announced today.

"The qualifications an applicant must meet are to be between 20 and 35 years of age, of good moral character, excellent physical condition, weight proportionable to height, visual acuity of 20-40 correctable to 20-20, a citizen of the United States and have a minimum of sixty college hours."

Major Bell continued, "Among the benefits that a Department of Public Safety Trooper enjoys are: two weeks annual vacation, all holidays provided for by the Legislature, modern liberal retirement system, group hospitalization and life insurance plan, traveling expenses, longevity pay, and uniforms with all necessary equipment to perform their duties."

A Department of Public Safety Recruits training consists of eighteen weeks of comprehensive programs in all aspects of modern law enforcement at the Homer Garrison Law Enforcement Academy in Austin. During training the October School Recruit will receive pay of $768 dollars a month. Upon graduation the new trooper will be assigned to one of the uniformed services of the Department.

The Texas Department of Public Safety has been increasingly successful in its search for recruits from minority racial groups of both sexes and encourages persons who think that they would qualify to contact the nearest Department of Public Safety Trooper or Department of Public Safety office to receive complete information regarding the application and employment procedures.

"Region 5 is most interested in being well represented by the best qualified persons available from the Northwest Texas area in the upcoming school," Major Bell stated, "but to do this, we must have the persons apply."

Couple Exchanges Vows In Candlelight Ceremony

Under an archway of ivy and yellow roses, flanked with candle tree candelabra Miss Margaret Diane McCasland and Mrs. Richard Thomas Hornsby exchanged wedding vows Saturday July 26, at 8 p.m. in the First Baptist Church. The bride's father, Harold Drennan, officiated the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Drennan of Morton, and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Thomas Hornsby of Lawrence, Kansas.

Given in marriage by her brother, Darwin McCasland, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza fashioned with a high neckline of chantilly lace-full length sheer bishop sleeves with a wide cuff of lace. A wide band of scoloped lace extended down the front of the bodice and the softly gathered A-line skirt. A self ruffle formed the hemline of the skirt and brush train. The headpiece was a lace edged chapel length mantilla. She carried a cascade of white roses atop a white bible which was used by her aunt, Mrs. Bob Polvado, at her wedding. Holding to tradition for something old, the bride wore a wedding band that belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. E.L. Polvado. Something new was her dress, something borrowed was the bible she carried, and something blue was her garter given to her by Mrs. Richard Biggs. Her brother placed pennies minted in the years of the bride and groom's birth in her slipper for luck.

Mrs. Vicki Thompson of Lubbock was matron of honor and Mrs. Benny Lobstein of Lubbock was the brides matron. Miss Robin Polvado, cousin of the bride, was brides maid. The attendants dresses were empire style and were made of yellow silk organza with embossed flowers. Each carried a nosegay of yellow rosebuds with green streamers.

Solutions For Unsealed Canning Jars Are Told

If you preserved foods in "loud mouth" jars that keep "talking" all year on the pantry shelf, help is at hand to prevent it happening again.

Marilyn Haggard, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, pointed out these "talking" jars often spell spoilage.

She cited reasons jars don't seal and suggested some solutions.

--Small particles of food left on rim of jar.

Remedy: Wipe off top of jar with clean damp cloth before placing lid on jar.

--Sealing compound or lid doesn't seal.

Remedy: Lids may be old. Usually, they last five years. Some may have a year date on them, such as 1-75, to indicate the lid was manufactured in the first quarter of 1975 and should be used before the end of the first quarter of 1980. It's a good idea to mark date of purchase on the box of lids.

--Bent or rusty rings.

Remedy: Bent or rusty rings can cause the lids not to seal properly. Always remove rings when jars have cooled thoroughly and seals are tested.

Rings are necessary for the processing, but are not needed after the seal is made. Rings left on can rust and become difficult to remove--so store them in a dry place in a container that prevents them from being bent out of shape.

Examine rings before the start of each canning season and discard rusty or bent ones. Never use lids more than once, because they are designed for a one-time seal.

--Rings screwed on "too tight" or "too loose."

Remedy: Rings which are screwed too tightly on the jar do not allow space for venting (escape of air from the jar). This makes pressure build up in the jar, causing the lid-- and sometimes even the top of the ring--to buckle.

Rings not screwed on tightly enough will not seal, because the compound is not pressed firmly enough against the top of the jar.

This specialist said that the main point to remember is to follow manufacturer's directions. Do not use lid tighteners recommended for zinc caps. Two-piece lids don't require tighteners, she said.

office of County School Superintendent.

This bill authored by Wayne Peveto prohibits state support for county school superintendents after December 31, 1978 where there are no common school districts, or rural high school districts.

Peveto said the legislation does apply to all counties having superintendents or ex-officio superintendents. He said the bill as finally passed was not his original language, but it did go a long way toward accomplishing what he set out to do - get rid of the archaic posts where those who held them had nothing to do.

Peveto said he planned to sponsor a bill next year which will abolish all county school superintendents offices not terminated in House Bill 226.

In addition to stopping the funds for most county school superintendents, the bill stops funds for ex-officio superintendents and county school board members as of Dec. 31, 1978.

This means that Stevens may, if he chooses, remain in his post until the end of his term in 1978.

Peveto was recently picked as one of Texas' 10 best legislators by a state publication which lauded him from taking on politically thankless but badly needed chores like the reform of property tax administration and abolishing the office of county school superintendents. Of the latter Peveto said county superintendents were once an important position, but now an anachronistic sinecure carefully guarded by its well paid occupants.

In transferring powers of the county superintendents, the bill designates who gets the powers and duties and adds that the officials are not entitled to additional compensation for performing the duties.

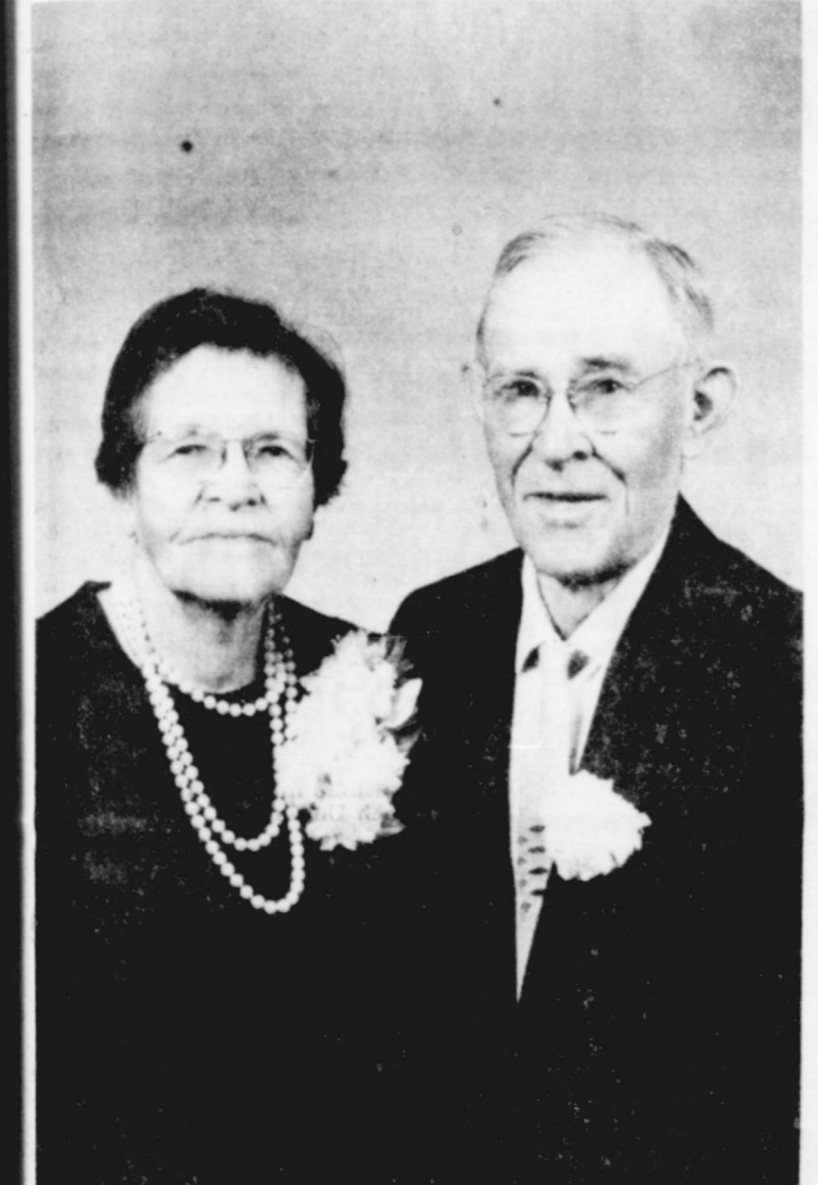

The operation of a school district vest in the governing board of the district. Cooperative agreements between schools like employment of special service teachers, counselors, supervisors, or other personnel vest in the governing board of the regional education service center embracing the county.

Authority to annually prorate any county school funds among districts in the county goes to the county judge and he shall certify to the Central Education Agency the amount prorated to each district.

The powers and duties of abolishing offices of county school trustees or county school boards concerning annexation of school districts, detachment of territory from school districts, or alteration of school district boundaries will be the jurisdiction of the commissioners court of the county.

The powers and duties of abolishing offices of county school trustees or county school boards relating to the administration or operation of schools in the county vest in the governing boards of the districts concerned.

All powers and duties of the abolished offices and boards not otherwise vested by legislation will be that of the county judge.

MR. AND MRS. SIDNEY EDWARD WILLIAMS OF MORTON will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary with an open house from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday in the Bronze Room of the First National Bank building at Memphis, Texas.
