Caprock Chat

By Ralph L. Sellmeyer

A fascinating visit one week with one of the old early-day cowboy nonpareils to many of you-G.M. Armstrong, who also brought us some early cattle pictures and some news.

N.A. Armstrong, came to the area and moved his family to the area in 1882. Jack grew up here, and he eventually went to college. He eventually went to college. He eventually went to college. He eventually went to college.

It's All Over (Just Beginning?) For Floydada's 82 Graduates

Eighty-two Floydada High School seniors walked across the stage of their school auditorium Tuesday night with mixed emotions.

Twelve years of public school was suddenly over. Ahead lay jobs, college, marriage and other pursuits, the prospect perhaps a little disconcerting.

Kelli Lyons, reading several excerpts from The Bible and from The Prophet, concluded with a last message to the parents of the graduating seniors, stressing the importance of letting their children become adults.

Dougherty Graduates Seven School Ceremony Monday

Dougherty School young graduates celebrated the end of their studies at Monday night when they were the gaily decorated auditorium to receive diplomas from school board president James Cage.

Richard Rendon and Van McNiece were flag bearers and David Martinez led the pledge to the flag and Bobby Emert gave the salutatory.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Payne, daughter Tammy and son Hollis Joe provided the appreciate audience with several musical numbers, including "How Great Thou Art", "The End of 'Perfect Day'", and "Graduation Day".

A poem, "We Leave You", was given by Robert Huerta. Tony Martinez gave the class prophecy, Rhonda Rendon the (Continued page 5)

Tolya Hickerson told the class "As diamonds in the rough many of us have been polished. Still there is not one who has come to a definite stopping point. Even though one may be satisfied with his life, there is always opportunity and improvement waiting. Do not be a cloudy diamond, strive to remove every fault or flaw so that your life will clearly shine above others."

Following Tolya's comments, a musical group of eight seniors played two songs, "Climb Ev'ry Mountain", a Richard Rogers arrangement, and "Brian's Song", from a Michele Legrand arrangement. The group members were Shannon Bell, Atha Blake, Jimmy Finley, Tammy Gentry, Clay Hamilton, Shawnda Heflin, Rick Strange and Sheldon Sue.

"You must let us become the adults we are trying to so hard to become."

"You may give them your love but not your thoughts, For they have their own thoughts. You may house their bodies but not their souls, For their soul dwell in the house of tomorrow, which you cannot visit, not even in your dreams. You may strive to be like them, but seek not to make them like you. For life goes not backward nor tarries with yesterday."

Kelly Turner, valedictorian, using as his subject "The Finished Product", told the group, "...after all a diamond is simply a lump of coal which has had heat and pressure applied to it. And usually opportunity comes when we have had 'heat and pressure' applied to us. A diamond taken from the depths of the earth is not attractive in itself-it (Continued page 5)

Fire Estimate To $25,000 Mark

Fire struck the home of E.M. Jackson, located at 902 West Mississippi, shortly after midnight Saturday causing damages estimated at $25,000 to the garage and east part of the year-old house, according to the Jackson's son-in-law Eugene Beedy.

Consumers Fuel Employee Burned

Rene Cruz, 21, received second degree burns Friday afternoon shortly before 5 p.m. while working at Consumers Fuel Association in Floydada.

Charles Abbe, manager of Consumers Fuel, said Cruz had a gasoline-soaked rag in his pocket which accidentally caught fire and burned his right arm and the right side of his body.

He was taken to Caprock Hospital for preliminary treatment and then moved to St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo where he is expected to be confined for several weeks, Abbe said.

BAD GUYS ALWAYS LOSE, or at least Louis Anderson did when he tried to outgun good guy (white hat) Jerry Thompson in front of the Museum. They represent two of the many Floydada merchants who will be dressed in western attire for Old Settlers Reunion Saturday.

FIRE CAUSED AN ESTIMATED $25,000 damage to the E.M. Jackson home and two automobiles early Saturday morning. The fire apparently started in a late-model pickup truck housed in the attached garage. (Staff Photo)

Everyone Had Their Own Water Keg In Early Floydada' Pioneer Recalls

"My parents were Thomas Frank Montague and Frances Alstine Montague, and I had a sister, Wanda Lee Montague, who was born Feb. 2, 1899, during the most terrible blizzard on records, in Briscoe County at the home of our grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson.

"My father died Oct. 22, 1901, at 29, with the typhoid fever caught from public drinking water, leaving my mother with two small daughters, a mercantile business and a ranch. She was a strong Christian woman with keen business ability and she managed her affairs well for 82 years."

Mrs. Garrett described transportation in the early years as "horse and buggy, wagon and team and saddle pony. Some also rode bicycles.

"On March 5, 1910, the first train pulled into town. School was dismissed and the train crew took all of the school children to Lockney and back for a train ride. It was a thrilling experience," Mrs. Garrett said.

About 1910, the first automobile came to Floydada.

Mr. Golden, a real estate dealer, bought a red Buick and he took everyone in town for a ride. The speed limit was probably about 20 mph. He came by and picked us up one Sunday afternoon and we had to use considerable persuasion to get my grandmother to go along, but she liked it very much. In 1915 my mother bought a six-cylinder Saxon and it was one of the few cars in town."

Mrs. Garrett recalled that "in 1922 another girl and I paid $14 for a 15-minute ride on an airplane (barnstorming was common in those days). The pilot was a WWI veteran going through the country selling people rides. As we sailed away in the sky I noticed my mother and my fiance watching very pale-faced. A week or two later that plane crashed near Plainview."

Answering a question about early communications, Mrs. Garrett noted that "we had our first radio about 1923 and we had to use ear phones to hear it."

Thinking back on the city as she first remembered it, the Floyd County pioneer said "my first recollection was that there was the courthouse, one school, one church (Methodist), and a row of wooden store buildings on the west side of the square, which consisted of a hardware store, dry goods store, drug store, bank, barber shop and Masonic Lodge. All in all there were eight buildings in this row. There were also two hotels, the Callahan Hotel and the Harkey Hotel, with a livery stable across the street to take care of the wagons and teams. I'm sure there was also a blacksmith shop to shoe the horses. Most of the people carried their water to their home from a public water well on the courthouse square. The water was carried in rolling kegs and Postmaster J.D. Stark's dog, Quanah, pulled his keg. There was also the two-room Hardy Hotel."

He Makes $75,000 By Going Fishing

Anybody who makes $75,000 by going fishin' must be doing something right. Rick Clunn has—and obviously is.

He's not your happy-go-lucky weekend angler. He's the World Champion at finding and catching bass and he has just written a book about how he does it.

Titled "World Championship Bass Fishing," the Clunn book has been published by Fisherman Books ($5.95, Cordovan Press, Houston.) It explains many of the reasons why Clunn won the 1976 and 1977 B.A.S.S. Masters Classic (fishing) championships.

For instance, Clunn does a lot of fishing homework before he ever sees the water. He studies the weather to establish a probable pattern. He checks the water temperature, clarity and the lake level. Detailed records of his fishing experiences help him calculate seasonal patterns. He records weather, water and bottom conditions, lure used. Referring to these notes, Clunn can estimate the bass action under similar conditions. He spends hours studying topographic maps, learning the depths and bottom contours of a lake. He can eliminate much of the fishless water this way, without wasting any time on the lake.

Observation, concentration and confidence play a big part in Clunn's championship style. He remembers how he retrieved his lure, especially if he's trying something different. Small bass are often "stragglers," and a school may not be far away. Heron and egret concentrated in an area may mean baitfish, and that may mean bass. Off-beat tactics with plastic worms can sometimes fool the bass; retrieving quickly, or using it as a topwater lure. Clunn thinks positive and pays attention to detail—it pays off.

Rick Clunn left the security of a 9-to-5 job to become a "pro" in competitive tournament fishing. He tells how to do it and what it's like. Championship angling is serious business. Clunn tells how he's made it pay off. Clunn's book may be purchased from major Texas book stores or it can be ordered direct from Fisherman Books, 5314 Bingle Road, Houston, Texas 77092, at $5.95.

Endorses Attack On Rising Health Care Costs

The Texas Nursing Home Association of Austin has endorsed the national attack on rising costs of health care.

Sidney D. Rich, president of that association said: "We applaud all efforts to curtail rising costs of health care. Our members have long been front-line fighters against inflation."

"But," he added, "The problem of cost containment must also be tackled at primary sources. This means that producers, growers, suppliers and every type of provider upon which we depend must hold down their prices for this effort to be effective. We cannot and will not sacrifice the quality of care that we deliver."

Rich heads a group of some 650 licensed nursing homes with beds for over 65,000 residents. They have pledged cooperation in the Texas Voluntary Effort of all health care facilities to work for cost containment.

MRS. GARRETT FROM PAGE 1

Mrs. Garrett recalls that the first newspaper in the city was the Della Plains Review, followed by the Texas Kicker and later in 1891 the Floyd County Times.

What games did children play in those days? "My sister was a bookworm and seldom went outside to play. To the contrary, I loved the outdoors and mainly played with cats or roamed the prairies with neighbor children. I loved to walk stilt and climb on top of the barn. Hide and seek was a favorite indoor game. We played church every often and on one occasion someone rescued my sister just as a cousin had started to baptize her in a lake at my grandmother's house! We had dolls, doll buggies, doll beds and a few other toys.

"I spent a lot of time practicing stunts on a homemade trapeze in the barn. And then the neighborhood and children would come in for my show (old timers still remember my exhibitions)", Mrs. Garrett said.

"Another favorite sport was riding a trolley which consisted of a pipe on a greased wire fastened to the top of the windmill and staked to a fence post on the ground. Of course we had to climb the windmill to come down but that was also fun.

"Occasionally a tent show such as Molly Bailey, Brunk's Comedians or Harley Sadler's tent show would come to town. After they left, we would make our own shows and we enjoyed them about as much as the real shows. Carnivals were also a great thrill", she said.

Mrs. Garrett related that she had a white kitten named Snowball, but when she was five, she had scarlet fever and neighbors shot the kitten because it had strayed to their yard and they were afraid it could transmit the scarlet fever germs.

"But I also had a pet pony, Flossie and my father's saddle pony, Chipper. "Mrs. Garrett remembers. (continued next issue).

where he became friends with Chief Iron Tail, and Ogalla Sioux Indian whom he came to admire very much. It was Iron Tail's face which had appeared on the Indian Head nickel," Armstrong said.

"I ALSO MET Will Rogers while in Hollywood," Armstrong said, and described Rogers as one able to handle himself before any person or group.

SO, OLD SETTLER'S REUNION DAY is Saturday. We hope you will all turn out to honor and visit with such old timers as Jack Anderson and others of his breed whom we are so fortunate to have with us. They represent a heritage fast fading and it would seem a sad thing if we didn't get to share in their "day" Saturday.

must be cut and polished to make it so—the finished product. So when we find opportunity we must cut it and polish it, and only then can we realize it and appreciate it."

The seniors were presented their diplomas by A.E. Baker, Floydada's superintendent of schools, and C.E. Tyer, high school principal.

The benediction was led by Rick Covington, president of the FHS student body for 1978, and the Recessional played by Willson.

Those students who were members of the National Honor Society wore white pendants around their necks signifying their scholarship.

Family News of the Lockney Care Center

By Yvonne Steele After the highly successful sale of our silk rose corsages and roses we have been taking a much needed rest. However, we are now ready to begin working on some more silk roses for those interested.

While resting we enjoyed a variety of activities and programs. On Thursday afternoon we had a "Special Bingo." Special gifts donated by local merchants were given rather than the usual prizes. Thursday night, everyone enjoyed "Hee Haw." Mabry Greenhaw brought several members of the original large cast from Silverton to present a lively program of music and comedy. Friday, Chuck Wilson presented some slides of Azalia, beautiful homes, and other scenic views around Tyler, Texas. On Saturday, Dowell Brewer, Lewis Stapp, and J.V. Martin entertained us with Gospel Singing, fiddle and guitar playing. The Lutheran Church of Providence presented a devotional service Sunday. We appreciate these individuals donating their time and talents.

We would also like to thank Brown's Department Store, Boothill Western Wear, Byrd Pharmacy, Mize Pharmacy, and Rowell Variety for donating the gifts for "Special Bingo". We also appreciate the girls of the Home Economics Department for baking cookies for the Open House Sunday afternoon. We are sorry that school is almost out, for we will not be able to enjoy the wonderful singing provided by Mrs. Bain's choir. We will look forward to these groups coming back.

We regret the death of our administrator's father-in-law and send Mary Ann Resch and family our condolences.

Tanker Spills Pose Threat To World's Ecology Scene

By Douglas M. Costle Administrator Environmental Protection Agency

[Mr. Costle was attending a meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, when the Amoco Cadiz went aground in March off the coast of France resulting in the worst ecological disaster in history involving an oil spill. He called in U.S. experts and visited the site of the disaster. The following is an account of his visit and the conclusions he reached.]

The beaches were black with oil. For more than 70 miles along the French coast in the middle of March, thousands of tons of mixture of Arabian and Iranian crude oil from the supertanker spill covered the beaches, waterfowl, harbors and shipyards.

Not since the Torrey Canyon tanker discharged 117,000 tons of oil off the coast of England in 1967 has the world's attention focused so meaningfully on the oil spill problem. As the last holding tanks in the Amoco Cadiz broke up, nearly a week after the ship first ran aground, the seeming helplessness of all parties involved to mitigate the disaster became clear. The final barrels of a total 230,000 tons of oil washed into the sea during the week of March 19. Attempts at destruction and cleanup of the oil failed.

I saw the wreck and the miles and miles of oil slick around it. I hope I never see another one. It turned out to be the worst spill in history, befouling miles of French beaches and large areas of fishing grounds.

Reports were that all fishing in the area stopped, and all the prime oyster crop and France's production of seaweed for the chemical industry were damaged or threatened.

Over 400 families in the area of Roscoff, France depend on seaweed for a livelihood. Large numbers of birds were killed. The tourist business this spring has been wrecked. There was so much oil—300 square miles of it and possibly more—that clean up operations could take many months. The worst of it is that because the food chain in the region has been damaged much of the destruction will be long lasting.

The lesson from Amoco Cadiz is clear. Such accidents must be prevented. Nearly 715 supertankers, of over 200,000 dead-weight tons, sail the oceans today, and by one estimate, now carry one-half of the oil shipped by ocean. Every day of the year at least one of these off-loads oil near the U. S. coastline, usually into smaller ships about 50 to 75 miles from shore. And even these smaller vessels, which are more manageable in negotiating our harbors and ports, pose a significant risk. In 1976 and 1977, 20 tankers of this variety were totally lost each year.

So far the supertankers have had no major accident or oil spill in U.S. waters. But these mammoth ships are of fairly recent construction. Tankers tend to be involved in more accidents as their hulls and equipment age with the years. One could break up off our coast, although it is not an inevitable event. Most tanker accidents are man-made. It is entirely possible to prevent a marine disaster such as the grounding and foundering of the supertanker Amoco Cadiz in the middle of March off the Brittany coast of France. There are two principal factors involved in preventing future tragedies of this kind: (1) the construction of the ship itself, and (2) the navigation of the ship and operation of its equipment by the officers and crew. Fortunately, the United States and the other tanker fleet nations have begun to take action on these matters. President Carter, just a year ago, proposed a number of tanker safety initiatives. In February most of his initiatives regarding ship design were adopted in a new agreement by the International Conference on Tanker Safety and Pollution Prevention in London.

Under the agreement, large new tankers would be required, among other things, to use segregated tanks for ballast, to be filled only with seawater for the added stability the ship needs. The segregated tanks would provide protection from accidental spills by being built along the sides or bottom so that they, not the oil tanks, would be punctured in an accident. Existing tankers would be required to reduce operational discharges into international waters.

LUBBOCK—Puppeteers from around the world will be on the Texas Tech University campus from June 25 — July 1 for the 39th National Festival of the Puppeteers of America. Performers and their shows include Dick Myers of New York, "Beauty and the Beast" and "Experimental Puppetry"; Percy Press Jr. of England, with "Punch and Judy"; Alison and Johan Vandergun of Lampong, "Animals and Make Believe"; Robert Hartman of California, with an adult show and hand puppets satire; Arlyn and Luman Coad of Coad Canada, "Puppets of Canada," "Mr. Whipple's Whims" and "The Box"; and Fran Dowie and Company of Canadian Folk Puppets, "Barney McBean's Fun Show."

A great deal more needs to be done about the second major cause of tanker oil spills—namely, the upgrading of seamanship and equipment operation standards aboard these tankers. In June of this year, an additional international conference has been scheduled under the auspices of the Inter-Governmental Maritime Consultative Organization to take up this problem. It is almost certain that the tragedy caused by the Amoco Cadiz accident will provide the impetus to obtain agreement on this other aspect of preventing tanker oil spills. I hope as well that the new agreement of safe tanker design will be quickly ratified by the U. S. Senate and other nations that are a party to it.

South Plains News

By Mrs. Murray Julian

South Plains, May 22

South Plains had a most wonderful rain, which came Friday evening, leaving us about an inch everywhere, and then Saturday and Sunday night we had another three fourths inch. News from Perryton is that they had a good rain, and from Roscoe and Sweetwater, amounts fell there to 3 inches. In most places they received 2 or more inches, so the fall was general. No bad weather came with the rain only strong winds, which blew in the storm. This will keep farmers out of the fields for a few days, but now they have hopes of a crop. Dry land farmers could not plant before the rain.

All the children are smiles, since it is graduation time. South Plains and Floydada Schools are out Wednesday, May 24th, baccalaureate services at Floydada were held Sunday night, May 21, and Sunday night services at the Baptist Church here were cancelled because of the services so everyone might attend.

Kelly Lyons, Ronette Kitchens, Teresa Stewart, Yolanda Trevino, and Atha Blake, are the seniors from South Plains who are in the 1978 graduating class.

Big plans are going on for the Vacation Bible School at the South Plains Baptist Church which will begin May 29, and go through June 2. Each day at the church classes start at 8:30 a.m. and go through 11:30 a.m. There will be Bible stories, songs to learn, games to play, and a wealth of information for each and everyone including boys and girls, ages 3 to 13. Don't let anything keep you from bringing your child or children to the Vacation Bible School. Ministers, soul-winners, and missionaries are the products of the Bible School. Mrs. Raymond Upton is in charge of refreshments for the Vacation Bible School so please help by giving her your name, and bring cookies, drinks or other refreshments to help in the school.

Visitors at the South Plains Baptist Church Sunday morning were Billy Staples with the Scaffs, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Monk, Leslie and Cody of Farwell, New Mexico were with Mr. and Mrs. Royce Bethel and girls, and it was good to have Donette Marble here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Marble. She is home for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dillard of Lockney were dinner guests Sunday, as was Mrs. Teddy Horne and Melissa from Plainview, here with Mr. and Mrs. Sylvain Kinnibrugh. Their grandson, Latham Dickens from Plainview was with them also, while his mother was in Dallas with friends for the weekend.

We extend congratulations and best wishes to Drill Sergeant and Mrs. Kenneth Powell on the birth of their first child, a girl, born in Lawton, Oklahoma Saturday, May 20th weighing 7 1/2 pounds. The baby has been named Jennifer Melissa. The Powells are stationed at the army base, at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. They have about another year there. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Powell, South Plains, and Mrs. Paul Barkley the maternal grandmother in Denver, Colo.

South Plains Hobby Club will meet June 14, at 8:00 a.m. for the annual event, "Breakfast at Mamie's", to be given at Mrs. Mamie Woods, with co-hostesses Nita Marble, Dot Cummings, Ruby Higginbotham and Doris Powell. There will be no Hobby Club meetings in July and August.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Monk, and girls, Leslie and Cody from Farwell, New Mexico, arrived Saturday to spend the week end here with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Royce Bethel, Shelli and Jamie.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvain Kinnibrugh attended the funeral for Childress McClure of Lockney, Monday at 2:00 p.m. in the Main Street Church of Christ, with interment in the Floydada Cemetery. McClure died Friday after a long illness. He was in the Central Plains Hospital, then in the Heritage Home in Plainview. Sylvain was a pall-bearer at the services.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Sanders, Shawnda, Brian and Crystal were in Plainview Saturday night where they attended a Barn Yard Academy of "Show-Off Shindig", held at the Agriculture Center. All kinds of entertainments, including gymnastics, modeling, twirling, ballet, etc. went on for three hours of entertainment. Shawnda was in the baton twirling class with a solo twirling.
