SPORT TALK

By Doug Simpson
WOMEN'S SPORTS play a vital role not only in our society but in the whole concept of free enterprise and athletic competition in the United States. Until recently, women's athletics failed to achieve the attention and recognition it deserved. But this week's publication of TIME magazine takes a close look at the issue and reveals a number of important reasons why, and how, more and more women are becoming involved in the sports scene.

Experts feel that women have overcome the "tomboy" attitude of the American people when they step onto the playing field. Instead, the impression given is that females offer an exciting transformation in competition. And if you think that women are only capable of shooting a basketball, developing a tennis backhand, or crossing the finish line in an occasional 100-yard dash race, you've been recollecting sports happenings from the past.

Today, females across the U.S. of A. have organized softball and soccer leagues, become involved in games such as rugby (similar to football), participated in lacrosse and track, and even close to home (in Texas) the vote has been made to alter the 6-girl basketball ruling to the standard 5-girl ruling like collegiate play and men's play. Like statistics for proof? Eight years ago, 294,000 high school girls participated in interscholastic league sporting events. The figure has increased today to near the 2 million mark.

The challenge by women to compete head on with their counterparts, the men, is feasible and even likely within the future. But this type of maneuver will probably require government action and regulation. The possibility is probably remote until years from now. Women have taken a giant step, with help from the ERA and Women's Liberation movements, in the sports world. Females involved in athletics have earned respect and encouragement from the American people. For women in sports, the future is now.

A BASEBALL TOURNAMENT.....? HERE?...You heard right! In past years, the Little League and T-Shirt league ballplayers traveled out of town to compete in post-season tournament action. This year, after a lot of work, the A's baseball team is hosting its own tourney in its own backyard. Plans for the affair were finalized Friday, and Tuesday night the first tournament, baseball-wise, in many years, is expected to get underway. Details, teams, dates, and times appear in a separate story in this edition.

IT'S NOT TOO EARLY to begin dusting off your old tennis racket....while you're at it, reach deep down into your golf bag for some golf balls, because the local tennis and golf tournaments are rapidly approaching. With more entries than last year expected, these events should make Floydada a popular place on the South Plains with athletes.

Texas taxpayers pay millions for postal hike

By BILL CRENSHAW
Globe-News Staff Writer

How much will the new 15 cent stamp cost state and local taxpayers?

If the 15.38 percent first-class postage increase — from 13 cents to 15 cents — that went into effect May 29 had been charged all of this fiscal year, Texas state government would have cost $2.3 million more than it did, the comptroller's office estimated yesterday.

"A seat-of-the-pants estimate would be a $2.5 million increase (all for postage) for the upcoming fiscal year — even if there is no increase in mail volume," Dan Casey, a research analyst in the Planning and Research Division of Comptroller Bob Bullock's Austin office said in a telephone interview.

This fiscal year, Texas state government spent $10.3 million on postage between Sept. 1 and April 1, he said. By the end of the fiscal year, Aug. 31, roughly $15.6 million will have been spent.

The $15.6 million budgeted for this fiscal year is an increase of 89.24 percent since the fall of 1975.

In fiscal year 1975-76, Texas budgeted $9.5 million for postage. In 1976-77, $14.4 million was budgeted.

Not all of the 89.24 percent increase in postage spending went for postage costs. Mail volume increased, too. Casey did not have at hand figures that would show how much more mail was sent out by the state this year than in previous years.

The City of Amarillo has budgeted $207,500 for postage in the upcoming fiscal year.

That's $44,500 more than was budgeted for the current fiscal year — an increase of 27.3 percent.

Part of the increase, again, is in anticipation of increased mail volume.

For instance, the heaviest mail user in the city government is the utility billing department, which sends out approximately 52,500 bills each month. Between 110 and 120 of those billings are new accounts. That's an increase in mail use of .21 percent.

The second biggest mail user in Amarillo city government is the tax office. Last year, its mail volume increased 5.6 percent.

In Randall County, $25,000 was budgeted for postage for this fiscal year. The county is adding $10,000 to that for next year, Bill Tiley, county auditor, said, "and we hope that'll do it."

It's a 40 percent increase. Randall County is anticipating a 10 percent increase in mail volume, Tiley said.

The tax office is the biggest single user of the county's mail budget; a combination of the courts is the second biggest user.

"We're trying to get a bulk mailing discount with the post office," Tiley said. "In fact, it's going to be on our next week's agenda."

Potter County spending for postage is not "broken out" of the budget, county auditor Billy Fred Lacy said.

"I believe postage is carried in our supplies budget, and is not broken out. It needs to be, to show those increases we've been having. It's a major item, it should be broken out. Maybe one of these days we'll get it that way."

Postage costs recorded so far this fiscal year on the Potter County postage meter equal $9,943.94, Linda McKinney of the auditor's office said. "So far this year, we've entered $11,500 in the postage meter."

Lacy added, "Now, in next year's budget, we've calculated a percentage increase in supplies cost of about eight percent."

He said higher percentage increases in costs of supplies, such as the 15.38 percent increase in the cost of first class mail, should be balanced by lower percentage increases in other supplies costs.

"Ultimately, the consumer pays the postage increase," said Herb McGregor, utility customer service manager for the City of Amarillo. His office bills for water, sewage and garbage collection.

"We do presort our mail by zip code, and we get two cents discount from the post office on each of our 46,500 bills we can presort. That's about a $900 savings each month by doing some of the post office's work," he said.

In fiscal year 1975-76, the utilities billing department budgeted $71,097 for postage; it increased the budget to $72,936 the next year — an increase of 2.59 percent. Next year, the budget went up 4.72 percent, to $75,340. In the upcoming fiscal year, $83,340 is budgeted for utility billings — an increase of 9.11 percent over the current year.

The City-School-Hospital-College Combined Tax Office, the city of Amarillo's second largest mailer, budgeted $37,500 for postage this fiscal year. It mailed 250,000 items, a spokesman said.

The office has budgeted $57,600, a $20,100 increase for next fiscal year's postage costs.

That's an increase of 53.6 percent.

It is anticipated 384,000 pieces of first class mail will be sent from the office next fiscal year. That's 90,000 more pieces of mail than the 189,000 mailed this year, a 33.47 percent increase in mail volume.

Lloyd Bentsen Column

Washington, D.C. — Senator Lloyd Bentsen on Tuesday won a victory for drought-stricken Texas cattlemen who feed hay to their animals, then launched an attack on regulations that deny emergency aid to ranchers forced to feed their cattle cactus.

Bentsen last week urged the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service to permit cattle ranchers, who have crops that can be hayed on set-aside acreage, to make hay of it and feed it to their cattle.

He has been notified that this will be allowed, effect-

Contract Signed For Crosbyton Solar Project

LUBBOCK—The U.S. Department of Energy has signed a $2.5 million contract with Texas Tech University for additional study and construction of an Analog Design Verification System (ADVS) for the Crosbyton, Texas, Solar Energy Project.

Dr. John D. Reichert, professor of electrical engineering at Texas Tech University and director of the project, said that ground clearing should begin by late summer or early fall at an ADVS site yet to be selected.

While building is going on, Reichert said, the construction will only be representative of work still progressing in laboratories and with computers.

Dr. Herbert J. Carper Jr., a member of the mechanical engineering faculty at Texas Tech, is project manager.

The project funded by the DOE could ultimately lead to the construction of a 5-megawatt solar-thermal-electric power system which would supply electricity for the town of Crosbyton, a city of about 2,500 residents.

The project was conceived in 1974 when representatives of Crosbyton approached the Texas Tech Department of Electrical Engineering seeking assistance in planning for future energy needs. The Recommended Power System (RPS) could not be operational, Reichert said, before 1982, although that date still puts Crosbyton well ahead of any town of its size in an attempt to harness solar power to cut power bills.

Reichert calls the concept of a Solar Gridiron, and the final system, should it be built, is expected to have 10 200-foot mirror-surfaced solar gridirons which will remain fixed while a collector or receiver will follow the sun's focus, "collecting" heat to be transferred into steam. This, in turn would provide energy. Reliability is achieved by designing Crosbyton's electric power plant to be a hybrid solar-fossil fuel system.

The ADVS is designed to have one 65-foot mirrored dish. One of its major purposes will be to give engineers and scientists an opportunity to study the properties of the steam it produces. The receiver is designed as a spiraling pipe wrapped around a cylinder that moves so as to stay in a line coinciding with the line of focus of the sun's rays. Water in the pipe would be converted to steam, and the steam would exit at about 1,000 degrees F. The steam derived from the heated water would be used to produce electricity.

The only project where the concept like the ADVS is a Fixed Mirror Active Focus Project, just returned where he is project engineer and government working with In Marsden, instead of water, there are mirrors, which follow the sun's focus, "collecting" heat to be transferred into steam. This, in turn would provide energy. Reliability is achieved by designing Crosbyton's electric power plant to be a hybrid solar-fossil fuel system.

"Cattle feed is at a premium in Texas. We have experienced a severe and prolonged drought in parts of the state, particularly in South Texas, and it has been relieved only somewhat by recent rains," the Senator said.

"This new ruling, which I had requested, will help to further ease the crisis."

"But the drought and the bureaucratic reaction to it are causing a serious problem for cattlemen who are so hard-pressed they are burning the thorns off cactus to use as feed."

Senator Bentsen noted that a number of Texas counties have been declared disaster areas and are eligible for assistance under the Emergency Livestock Feed Act.

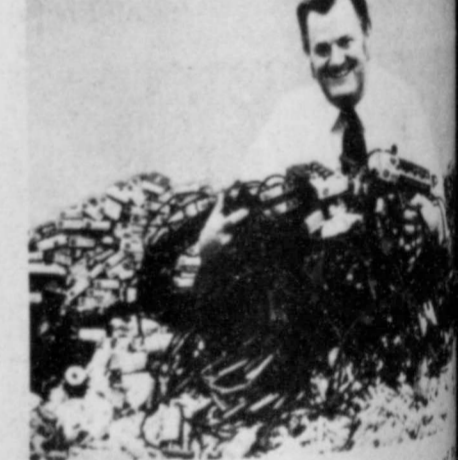

ASCS officials, however, have ruled that the cost of burning cactus is not eligible for aid. Their argument is that burning is similar to harvesting a crop, which does not qualify under the program.

"This argument is absurd since cactus grows wild throughout much of South Texas. Cactus is certainly not planted by these ranchers, nor is it cultivated. In fact, they cannot use it unless it is burned", Bentsen said in a letter to Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

"Emergency payments for the burning would cost the government about the same or less than hay or grain and would utilize a locally available food source which is plentiful. I strongly urge a review of the decision to prohibit Emergency Food Program payments for cactus burning," Senator Bentsen said.

Bentsen asked that the assistance be made retroactive to August, 1977.

PEST MANAGEMENT

Box 409
Crosbyton, Texas 79322

NEWSLETTER

Vol. 3, No. 1
June 20, 1978

This is the first of a series of newsletters that will be published weekly by the office of the Crosby-Floyd County Extension Entomologist. Information contained in this newsletter will be taken from field scouting reports and my personal observations. I will try and report on general trends on crops throughout the two county area. Producers should not use this information as a basis to start control procedures. Each field should be scouted for insect pests before a decision is made. I am available to producers in Crosby and Floyd Counties and any one else who needs help with pest control decisions.

COTTON

Recent wet, cool weather has not helped cotton get off to a very good start this year. Hail, blowing sand, and seedling disease have been very damaging in some areas. At the present time thrips numbers range from light to heavy on seedling cotton.

Thrips are very small slender insects (about 1/16 inch long) which vary in color from yellow to black. Thrips feed on the cotyledons and terminal portion of the plant causing a silvery appearance of the leaves, knurling, and injury to the terminal. When thrips average 5 or more per plant and browning of the small leaves in the terminal is seen on 10% of the plants, treatment should be considered. I have seen numbers as high as 10 per plant in some fields. This is particularly true in fields that border on maturing wheat and in some areas with a lot of weeds nearby. Control recommendations can be found on the enclosed copy of "1978 Suggestions for Controlling Cotton Insects in the High Plains, Rolling Plains and Trans-Pecos Areas of Texas." This should prove to be a handy reference throughout the season.

Remember that weather conditions such as blowing sand and hail can cause similar damage to cotton. Also heavy rains can wash thrips off of cotton temporarily. Be sure thrips are present in damaging numbers before treatment is made.

When cotton reaches the 5th true leaf stage plants are large enough to escape thrips damage even though they may be present.

GRAIN SORGHUM

Grain sorghum in the area ranges from seedlings to the 4 leaf stage. Some areas have been recently replanted due to heavy rains.

In some areas greenbugs averaging less than one per plant have been found.

Low populations of corn leaf aphids are being found in most fields. This is a good sign as these insects allow beneficial insects to build up early and help reduce greenbugs later in the season.

PEST MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

Four very fine young men have been hired as field scouts for the summer. They have attended a three day scout training workshop and are now out in the field. In the South Plains program area are Len Wood of South Plains and Jesse Reyes of Ralls. Scouting the Crosby County program area are Loran Wilson and Conde Maze, both of Crosbyton.

I may be reached this summer at one of the following numbers:

Successful swine production involved feed grain availability, good management throughout the feeding period and an easy outlet for market-ready animals, according to Westerhoff.

Many farmers won't increase swine production, though, without that readily available market, Westerhoff said, which has been the problem in the West Texas area.

Although a plant was recently closed in Plainview, Tribble explained that it had a more specialized interest in selecting hogs. The plant was set up to manufacture pork sausage, for which it needed older sows.

A complete slaughtering facility would use more young pigs, although all types would be acceptable for slaughtering. This more complete facility could help provide a more profitable outlet for area swine producers.

Just building a slaughtering facility will not insure it will be successful, though, Westerhoff said. It must be built with sound reasons backing it up, such as providing a marketing outlet for ongoing swine production in the area.

It could also serve to fill food marketing needs in the area. The swine plant could also create a use for excess feed grain produced in the area by allowing it to be converted into livestock, and then providing an outlet for the increased numbers, Westerhoff said.

Before building the plant, he said, there must also be adequate financing to construct the facility and to provide working capital. Swine plant operators also need to ensure the cooperation of area producers. "You

Texas Wheat NEWS

HEAT PRODUCERS BOARD

A PERSONAL REPORT

THE WHEAT SITUATION

Early Prospects Point to Reduced WORLD Wheat Supplies; Improved Prices for 1978/79

Wheat growers have cut acreage sharply in response to low prices, adverse planting conditions, and the set-aside and graze-out programs. Winter wheat plantings were down 14 percent, and spring wheat growers have indicated they may cut acreage at least 8 percent.

On May 15 an Emergency Farm Bill was signed into law and the target price for wheat was raised to $3.40 per bushel. As a result of this action, the sign-up period for the 1978 set-aside program has been extended through May 31.

Harvest of the 1978 winter wheat crop has begun, and conditions as of May 1 indicate a crop around 1.3 billion bushels—16 percent below the 1977 harvest and the smallest since 1973. Prospects range from a very sharp decline in the eastern soft wheat States to a substantial increase in the Pacific Northwest. Based on the past 20 years, chances are 2 out of 3 that the May 1 forecast will not differ from the final estimate by more than 100 million bushels.

Wheat stocks on April 1 totaled 1.52 billion bushels, the largest since the early sixties. Farmers held 46 percent of these stocks either in the 3-year grain reserve or under loan. Disappearance during June 1977-March 1978 totaled 1.6 billion bushels, 12 percent above a year earlier, due to expanded exports and heavier feeding. The sluggish export pace during the first half of the year was picked up in recent months in spite of disruptions in the transportation system mainly from the severe winter.

Total 1977/78 wheat use is estimated to be over 1.9 billion bushels. Although the disappearance is still below last year's carryover on June 1 will be somewhat below year's 1.1 billion bushels. The carryover stocks and producer loan are expected to account for another 20 percent

As the marketing year draws to a close, prices are running more than a dollar above last summer's lows. This is due to strong foreign demand (particularly in the second half of the season), heavy placement into loan and then into the farm program and a prospective smaller 1978 crop.

The United States is currently the world's largest exporter of wheat and is expected to export with ample supplies until the winter crop is harvested. Conditions winter wheat crop vary from fair to good in the Northern Hemisphere.

With the prospective increase in the 1978/79 U.S. wheat supply will be even if yields fall short of recent years' indications point to another good U.S. season, probably in excess of a billion bushels in 7 years. Even under favorable crop conditions, prices will likely be above the $2.30 per bushel of 1977/78.

The variance allowed on program crop acreages certified and measured is the larger of 1 acre or 5% (not to exceed 20 acres). The variance allowed between certified and measured on set-aside is .1 acre or 5% (not to exceed 20 acres).

Payment reduction rates are established at levels to encourage full compliance by participating producers. Measure your acres or have ASCS perform measuring service, but report them correctly. The following is an example of payment reductions due to errors in

We hope you've never seen a screwworm. We are working to make sure you never do. Screwworms, larvae of the screwworm fly, feed on the living flesh of warm-blooded animals—humans and pets as well as livestock. The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has all but wiped out this pest by releasing millions of sexually sterile flies to mate with fertile flies. The eggs from such matings don't hatch and screwworms are eradicated.

But sterile flies can't do the job alone. You can help by:
INSPECTING animals frequently. Screwworm flies lay eggs on wounds.
COLLECTING samples of maggots and sending them in tubes available from county agents to: Screwworm Eradication Program, Box 969, Mission, Tex. 78572.
TREATING all wounds with approved insecticides. Your county agent has details.

WORD FOR WORD
Little-Known Facts About Translating The Bible
By Dr. Eugene A. Nida
Q. Are many people reading the Word of God for themselves today?
A. Indeed they are! As I travel about the world, I see it all the time. People want to discover what God is saying to them personally. You know, Scriptures not only realism about life—and we haven't invented a new sin for 2,000 years—but they also offer hope. This is precisely the message which millions of people are anxious to receive at the present time, and one of the things that makes the Bible so important is that it is the most understandable religious book ever written. It makes sense to people of all cultures.
Another thing, the Bible comes out of the context of life and speaks to people's lives—especially if it is communicated effectively in living language, words that have meaning for them.
Rarely can one translate word for word, but the true sense can be communicated. We speak of "loving the Lord with our hearts." But that would be meaningless to many people and cultures. In some parts of West Africa one must say "to love the Lord with the liver," among the Indians of Guatemala one must "love with the abdomen," and for the Marshallese Islanders it is "the throat." To each group the meaning is the same. Translating is riddled with problems like these.

OBITUARY

W. L. Orman

A former groceryman and retired farmer, Winfred L. Orman, 63, died of apparent heart failure in Health Sciences Center in Lubbock Wednesday night, June 21 about 8:30. Orman had been in failing health for some time. Funeral rites were conducted Friday afternoon in the First Baptist Church in Floydada with the pastor, Dr. Floyd C. Bradley, pastor officiating.

A native of Floyd County, Orman was born in Lockney on August 4, 1914 to Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Orman. His mother, who passed away in 1943 was a longtime Floydada school teacher and his father, who died in 1969, operated Orman's Grocery along with his son. Following the death of his father, W.L. operated the grocery store until selling out a few years back.

Orman attended schools in Mountainview, Sunset and South Plains where he was reared. The family moved to Tahoka living there two years where he graduated from high school. The family returned to Floydada and on July 16, 1938 Orman and Glenna Mae Shurbet were married in Plainview. Mrs. Orman is Floyd County treasurer.

Orman's survivors include his wife; two sons, Bill of Floydada and Larry of Perryton; a sister, Oleta Collier of Floydada; two brothers, Maeyl of Burnet and Virgil of Sacramento, Calif.; and four grandchildren.

Moore-Rose Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements with burial in Floydada Cemetery. Pallbearers were Don Shurbet, J.W. Cannon, Audie Noland, Kearney Edmiston, Carl Jarrett and Derrell Young.

Lon Harrison

Services for Lon Harrison, 80 year old Floydada resident, were held Friday morning in the chapel of First Baptist Church in Floydada. The pastor, Dr. Floyd C. Bradley officiated with interment in East Mound Cemetery in Matador with Moore-Rose Funeral Home in charge.

Harrison, a resident of Floydada since 1964 and a retired merchant and farmer, was found dead in his home Wednesday, June 21, by a neighbor. He had apparently been dead from natural causes for several PREVENT POND TRAGEDIES—Farm pond tragedies increase with the hot summer weather. A safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service suggests some precautions to prevent such tragedies. Non-swimmers wading or boating should always wear life vests. Keep handy a long cane pole and a capped gallon plastic jug containing a little water and tied to a rope. These can be used to "fish out" distressed swimmers. Place signs in and around farm ponds to warn swimmers or waders of "drop offs" and stumpy water.

PERIWINKLES FOR SUMMER COLOR—A home landscape in the hot Texas summer is just not the same without periwinkles. These flowers provide an array of color with little maintenance, says a landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Periwinkles prefer bright sun and a well drained soil. Use moderate amounts of fertilizer. The plants will normally bloom until frost in the fall.

When a family member is poisoned, don't panic, advises Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Call the doctor, poison control center or a hospital, police or other emergency service, she recommends.

Tell them briefly what poison has been taken and how much, and then, ask what to do until help arrives, the specialist says.

Visitors Invited To Watch Dig

Visitors are invited to watch archeologists dig a record of the past from the Lubbock Lake Site every Saturday between the hours of 9-11 a.m.

Maps giving directions to the site may be obtained at the information desk of The Museum of Texas Tech University.

The exception to the invitation is Saturday, July 1, when the site will be closed. The last tour day is July 29. The extensive archeological search at the Lubbock Lake Site, supported by national, state, local and private funding, is conducted through The Museum. The dig is in its sixth year, and artifacts recovered range from the Clovis period 12,000 years ago to the pop bottle era.

Dr. Eileen Johnson is director of the research. Vance Holliday is field supervisor.

According to reports from attending physician to the parents, Jeff was suffering from post infectious encephalitis which followed a case of chicken pox. He is reported to be doing well.

Hospital in Lubbock. He is doing nicely but was still hospitalized Friday for additional medical tests. Daniel is in Room 692.
