programs for schools beginning at the grade school level. It is involved in training fire and police organizations in several states. It has worked up programs for military units and is involved in developing a physical rehabilitation program for those who have been injured. It also offers physical fitness as a preventive medicine procedure for family physicians to prescribe to their patients. It is currently developing a program that it can bring into the livingroom of the American family. An affiliated company, Executive Fitness of America, Inc., conducts the Institute's programs for business and industry.

In addition it works with those whose vocation requires them to be physically fit. It has implemented the training programs of the NFL's Minnesota Vikings, the Oakland Raiders, the NHL's Philadelphia Flyers, the NBA's Golden State Warriors, plus several national amateur teams and individual athletes in various sports.

PFI bases the majority of its programs on a relatively new exercise concept called "Total Isokinetics." The concept is currently undergoing considerable research and study by the physiology departments of the University of Arkansas, Texas State Women's College and Northern Illinois University. PFI is funding many of these projects.

Data collected to date has shown that muscle fiber responds much more quickly to conditioning by "Total Isokinetics" than by any other method. It offers total fitness in five major fitness areas...cardiovascular, strength, coordination, flexibility and endurance.

"It's not so much that 'Total Isokinetics' can achieve these things," said Nevin. "Most quality exercise programs, given enough time and proper application can produce good fitness results. The appeal of 'Total Isokinetics' is that gains come much faster and in a shorter period of time. A good fitness program can be worked up, requiring only 10-15 minutes of daily exercise from an individual...and without involving him in boring repetitive routines. For the average individual, who has probably never exercised...or really doesn't care to...and is interested only because he has suddenly been made aware that this health is deteriorating because he is not physically active...Total isokinetics offers him an effective program that doesn't cut too deeply into his daily routine."

As President for Physical Fitness Institute, Nevin's job is to implement the Institute's program within U.S. He lives in Hughes Springs, Texas.

Jury Makes Decision On Wood-Marble Bros. Case After Three Days In Court

After three days of court proceedings, late Thursday a 12 man and woman jury awarded Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wood of the South Plains community $68,690 on the death of their son Russell, who died in a corn slide last fall while working for Marble Bros.

Most of the argument presented to the jury concerned the responsibility of Marble Bros. as employer and 15 year-old Russell, who was working in the corn dryer process after school near McCoy.

The jury decided 60 percent responsibility for Marble Bros. and 40 percent for the deceased.

Attorney Max Addison of Lubbock represented Farm Bureau Insurance Company and Bill Gillespie also of Lubbock represented the Woods. Plainview district judge John Thomas Boyd presided over the court in the absence of district judge George Miller who is in Reno, Nevada attending a judge's school.

Jury foreman was I.W. Graves. Other members of the jury were: B.J. Saenz, Mrs. Charles R. Ellison, Mrs. Enruque Gonzalez, Marvin Ross Lemons, Mrs. Robert H. Gibson, Dorris W. Jones, Mrs. George Albert, T.E. Switzer, Mrs. O.D. Tarpley, Huford Sue and Mrs. J.A. Higginbotham.

Judge Boyd said Friday morning that each side has asked for a verdict which will be made later based on the "Comparative Negligence Law."

Mayor Warns Dog Owners About Ordinance

"We are working on the stray dog problem, but many of our dog problems will be solved if our people simply observe our dog ordinance," the Mayor said.

Several city residents were at the city council meeting last week protesting the problem of dogs biting their children.

The Mayor reported Friday morning the dog that had bitten five children had been shot.

Defiant, Massive Farm Protest

TI- Stating simply that they are not going to be any longer," the Texas Farmers Union today officially positioned a serious protest action for the next few months.

The protest, possibly a strike on supplies purchases and demonstrations, was announced at this time.

The protest came from the organization's Executive Council, which is asking first for a four-year general farm strike before Congress and then shortly after the strike recess. Second, if the strike is not made, they ask for presidential veto. Failing that, the organization promises some form of a strike or protest action.

Said one farmer, "Farmers across the entire state, raising every commodity, are mad! For years we have asked to be heard...and thought this Administration might listen. But the market is at rock-bottom and the policymakers in government want to keep it that way! We're going to tell these guys, by whatever method it takes, that they can't take advantage of us any longer! We're not going to keep on producing...we can't keep producing...if we don't get our fair share at the producer's price level."

The Farmers Union points its main opposition to the Farm Bill toward provisions which would provide low "floors" and precedent-setting "ceilings," also at low levels in order to keep prices at a world level of trade in addition to preventing food inflation. Farmers claim, however, that they cannot deal with income set at a cheap world level while their own costs for equipment, supplies and labor are at inflationary domestic levels.

Said one farmer, "They are taking the 'boom and bust' out of agriculture by taking out the 'boom.' The problem with that, though, is that it guarantees us a loss and there's no place on earth where we can get money borrowed to operate like that any longer."

Other Farmers Union states besides Texas are expected to take similar action soon, which means the movement could spread nationwide. "Once the other states get into their harvest seasons as Texas has been in wheat and now grain sorghum, they'll be hit in the face with this bankrupting market. You can bet they'll be with us!"

"We're not trying to hurt the consumer with more inflation," said the farmer-spokesman. "Farmers are consumers, too, remember. But it's high time that the person in the supermarket realizes how little of that retail dollar goes back to the farmer. They've got to know that we're going broke fast and that those shelves are not going to stay full if we are forced to quit. They've got to see how over-processed their food is, and how everyone in-between writes their

Panhandle Possible Nuclear Waste Site

From The Shari Lewis' Magic Club

The Honest Deal
Shuffle cards, place the deck face down, remove the top half and ask someone to check the first card on the bottom half. Return the top half. Have the person who checked the cards cut the deck and turn each one face up saying which card is the "secret" one. You can tell if he tells the truth.

This is one of the many magic tricks found on new Dixie Magic Tricks Cups for Kids. It's done by turning the top half slightly as you take it off, so you can see the bottom card. The "secret" card will always follow this, no matter how often the cards are cut.

Geologists who are scouring the Lubbock-Amarillo area, looking for a possible site for an underground nuclear waste dump, will hold a meeting in Amarillo June 29 to explain what is going on to local officials and citizens.

The meeting will be held in city council chambers in Amarillo's municipal building at 7 p.m.

State Rep. Bob Simpson of Amarillo will chair the meeting.

Simpson, however, said, "I am not endorsing the use of the Panhandle for future nuclear waste disposal. There are some apparent risks, and perhaps some benefits to such a project in this area."

The legislator indicated he is chairing the meeting as a courtesy to the University of Texas geologists, federal officials and Union Carbide, the company which is contracting the waste dump search for the government.

The federal government, under the National Waste Terminal Storage Program, wants to have two underground storage sites for commercial nuclear trash in operation in the 1980s.

Geologic studies, similar to those going on now in West Texas, are being conducted all over the nation.

The West Texas testing is centered on the Palo Duro Basin which underlies most of the South Plains as far south as Lamb, Hale and Floyd Counties, and the Dallam Basin, which underlies the northwest corner of the Panhandle and stretches into Oklahoma.

Religious Organizations May Hold One Auction

AUSTIN—Comptroller Bob Bullock Wednesday reminded religious and other nonprofit, tax-exempt organizations they now may hold one sale or auction a year in which they don't have to collect sales taxes.

The special one-a-year, tax-free sales were authorized by the Texas Legislature and apply to tax-exempt religious, educational, charitable and eleemosynary organizations.

The legislation had the support of the Comptroller's Office.

Bullock said the new law, which became effective May 24, allows only one tax-free sale or auction during a calendar year and limits it to one day only.

If two or more organizations jointly hold a tax-free sale or auction, neither may hold another during the calendar year, he said.

The bill allows the sponsoring organization to pay the auctioneer a "reasonable fee."

Bullock said the loss of revenue to the state and cities will be minimal.

"Many of these tax-exempt organizations depend heavily on annual sales or auctions to raise money for many worthwhile projects," Bullock noted.

"This will do away with a lot of the red tape, and allow them to put a little more of the money they collect to good use," he said.

What you pay to lease a Zimmatic depends on the price of corn.

Here's another first from Lindsay... the Zimmatic Corn Crop Lease. Instead of a fixed lease payment, you pay for your Zimmatic based on the price of corn. If corn prices plunge, so does your lease payment.

By offering this new lease, Lindsay is sharing some of the same risks that you face every year. Corn prices fluctuate, which affects your profit picture. That's why Lindsay developed the exclusive Zimmatic Corn Crop Lease... a revolutionary program that tailors your lease payments to the changing price of corn, from one year to the next.

The Zimmatic Corn Crop Lease is designed so you can lease a Zimmatic without using your normal operating credit sources... your Zimmatic pays its own way by turning on your production.

The number of Zimmatics available under this program and the time period of this offer are limited so come in soon and get all the details on the Corn Crop Lease and other exclusive leasing programs available only through Lindsay Credit Corp.

Take advantage of a program that has never been offered in the industry before... it's the lease we can do for you.

FARM REVIEW

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

Texas cotton production figures just released by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service (TCLRS) show 1976 production in the 25 High Plains counties represented by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, at 1,986,500 bales of 480 pounds net weight.

Production on the High Plains was from 2,609,100 harvested acres, according to TCLRS, for an average yield of 365.5 pounds per acre. This compares favorably with the 278.8 pound yield of 1975, when area wide production dropped to 1,420,200 bales, but is below the 1971-1975 area average yield of 392 pounds.

All time high yield for the 25 counties, recorded in 1965, was 513.2 pounds per acre. Both yield and crop quality in 1976 were affected drastically by an untimely freeze early in October.

Dawson County, with 244,200 bales, led the area in production, followed by Gaines (202,100), Lynn (200,600) and Lubbock (195,300). Lynn County was the area's leading producer in 1975.

Per acre yield leaders were Martin County (453 pounds), Dawson (432), Howard (422) and Crosby (406).

The Joint Estimates Committee of PCG and the Lubbock Cotton Exchange early in December of last year estimated area production at only 1,795,000 bales, 191,500 bales and almost 10 percent below the final output.

The chart below shows planted and harvested acres, per acre yields and total production in net weight bales for each of the 25 PCG counties.

"Operation Motorcade" To Focus Attention On Holiday Travel

Wilson E. Speir, Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, reported today that the DPS Statistical Services estimates a large number of persons will die in traffic accidents during the upcoming Fourth of July holiday. Speir said, "Deaths so far during 1977 are running higher than expected due to excessive use of alcohol and speed."

"Operation Motorcade" is designed to focus attention on the added dangers of death in holiday travel. Traffic fatalities will be counted by the DPS throughout the Fourth of July period. These totals will be announced three times daily in order to keep safety uppermost in the minds of the drivers.

Major C. W. Bell, DPS Region 5 Commander of Lubbock, said, "Most traffic accidents are made more tragic by the fact that they could have been avoided. Too often the best driver lets his attention wander, and the result is a fatal accident."

The Texas Department of Public Safety's Region 5 will have all available uniformed officers on patrol during the Fourth of July holiday. There will be an

American, Foreign Cotton Producers Work To Meet Demand

RALEIGH—Cotton producers in the U.S. and abroad are responding to continued consumer demand for cotton with major production increases this year, report economists at Cotton Incorporated.

As a result, the economists say, the extremely low supplies of cotton—after falling to critical levels this summer and early fall—will be rebuilt to a more adequate level, enabling both domestic and foreign mills to increase their cotton use in 1977-78.

Cotton Incorporated, the fiber company of American cotton producers, keeps producers and others in the cotton industry abreast of market and general economic trends through its monthly publication, the COTTON SUMMARY.

In the latest (June) issue, David W. Cox, vice president for economic research and development, and his staff report that attractive prices, good weather and continued demand for the look and feel of cotton have all combined to bring about significant production increases.

In the U.S., they say, it now appears that a crop as large as 13.5 million bales might be harvested—shifting the availability of cotton in this country from extremely tight to adequate in late October.

"Much the same conditions will be found overseas," Cox adds, "although in most cotton-importing nations the period of tightness followed by greater availability of cotton will come in November."

On the domestic scene, Cox says the prospects for larger cotton supplies, coupled with increasing synthetic fiber prices and continued consumer demand for cotton, should increase cotton consumption by U.S. mills to about 7 million bales in 1977-78, up from an estimated 6.8 million bales this year.

While foreign cotton production also will increase this year, 1977-78 also is expected to bring about increased demand for U.S. cotton abroad, Cox said.

"Many cotton-importing nations must rebuild their stocks of cotton, which will be reduced to critically low levels before new crop cotton can reach them," he points out.

In addition, says Cox, population increases and improvements in general economic conditions around much of the world are expected to boost foreign cotton consumption to some 56 million bales.

All these factors combined add up to the possibility that 5.2 million bales of U.S. cotton might be exported in 1977-78—a 6 per cent increase over the strong export level of 4.9 million bales in 1976-77, he adds.

Cheddar cheese and the products made from it are economical sources of protein, calcium, riboflavin and Vitamin A, says Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

When covering buttons or belting with a sheer or loosely constructed fabric, first fuse matching lining fabric to the wrong side of the fashion fabric. This prevents the button form or belting from showing through and prevents raveling, too, advises Margret Ann Vanderpoorten, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

increase in surveillance over the heavy holiday traffic, with special emphasis on apprehension of the drinking drivers and speeders.

"The most important effort in reducing traffic accidents must come from the individual driver, and the joys of a long and happy life are the rewards for safe holiday motoring," concluded Major Bell.

NEWS 'N' NOTES

(by Sharon Hillis)

When vacation time rolls around, the question always pops up: What's the best way to carry funds to cover all the expenses?

Your best bet is to use a variety of methods to suit varying situations. Some cash is obviously needed for immediate use. And, if you're going abroad, it makes sense to purchase a small amount of local currency for the countries you will be visiting before you leave. This will save you from a crisis in case you need to make a phone call at the airport, or simply want to purchase a snack. Packets of varying denominations are available already made up at most currency exchange centers.

For hotel bills, restaurants, car rental and even air fares—why not consider using a bank card? They are safer than carrying a lot of cash, and since you won't be billed for a month or more after the purchase, you continue to have the use of your money, or to earn interest on it while it remains in your savings account.

There are two international bank cards—VISA (the new name for Bank Americard) and Master Charge. They are widely accepted around the world and are advantageous in and of themselves. They offer low charges for converting your funds into local currency for payment. And, conversions are made on or close to the date of purchase, so you have a better idea what your final bill is going to look like in American dollars.

For cash to purchase small items or services, you can get a cash advance on your bank card from foreign banks just like you do at American banks.

checks. The best known are those issued by American Express, Citibank and Bank of America. They can be purchased at thousands of banks across the country. The cost is one per cent of face value. All of the issuing companies have procedures for replacement or refunds if checks are lost or stolen.

Most also give immediate emergency refunds up to specified limits.

If you're considering a large purchase overseas, such as antique furniture or the like, you might want to look into the possibility of obtaining a "traveler's letter of credit" from your banker. Essentially, this agreement allows you to withdraw funds abroad from foreign banks that have an established relationship with your local bank. A list

Career Gives Extra Stress

Men who have had outside-the-home work experience—prior to their career and before marriage or in its early years.

On the other hand, men usually have not developed the behaviors and skills to deal with household tasks and childrearing, nor were they reared to be supportive of a wife's career needs.

It may be that society perpetuates the idea that men should be "strong, independent, and more competent than women" while this may not be the case in reality, Miss Johnson added.

On the other side of the picture, many couples have adjusted to dual-career marriages with a great deal of satisfaction, she said.

"This is not accomplished without a great deal of planning and cooperation on both parts, though."

"Marriages which involve highly career-oriented couples find that both husband and wife must be secure in their own position—otherwise the egos begin to suffer."

"These couples also attempt to work out situations and job demands which are fair to both parties.

"They agree that a move toward the advancement of one partner—and the detriment of the other—would not be in the best interest of the couple."

Indications are that dual-career marriages will be a wave of the future and become more and more prevalent, Miss Johnson said.

Although women engaged in full-time careers do not represent the norm in this country, that lifestyle is becoming more acceptable, the specialist said.

Recent figures indicate that while 40 per cent of the total labor force is made up of women, currently they represent only about 2.3 per cent of those earning more than $25,000 per year.

However, a recent survey of college males indicates that 90 per cent expect their wives to earn as much money as they do.

As this lifestyle becomes more popular, the dual-career should be viewed as a solution, and not as a problem in itself, she added.

Burnet's Ethel Thomas: A Believer In Higher Education

Mrs. Thomas Displays Her Artistic Pillows

A few weeks ago, when a tenth grade student in Lampasas High School undertook a "roots" assignment from his teacher, he must have been amazed at the interesting life of his oldest living relative, a great grandmother living in Burnet.

The student is Curtis Chapin, who lives west of Lampasas, and the remarkable subject of this study is Mrs. Ray Thomas of Burnet, who will celebrate another birthday on June 25. She'll probably tell you how many if you ask her, but nobody could ever know it from watching her.

About the same time her grandson was working on his school assignment, a friend from Floydada in West Texas suggested that her newspapering son write a column about his mother.

"An entire book could be written about such an interesting woman," wrote Mrs. Hollis R. Bond. "Your mother, her children, grand children and great grandchildren have made life very meaningful for us. (Mrs. Thomas lived in Floydada before moving to Burnet).

"We are grateful for her interesting, useful and inspiring life," wrote Mrs. Bond.

Ethel Daily Morehead Thomas

came to Texas from Arkansas some 70 years ago. Most of her life was lived on the South Texas plains where her first husband died some years ago.

Her father was a country grocer in Arkansas, who moved his family to the new Texas boom town of Plainview in three railroad cars containing all their belongings, including a horse and buggy, and enough lumber to build Plainview's first hotel.

The Moreheads reared four children: Lucian, an attorney in Plainview; Richard, chief of the Dallas News Austin Bureau; Mrs. Dorothy Hotchkiss of Floydada, who with her husband operates another hotel built by the Dailys; and Mrs. Robert J. Overly of New Orleans, soon to move on Stavanger, Norway, where Overly will be an offshore engineer for Exxon.

The Overlys, incidentally, own acreage in northeast Burnet.

About Mrs. Thomas:

She is the world's greatest practitioner of the power of positive thinking and in the power of religion. She's an active lifelong Baptist.

Oldham Sheriff Cleared Of Charge

DALLAS [AP] - A Dallas federal jury has cleared former Oldham County sheriff William Olsen of charges he obstructed gambling laws and participated in a $1 million per week, Panhandle-based gambling operation.

The jury, apparently confused over a legal technicality, rendered three verdicts Wednesday before finally finding Olsen innocent.

Six other defendants, however, were convicted of operating the gambling network, although all were also found innocent of the conspiracy to obstruct justice charges.

The confusion, which once saw two jurors telling U.S. District Court Judge Robert M. Hill that they disagreed with the decision just handed to him, forced Judge Hill to twice send the jury back to its deliberations.

The government contended Olsen tipped off the accused bookmakers that their phones had been tapped by FBI agents and that he aided in setting up their bookmaking operation in a Wildorado, Tex., motel.

Delay doesn't seem to bother Clayton

By AMY KIDD
Herald Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Delays don't bother Bill Clayton.

Or, if they do, he's not admitting to getting sweaty palms over the prospects of a special session and accompanying possibilities of setbacks in working out almost $1 billion in public education measures.

With a starting point of the regular session's dead House Bill 750, he thinks the education committee on his side of the Capitol can write a successful proposal in a matter of days — although some parts of a new school finance bill are still questionable.

The House Committee on Public Education already is formed, it has a proposal to work from and Clayton doesn't anticipate having the panel begin its work "much before the first of July."

"IF THEY (COMMITTEE members) are familiar with it, when we get to grips in a special session with a piece of legislation, it won't take long. One hearing, and they'll be able to present a bill."

Clayton is maintaining his optimism despite the uncertainty of an upcoming Attorney General's opinion and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby have requested on two key portions of a proposed education plan: whether the state can tax agricultural land on the basis of what it produces instead of its open market value; and whether single family residences can be taxed on 80 per cent of their market values. Both measures are important in determining individual tax bases, and the amount of state money to be provided for local districts.

Clayton is confident both concepts stand the test of constitutionality; he just wants the points clear for lawmakers when they incorporate them in a bill — and he expects an opinion before the July 11 starting date.

AFTER THAT, he counts on what he sees as a well-prepared Legislature to move through its work with only minimal fighting.

"It really won't take a great deal of time to have bills prepared and ready for the session when it starts," he notes.

"Once the committees start their work, they don't have other meetings to go to, they don't have floor debate to run to. They'll be able to put in a full day's work. I think the committees can turn out a product in a couple of days. So why have them come down here until we need them?"

EVEN WITH THE possibility of a special session on more than education, Clayton is "not necessarily bothered" by the idea that Gov. Briscoe could include other legislation, such as utility tax reform and nursing home regulation, in the call.

"I think our major emphasis and stress is going to be toward a solution of school finance. That'll be first priority. Period."

The sticky issue of tax reform, he says, probably will be incorporated in school finance legislation anyway.

Clayton expresses the same confidence that local school administrators can draw up their own budgeting plans by late summer to cover the 1977-78 school year.

"I SUSPECT that with the pinch they're going to be in and the time frame they'll have to operate in, that most of them will be budgets to begin with. Under current law, something similar committee report believe it were this is the approach would be prepared comes time to August."

Clayton shares optimism that even limited to a come up with much school finance predicts.

"I think if a similar to the report on House going to prove significant monetary stability is concern might believe."

Cheaper Fares May Result From Pact

LONDON (AP) - Cheaper transatlantic air fares should result from the new U.S.-British commercial air agreement initiated at dawn Wednesday that averted a shutdown of most air traffic between the two countries, officials said.

Spokesmen for both sides said ticket buyers would benefit from airline savings resulting from new controls on the number of empty seats on commercial flights between Britain and America. The spokesmen would not give specific estimates of potential consumer savings.

There were no immediate details of the agreement.

Empty seats were averaging 40 per cent under the old pact, signed 31 years ago after negotiations in Bermuda.

The new accord also opens several new markets for the airlines of both countries, Pan American World Airways, Trans World Airlines and National Airlines of the United States, and the state-controlled British Airways.

It was initiated after night-long negotiations that followed a 12-month deadlock. U.S. officials said commercial flights would have been halted if a new agreement was not reached before the old one expired at midnight Tuesday, Washington time. Charter flights would not have been affected.

Last year, Britain requested negotiations on a new agreement. The British said they wanted more than the existing one-third share of the $850 million dollar travel market between the countries. But the negotiations bogged down as U.S. officials argued that British proposals to increase Britain's share would infringe on free enterprise.

Deep differences persisted so near the deadline that TWA flights arriving from Los Angeles and Boston circled London's Heathrow Airport while waiting to learn whether it would be all right to land. TWA would have used Paris as an alternative link with London if the talks failed.

The airlines already had deployed staffs to handle alternate routing when the new agreement was announced.

British Trade Secretary Edmund Dell said the pact would be ready for signing by late July after further talks in Bermuda on details. He said the agreement should give Britain a bigger share of the air market

But Dell refused to say by how much, telling reporters: "The most we want to claim is that this gives British airlines a chance to fight for a growing share of a growing market."

American sources said the United States gained as good as it gave away, pulling in a few new routes and achieving much greater flexibility on others.

"We both won," the chief U.S. Negotiator, Special Ambassador Alan S. Boyd, told a news conference. "Our airlines won and the public won. We think it's a fair deal."

British politicians and newspapers claimed a "victory" in the new routes, measures to limit excess seating capacity, restrictions limiting Britain's competition to a single U.S. carrier at a number of second-rank American gateway airports, and surrender of some American routes from London into Europe, and from Hong Kong into Asia.

Back Yard Garden Can Be Worth $900 Per Year

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

An experimental backyard garden near Dallas has yielded 1,778 pounds of vegetables and small fruit on 1,776 square feet of land (about 42 x 42.3).

That's more than a pound of food from each square foot of garden. The value of the vegetables and fruit were calculated to be worth more than $900 retail.

The back-yard garden was started in the fall of 1974 by a research scientist at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Renner.

It was established to help draw some economic guidelines for those who are serious in producing home-grown vegetables. The scientist, Benny J. Simpson, kept record of all costs except labor.

Expenses totaled $80.39 so the garden had a net value of $823.18. Simpson is quick to point out that the net value would be eaten up by hired labor.

Costs were broken down like this: vegetable seed, $17.10; 10 bunches of Hamburger onion plants, $14.95;

100 Comanche Blackberry plants at $10.00, depreciated over 10 years, $1.00; Bacillus thuringiensis, 1 1/2 ounces, $.98; chemical pesticides, 6 1/2 ounces, $2.07; fungicide, 2 ounces, $1.19; fertilizer, $2.84; water, 11,544 gallons at $.60 per thousand feet, $6.93; and rototiller, depreciated over 6 years, $33.33.

Simpson says he didn't figure charges for labor, compost, organic mulch, or small garden tools such as hoes, rakes and shovels. The smallest possible containers of pesticides were purchased and the garden was charged only with the amount used.

Flow rates of water were measured with a meter and all applications were timed for the exact amount used.

Now what did Simpson actually harvest? In April, there was a total yield of 161.9 pounds of lettuce, English peas, green onions, turnips, and turnip greens for a total value of $58.40.

In May, he harvested 173.7 pounds of Chinese cabbage, English peas, broccoli, cauliflower, green beans, squash, and blackberries worth $91.52.

In June, 407 pounds of tomatoes, beans, blackberries, broccoli, squash, cucumbers, sweet peppers, jalapeno peppers, eggplant, and purple hull peas were harvested for a total value of $229.19.

In July, Simpson harvested 215 pounds of onions, purple hull peas, beans, tomatoes, eggplant, cucumbers, sweet peppers, jalapeno peppers, and okra for a total of $81.05.

In August, 180.9 pounds of tomatoes, okra, sweet peppers, eggplant, jalapeno peppers, and cucumbers were harvested for a value of $92.16.

In September, 255.9 pounds of okra, jalapeno peppers, tomatoes, eggplant, sweet peppers, squash and bell peppers were harvested and valued at $148.14.

ELECTRIC AIR

Conditioning

ing does more
cool!

Electric air conditioning is more than simply a way of keeping cool during hot, sticky summer weather. Cool it does, but much more, too. Besides cooling, electric air conditioning filters out dust and dirt. It removes excess moisture and keeps out outside noise. An electric air conditioner ventilates and circulates air. It de-humidifies by removing the excess moisture that causes discomfort and creates mildew.

With electric air conditioning your home is quiet, clean and comfortably cool. Electric air conditioning is one of the best home improvement bargains available, providing many features that make a home a better place to live.

Choose your air conditioner carefully. A unit with a capacity that is too small won't be able to keep you cool when you want cooling most. A unit too large will cool too quickly and provide insufficient dehumidification. The result—a cold clammy feeling. To be sure you select the proper size unit, have your dealer estimate your cooling load before you buy.

TDPS Warns Of High Number Of Holiday Accidents

AUSTIN—The Texas Department of Public Safety today warned that an unusually high number of traffic accidents and fatalities are likely to occur during the July 4th holiday weekend.

The head of the DPS, Colonel Wilson E. Speir, estimated that 51 persons would lose their lives in Texas traffic from 6 p.m. Friday, July 1, to midnight Monday, July 4.

"Based on past holiday experience, we believe many of the traffic accidents during the holiday period will involve either speeding or drinking. Also, it is likely that a high percentage will occur late at night or within a few hours after midnight," Speir said.

"Hopefully, motorists will drive defensively and be thoughtful while behind the wheel. I sincerely believe that if they would keep the principle of courtesy and concern utmost in their minds that it would make for a safe holiday," the DPS director added.

To deal with the problem of reckless drivers, the DPS will be utilizing all its manpower in a strong enforcement program. In addition, Department of Public Safety Troopers will be working with local enforcement agencies throughout the state, as well as the news media, trying to keep the public safety conscious.

During the July 4th weekend last year, 55 persons were killed in Texas accidents. Department of Public Safety records indicate the deaths were almost evenly divided between city streets and rural highways.

The most prevalent type of collision last July 4th involved only one vehicle.

Moore, formerly of Lockney, was ordained recently at Englewood Baptist Church, Kansas City, Missouri. Moore has served at Englewood since 1974 as youth choir director and later as minister of music and adult education. Moore attended Texas Tech University and Midwestern Seminary, receiving the Master of Divinity degree in May, 1975. He is working on his Ph.D. in religious studies at Rice University.

VETERAN'S SERVICES

Signaling the start of changed payments procedures for GI Bill students, Veterans Administration computers authorized only 26,000 education checks for payment on June 1—the lowest total in the 33 year history of the GI Bill programs.

June 1 was the effective date of a change in law that decrees GI Bill payments from now on will be paid after each month of training has been completed instead of at the start of each training period.

Max Cleland, VA Administrator, said the agency computers will resume the normal processing of between 900,000 and 1.2 million GI Bill accounts on July 1. He pointed out that since students now in training had already been paid on May 1 for the full month of May, their next checks—for the month of June—will not be received until July 1.

The new law, he explained, is designed to reduce VA overpayments, which occurred when VA paid in advance for training that in many cases was never taken by the veteran.

The 26,000 checks authorized for payment June 1 went primarily to trainees in programs where the prepayment of allowances is not involved. These programs, include flight, correspondence, on-the-job and apprenticeship training.

by dalton THE FOOD AND DRUG Administration (FDA) has sent out an explanation of why it decided that saccharin no longer could be used safely as a general purpose food additive. The FDA noted that its proposed law to ban saccharin in food, beverages and cosmetics has touched off a public reaction seldom experienced "even by an agency used to being in the midst of controversy."

The FDA report explaining its stand on the matter is too long and involved to reproduce here, but it goes into the ways the tests were made on rats, how many of them developed cancer, how in the view of the FDA the tests relate to humans, and also gives answers to charges made by the public that the tests were unrealistic. One statement by the FDA was that the exposure of test animals to high doses is the most valid way science today knows to predict whether a chemical may cause cancer in people. Says the FDA:

"Such tests are both realistic and reliable. They are, in fact, essential to predict rare occurrences — for example, to seek out and identify a substance that can cause cancer in only one out of every 20,000 Americans. That may be a rare occurrence statistically but it represents more than 10,000 people in our total population."

It was interesting to note that many persons who write to FDA about the proposed saccharin ban ask why the federal government has not banned cigarettes from the market since they too have been shown to cause cancer. Cigarettes do not come under the provisions of the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. Congress has determined by law that cigarettes are not to be regulated from a health standpoint except for a warning label.

What this means, of course, is that a lot of Congressmen smoke.

Personally it would be no skin off my lungs if they banned cigarettes, and I can make out without saccharin, too. In fact, when I get to be boss of this country, I just may ban all forms of tobacco and alcohol, turnips and green beans, neckties for men, television, purple slacks, use of telephone on Thursdays (that's the day the paper comes out), Howard Cosell, people who lie about big fish, and several organizations which I don't dare name here.

Floyd Food Sales Hit $5,399,000

NEW YORK, June 18-Retail business in Floyd County was at a higher level in the past year, reflecting the income gains recorded by most local families. Sales of cars, food, wearing apparel, furniture and other merchandis compared favorably with those of the previous year. To a considerable extent, however, inflation was a contributing factor. Just how well local merchants made out is detailed in a new report on consumer buying, released by the Standard Rate and Data Service. It shows just how residents of the area, as well as people in other sections of the country, spent their money during the year.

In Floyd County, a large portion of it went for food. Approximately 25 cents out of every dollar spent in local retail stores went for such purchases. By comparison, elsewhere in the United States, 21 cents was so-spent and, in the State of Texas, 22 cents. For the supermarkets, bakeries, grocery stores, butcher shops, delicatessens and other food emporia in the area it added up to a grand total of $5,399,000. This was solely for take-home food. It does not include the amount spent in outside eating and drinking places. If the outlay for this take-home food were uniformly spread among the local population, it would be equivalent to an expenditure of $1,413 per family. The figures for other retail lines also indicate relatively strong consumer buying locally. Outlets for cars, boats and other items had receipts of $175,000. Those selling shoes, coats and miscellaneous apparel grossed $1,100,000. Furniture establishments counted for $165,000. At the present time, inflation is continuing to erode the purchasing power of the consumer. People feel that it is before prices go even are.

 "We'll combine our talents with the Peace Corps' needs," says Dr. James Kielbaso, director of the program at Michigan State University. He says a staff of eleven will give the trainees practical and theoretical instruction.

 Training in the United States will be followed by the usual in-country training which may last up to three months and includes language instruction and cross-cultural awareness.
 Peace Corps estimates that it will cost about fifty percent less to recruit and train generalists under the new system, compared to the traditional route of recruiting skilled volunteers at colleges and off campus. Peace Corps now spends almost $5,000 per person from the time an applicant has been recruited until starting to work abroad.

 Peace Corps is a two-year commitment that could be extended for a maximum of five years. Volunteers receive transportation to and from their overseas sites, a living allowance and medical protection. While abroad, they also accrue a readjustment allowance of $125 for each month overseas, payable on return to the United States.

 Persons interested in joining any of the above programs may call collect AC-

Peace Corps Need People

DALLAS--Peace Corps, on the verge of rebuilding its image and volunteer force, will soon begin training persons having aptitude for select skills and interest in serving overseas.

An individual who likes to garden, for example, but has no formal agricultural training beyond a liberal arts degree, will now be considered for several weeks of intensive training in the United States and may be able to join the Peace Corps as a seed and vegetable technician.

Capability to learn rapidly, good references and ability to work with people will be important considerations aside from the degree and aptitude.

Peace Corps undertakes this step to enable more Americans to fulfill the increased requests for skilled volunteers from the host countries. Opportunities for generalists to be able to join the Peace Corps in the past few years were limited.

"Peace Corps' greatest need is to work at a village level. You don't need a college degree to grow rice. It's fish farming as opposed to engineering," says ACTION's director Sam Brown. "It's the difference between a midwife and a surgeon. Both save lives, but surgeons are a lot more expensive."

More than 6,000 Peace Corps volunteers, averaging 27 years, work in 64 developing nations. About 38 percent of them are women. Peace Corps, budgeted at $81 million, is part of ACTION, the federal volunteer agency. VISTA is also an ACTION program.

Several hundred Peace Corps volunteers are sought for skill training to serve as seed and vegetable specialists, crops educators, agricultural mechanics, crops technicians, irrigation specialists, and teachers of English as a foreign language.

The training for some skills will begin in July at Michigan State University in East Lansing. Other sites and contracts are being negotiated for the summer and fall.

Trainees will be given about 400 hours of intensive training and will receive a certificate that they can perform specific duties. Training in the United States will approximate con-
