Weather Plays Havoc In Floyd

Heavy rain and hail had a havoc in Floyd County Saturday evening with hail damaging crops and others from tornado winds. A tornado in Floyd County and the Billy Stanforth farm suffered the heaviest damage.

The storm moved in from the southwest as the hail and winds blew from the north. The hail was reported to be as large as golf balls. The hail and winds did a lot of damage to the crops and trees. German Visitors Find Americans Friendly

THE SATURDAY WAS as hot as the sun. The rain held off until the afternoon. There was a big shower from the minute the sun had quit the dances. The rain was more than I could keep. The rain was more than I could keep. The rain was more than I could keep.

What's the most impressive thing about the American West and Southwest to visitors from Germany? To Ernst Fischer and Heinz Pfefferl it's the friendliness of the people.

The Germans, members of a group of 25 European journalists who are making a Bicentennial tour of the United States, took a side trip to Floydada Sunday and Monday to visit Fischer's cousin, Mrs. J. C. Anderson, whom he had never before seen, and her family.

Everywhere they have been in the U.S., Fischer says he has gotten a strong impression of the friendliness of the Americans they've met. "Even when you go in a shop and buy nothing, people are friendly. They wouldn't be friendly long in Germany if you bought nothing," he says. "We have met only friendly people so far in America."

Fischer is head of the political news desk of the daily newspaper "Die Abendzeitung" (Evening News) in Munich. Pfefferl is a television cameraman.

The two Germans are making their American tour in a rented travel trailer. They left the other tour members in Santa Rosa, New Mexico to make the Floydada visit. They were to rejoin the group Tuesday in Amarillo, the only official Texas tour stop.

"You must get away from the group to see real life," Fischer said. "In the group there is every evening a meeting with the Chamber of Commerce..."

So Fischer and Pfefferl left the tour for two days to get an idea of "real life" in Texas. They learned from the Andersons how farmers here live, and Monday morning made a trip to the Matador Ranch to learn about the modern cowboy. "Our talk with the rancher was disillusioning," Fischer said. "They go in a pickup truck, not always on a horse. And they don't carry guns. But it was very interesting to see."

Texas is very much like Bavaria, in the southern part of Germany, where Fischer and Pfefferl live. "The travel guide says you will find the same temperament and atmosphere in Bavaria and Texas," Fischer says, opening a small red book, "and we have found this is true. Bavarians have a heavy dialect, like your Texas 'drawl'. And we have noticed there is more joking and story-telling here in Texas than farther west. But it is harder for us to understand the English language as you speak it here..." (The Germans find the "California" brand of English easier to understand.)

The German visitors' first impression of Floyd County was the flatness of the land. "It is like at home where I was born, in Lower Bavaria near the Danube -very flat, with many farms," Fischer says. But he says most of Europe has a "closer landscape."

"In America, it (the landscape) is wider," he says. "It was very interesting to go down (off the Caprock) when we went to the Matador

VISITORS FROM GERMANY -Heinz Pfefferl and Ernst Fischer visited in Floydada with the J. C. Anderson family Sunday and Monday. Disappointed on a visit to the Matador Ranch because the cowboys there rode pickups instead of horses, the Germans returned to the Anderson home Monday for a horseback ride. Bond Election Set June 26

The board of trustees of Floydada Independent School District met Monday night and set the bond election for June 26, 1976. The board appointed Jack Stansell election judge, Margaret Springer alternate election judge, and Mary Martinez clerk.

The bond issue will provide for moving present athletic facilities to new location, thus releasing campus space at junior high school for the use of the band and P. E. departments. It will also allow use of present athletic facilities for much-needed classroom space at high school, construct P.E. dressing rooms at R. C. Andrews Elementary, and build new tennis courts adjacent to the present high-school courts.

The Floyd Philosopher

Hopes Washington Understands Voters' Wrath Is Mostly Campaign Tax Talk

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm comes to the defense of Washington this week, more or less.

Dear editor:
The way the television analysts have it, the harder a candidate runs against Washington these days the more popular he is with the voters, but we don't want to over-do it and I hope Washington understands this is mostly just campaign talk.

For example, I doubt if there's a mayor or a county judge in the country who gets mad when Washington sends down another revenue-sharing check, unless it's smaller than the last one. Or show me a person over 65 who gets mad when Medicare pays his hospital bill. Where's the state highway department that gets mad because Washington is financing a large part of its roads? Where's the aircraft or railroad company mad because Washington is bailing it out? One way to make New York mad is to fail to renew its two billion dollar loan. And if

Washington really wants to invoke the voters' rage, just stop Social Security.

Don't misunderstand me, I'm with the rest of the voters. I get mad at Washington myself, especially when I figure the other fellow is getting more from there than I am.

Outside of all the above and a few others I've failed to mention, I join the rest of the voters in saying Washington has got to buckle down, throw out the red tape, and cut out all this wild spending. Why have 2,000 different bureaus all spending the tax payer's money when 100 could spend just as much?

Changing the subject, as I understand it, the government has charged that some big meat packers have been selling the army a cheap tough grade of beef, calling it a high grade with a high price, and cleaning up.

This sure relieves my mind. For a while there I thought maybe the army had got hold of one of my Jersey steers.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Handling Cream Filled Pastries

COLLEGE STATION - Improperly handled cream-filled pastries are one of the main sources of foodborne illness, Mrs. Sally Coble, a foods and nutrition specialist says.

"To protect against staph bacteria growing and causing illness, cook cream filling for pastries and custard fillings to at least 165 degrees F. immediately after it is mixed. Then pour it into the baked shell or crust," she said.

Mrs. Coble is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She said that custards should be baked in the serving dish or crust. Unless these are to be served immediately, refrigerate them promptly at 40 degrees F. or below and keep them at this temperature until served.

"If pastries have a meringue topping, use only the whites from good quality, clean eggs with uncracked shells. After browning at 425 degrees F. the pastry should be served immediately or refrigerated."

"The key to avoiding foodborne illness from cream-filled pastries is to be sure not to let them stand at room temperature - either eat hot from the stove or refrigerate immediately for later eating," she said.

People once thought that rubies could preserve persons from plague.

Mal Jarboes To Observe

60th Wedding Anniversary

A quiet observance is being planned by Mr. and Mrs. Mal Jarboe for Monday, May 31, as they mark their 60th wedding anniversary. Mrs. Jarboe said no formal celebration is planned but they would appreciate visits from friends and relatives. Mr. Jarboe, who is 90, is confined to his home most of the time.

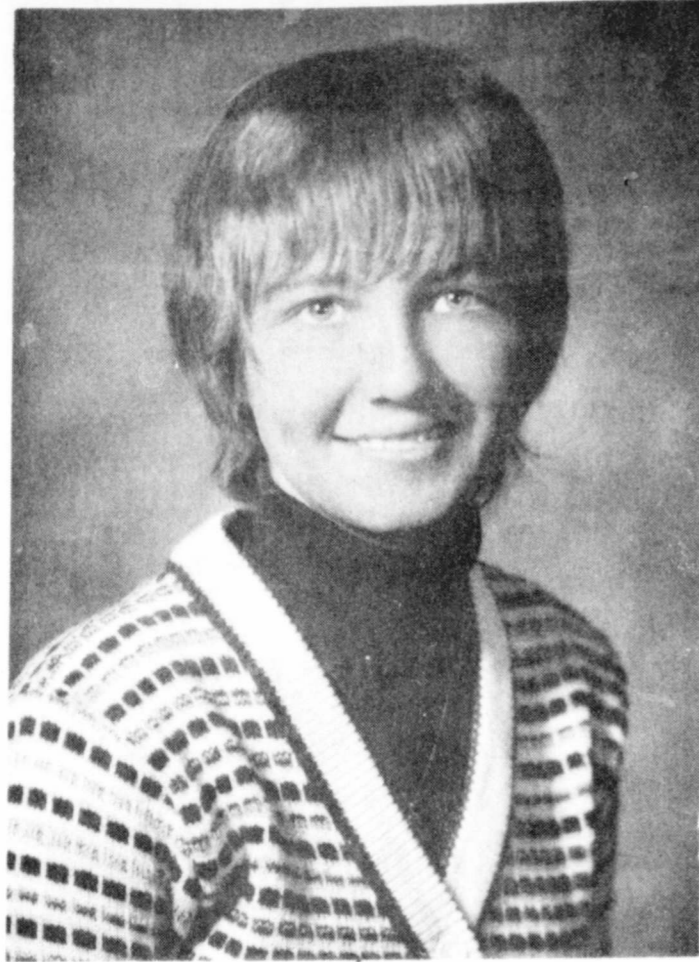

Among those planning to visit the couple will be their wedding attendants, Forest Nelson and his wife, the former Billie McFaddion of Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Mr. Jarboe and the former Grace Wilhite were married while seated in a buggy at the family home in Percell, Oklahoma, in 1916. They

The couple are members of the City Park Church of Christ and Mr. Jarboe was one of the first members, then a director on the board of Lighthouse Electric of which he served as president at one time. He is also a former school board member.

Mr. and Mrs. Jarboe have two sons, Malvin of Floydada and Tom Bob of Friona. They also have three grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

IT seems rather strange to see a relatively young person with a gold color pioneer reunion registration card on their lapel. At least I think so is still young. There were many at the reunion with that color of cards who only a few years back were registering on the blue and white cards, so time is going fast. I noticed in the pioneer registration book there were only 19 persons registering who came to or were born in the county in the 1800s. All others in the 1900s. In the county the longest is Mrs. Meda Honea of Lockney here since 1890. John Callihan also in 1890, but he now resides in Crosbyton. Longest in the county in the Floydada area is Mrs. J. E. Green, 1893.

BETTY Shirey of Long Beach, California, is trying to locate a dress which was worn when a baby, by her father, W. D. Newell of Floydada. The dress was loaned to a club some 10 years ago for display in a pioneer window and it was never returned to the Newell family. If you know of its whereabouts contact the Newells. I know they would appreciate getting the garment back for sentimental reasons. Mrs. Shirey, who has been in Floydada visiting her parents, said the dress was a creme color corduroy with a wide lace insertion and collar.

MUCH has been said and written on safety precautions for tornadoes, but little about lightning, which is thunderstorm's worst killer. We're told the first rule is to stay indoors. Safety experts say stay away from electrical appliances while the storm is overhead. Avoid open doors or windows, fireplaces, radiators, stoves, metal pipes and sinks, and don't use the telephone. If lightning catches you outdoors, stay away from metal objects. Keep clear of fences, telephone or power lines, pipelines or structural steel fabrication. Seek shelter in buildings when possible, and remember that automobiles offer excellent lightning protection, whereas in tornado winds they are unsafe, experts say. The worst place you can be in a lightning storm is under a tree on a hill. If a cave, ditch or canyon is not available,

Floydada Nursing Home Happenings
By Faye Walters

This week has been very busy. We worked many hours on our float and wish to thank Billie Ruth and Linsey Lackey and Ed Walters, who worked on it; as well as Larry Westbrook, also Flo Ella Jarbo, Maggie Gallaway and Doris Snodgrass who embroidered a block for our Bicentennial quilt that made up the front of the float. Of course we are not forgetting to thank each member of our staff and Hope Hammonds, (one of our residents), who embroidered one or more blocks and others who worked so many hours on the float. Without everyone's help we would not have made it.

Seems like this has been a week for thanking as the Alpha Mu Delta members brought 36 bibs to our residents. I know they must have spent many hours making them. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Day brought a lot more scraps from Hemphill Wells and Bray's Cleaners; Judy Beedy gave us so many upholstery and drapery samples; and then Thursday afternoon the Girl Scouts came out to the home and presented Mom Buchanan, our 100 year old resident, a plaque and visited with her. It is good to know there are so many people in Floydada who are willing to help out in any way they can.

Our devotions were great and we appreciate each one who took part in them.

Everyone is still enjoying our exercise class and our games. Tuesday was manicure day.

Thursday was our fun day with Bingo. Hope Hammonds and Clara Williamson tied with four games each; Della Finley, Ray Reed, Agnes Anderson and Hallie Bertrand had two games each.

Saturday was a big day for some of our residents - those able to go watch the parade. We want to thank Collins Imp. for letting us use their little tractor to pull our float, and William Bertrand for the trailer we built the float on.

There was also sorrow at the Nursing Home this week with the passing of one of our resident, Georgia Norrell. She had only been with us a short time but everyone had learned to love her. We prices climbing. CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: For meat value, consider cost per serving - rather than cost per pound. For example, chuck roast selling at 89 cents per pound is 44 cents per serving, since it yields only two servings per pound. Boneless stew meat at $1.29 per pound is only 26 cents per serving, since it provides five servings per pound.

Geraniums For Summer

COLLEGE STATION - Geraniums are an excellent choice to brighten summer landscapes, contends a landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Geraniums are easy to grow and will tolerate a wide range of conditions," says Everett Janne. "All that you need is a good soil mix and a well lighted area. Geraniums can be planted in a garden or grown in tubs, pots or hanging containers."

Janne notes that there are two disease-free varieties available from most garden centers and nurseries - Carefree and Sprinter. They produce flowers with colors ranging from deep red to white.

"Locate geraniums where they will receive plenty of light," points out the Texas A&M University System specialist. "However, some mid-afternoon shade is helpful."

"When preparing the soil, add a complete fertilizer at the rate of one or two pounds per 100 square feet. Space geraniums about 15 inches apart so that they will have plenty of room to grow and won't need pinching. They'll also flower earlier."

With proper care, geraniums will thrive and brighten up any landscape.

NEWS 'N' NOTES

(by Sharon Hillis)

"Versatile" is the word for milk and since June is Dairy Month, this is a good time to check the family's milk drinking habits.

Adults and children under 9 years of age need two eight-ounce servings each day. Children aged 9-12 and pregnant mothers over 19 need three or more servings a day, while teenagers and nursing mothers require four or more servings daily.

Milk is an excellent source of calcium to help form bones and teeth and keep them strong. It's hard to get enough calcium in the diet without consuming milk in some form daily.

The protein in milk builds and repairs body tissues, helps the body fight infection and supplies energy. Milk is also rich in riboflavin, a B-vitamin that helps keep skin healthy and vision clear.

To give family members their recommended amount of milk each day, serve it as a beverage, in products made with milk such as ice cream and cheese or use milk in preparing main dishes, soups, sauces and pudding.

Quick ham-vegetable chowder, sunshine fruit-cream mold and homemade vanilla ice cream all contain the nutrition and flavor of milk.

Quick Ham-Vegetable Chowder

10 1/2-ounce can cream of mushroom soup, condensed
10 1/2-ounce can cream of celery soup, condensed
2 1/2 cups milk
1 cup frozen peas
1/4 cup green onions, thinly sliced
1 cup cooked ham, cut in thin 1-inch strips
Mix all ingredients in a two-quart saucepan and heat to simmering. Simmer 5-10 minutes or until vegetables are done.
Makes six servings, about one cup each.

Calories per serving: about 220. For fewer calories, use skim milk in place of whole milk. About 195 calories per serving.
Menu Suggestion: Serve with apple-and-celery salad and oatmeal cookies for dessert.

Sunshine Fruit-Cream Mold

3-ounce package lemon-flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 cup pineapple liquid and cold water
6 lettuce leaves
20-ounce can drained pineapple chunks

6 mints sprigs
1 cup seedless grapes, halved
1/2 cup whipping cream
1/2 cup process Cheddar cheese, coarsely shredded
6 small grape clusters
Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; stir in pineapple liquid and water. Chill until thick but not set. Fold in cheese, pineapple chunks, grapes; mix gently. Whip cream; fold into gelatin mixture. Pour into a 1 1/2-quart mold or six individual molds. Chill until set. Unmold on lettuce.

Garnish with grape clusters and mint sprigs.

Makes six servings, 3/4 cup each.
Calories per serving: about 235.
Vanilla Ice Cream
2 cups sugar
1/4 cup cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 quart milk
4 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons vanilla
1 quart table cream
1 quart table cream
Mix sugar, cornstarch, and salt in a large saucepan. Stir in milk gradually. Cook over low heat stirring occasionally until thickened, 12-15 minutes.
Stir a small amount of the hot cornstarch mixture into the beaten eggs; then stir the eggs into the remaining cornstarch mixture.
Cook over low heat, stirring constantly four or five minutes longer, or until the mixture is about the consistency of pudding.

Chill thoroughly. This step is essential for a smooth ice cream. Stir in vanilla and cream.

Pour into a one-gallon ice cream freezer canister; fill not more than two-thirds full.

Freeze in a handranked or electric ice cream freezer packed with a mixture of one part ice cream salt and six parts crushed ice.

In handranking, the ice cream is frozen when the crank is difficult to turn. An electric freezer shuts off automatically when ice cream is frozen.

Remove dasher. Repack ice cream freezer with a mixture of one part salt and eight parts ice. Let ice cream stand about two hours before serving. Or, pack ice cream in freezer containers and harden in a home freezer.

NOTE: For this recipe, use only clean eggs with no cracks in shells.

Makes 28 servings: about 165.

For fewer calories, use chilled evaporated milk (not diluted) in place of table cream. About 140 calories per serving.

VARIATIONS:
Fruit Ice Cream. Stir two cups crushed or pureed sweetened fruit into ice cream after dasher is removed. Repack freezer with salt and ice; allow ice cream to harden. About 180 calories per serving if frozen strawberries are used in basic recipe; 160 in recipe for fewer calories.

Chocolate swirl ice cream. Swirl two and one-fourths cups mocha dessert sauce or any chocolate sauce through these should tell an interesting story of merchantile and professional activities through the years.

It has been pointed out that much history has been lost with the passing of early day business men of the community. But there are still many people around who can help record information from the early 1900's. The Chamber hopes to record fact, memiors, legends of the people of Floydada. Though this will not be an attempt to write a "History Book," it is possible that a great-grandchild in the future will use these reports in his research into the early history of Floydada in the 20th century.

Mrs. Davis asks that anyone interested in participating in this project contact her at P.O. Box 291. Appointments for interview can be set up at the convenience of the business man. All suggestions as to the businesses to be included will be greatly appreciated. There are quite a few deserving of recognition and recording.

Ranch. The scenery is very different." After the friendliness of the people, the language differences, and the scenery, the next thing the Europeans noticed about the country was the 55-mph speed limit.

"On the Autobahn in Germany, you go as fast as you can -there is no speed limit. Here the cars are in the right lane going 55 miles per hour and the trucks are passing them in the left lane. Is the speed limit different for trucks?" Fischer was told that the speed limit was the same for trucks. "Well, 55 miles an hour is too slow. Why is it so slow?" He was told about the fuel shortage and the former 70 mph limit. "Is there any chance of getting the speed limit raised back?" Probably not.

"Well, 55 is about right for us with the trailer, but it is too slow for just a car..."

Fischer and Pfefferl visited the Grand Canyon and made the overnight hike into and out of the canyon after flying over. It was somewhat like mountain climbing, which they are used to doing, Fischer said.

Fischer has spoken with many Americans. "...not just officials and politicians..." In Phoenix, the Germans were guests of a young lawyer and took part in a "block party." Fischer interviewed an Indian painter in Navaho country and has talked with a Presbyterian priest, students in San Diego, a dolphin rider at Sea World in San Diego, and many others. And the thing they all have in common, he says, is friendliness. When he made his journey for "The American friendliness" mentioned frequently by Fischer and Pfefferl. Fischer and Pfefferl joined the group in Santa Rosa. They stayed at the Santa Rosa Hotel. They were to continue through Arkansas, Tennessee, Washington, D. C. Fischer will fly to New York City to make another side trip as the tour passes through

MONTEZUMA'S REVENGE

People headed for Mexico need to be wary of Montezuma's revenge. Delhi belly, border blues, the turistas, Casablanca crud, Mexican two-step -just a few of the slang names for what is politely called traveler's diarrhea.

The Texas Medical Association points out that there are several precautions to take to avoid the problem. Unfortunately none of them are absolutely guaranteed to keep travelers from having a lengthy tour of Mexican restrooms. Studies show between one-third and one-fourth of visitors to Mexico get the turistas.

Organisms in tap water, ice, uncooked shellfish and salads, raw vegetables and inadequately cooked foods often waylay travelers. Germs love lukewarm temperatures so eating only very cold or hot foods that are well-cooked may cut down danger some -although it is no absolute guarantee of safety.

Raw fruits peeled by the traveler generally are safe. Bottled carbonated beverages and alcoholic beverages also usually are considered usable. Drinking water can be boiled and even very hot tap water may be used for brushing teeth. Make sure the seal is unbroken on purified bottled water, "agua purificado."

One of the few things definitely known about traveler's diarrhea is the symptoms. Usually within 10 days of arrival, the unlucky tourist is stricken with diarrhea and possibly cramps, nausea, vomiting, chills and fever. Lucky travelers recover within about a day. For others the misery can last for a week or more.

Some doctors recommend letting traveler's diarrhea run its course with little or no medication. Most turista attacks, about 55 percent, are relatively mild, consisting of only one episode lasting one to three days. However, even a mild case can ruin a holiday so many people resort to the many pills, liquids and suppositories available. A quick call to a physician before leaving may provide some helpful hints on medication.

One of the biggest problems with traveler's diarrhea is loss of body fluids and chemicals. Canned fruit juice, bottled carbonated drinks, bouillon, purified water, etc. can help.

WASHINGTON—One of the more cynical—but regrettably more accurate—maxims of politics is that there is no such thing as a "temporary" government agency. The National Commission on the Standardization of Screw Threads, for example, was established in 1919 for a three-year study. Though modified, it is with us yet today.

The latest and perhaps the most lamentable example of the permanence of "temporary" government agencies is the Federal Energy Administration (FEA). Only a gleam in a bureaucrat's eye two years ago, FEA has since mushroomed into an agency of 3,400 employees with an annual budget of $142 million. Like the National Commission on the Standardization of Screw Threads, it seems destined to long outlive the purpose for which it was created.

The FEA was created in early 1974 as an emergency means to deal with the Arab oil embargo of 1973-74. FEA was to develop and implement a program of controls to carry the U.S. through the embargo crisis and put us back on the road to energy self-sufficiency.

The oil embargo which spawned its creation is now over, but there are no signs of retrenchment at FEA. A bill presently before Congress would extend the life of this "temporary" agency for three more years, and nearly triple its budget.

It is difficult to find any justification for the continued existence—much less the expansion—of the FEA. When the Arab oil embargo struck, Americans were dependent upon foreign sources for nearly 40 percent of their energy. Today, after two vigorous years of FEA activity, we must import more than half of all the oil and natural gas we use.

FEA's chief contribution during this period seems to have been "Energy Ant," a cartoon character that has provided passing amusement to third-graders across the country.

Aside from the third graders, FEA is most popular with lawyers who have mastered its 700 pages of rules, with contractors who will share in the $300 million FEA will pass out this year, and with a few companies which have profited from disparities in FEA regulations.

FEA is not so popular with oilmen who find their drilling operations hamstrung by foolish FEA regulations, by working men and women who are laid off their jobs when the drilling rigs are stacked, and by consumers who are forced to pay higher prices for energy than they would have to pay on a free market.

Its first Administrator, Treasury Secretary William Simon, has described FEA as an "outrage" and a "potential monster" which ought to be abolished. I agree. Along with Sens. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) and Dewey Bartlett (R-Okla.), I've introduced a bill to abolish FEA. Perhaps we can prove that there is such a thing as a temporary government agency after all.

Our future has made history.

Farmers tend to be pretty tough customers. They want to get everything they can out of every nickel they spend. And that's good.

Because the tougher they get the more likely they are to use

Gifford-Hill's irrigation equipment.

There are two very good reasons for that.

One, we can give them the best engineered irrigation equipment in the country. Our history has proven that.

And two, we can give the best service to take care of that equipment.

Our history has proven that, too.

The fact is, you can only draw one conclusion. Whether you need a pivotal system, an underground PVC system, or an aluminum surface system, you just can't outdo us. And we don't think you'll ever be able to.

All you have to do is take a look at our past. That should give you a very good idea about what to expect in the future.
