Tribe Drops Squeaker

To Wildcats By 7-6

That old bugaboo, the two-point conversion try, did its worst against the Indians Friday night and sent them away from Idalou's Wildcat Stadium with a little egg on their faces and the short end of a 7-6 score.

If they were ever going to pull the game out of the fire, that was the time to try, however, as they had only 55 seconds remaining in the game when they finally got on the scoreboard. The only Indian touchdown came on a 3-yard blast by Tino Sabala, and trailing by one point with only 55 ticks to go, they must have felt they had to try for the win because they stood little chance of another opportunity.

In short, the patented Sabala to Allan Steed conversion pass failed and Morton was out of it. Idalou had earlier scored on a 20 yard run with 9:34 remaining in the third quarter and made attention. The fair is growing in scope and size every year and this year's event was the biggest and best yet presented.

Colonial Citizens Were Reluctant To Face The Expense Of Building A Navy

As a result of the fighting at Lexington and Concord in April 1775 an American army composed primarily of citizen soldiers had come into being. Congress then stepped in to appoint a commander and to begin the hard work of organization.

Yet, to move dramatically toward the building of a fleet was a momentous task not yet approved by all Americans. After all, independence was still a long way off. A great many Americans were still hoping for some settlement with Britain that when compared to the costs of building ships. The task was even more ominous when one remembers that England was the undisputed queen of the sea in the eighteenth century.

Even so, Washington realized that naval protection was necessary if he seriously hoped to confront the British militarily.

In response, Congress appointed on October 5, 1775, a committee to prepare a plan for intercepting two British ships known to be carrying military stores.

Then on October 13, Congress authorized the construction of two "swift sailing vessels to carry 10 carriage guns and an appropriate no. of swivels." Thus the first American fighting vessels were approved and the formal creation of a navy was only a few weeks away.

In the Spanish South west, John Peyton, the Virginian held as a suspected French agent at Santa Fe, finally made his escape. In writing about his adventure later, his discussion of the plains to the east provided an interesting description of prairie dog towns. He said that the towns he saw were always found in elevated and open spots. Some of the towns, he explained, were as much as twenty miles across. He recognized that prairie dogs apparently lived without water since the towns were always built in dry areas.

Of course, these animals became much more familiar to Texans as they moved farther out on the plains. However, that movement of settlement would come after the Spanish control of Texas ended. -Donald W. Whisenand history professor- Eastern New Mexico University.

Insulation is Reddy's best friend (yours too!)

When your house is well insulated, the cold stays out, you stay comfortable, and Reddy doesn't have to work as hard to keep it that way. So your heating bill goes down.
The difference in heating bills for a poorly insulated house and a well insulated one can be as high as 33 percent a year. And that's not all—good insulation puts less wear on your system so it lasts longer and provides a more even air temperature throughout the house.
Where and What?
For walls, ceilings and floors, the most common type of insulation is called "batt" or blanket insulation. This is a layer of spun glass or vegetable fibers attached to a backing of metal foil or kraft paper.
Total electric requirements for good insulation suggest six inches of insulation in the floor of the attic, three inches in walls and two inches in floors. (Check attic insulation that has been in place for a while to make sure it hasn't settled; if so, add enough to bring it back up to six inches.)
Loose fill insulation—fiber or pellets—can be blown into place, usually above ceilings. Urethane, a plastic foam, is available in rigid boards or can be sprayed into walls.
Look for the R-value
Insulation performance is measured in "R-value," a number assigned to a type of insulation to indicate its resistance to heat flow. The higher the R-value, the greater the resistance and the better the insulation.
Naturally, the best way to insulate a house is from the ground up—while it is being built. But building material dealers can give you details on laying your own "batt" insulation between exposed joists in the attic floor. Consult an insulation contractor about insulating closed-in walls and ceilings.
More Tips
Dual-glazing, caulking, weather stripping, storm windows and doors and keeping them closed as much as possible will reduce heat flow from doors and windows.
If you have a central heating system, duct work that is exposed to the outside air should be wrapped securely with insulation; seal joints and connections with insulation tape.
Insulation does not put moisture in the air or cause walls to "sweat." But inadequate ventilation might. Be sure attics and exposed crawl spaces are well ventilated and draw moisture out of kitchen and laundry areas with exhaust fans.
Our heating experts work closely with contractors, builders and homeowners to make sure our customers get the most value for their electric heat. Remember, Reddy supplies the energy, but only you can use it wisely—give us a call today!

Generation Gap
American farmers today produce over 40% more crops on 6% fewer acres than their fathers did.

First Farm Fair
The first agricultural fair in the United States was held in Washington, D.C., in 1804.

Farming was so much a part of the Early American life style that Congress was slow in setting up a standing committee on agriculture.

Commerce and manufacturing were already being served by Congressional committees before the need for one on agriculture was recognized.

One senator from Maine, in fact, questioned whether any issues would arise in agriculture which would call for study by a Congressional committee.

In 1820, the U.S. House of Representatives established a standing committee on agriculture and the Senate followed suit five years later.

A bill establishing a Department of Agriculture was signed by President Abraham Lincoln in 1862 and Isaac Newton was named commissioner of agriculture. Twenty-seven years later, Congress elevated the Department to Cabinet status in recognition of agriculture's importance to the nation's economy.

Farm Tractors Emerge
European settlers in colonial America used oxen to draw wooden plows, and it wasn't until 1950 that tractors outnumbered horses on U.S. farms.

COCHRAN SOIL AND WATER CONSERVATION DIRECTOR ELECTION

Landowners of Zone 2 of the Cochran County Conservation District and others that are interested are invited to meet at 7:00 a.m., Tuesday, October 14 in the Whiteface Community Building in Whiteface to elect a director to represent Zone No. 2 on the Board of Directors.

George Martin is now serving as the Director from Zone No. 2. He has served on the Board since October, 1970.

Each year, during the first fifteen days of October, each soil and water conservation district in Texas has an election to select a Director to serve and represent the landowners and operators in and coffee were served by Mrs. Landra Albus and Mrs. Judy Albus. A silver coffee service and silver candle holders holding blue candles completed the table setting. Miss Mary Franklin distributed the rice bags.

The couple will reside at 607 East Pierce in Morton. A rehearsal dinner for the families and attendants of the Albus-Vinson wedding was held Friday night at Morton with Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Vinson hosting the occasion.

the District. Each district is divided into five zones. Elections are held in a different zone of the District each year.

Each director serves a five-year term, then an election is held either to reelect the director who is presently serving, or to elect a new landowner as director. The term of the office of a director begins the day after election.

To be eligible to vote in a soil and water conservation district election, a person must own agricultural land within the subdivision where the election is held (Zone 2). He (or she) must live in a county all or part of which is in the Soil and Water conservation district. The voter must have attained the age of 21 years.

No poll tax or registration is required. Under the Community Property Laws of the State of Texas, the wife of a landowner also owns land and is entitled to vote and to hold office.

Zone No. 2 of the District is that portion of the District bounded by the following:

NORTH: Starting at the Hockley-Cochran County line, thence west along the Alamo Gin Road to Highway 116., thence north on 116 to the Salughter house road, thence west to FM 1779 (to the west side of the J.D. Finley farm that is operated by Weldon Wynn)

WEST: The west boundary is FM 1779 to where it intersects Highway 125, thence south on Highway 114, thence south on Highway 114 to the Yoakum County line.

SOUTH: The south boundary is the Cochran-Yoakum County line.

EAST: The east boundary is the Cochran-Hockley County line.

A program will be presented on current land use regulation and other items of interest to landowners. Refreshments will be served.

Morton School Menu
MONDAY: Chicken Casserole, June peas, cole slaw, cranberry sauce cake, roll, and milk.

TUESDAY: Country Fried Steak with Gravy, whipped potatoes, green beans, cherry cobbler, roll, and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Hamburger on bun, lettuce and tomatoes, french fries with catsup, banana pudding, relish, and milk.

THURSDAY: Macaroni and cheese, tomato wedge and deviled egg, butter spinach, pineapple cake, cornbread, and milk.

FRIDAY: Bean Chalupas, tomato sauce, chef salad, sliced peaches, cornbread, and milk.

Mrs. Craig Vinson (Beverley Albus)

Beverley Albus-Craig Vinson Exchange Double Ring Vows

Miss Beverley Albus and Craig Vinson pledged double ring vows October 4 at 6 p.m. in St. Philips Catholic Church at Pep with Rev. Kevin Clarke officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Albus of Pep, and Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Vinson of Morton are parents of the couple. Vows were exchanged before a march of greenery accented with blue carnations flanked by two andielabras holding blue andies trimmed with blue bows. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white organza shioned with a Victorian eckline of Crystal pleating at the rist. The empire bodice had a ep sheer yoke of French imported Chantilly lace and edged with a narrow ruffle of pleating. Her softly gathered A-line shirt extended into a Chapel length train. A deep ruffle of Crystal pleating formed the hemline of the skirt and train. A satin ribbon encompassed the waistline with a bow and streamers accenting the center back. Her headpiece was a profile of Venise petals and pearls, holding three teirs of illusions. She carried a bouquet of white carnations with ribbons tied in love knots.

For "something old" the bride wore a diamond bar pendant and carried a handkerchief belonging to her great-grandmother.

"Something borrowed" was her headpiece belonging to her sister, Mrs. Betty Merrick. The traditional blue garter served for "something blue" and her gown was "something new". She wore pennies in her shoes minted in the years of their births.

Miss Lea Gerik served as maid of honor; Mrs. Betty Merrick, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and Miss Mary Marina served as bridesmaid.

They wore gowns of blue knit jersey fashioned with a high neckline of white ruffled lace, long sleeves with a ruffle at the wrist. A white lace yoke edged with a narrow lace ruffle accented the bodice. Softly gathered A-line skirt and a set in band accented the front of the waistline with a tie bow at the back. Their headpieces were blue picture hats of horse hair braid accented with white velvet ribbon. Each carried a long stem blue carnation.

Andy Vinson, brother of the groom, served as bestman and Gary Pierce and Mark Albus, brother of the bride, served as groomsmen. Ushers were David Merrick, Darwin Albus, and Cartis Albus.

Registering guests was Judy Steed. The table was covered with a white lace cloth decorated with a blue feathered pin.

Providing the traditional wedding music was Miss Cheryl McClung, organist. Mrs. Sheryl Posey sang "The Twelfth of Never" and Roger Posey sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's mother wore a gown of royal blue Quiana fashioned with a deep V-neckline, with a bias fold of self material encompassing the neck. A full A-line skirt flowed from the empire bodice accented with long slender sleeves. The groom's mother wore a medium blue princess seamed gown fashioned with low V-neckline and front extension forming neck band in back and front gathers. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Parish Hall. The bride's table, covered with a white tablecloth edged in lace, was centered with a three-tiered white wedding cake decorated with wedding bells and lovebirds. Mrs. Kay Houston of Morton, Mrs. Vanessa Vinson, Miss Judy Steed served. Crystal and silver appointments and an arrangement of blue carnations completed the table setting.

The groom's table was covered with a blue tablecloth edged with blue lace. German chocolate cake has her say.....

DEAR JACLYN CLAYE: I'm just a young person but this world is getting even too weird for me. My roommate recently put the bug in my ear about how she would like to have a shower because she was planning to get married and how everything was so expensive and how she would appreciate all the help she could get. Well, I went for it; the shower was held here and she must have gotten about $300.00 worth of stuff. She was overjoyed with the results of the shower and to be truthful, I was really glad for her, too. But now she tells me that she is just moving in with the guy although she considers that "getting married". When she told me this, I really blew my cool. And then she said she is perfectly justified in accepting the shower gifts because as far as she is concerned she is getting married and she says times have changed and now this is common practice. Tell me Jaclyn, is it really that common? Sincerely, T.O.

DEAR T.O.: It may not be common practice, but it sure is common law. You've just been ripped off. It would not have been so bad had your room mate given you the facts about her "marriage". Had she told you the truth that time you might still have wanted to give her a shower but you would have known the circumstances, going in. The deceit is the insult. But I think she is also deceiving her self.

DEAR JACLYN CLAYE: Mine is the worst problem of all. You see, I am thirteen years of age and I am just awfully plain-looking. My face is skinny and my hair is awful and I am awkward and shy. I cannot meet people comfortably and I have no real friends and especially, no boyfriends. I'm not having any fun in life and although my grades at school are pretty good, still I have no other interests and I really feel that life is not worth the trip. I don't know how you can respond to this letter but I would like to see you try. Sincerely, 10-B.

DEAR 10-B: If you are just 13 years old and already in grade ten, you must be some kind of whizkid so let's start with that. In this world there is a real shortage of brain-power so you are already ahead of the game. But your lack of self confidence is the real problem and it is quite common. You can begin to build your self-esteem by perhaps improving your physical appearance and that's the easiest part of the mix. There are limitless numbers of books and magazines and products on the market. Please believe me, there is no face or figure in this world that cannot be improved and that includes yours. And the clothes and fashions that are available now can really do much for most of us. Consider yourself a very lucky girl in having the gift of good intelligence and great sensitivity. Looking better is the easy part. So start to concentrate in that area and I am certain that you will eventually feel better

The Department of Agriculture in Washington, over the objections of agricultural producers, continues to hack away at the disaster provisions of the 1972 farm law.

Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Service Administrator Kenneth Frick was the most recent USDA hatchet man. Appearing October 1 before the House Agriculture Committee on Department Operations, Frick advocated outright repeal of the disaster program.

The disaster section of the law about yourself. And thank you for writing me.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CAL: Forget it. I read your letter carefully and I tried to write something encouraging, but I simply cannot. What you really need is a circle of new friends.

authorizes subsistence-level payments to producers of cotton, wheat and feed grains when planting is prevented or production falls below two-thirds of a normal crop by reason of natural disasters such as drought and hail or other conditions beyond the farmer's control.

The hazards of hail, drought, wind and cold on the Texas High Plains make disaster protection especially vital to this area, says Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, the organization much responsible for that section of the law when it was passed in 1972.

"The Department didn't want a disaster program in the first place," Johnson notes, "and they have not minced words in condemning it since."

It is USDA's contention that the necessary protection against natural disasters can be made available to producers under the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC). At the Department's behest, Republican Congressman Edward Madigan of Illinois has introduced legislation to that effect.

Texas cotton producers through the Texas Association of Cotton Producers Organization (TACPO), countered Frick's remarks by pointing out the FCIC coverage is not sufficient to cover today's production costs, is not available in all major counties, and is not available on farms without irrigation.

The TACPO statement urged Subcommittee Chairman Kika de la Garza, Democrat of Mission, Texas, and others on the subcommittee to "exercise your full powers to block any effort to repeal disaster provisions of the 1972 Act."

The TACPO statement also called on the Department to use "common sense" approach program administration for criticism, among other things, the wasted time and money involved in "waiting periods, measurements, place counting and filling out of forms when hail completely wipes out crop."

IS THE CHURCH PART OF YOUR LIFE?

DESERT OF TREES

Many of us grew up with pictures of caravans crossing the sands of the Sahara. Those in the West know that the desert has many faces. One of our common mistakes in life is to assume that trees make a forest, flowers a garden, clothes a man—that appearances promise reality.

One of the invaluable influences of Christianity upon society has been its distinction between the facade and the truth. Christ taught that men must be known by their faith. Lack of spiritual concern is the surest way to make the world a desert of trees—a society of people without a sense of responsibility.

Wastelands cry out for reclamation. The Church Christ founded is reclaiming our society for Him. You need its Message.

Prairie Chicken Season Runs In County Oct. 18-19

Upland bird hunters are preparing for the annual October prairie chicken season to be held in 12 Panhandle and four South Plains counties.

The weekend of Oct. 18 and 19 should be marked on your calendar and if the excellent food and cover conditions continue in Northwest Texas, Texas Parks and Wildlife biologists predict a good prairie chicken season.

The eight Panhandle counties open include Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Roberts, Hemphill, Gray, Wheeler, Donley and Collingsworth. The South Plains counties of Terry, Cochran, Hockley and Yoakum are included on the list.

The daily bag limit will again be two birds with four in possession and shooting hours are 30 minutes before sunrise to 30 minutes after sunset for both days.

Firearms used or carried by prairie chicken hunters will be restricted to shotgun, longbow and arrow or falconry.

Successful prairie chicken hunters will not be required to check their birds through the check stations as they have done in past years. Department biologists manning these stations have gathered adequate information needed to manage the species even though these specialists will be in the field during the two day hunt.

"Each hunter spent an average of 4.4 hours per each bird bagged last year," said David Dvorak, project biologist, "and only 447 birds were checked through all the check stations."

Dvorak said that the destroying of native grasslands has more to do with the reduction in the number of birds than any other factor. The expansion of good prairie chicken habitat is not predicted by department biologists and it is hoped that landowners will retain the few remaining acres of native grasslands left on the High Plains.

Most successful prairie chicken hunters use dogs to find downed birds and a well trained retriever could mean the difference between a full game bag and feathers.

These same successful hunters usually contact the landowner to get permission to hunt near the grain fields or water tanks in advance of the opening date.

More information can be obtained by contacting your local game warden, biologist or any district or regional department office or call (806) 744-6583.

Antique Car Museum Opens in Berlin

The first time a Berlin photographer captured this 1899 Clement Broussier on film was in 1902 as it was driven through the Brandenburg Gate on a motor jaunt around the city. Today, visitors to Berlin (West) can see both the 1902 photograph and the car at the recently opened Poddig Automobile Museum.

The fact that Berlin now has an antique car museum of its own can be credited to the ambitions of Hugo Poddig, a local manufacturer of auto antennas and avid antique car lover. Eager to share his hobby with others, he bought and renovated an old 32,000 square foot garage complex to house his collection of vintage autos as well as cars owned by members of Berlin's antique car club and other aficionados.

Although the Clement Broussier pictured here is a true rarity—only three such racers were built—it is only one of the museum's many prizes. There are 60 cars currently on display including an 1894 French Millot and models bearing such renowned trademarks as Buchet, De Dion, Citroen, Kommissbrot, BMW, Hannomag, Rolls Royce, Ford, Horch, Daimler and many others. Twenty-one vintage motorcycles are also on exhibit.

Adding this antique car collection to Berlin's roster of some 50 museums is welcomed by antique car buffs as well as others who just like to marvel nostalgically at those splendid vehicles of the past. The museum, open daily from 10 to 6, is located in Berlin's Charlottenburg district not far from the city's well-known Charlottenburg Palace.
