COTTON
Cotton has made excellent growth over the last week due to the hot, dry weather. Many fields are beginning to set squares and several fields now have pinhead sized squares.

Much of the cotton crop is now to the 7-8 true leaf stage and has outgrown earlier THRIPS damage. While thrips are still present on cotton at this stage damage generally does not occur. Some late planted and replanted cotton is still in the seedling to 4 leaf stage and is susceptible to THRIPS damage.

A few scattered COTTON FLEAHOPPERS are beginning to show up here and there. These are very light populations at this time but they can increase rapidly. During the first three weeks of squaring is an important time to watch for this pest. More will be said about this insect next week.

The Floydada tennis club was conducted at the First Methodist Church. The club met on July 19-23 and area papers have been made up for club members.

the junior and senior high school courts. The next club play has been scheduled for Aug. 19 at 1 p.m. on the high school courts. The round robin mixed doubles were held in late May with only Richard Hale and Flo Day, and Elizabeth Farris and Coach Tommy Baxter participating.

1-3 In Tournament

Paul Simpson, manager of the A's, led the team to a 1-3 record in the tournament. The team was defeated by the Plainview team in the championship game.

dada Chicanos, and Plainview and improved their mark to 11 wins and 8 losses. The A's will face Petersburg, winners over Tula by forfeiture on Friday night at 9:30 and the winner will battle either Plainview or the Chicanos for the right to compete in the championship title July 7. Lane, now 1-0 on the season in his short time with the A's, displayed brilliant form in limiting Crosbyton hitters to 3 runs and a pair of hits.

Floydada Tri-Countians

Beat Petersburg 14-3

The Floydada Tri-Countians baseball team defeated Petersburg 14-3 in a game played in Lockney.

Thursday's Petersburg-Floydada tilt took place in Petersburg, where, surprisingly, no rain had passed by. Winning pitcher Pete Castillo struck out three batters, allowed just 3 runs, and scattered 10 hits in capturing the win on the mound for Floydada. The tri-countians will return home on Thursday, July 6, to battle Abernathy in a rematch game.

Fireworks Caused 106

Injuries Last Year

Butterflies, firecrackers and skyrockets top the list of fireworks responsible for 106 eye injuries to Texans last year, 32 of which resulted in total vision loss or impairment, reports the Texas Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

From its 1977 fireworks survey of 30 Texas ophthalmologists, the Society learned that 56 of these injuries were caused by bottle rockets and some were caused by seemingly harmless items like punk, used to light fireworks, and sparklers which burn at temperatures exceeding 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit.

Typically, the greatest number of accidents were reported in the major Texas cities where fireworks are illegal. San Antonio with 21 injuries, Dallas with 16, Corpus Christi, 10, and Houston, 8. The majority of injuries were to males, ages 10-19, and many victims were bystanders not directly involved in setting off the fireworks.

Though sight was restored in a few cases, most injuries resulted in some degree of permanent vision loss or impairment. Ophthalmologists reported cases of burns to the eyelids and cornea, the clear part at the front of the eye. Cases of traumatic cataract, a clouding of the lens of the eye, and retinal detachment, or hemorrhage between the retina and iris, the colored part of the eye, were reported as were several cases of damage to the retina, the most sensitive part of the back of the eye which transmits images to the brain.

The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, parent organization of the Texas Society, reports that an estimated 7,555 Americans were taken to hospital emergency rooms for treatment of fireworks-related injuries last year and that 17 per cent of these were injuries to the eyes. This figure represents only a fraction of actual injuries since there is no way to accurately determine the number treated in doctor's offices, at home or by direct hospital admission, NSPB notes.

The Texas Society urges that use of fireworks be restricted to licensed displays. It encourages parents to keep even the smallest firecrackers out of the hands of their children since the majority of fireworks victims are under age 15. NSPB says enjoy the holidays, but enjoy them safely.

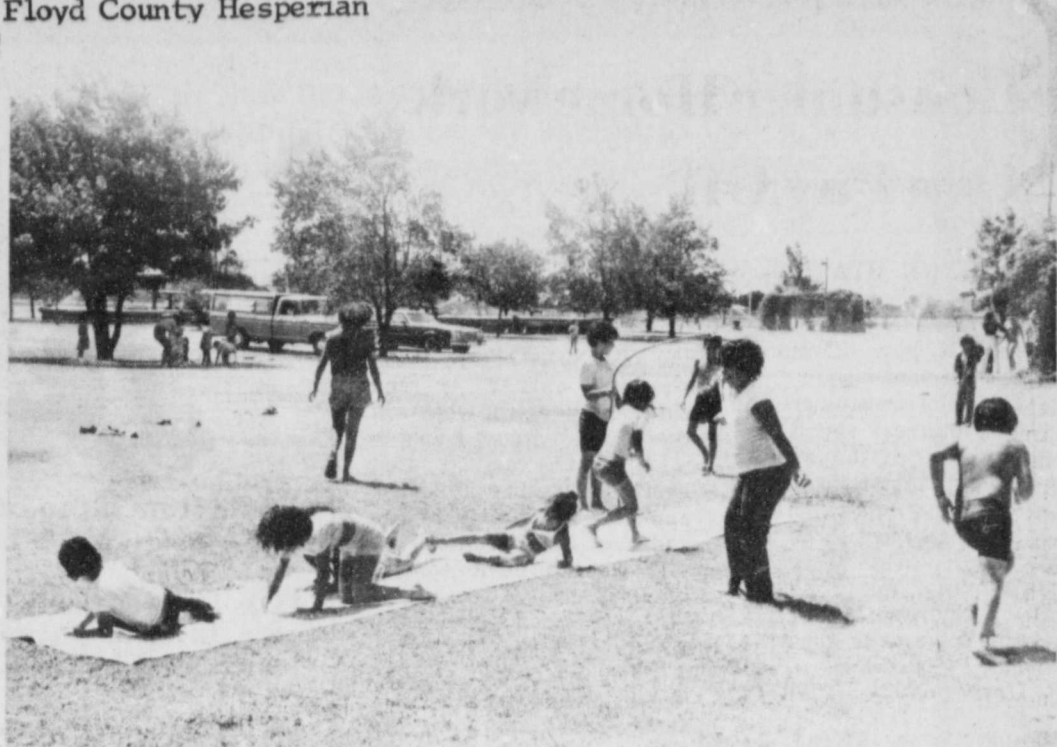

Students May Claim 53

AUSTIN—Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Transportation Safety, today estimated that 53 students were injured during the 102-hour holiday weekend during the 102-hour holiday weekend in Texas.

July 4th is traditionally one of our most dangerous driving periods, and I hope that all Texans will do their part to prevent accidents," Speir said. The DPS director asked that motorists keep their headlights on throughout the holiday period as a safe driving reminder to others. "There was widespread citizen participation in this "Light the Way for a Safe Holiday" program during the Christmas and New Year weekends, and we believe it had a very positive impact," Speir added.

All available DPS Troopers will be on duty between 6 p.m. Friday, June 30, and midnight Tuesday, July 4th, which is the official nationwide holiday period set by the National Safety Council. They will be keeping a close watch for drunk driving, excessive speeding and other hazardous violations. Speir said that during the past two years, July 4th weekends have been 78 hours in length. There were 35 traffic deaths in Texas during the 1977 holiday period, and 48 in 1976.

NO MOTHER'S DAY OUT JULY 4 There will be no Mother's Day out or Adventure Day programs at the Floydada Methodist Church on Tuesday, July 4. Otherwise, both programs will run on the every Tuesday schedule.

Consumer Homework Can Pay Off

COLLEGE STATION — Consumer "homework" before buying a major appliance can pay off—money-wise and time-wise.

The wise consumer will want to invest sound pre-purchase study to maximize purchase satisfaction and avoid the pitfalls experienced by consumers who buy appliances in a hasty and uninformed manner, says Dr. Carolyn McKinney, family resource management specialists.

Unfortunately, in all too many situations, major appliances are hastily purchased and the consumer becomes a victim of his or her own lack of pre-purchase thought and investigation.

Dr. McKinney is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Pre-purchase homework should include a review of information about the appliance being considered. Magazine and newspaper articles, state Extension bulletins, manufacturers' brochures and specification sheets, and federal government bulletins are valuable information sources.

Consider appliance styling and features, fuel requirements and energy efficiency, family size and lifestyle, and available space, she suggests.

Also, the wise consumer will think in advance about what questions to ask and discuss with the appliance dealers and salespeople.

Dr. McKinney recommends asking about items such as the following:

[1] Is the Delivery and installation cost included in the sales price or are these charges extra? If the charges are extra, what will the estimated cost be?

[2] What is the estimated operating (fuel) cost of the appliance on an annual basis and over its' lifetime?

[3] Does the dealer service the appliance? If not, where can authorized service be obtained?

[4] Will the dealer arrange for a demonstration of the appliance—especially the special or unique features?

[5] What information is available in the use and care manual? The dealer should have one available from the floor models on display. Ask to see it—it will suggest additional pertinent questions about the specific appliance.

[6] What safety or certification seals are applied to the appliance to indicate safety, performance and durability standards? American Gas Association, Underwriter's Laboratories and the AHAM certification seals are those commonly used.

In addition, the consumer will need to consider the appliance cost in relation to the family budget.

Color and style factors, size or capacity requirements, and construction features that will contribute to long-term durability, ease of cleaning and convenience are also important, the specialist adds.

Facts from a pro on driving to survive.

Q. Is it permissible to move a car that has been involved in an accident before the police get there? — C. J., Yoakum

A. Yes, if it is a serious obstruction to traffic and can be safely driven. If the accident occurred in a main traffic lane, ramp, shoulder, median or adjacent area of a freeway in a metropolitan area, the car must be removed off the freeway. Otherwise it is usually a better idea to leave it where it stopped. If the impact was serious, remember to turn off the ignition to reduce the risk of fire.

Q. I know you can improve gas mileage on the highway by driving at or below 55. But is there anything you can do in town? — C. J., Bronte

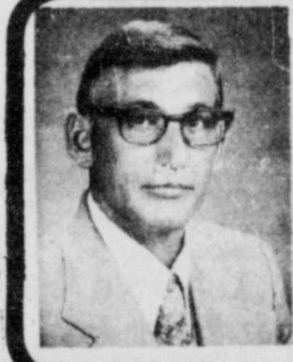

A. The simplest measure is to avoid jackrabbit starts and hard stops. Most drivers press the gas pedal down too far, pumping more fuel through the engine than it can handle. Accelerating hard and then jamming on the brakes at the next light wastes fuel and wears out the brakes faster. Don't start the engine until you are ready to go. Many people start it as soon as they get into the car, then adjust the mirror, buckle the seat belt and wait for their passengers to get in. And don't run the engine while waiting for the drive-in bank teller to process your deposit. If the engine is warm, it takes almost no fuel to restart it.

Q. Are there any disadvantages to cruise controls? — D.P., Abilene

A. Not if they aren't treated as automatic pilots. A cruise control can maintain a steady speed better than you can, and that will improve fuel mileage. It also prevents the driver's right foot from becoming cramped, and it allows him or her to give more attention to traffic conditions.

AROUND THE COUNTY

Crops are beginning to look a lot better. The hot dry weather is making the corn and sorghum suffer somewhat. Most producers are irrigating grain crops.

Wheat and onion harvest are well under way. Wheat yields are very low compared to average years. The irrigated and wheat on summer fallowed land are about half of what they should be. Eighteen to twenty bushels seem to be good yields for this year. The dryland is yielding about 8 bushels if it is worth cutting at all and the weeds did not take it. Producers need to be aware of the fact that we are experiencing more and more incidence of Stinking Bunt on the South Plains.

Stinking Bunt is a smut disease that affects wheat and renders it unsuitable for milling grain as well as reducing yields. Stinking Bunt has plagued producers since the middle ages. There is no cure for it once it has become established in an area. The disease could drastically route the marketing advantage of Floyd County wheat.

The disease is transmitted through contamination of grain with effected seed and machinery. Producers and grain handlers should watch carefully for any sign of this disease.

Most of the cotton came through the wet cold weather with enough stand as not to reduce yields. The complex of seedling disease, wet and cold, and sand damage did substantially reduce stands in some areas. A lot of it was replanted so we have something like 50,000 acres of the 210,000 in June cotton.

Trips were a problem in some areas, but most of the damage was due to sand and wind. Now the cotton has pretty well outgrown any threat from trip's damage.

ATTENTION LIVESTOCK PRODUCERS

The screwworm committee received notice of confirmed cases of screwworms in Motley, Dickens and Crosby counties. Producers should be aware of the potential problems. Inspect livestock often and postpone activities (dehorning and castrating) that might be attractive in screwworms. Collect and send samples to the Mission Lab.

Treat all wounds with approved insecticides. It is very important that worm samples be collected and sent in. On confirmation of true screwworms, the State will make sterile fly drops and spray effected cattle.

Vials for collection and mailing are available at most businesses where medications are bought and from our office. Telephone 983-2806.

YOU CAN SAVE two miles a gallon of gas by using your car's air conditioner only when needed. And the quickest way to cool a car that's been baking in the sun is to drive briefly with the windows open before turning on the air conditioner.

OLDER INDIVIDUAL CENSUS COMING

The South Plains Office on Aging in conjunction with the South Plains Association of Governments will be conducting a Census/Needs Assessment in your area very soon.

This will help us determine the real needs of older individuals in Floyd County. Volunteers will soon be asking you to take a few minutes and help them and the older people in your area by filling out this questionnaire. Please do so!

Do be on the "look out" for the volunteer in your area! Your cooperation will be appreciated.

Americans still 'believ

But only four of 10 are 'churched,' poll sho

NEW YORK — While Americans today profess as much religious belief as they did 25 years ago, belief in the importance of the organized church has declined, according to the results of a national poll of religious attitudes unveiled here June 19.

Conducted by the Gallup polling organization, the national survey was prompted by an inter-religious coalition which included the United Methodist Church. Its purpose was to compare the attitudes of the "churched" and the "unchurched." The survey defined the "unchurched" as persons who were not members of a church or who had not attended a church service (except for weddings, funerals, special holidays, etc.) for the past six months.

Beliefs changed little

"Basic religious beliefs of Americans have changed little, based on studies done in 1952 and 1965," Dr. George Gallup Jr. told reporters at a press conference here. "The unchurched are remarkably religious in many respects and believe in the value of religion." He pointed out that eight out of 10 Americans say they believe that "Jesus Christ was/is God or the Son of God" and that nine out of 10 say they sometimes pray to God.

Meanwhile, however, only about four out of 10 Americans are members of and regularly attend church, only about one-half say religion is "very important" in their daily lives, and nearly eight out of 10 believe "an individual should arrive at his or her own religious beliefs independent of any churches."

"Basically, the church is not dealing with unbelievers (in its efforts to attract new members)," Dr. Gallup said in an analysis of the findings. "Most have remarkably strong religious beliefs, but for some reason have not become a part of the organized church."

Someone invited them

He said that high on the list of reasons churchgoers give for beginning to attend church was that someone in the church invited them to attend. He went on, however, to point out that most churchpersons have never invited another person to attend their church.

"It seems obvious that if we want church membership to grow, an essential part is that we personally invite the unchurched to attend," Dr. Gallup said.

The survey also shows that the most frequent, specific criticism leveled at the church by the unchurched is that organized religion has lost its "spiritual" emphasis. The unchurched claim the church has become too concerned with "organizational issues" rather than "theological and spiritual issues."

'No place to go'

"We found that many of the unchurched are all fired up but feel they have no place to go that will meet their spiritual needs," Dr. Gallup said. He said it appears that the church school — one of organized religion's cornerstones for spiritual development — is producing nearly as many unchurched as church people: three fourths of the unchurched say they attended church school as children and one-half say they attended "every week."

A great majority of the unchurched said they have attended church at some time, but most said they did not actively reject church, but rather found "other interest and activities" on which to spend their time. About one-third said they made a conscious decision to reject the organized church because of specific problems with its teachings and 27 percent said they left the church as a part of growing up and making their own decisions.

More than one-fourth of all persons who said they quit attending church said they did so because they moved from one community to another and just "never got around to finding another church."

Within the third of the unchurched which rejected the church because of some specific problems, 37 percent said the problem was narrowness of teaching and beliefs; 32 percent said they were bothered by the church having "too much concern for money. The unchurched percent said the church's teachings were "too narrow."

Social attitudes vary

While basic religious beliefs do not vary widely, attitudes on social issues and some life problems show a striking contrast. Issues included:

Sexual freedom — The unchurched and the churched do not welcome more sexual freedom in our society, although the unchurched were far more inclined to support "freedom." The churched were more likely, for instance, to support sexual intercourse in young groups opposed the use of the pill. The churched accepted the use of the pill while most of the unchurched (80 percent) opposed it.

Religious dissent — The unchurched were far more inclined to support religious dissent. The unchurched were more likely to support religious dissent than the churched (66 percent of the unchurched said "no" while 54 percent of the churched said "no").

Public schools — The unchurched said they have less confidence in the public schools than the churched (54 percent of the unchurched said "no" while 44 percent of the churched said "no").

Religious awakening — The unchurched had ever experienced a religious awakening. The unchurched were more likely to experience a religious awakening than the churched (43 percent of the unchurched said "yes" while 37 percent of the churched said "yes").

Training for children — The unchurched said they desire religious instruction for their children.

HERE'S A TYPICAL situation: Cost of drilling an oil well increased by almost $10 per foot, averaging $44 per foot. The average cost per well increased to $205,734 from 1976's $161,185. Average cost per well in 1974 was $108,233 while a year later it was up to $125,458.

Meanwhile, . . . J. Ray McDermott & Co., the world's largest builder of offshore oil rigs, pleaded guilty to fraud, racketeering, and other charges and was fined $1 million dollars.

McDermott also pleaded guilty to making illegal campaign contributions to Reps. David Treen and Bennett. Louisiana Republicans. McDermott bribed a Teneco Vice President to work done by McDermott in Mexico.

Now if we dig deep enough, we find that some of the offshore drilling company were also McDermott. So there could be a better reason for paying the high cost than in resisting McDermott's "competition" which is the "free enterprise system" about the situation?

The Floyd Philosopher Sees A Small Bright Side To Recent Ruling By The Supreme Court

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm takes a sidelong glance at a new ruling by the Supreme Court.

Dear editor:

Newspapers, especially big city newspapers, are upset over a ruling by the Supreme Court that police, merely by getting a simple search warrant, can barge into their offices unannounced and search through desks and files for whatever they can find.

It's not that the police think the newspaper has done anything criminal or even anything at all. It's that they think maybe they might find a photograph or notes that might be sources or tips that'd lead them to some third party they're investigating.

Newspapers naturally object to this odd interpretation of the Constitution and what I'm wondering is, how broad is it? Does it mean that newspapers can get a search warrant and go into the Supreme Court Justices' offices to see if they can find any notes or scraps of papers that'd account for such a haywire decision?

Also, does it mean the police have to put everything back on a desk just like they found it?

If so, I'd like to ask a favor. Six months ago I stuck an important letter with some notes scribbled on the envelope in a special place on my desk. When I put it there I made a mental note to remember where it was. It was right there on the right side under some clippings from this newspaper, some from the AVALANCHE JOURNAL, some personal letters that maybe needed answering, some government forms for a farm census (third notice, it said) and a few other odds and ends that gradually accumulate on a desk in an office where the wastebasket is already full. I can't find that letter.

I don't know what evidence Sheriff Cardinal might be looking for on my desk, but if you can, arouse his suspicions. If he can turn up that missing letter, I sure would appreciate it.

Yours faithfully,

J.A.

Official county-by-county figures from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service (TCLRS) show 1977 cotton production in the 25 High Plains counties represented by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, at an all-time high 3,215,400 bales of 480 pounds net weight.

Total production exceeded the previous area record, 2,888,700 bales, set in 1973, by over 300,000 bales.

Planted acreage according to TCLRS was 3,749,600, of which 3,638,800 acres were harvested. Yield per harvested acre came to 424.1 pounds, compared to 365.6 pounds in 1976 and an average of 383.5 pounds per acre for the ten-year period 1967 through 1976.

The planted acreage figure was the second highest in history, behind the 3.9 million acres planted in 1952.

Lubbock County, with 346,000 bales, led the area in production. Second, third and fourth places were taken by Gaines (292,000), Hockley (261,000) and Terry (238,000). The top four producing counties in 1976, respectively, were Dawson, Gaines, Lynn and Lubbock Counties.

Per-acre yield leaders in 1977 were Parmer (556), Lubbock (527), Swisher (500) and Hale (497).

The chart below shows planted and harvested acres, yields per harvested acre and total production in 480 pound net weight bales for each of the 25 PCG counties.

Polish Engineers Study Feed Mill Technology

LUBBOCK, TX.—"The accurate, scientific method of mixing feed employed at the Texas Tech Feed Milling Plant is very impressive, and something I have not seen before," noted Dr. Zenon Szumera, leader of a three-man team of Polish engineers in charge of designing a new feed mill in Poland. The team visited Lubbock last week as guests of Grain Sorghum Producers Association and Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board. Sponsored by the U.S.

Feed Grains Council (USFGC), the team will spend two weeks in the United States observing and studying the technology behind different methods of feed processing so that they can incorporate these techniques into their new mill. Their U.S. tour includes visits to feed mills in Georgia, North Carolina, Texas, Kansas, and Colorado.

In the Lubbock area the team toured Producers Grain Corporation Feedlot Mayfield, Olton Grain Co-op in Olton, Taylor Feedlot in Dimmitt, Pre-Feeders Feedlot in Hereford, and the Experimental Feed Milling Plant at Texas Tech University.

The need for a new feed mill in Poland was determined by members of a team of Polish animal scientists who visited the High Plains last fall. Also sponsored by USFGC and hosted by Grain Sorghum Producers Association, the team of scientists saw great advantages in the methods of feed processing practiced in this area and asked that an experimental feed mill which would utilize some of these processes be built in their homeland.

The Polish government agreed and the present team of engineers was named to design the mill. Dr. Klaus Werner, U.S. Feed Grains Council Director from Hamburg, Germany, and William B. Briggs, P.E., a feed mill engineering consultant from Atlanta are accompanying the team.

Through May 31, 1978, Poland has purchased 13.8 million bushels of U.S. grain sorghum. The new Polish feed mill is another step towards USFGC/Grain Sorghum Producers Association's goal of expanding the demand for U.S. grain sorghum in Poland.

NEWS OF BOOKS

What's helped successful people make it to the top? The famous and successful reveal their secrets of getting ahead and fulfilling their dreams in a frank and compelling new book.

SUCCESS AND SELF-FULFILLMENT—Do you know the keys to achieving them?

Called Beginnings, the book by Thomas Hunter traces the career paths of 24 notables—among them, F. Lee Bailey, Walter Cronkite, Erma Bombeck, Roberta Flack, Ralph Nader and Pete Rose.

Although no career guide in the usual sense, in Beginnings (Thomas Y. Crowell Co., N.Y.) patterns and personal traits applicable to any career emerge as these successes tell their stories in their own words.

They talk about heroes and role models who influenced their career decisions, events and circumstances that channeled their interests, career options not pursued, personal motivations, key turning points and major sources of satisfaction. The book itself is a dream come true for author Hunter, who says, "Forget the odds and forget the difficulties. If there's something you want to do, get at it."

A's PITCHER GLEN LANE....(In top photo), Lane starts the windup of a pitch, and in lower photo, demonstrates the form and technique that earned him a scholarship at Abilene Christian University. Lane, in his first two starts with the Floydada A's baseball club, helped the team tremendously. He plans to try out for the Texas Tech baseball team next year. (Staff Photo)

Hurler Anticipates Bright Future In Baseball

By Doug Simpson
Nineteen-year old Glen Lane takes baseball very seriously. And the 6-0, 170-pound Lockney High School "Class of '77" graduate doesn't just take the game seriously—he plays like it. Since Lane joined the Floydada A's baseball squad and introduced a style and technique all his own, his teammates have loved every minute of it.

Glen, one of 20 pitchers who tried out for Abilene Christian University's baseball squad in 1978, recalls the time of uncertainty for he and his fellow team-making hopefuls.

"There were only 2 pitching spots that the team could fill," Lane remembers. "There were about 75 players trying out for the squad, and I was 1 of 4 freshman trying to make it."

Why was Lane chosen over the other pitchers by ACU's coaching staff? "I don't know," Lane replied. "I like to think that I was a better pitcher than they were."

All this happened less than a year ago. The A's picked up Lane and added him to their squad only very recently. The results have been astounding. In the opening round of the Floydada tournament, Lane allowed just three runs in a convincing 14-3 win. Glen limited Crosbyton batters to 2 hits and prevented any serious scoring threats by his opponents.

But that game does not constitute all of Lane's glory moments. Glen played and pitched on the Floydada tri-county team that finished 3rd in the state tournament in 1975.

In a crucial state tourney game at Minneola, Lane and his Floydada teammates nudged highly-touted Waco 8-5 for the right to enter the winner's bracket.

A fine athlete, Lane starred in football, basketball, and track in his four years at LHS.

He then tried out for the ACU baseball team as a walk-on. He made it with flying colors, and plans to continue to advance in his career. Lane plans to try out for the baseball team at Texas Tech next season.

Glen Lane could adequately be described as a determined, multi-talented, and hard-working ball player who from an outsider's glance, would never strike you as being one of today's HORSE SENSE — Carter White of Hale Center, a horseman who has written 92 true tales about horses, looks at a book he has written. The 92 true tales were written "the way they happened." Thurman of Plainview did picture on the cover.

A man who knows horses writes book about them

By MARIE HARRIS
Herald Regional Editor

HALE CENTER — A native of the rugged Caprock Country in the Post area has written a book of 92 true stories about horses "the way I remembered them happen."

Carter White, who has lived in Hale Center the past four years, explained why he wrote "Big Remuda", his book now on sale in Plainview, Hale Center, Tulla and Lubbock bookstores. "I've known so many unusual horses and their riders I wanted to put their stories down on paper."

White became a livestock inspector for the Texas Animal Health Commission seven years ago when a scabies outbreak was the scourge that kept the country under quarantine. He handles dipping chores for infested cattle. By necessity he rides horseback much of the time to perform many of his duties which include testing cattle for brucellosis. White is fully responsible for Hale and Lamb counties and has duties in Lubbock County.

WHITE HAS been riding horses and collecting material about them since he was a 9-year-old kid. At that time he did not realize he would be putting these memories together in a book.

The 46-year-old author has spent his spare time for the past eight years writing the stories. He started writing them as a pastime and at one stage threw the manuscript in the trash where his daughter, now Sherry McNeely of New Home, recovered it and encouraged him, along with other family members, to finish the book.

He and his wife, the former Sybil Smith, who were married July 7, 1951, also have another daughter, Cynthia White, who is employed at City National Bank in Plainview. Mrs. White is church secretary for First Baptist Church in Hale Center.

IN HIS introduction to the book, White comments, "A few stories are about common ole ponies that were a long way from being pedigreed... There's stories about registered animals and their abilities to win at halter and performance... There's stories of workin' cow ponies, playday ponies, barrel racers, roping ponies and some that could run a hole in the wind... There's stories of brood stock or blooded animals... There's most every color of horse and some mighty colorful riders of most all ages. There's family history written into stories."

"So this book is a personal thing," added White. "Heart strings are tied to most every story contained here."

White dedicated his book to his brother-in-law, the late Billy Joe Woods, husband of his wife's sister, Nelda of Odessa.

BOBBY McCALL, owner and manager of Professional Printing in Plainview, which printed the book, wrote the preface to "Big Remuda." He wrote in part, "Carter White has done an exceptional job of putting on paper the common dialogue used in the small towns of West Texas... His style of writing, his personal feelings, his feelings toward children, his fellowman, his family and this country are graphically portrayed in his own words West Texas style."

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowe White of Post, the author was born Jan. 30, 1932 in Garza County two miles east of "Ragtown"

The book was printed by Blanco Offset Inc. of Floydada and will be available at the Office and Art Supply Center in Floydada.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir,

I would greatly appreciate you running the following correction of a recent erroneous report concerning Abilene Christian University.

On June 17, 1978, the Associated Press stated that the voting boxes near Abilene Christian University, voted 85% for unrestricted liquor sales. This report was completely in error. The boxes near the University voted 85% against unrestricted liquor sales and not 85% for.

Abilene Christian University has always been against the sale of liquor in any form, restricted or unrestricted, nor

The Floyd County Hesperian

Pride, the king of the box office at the fair, will be making his fifth consecutive booking here.

The RCA Records star currently has 22 albums in his catalog, a dozen of them gold albums. He's also had a steady stream of chart-topping country singles although his music long ago spilled over into the mainstream of popular music.

He has racked up numerous achievements and is one of the hottest tickets in country music, drawing sell-out houses on booked-up tours in top country music rooms in the nation.

His personality has been described "as easy-going as a tadpole on a water lily." Previous appearances here have been in 1969, 1970, 1972, 1974, 1975, 1976 and 1977.

Dave and Sugar, who have appeared here with Pride before, are fast becoming stars in their own right. Their first release for RCA, "Queen of the Silver Dollar," stayed on the charts for 20 weeks, reaching the #20 spot in all three record industry publications.

Other top records have included "The Door is Always Open," "I'm Gonna Love You" and "It All Aways" All six stars are doing real well in room 473, Main Building in Lubbock. Tickets for all shows $5 and $6.
