Tax collector-assessor Jonelle collects a lot of tax money for the county office in the courthouse. About 90 percent of it goes to the various districts.

She collected $27,251.11 for the city district, $18,800.68 for the school district, $264,635.70 for the hospital, $148,814.64 for Lockwood Hospital, $78,094.50 for the school, $86,816.75 for South Plains and $5,058.30 for the county Independent School District.

She has collected up to $629,481.68. The office doesn't get a big part of the work involved in collecting these taxes...a total of

How much tax money does she collect for the county? The total is $528,921.17.

Jonelle's tax collecting business will drop off some next year, as there will be no weed control district after voters voted it out last Tuesday.

Anderson, cotton marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Although the still fairly strong, most traditionally sold in Texas in and January. Holding back sales and marketing only a limited can help bolster prices."

Going into this year's crop season, the cotton market looked fairly strong due to the drop in domestic production and stable foreign production, says Anderson. But, once the harvest season starts and the new crop hits the market, prices tend to go down. However, with cotton supplies tight as they are this year, orderly marketings can contribute to a more stable price pattern.

"With the weak domestic demand for cotton which currently exists, bunched marketings will cause a slump in prices," contends the marketing specialist. "Producers short on cash may want to consider placing cotton in the CCC (Commodity Credit Corporation) loan program for several months. This would help even out marketings and maintain a higher price level."

Looking ahead, prospects for a favorable price for 1979 cotton depend on the anticipated crop size which now appears to be substantially larger than this year's crop, notes Anderson. Prices could easily be down near the 1979 CCC loan rate of 50.23 cents per pound for Strict Low Middling 1-1/16 inch cotton this time next year.

"With the prospects of a sizeable boost in next year's cotton crop, producers might consider forward contracting or hedging in the futures market during the next several months at least part of their 1979 crop at a price that allows a reasonable profit," advises Anderson.

So, it all boils down to marketing. Farmers can have some control over the price they get for this year's crop and can also take steps to "lock in" a profit next year.

Christmas Opening Begins December 1

Two committees of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce have been working together to coordinate various Christmas activities for a week of Christmas observances. The retail merchant committee and the community appearance committee have announced that the first ten days of December will be filled with many things to do.

To kick off the activities there will be a treat for the children on Friday, December 1. The friends of the Library Association invite all children ages 5 to 10, and their mothers to attend an autograph party for Wallene (Mrs. Rex) Dockery. Mrs. Dockery will review her latest children's book, GABBY'S CHRISTMAS WISH. This party, with refreshments, will be from 3:30 to 5 in the Floyd Co. Library.

The next day, December 2nd, the Lions Club Arts and Crafts Show will open at the MAC at 10 a.m. This show has become quite popular with the Floydada people and is an excellent way to start the Christmas shopping season.

Also on Saturday Santa Claus will arrive in town. Last word from Santa's agent is that he will arrive at the square about 9:15 a.m. with candy for all the boys and girls. He will ride around on the Floydada Fire Department's cleverly decorated workshop. Santa Land will be open from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 7, 8, & 9.

The merchants in the down town area have been contacted and requested to do some kind of outside lighting on their building or windows. The committees are suggesting that if they have to buy lights to do this that gold (yellow) lights be purchased with the plan in mind to do this lighting every year and each year to add to the displays. There will be the usual Christmas music played in town—that is, there will be if the loud speakers are fixed in time.

The Women's Division is again undertaking the adding of more lights to the tree on the southwest corner of the Courthouse Square. It is hoped that the weather will be better than last year when the "lighting" took place.

Again at the Christmas Tree lighting the high school band will present a program of Christmas carols. Everybody is invited to come and sing along with the band. If you don't know the words hum. There may be some sheets with words of the carols printed, and available for those with poor memories. Mrs. Carolyn Cheek's 6th graders will be there to add their voices to the festivities and the Methodist Youth are planning on staging a Nativity scene to add to the spirit of a country Christmas.

The merchants are planning Christmas promotions in their stores. There will be more publicity about Christmas Activity Week.

For example, a typical household of four may now be getting $182 a month in food stamps. For this amount, the household pays $58 of its own money, making the bonus value of the coupons $124 in food stamps, and will pay no cash.

NEWS 'N' NOTES

(by Sharon Hillis)

ZAP CLUTTER. GET ORGANIZED
Lost recipes. Missing music scores. Bulging closets. A sea of newspaper clippings. Vanishing warranty books. Clutter everywhere!

Sound familiar? If so, you may be suffering from a common malady—disorganization. Don't let it control your life. Be your own expert organizer and make clutter disappear. Disorganization can strike anyone—advanced symptoms include absolute chaos and growing despair.

If you are spending more time searching for things than using them, it's time to put life in order and cope more effectively with every day living. Anyone can become organized if they are willing to spend enough time to study and solve their problems. Only four things need organizing: space, things, time and tasks. Try a few ideas for starters:

SPACE
Organize storage space. Kitchens and closets need periodic reviews. To make storage space usable, keep often-used items close to the area of use. Make items easy-to-see and reach.

THINGS
Assess clutter realistically. Just how much of it is really needed? Learn when to discard or recycle things—unless creating a national museum in your home is a goal. Learn how to deal with paper-toss it, use it or file it. Set up a home filing system for readily accessible papers. Use different color folders for stashing papers and don't forget about the alphabet!

TIME
Learn to make the most of time. Use a central family calendar to keep track of everyone's activities and responsibilities. Don't over-organize your time. Instead, use odd moments and waiting time for mini-projects.

TASKS
Organize routine tasks, such as housecleaning. Make a list of housecleaning activities to be completed weekly, monthly and annually. Schedule them on the calendar. Divide responsibilities among family members. Try other ideas for routine tasks. For example, make the food-shopping list according to the location of items in the supermarket.

She carried an Eduardian arrangement of white miniature carnations and yellow Sweetheart roses frosted with gypsophila. Her attendants carried single peach carnations tied with fern and satin. Their floor length dresses were peach and trimmed with lace.

THE PARLOR of the church was the setting for the reception. An arrangement of peach silk roses designated the bride's book. Peach colored carnations flanked by matching candles

Parents Help Children Seek Independence, Acceptance

Parents tell me that teenagers specialize in messy rooms. The more a room looks like an explosion in a garment factory, the more it satisfies their need to rebel and to be in charge of their own environment. It's part of growing up.

I heard a delightful story about the two teenage girls from Hoboken, New Jersey: Jill Singleton, 15, and Gina Gonzales, 14. They wanted to earn money for Christmas shopping but were too young for the jobs available in their community. So they took matters into their own hands.

Jill and Gina circulated a letter to neighbors and friends offering their services. Doing what? To the astonishment of their parents, they went into the house-cleaning business.

Business, in fact, was so good, they had to invite two or three friends to join them. At Christmas time, they worked from nine in the morning until nine at night. As the demand continued, they spent weekends and some after-school hours cleaning. They made about $4 an hour dusting, vacuuming, scrubbing, waxing, things their parents thought them incapable of doing.

This is a story of what teenagers can do, but somewhere here I see a story of what parents can do: give their youngsters credit for being persons, not stereotypes.

Most people have the potential for accomplishing things far beyond their present reach. With a little encouragement and patience, we can help them to make that reach. And that includes teenagers.

People once believed that if their palms itched they would receive money.

FARM & RANCH NEWS

FmHA Loans Up 55 Percent

WASHINGTON Nov. 6.—The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), the rural credit agency of the U.S. department of Agriculture, reported that its loans and grants for rural development during fiscal year (FY) 1978 reached a record high of $11.1 billion—55 percent above the FY 1977 level, according to Alex Mercure, assistant secretary for rural development.

Of the $11.1 billion, 93 percent of which are loans repayable with interest, nearly $5 billion are farm loans. Housing loans accounted for $3.7 billion, $1.3 went for community facilities improvements and more than $1 billion were used for business-industrial financing.

Mercure cited these highlights: —Farm credit. FmHA made 153,380 farm loans, including more than 90,000 emergency loans to farmers and ranchers hit by natural disasters or economic emergencies. Emergency loans totaled $3.6 billion. Other services included $1.3 billion to individual family farmers for ownership, operation and improvement of their farms. A new economic emergency farm loan program, enacted in August, began with $108 million of loan approvals in September. Under this program, FmHA is authorized to carry up to $4 billion in loans through May 15, 1980.

—Housing. FmHA made 116,896 loans totaling $2.6 billion to families of low and moderate income for home ownership or improvement, and $673.1 million in loans for 1,451 multi-family apartment projects in rural towns throughout the country. FmHA housing programs are available in rural areas, towns of up to 10,000 population, and in non-metropolitan areas of up to 20,000 population where other credit is not available.

—Community facilities. FmHA provided more than $1 billion in FY 1978 to build or improve water and sewer systems in approximately 2,000 towns and rural areas. Loans for other types of community facilities, such as medical and community centers and fire departments, added $250 million to the agency's community facility programs. Facility projects may serve countryside and towns of up to 10,000 population.

Grants for comprehensive planning in rural areas were issued to 145 state, local and area planning bodies during FY 1978.

—Business and industry. FmHA's guarantees of commercial lenders' loans to businesses and industries employing rural people rose from $350 million in FY 1977 to $1 billion in FY '78. A loan level of $1.1 billion is budgeted for the current fiscal year. Grants totaling $10 million were made last year to local public bodies for improvement of rural industrial sites. During that time, the program provided an estimated 38,000 new jobs in rural areas and saved an estimated 53,000 existing jobs.

Gordon Cavanaugh, FmHA administrator, said, "a state reorganization will be completed this year. Under the plan, new district offices will service all community, multiple-family housing and organization project loans and grants. County FmHA offices will concentrate on improved service to families applying for farm and individual housing loans. To make FmHA more responsive to local needs and plans, and to avoid duplication of facilities in an area, groups of counties served by FmHA district offices will generally have the same boundaries as sub-state planning districts."

The desire to see all cotton bales wrapped in all cotton material has burned in the breast of cotton producers as long as most can remember.

Cotton bagging makes so much sense, has so many advantages, it is almost incredible that all efforts in that direction, to date, have ended in failure. Still, the desire persists and efforts continue.

Cotton bagging can be made that will protect the fiber in the bale as well as or better than any other material. Bales wrapped in cotton present a much better appearance and are accepted in both domestic and export markets. Use of cotton to package the U.S. crop would consume 200,000 to 250,000 bales, opening a major new market.

So why is cotton still packaged in jute, burlap and synthetic materials instead of cotton?

"So far no one, including ourselves, has been able to produce cotton bagging at a cost comparable to that of competing materials," says Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, "so the laws of economics have blocked organizations and private groups alike every time they've tried to move the industry toward cotton bagging, despite the many producers who profess a willingness to pay a higher price for bagging made from their own product."

Johnson recalls that in the year 1961 to 1964, PCG spent an estimated $50,000 on cotton bagging research, manufacturing and distribution.

In the first year of that program a few thousand patterns were made in Lubbock, bought by PCG and distributed to High Plains gins. Cotton-wrapped bales were followed from the gin through the marketing system. They outperformed traditional jute-covered bales at every point.

But the cost remained about two dollars per pattern above jute.

PCG and other industry groups persuaded the U.S. Department of Agriculture to help by subsidizing cotton bagging at the rate of $1 per pattern, with PCG still the buyer and distributor.

The following year arrangements were made for cotton bagging to move through regular commercial channels. USDA continued its support by offering a $1 per pattern payment to manufacturers, up to 100,000 patterns. At least two mills were approved for the payment and started production.

"But the cotton bagging still had to be sold for about a dollar more than jute, even with the USDA payment; demand dried up and far less than 100,000 patterns were ever produced," Johnson recalls.

More recently, in 1975, a group of High Plains investors set up machinery in Lubbock and went into production of cotton bagging with a warp knit construction on which the basic research was done by Cotton Incorporated, the producers' market development company. They offered an attractive, serviceable cotton bagging at a competitive price in 1975 and over 30,000 patterns were manufactured.

Underground Water District calls for election Jan 20

At its meeting on Nov. 6, the board of directors of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 officially called for an election to be held on Jan. 20, 1979, to elect two members of the board of directors and two county committeemen from each of its northernmost counties.

Positions open for election are board members from Directors' Precinct Three, which is composed of Bailey, Castro and Parmer Counties, and Directors' Precinct Three, which includes Armstrong, Deaf Smith, Potter and Randall Counties. Also being elected will be two county committeemen from each of the counties in these two Directors' Precincts. In related action the board approved the abolition of County Committee Precinct boundaries in Randall County so that all Randall County Committee members would be elected at-large.

This action was taken by the directors to give a more even distribution of representation, taking into account the population dispersment in Randall County. The directors also appointed Johnny Sluder to serve out the unexpired term of Joe Albracht, who has moved out of the district, on the Randall County Committee.

FARMERS UNION

Denounces President Carter's Veto

WACO, TX.—The leadership of Texas Farmers Union denounced President Carter's veto of the beef importation bill and feed grain program announcement as following the course of "kicking the farmer and kidding the consumer."

Jay Naman, President of Texas Farmers Union, issued a statement from the Waco state office stating that "President Carter's decision to veto the beef import plan was a grave mistake that will keep cattle producers from expanding production and make the beef price roller coaster more severe."

"Farmers are not confident at the future of the cattle business and are not expanding their herds at a time when they could safely do so. As a result, consumers are looking at beef shortages and higher prices. President Carter's decision to veto the beef import bill will make the price roller coaster more erratic and punish both cattlemen and consumers," Naman said.

"At a time when feed grain supplies are at historic highs and feed grain producer income is less than the cost of production, it is a national disgrace that the administration won't take the action necessary in assisting farmers in balancing supply with demand. Instead, the administration economists are justifying their weak farm policy by saying that it is necessary to dampen inflation. This is a cruel hoax to the consumer who will pay higher prices because of higher costs along the processor chain. It is a slap in the face of the feed grain producer who is being told that even though improved prices would not exceed the President's inflationary guidelines, he must bear compulsory come controls. The state farm organization leader explained that President Carter had opportunity to help both wool and cotton growers signing the bill that would give American textile manufacturers badly needed sessions, he chose to punish both U.S. producers of wool and the textile industry with his veto. Naman predicted that the cotton program soon to be announced would encourage more production of cheap cotton, outside the traditional grow areas. He said, "Our effort to get the administration to announce a set-aside on cotton to assist us in balancing supply and demand and getting the price of cotton out of bargain basement, seems to be falling on deaf ears. According to the Farmers Union, the administration is neither willing to curb textile imports or help American cotton farmers balance supply with demand."

Naman said, "The hope we have to get depressed prices for 1979 cotton now is for the administration to announce a reasonable set-aside with a diversion program that will compensate farmers for the sacrifice they make in reducing acreage."

In 1976 cotton prices rose, pushing up the cost and selling price of their product, and the investors, all but one of them cotton producers and ginners themselves, were forced to close down.

Today the Lubbock plant stands idle, ready to go into production, ready to advance the producer's dream of wrapping cotton in cotton, but without orders.

Pheasant Number Season 'Good as Last'

Heavy rains and the beginning of the nesting season in some areas cause for some concern that Deaf hunters will enjoy a better season after a year after sportsmen in the Magic Triangle and Parmer counties.

Herford is offering for The Brand's fourth annual Magic Triangle pheasant forecast, with less than a month remaining prior to the Dec. 9-24 season.

"This is going to be as good a season as last year. Deaf Smith County is at its peak for carrying pheasant, but the pheasant population in Castro and Parmer counties continues to expand. From my observations while making rounds in the three counties for the past few months, I feel there are more birds in Castro and Parmer counties," stated Cosper.

"The hunters are scattering out over the area now, rather than congregating in the Herford vicinity, and I feel this is another good indication that the birds are spreading out more," he added.

Upland game biologists for the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department failed to count a single pheasant while running a population survey along established boundaries here earlier this year, but biologist Dave Dvorak of the TP&WD office in Canyon reports there is only a two percent decline in the population this year, which should have no significant effect on overall hunter success.

According to Cosper, census takers in the local area may have simply launched their work too early on the day of the count, thus failing to see the more

heavy rains and the beginning of the nesting season in the Magic Triangle area. It appears that Deaf Smith County will enjoy a good pheasant season this year after a disappointing year in 1977. The Magic Triangle area, including Deaf Smith and Parmer counties, is expected to have a good pheasant season this year, according to the projection state by Chuck Cosper of Hereford is offering for The Brand's fourth annual Magic Triangle pheasant forecast, with less than a month remaining prior to the Dec. 9-24 season. "This is going to be as good a season as last year. Deaf Smith County is at its peak for carrying pheasant, but the pheasant population in Castro and Parmer counties continues to expand. From my observations while making rounds in the three counties for the past few months, I feel there are more birds in Castro and Parmer counties," stated Cosper. "The hunters are scattering out over the area now, rather than congregating in the Hereford vicinity, and I feel this is another good indication that the birds are spreading out more," he added. Upland game biologists for the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department failed to count a single pheasant while running a population survey along established boundaries here earlier this year, but biologist Dave Dvorak of the TP&WD office in Canyon reports there is only a two percent decline in the population this year, which should have no significant effect on overall hunter success. According to Cosper, census takers in the local area may have simply launched their work too early on the day of the count, thus failing to see the more leisurely arising pheasants. The durability of the pheasant populace here was demonstrated in June, after flooding on May 26 wiped out initial nesting efforts in some areas. Pheasants re-nested with excellent success, and Cosper reports that many hatches included a high proportion of cocks to hens. This means excess cockbirds, for harvest by sportsmen, come December.

Cover remains a critical factor for pheasant throughout the year, and will be a determinant in hunter success as well. Those sportsmen with access to the best cover will likely come home with more birds. "More birds have been worked down toward Castro County than have been plowed in the Hereford area, at this time. But, cover conditions are a lot better than they have been in the past, because wet weather began to grow firmly established in those areas in recent years accounts for the fact that Castro and Parmer are now the up-and-coming pheasant counties of the Magic Triangle. Although in most seasons, some hunting locales prove more ideal than others for those bent on putting a brace of ringnecks in the bag, Cosper admitted that he's hard pressed to single out "hotspots" for the coming season. "The pheasant are coming on so fast in some of these other counties that it's hard to pick an outstanding area. Farmland northwest of Hereford has always been popular, but hunting there probably won't be any better than in any of the

Awaiting Area Sportsmen

Gaudy ringnecks such as the cock shown here are at home in the grainfields and playa lakes of the Magic Triangle area in good numbers this year, and waiting for the horde of sportsmen expected to home in on Deaf Smith, Castro and Parmer counties for opening day, Dec. 9. This year's season will extend through Dec. 24. Despite heavy rains during the first period of nesting, pheasants re-nested and raised good broods with high proportions of cockbirds. Hunting success is expected to be comparable to last year. [TP&WD Photo] has delayed the plowing of some fields. Cover conditions could change rapidly in the weeks before the season opens, however. We have indifference among some farmers as to the critical need for pheasant cover, but we have some farmers who leave cover too, and generally, the growth around playa lakes is in good condition, providing holding areas for the birds," Cosper related. He pointed out that later stocking of pheasant in Castro and Parmer counties and the fact that ringnecks have only the same reason. "I felt that the recommendations were made on inconclusive evidence," Reiser explained. "The research with eggs was made 25-30 years ago with individuals known to be high in cholesterol. Sure, when eggs were removed from their diets their cholesterol level dropped. So, the Heart Association assumed that everyone who ate eggs was a cholesterol risk. I didn't believe any cause of accidents in the busy, small towns. Drivers' assumption wrong. Reiser and O'Brien asked volunteers to determine what would happen when people leading a normal day-to-day lifestyle eat meat and eggs. The age group selected was considered the risk, since few heart attacks occur in people under 30. O'Brien said that participants had normal levels of cholesterol, 240 milligrams, to fall off the jack. Always loobelow, and their lifestyles were not interrupted except the diets. How about the man who responded to an increase in cholesterol? "We advised him to modify his diet," Reiser concluded, "and we told the other 29 to eat what they wanted."

The best time to buy life insurance is when you're young. Because the premiums are lower. They're prorated over a longer life span. But that's also the time you can least afford an expensive mistake. Two good reasons to talk to someone who can build you a practical program. Not just sell you a policy.

Horse Championships
The first Copenhagen/Skoal Superhorse Award honoring the most versatile horse will be presented at the 1978 World Championship Quarter Horse Show. The winner receives a special trophy and $5,000 in cash. More than 1,000 American Quarter Horses are expected to be corralled for the fifth annual event in Oklahoma City, Nov. 15-19. Sponsor is the U.S. Tobacco Co., which is putting up $50,000 for prizes in this American Quarter Horse Association production.

The prize Quarter Horses, valued in excess of $10 million, will be competing for the World Championship trophy, the "Oscar" of the Quarter Horse industry, and a share of the more than $175,000 in total prize money. Top horse in each of the 45 classes will win a World Championship trophy. Cash awards will be given to the top six horses in every class. The show is an invitational event. Only certain horses are eligible to participate. To receive an invitation to any of the 45 events, a horse must earn a predetermined number of points at approved Quarter Horse shows. The race for the "Oscars" actually started Jan. 1 at Knox, Ind., the site of the first American Quarter Horse Show for 1978. Since then, thousands of Quarter Horses have competed in approximately 1,700 AQHA shows all over the U.S., Canada and Mexico. To be eligible for the Copenhagen/Skoal Superhorse Award, a horse must be entered in a minimum of three classes at the World Championship. Ten points will be given to a horse winning first in a class and scaled on down to one point for a tenth place finish. The horse earning the greatest number of points will be declared the winner.

QUARTER HORSES strut their stuff at the more, vying for prize money. With the large amount prize money, it would ably take more than a Quarter Horse owner saddling up for the and trying to lassie program.

State Employees Total 168,919

Austin, Tex.--State Comptroller Bob Bullock said last Thursday that Texas state government employees per 10,000 residents ranks well below the national average and the Comptroller's Office can now instantaneously measure the state workforce. Bullock, in a letter to Governor Dolph Briscoe, Governor-elect Bill Clements and legislative officials, reported all state employees totaled 168,919 on November 15, 1978.

ee count system can also provide an agency-by-agency tally on government workers. He said statistics from the payee record system would be made available to the Legislature to assist in their consideration of legislation effecting state government.

Thanksgiving...
LET'S SHARE OUR BLESSINGS
We'd like to express a special appreciation and thanks to all... our friends, neighbors, family... Happy Thanksgiving!
Baccus Ford
Lockney

The total number includes 83,917 non-academic employees and 62,058 university and college employees as well as 22,944 part-time and seasonal employees. He said the figures were generated using a new procedure in the Comptroller's Office. For the first time in state government, the payee record system can readily determine the number of state employees paid from funds in the Treasury.

There are about 129 employees per 10,000 Texas residents compared to the 1977 national average of 134 full-time equivalent state employees per 10,000 population, Bullock said. "By comparison, it takes 149 government workers per 10,000 residents to run the government in Arkansas and 234 state employees per 10,000 citizens to operate New Mexico's state government."

All air-cooled engines are NOT created equal

It's never so easy to compare "horse power" that it is so hard to find a "More powerful" Deutz than "industrial engine" simply don't describe the Deutz. They compare, experts find an alternative rate, they are prone to break down or overheat and their life expectancy is measured in hundreds of hours. If any engine in the world qualifies as "horse power," it's a Deutz. Deutz engines are often chosen to power agriculture and other heavy-duty work.

If you can find an engine that uses less fuel than a Deutz Buy it!

Facts from a pro on driving to survive.

Q. I'm a merchant in small town with my store located on the main street. We have angle parking out front and the city manager is trying to change it to parallel parking. This is going to cut out more than half of the parking available for my customers. He tells me it's a matter of safety. Is this true? T.G., Columbus
A. Yes it is. Angle parking in the downtown sections of busy, small towns. Drivers tend to zip in and out of these spaces too fast. Also, visibility for drivers backing out is practically non-existent. It may be more convenient for your customers but, considering the costs to taxpayers when an accident occurs, you'll all come out ahead in the long run.
Q. Just how good are the jacks that car manufacturers provide? E.F., Hillsboro
A. The jacks are provided as a convenience for changing tires and are to be used with caution. They will certainly elevate the car but unlevel ground or a sudden movement can cause the car to fall off the jack. Always look for level ground on which to change the tire and block your wheels. When installing the lug nuts, tighten them as far as you can without forcing the wrench. Secure them the rest of the way after the car is back on the ground. And never work under your car while it is on a jack.

Q. How rigid are the requirements to be certified as an official state vehicle inspection station? S.A., El Paso
A. The Department of Public Safety requires that state safety inspection stations must meet standards with respects to space, equipment and manpower. Also, the station must be open a certain number of hours, be financially stable and its inspectors must be certified by DPS. Overall, there are twelve pages of requirements that must be met. WHAT ONE PERSON CAN DO

When neighbors found the body of Tony Gruttadauria in his modest apartment they were amazed to see thousands of brightly wrapped Christmas presents stacked to the ceiling all around him. The 64-year-old salesman, it was subsequently learned, spent all his savings collecting and wrapping gifts in anticipation of the Christmas celebration. He loved to dress in a Santa Claus outfit and distribute gifts to needy children throughout central Florida. Dorothy Roth, a friend, said, "He was always broke because he was always spending his money on toys. "What he would do is go around to these flea markets and garage sales all year long and he'd buy up toys and anything else that had to do with Christmas... "He didn't have much furniture—a bed, a television that didn't work properly, a radio and a few other things, and then the rest of the apartment was packed full of Christmas things, I mean to the ceiling, thousands," she said. "He was a kid himself. He wasn't off his rocker. He just enjoyed making kids happy. This became his hobby 365 days a year." There is something poetic about a grown man living his life to make children happy. Tony Gruttadauria's life was a modern Santa Claus para-

FLOYDADA Rest Home Birthday Party

The north wind comes a whistling
...And sure, it is November...
But that won't stop a party
With birthdays to remember!

Our Mr. Baird Bishop
Has friends from far and near

And since his pace has slowed a bit
He'd like them visit here.

Mrs. Emma Bostick
...Who dates from '92...
Is a very lovely lady
And as your friend, she's true.

Mr. Henry Love we greet
...Whose years are 89...
Is a very friendly fellow
AND he likes his meals ON TIME!

Our Mr. Reed is with us...
...He is boasting 92...
And still the kindly gentleman
Who knows just what to do!

Our Mrs. Biggs we honor...
...Her years are 85...
And may the best of all things

At her door soon arrive!

Let's serenade these people
With the same old birthday song...
So get your "vocals" ready
And join the sing-along.

On Thursday, November 16, residents of the home were ushered into the dining room, with the honorees being seated around the "honor" table for the birthday party sponsored by ladies of the (City Park) church of Christ. The Hesperian photographer came for the picture taking.

The "honor" table was laid with a white cloth and centered with floral arrangement in orange, yellow and green. Each honoree's place was marked with a special card. We are so sorry Mr. Bishop and Mrs. Bostick were unable to be with us. The poem was read and all joined in singing the "birthday" song. A beautiful birthday cake which was decorated in the same colors as the centerpiece was served, complemented by a delightfully tangy fruit punch. A number of guest honored us with their presence.

Thanksgiving Present

Once upon a time there were three girls. One was Tana and her last name was Turner. Amy, her last name was Burns. And the last girl was Lisa, her name was Lisa Sherman.

Well it all began on a Thanksgiving Day when Lisa, Amy and Tana were very good friends. Lisa lived in a yellow house. She came outside and Tana came along. Lisa was so surprised that she came. Tana went on her front steps. Something was wrong with Lisa.

Tana said "What is wrong with you Lisa"? Well see I have this problem about Thanksgiving. "Whats the problem"? I said that I would get the teacher a present, but I can't find her one. "I know where one is!" Tana said. Amy has this store it's called The Gift Shop.

It has Turkey candles and a lot more stuff! So off they went down to the Gift Shop. They were there. When Lisa walked in she just wanted to cry. There were just so many things to look at. And sure enough there was a Turkey doorbell rang. Lisa answered the door. Lisa's teacher was the door...and in her hand she had something for Lisa. It was a big box. I wonder what is in it. What she has always wanted-a tent.

The next day she went to school. The teacher said "Do you have your tent up?" "Yes," said Lisa, "Thank you, Lisa. Remembering me at Thanksgiving."

Called The Children Of God, And Indeed We Are!

Two of St. John's favorite expressions are "the children of God," and "the love of God." In I John 3:1, he puts both expressions together to say, "See what love the Father has given us, that we should be called the children of God, and indeed we are."

Notice two things. It is the "love" of God which causes us to be His children. John says, "see what love..." There is no other way to explain our being His children. We did not initiate it. We did not earn it or deserve it. We could not make a rightful claim for it. It was due entirely because of His love.

As your read the passage, you sense that John once again has been overwhelmed with his spiritual truth. After years of serving Christ he still said, "Look! See!" Is there anything more evident of God's love than the fact that He would call us His children? NO! The fact that God called us "His children," was the supreme evidence of His great love for us.

Then notice how John adds the phrase, "and indeed we are (His children)." We are not just called the children of God, we actually have become the children of God. We have a rightful inheritance, a proper position in God's household. We are not merely "called" His children, we "are" His children.

Both of these expressions are still very meaningful for Christians today. After a person has been a Christian for a number of years, there may be a tendency to feel that he deserves his relationship with God. After all, he has attended church regularly, he has read his Bible faithfully, and he has tried to live a good moral life. Therefore, he deserves God's love. But nothing could be farther from the truth.

We will never reach a position in life where we deserve God's love. All of the good things we have done and continue to do can be evidence that we have received God's love, but not evidence that we deserve God's love. The mature Christian, just like the new Christian, must express the same amazement that God has loved us and called us His children, and indeed we really are His children.

South Plains News

By Mrs. Murray Julian

South Plains, November 16: The first snow of the season fell today, Thursday Nov. 16, and rain and fog have been with us for the whole week. Farmers have been kept from their fields by the wet weather, and the weather is not helping the cotton, soy beans and maize still in several fields here. Temperatures fell to 32 degrees during this cold, wet spell, but we are glad we did not have hail, nor any great amount of rain.

Mrs. Ruby Higginbotham left Sunday afternoon for Amarillo where she visited until Tuesday in the home of her sister, Mrs. Magnusson, and with her son, Bud Higginbotham and children.

Mrs. L.T. Wood, Mrs. Fletcher Powell, Mrs. Murray Julian and Mrs. Tillman Powell spent Tuesday morning in Silverton at the First Baptist Church where they attended the Foreign Mission book study, "Brazilian Obsession" given by WMU members. Silverton was host to the study, with around twenty-five women in attendance. Mrs. Frances Kellum presided at the book study, and those who took part in the presentation were Mrs. L.T. Wood, Mrs. Tillman Powell and Mrs. Murray Julian from the South Plains Church, and Mrs. R.J. Harmon gave Chapter 3 of the book. She is from the Quitaque Baptist Church. Mrs. Freeman Tate of the Silverton Baptist Church finished the study, giving chapter five. A delicious luncheon was served at the noon hour to everyone present.

Rev. and Mrs. Fred Blake went to Plainview this Thursday evening where they were guests at a dinner given in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Strauss Atkinson.

Word has come from Albuquerque, New Mexico that O'Dell Mulder fell Tuesday, and crushed his knee. He underwent surgery this past Wednesday and we hope he gets along well. O'Dell is the brother-in-law of Mrs. Arby Mulder, and she had recently visited them.

Mr. and Mrs. L.N. Johnson from South Plains were in Stamford last Tuesday night where they attended the victory celebration for Charles Stenholm.

Donette Marble, student at Texas Tech in Lubbock, was home for the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Marble and brother Brett.

Rev. and Mrs. Fred Blake were in Levelland on Tuesday for the funeral services of Mrs. Frances Whittenburg, 88, of Pettit Community, who died Sunday in Levelland at a nursing home. Services were held at 2 p.m. at the College Avenue Baptist Church, with Rev. Blake assisting in the services.

Mrs. L.T. Wood and Mrs. Nathan Johnson attended the Caprock Plains Area Youth Sunday School Clinic which was held at the First Baptist Church in Floydada, Nov. 11, from 1:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Supper was served at the church. Vince Smity, consultant for the Sunday School Division, of the Baptist General Convention led the conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Julian, Clay and Wade of Perryton will arrive this Thursday to spend the weekend here with his mother, Mrs. Murray Julian, and Mr. and Mrs. Kendis Julian, and with her folks in Floydada and Plainview.

Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Whitehead celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary November 12, at 815 West Grover Street in Floydada, and friends and relatives called from 3-5 p.m. Among those from here who attended the event were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nichols.

The South Plains PTA would like to sincerely thank all those who gave donations of time, food, and other items for the Halloween Carnival, which was held at the school on October 26. Many thanks to all who helped.

A bridal shower honoring Miss Katie Taylor-bride elect of Dale Pierce, was held on Saturday, November 11, from 2-4 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Harold Hamm. The brides chosen colors of green and white were used in the refreshment center, with the serving table laid with a lace cloth over green. Green punch and coffee with white cake squares decorated in green were served with green mints and nuts. Crystal appointments were used, and the table was centered with a lovely bowl of spider mums.

Green napkins with the names, "Katie" and "Dale" were used. Special guests at the party were the groom's mother, Mrs. Pierce of Lubbock, and Mitzi Wallace, Katie's former room-mate at Texas Tech when they were in college.

HOME BUYER CLINIC By Robert C. Bates President-Elect American Land Title Association

PROPERTY RIGHTS When purchasing a home, remember that others may claim opposing rights under the law in the real estate you propose to purchase. These rights can consist of mortgages, liens due to unpaid taxes and special assessments, judgments against the current or former property owner, ownership use and occupancy restrictions, mineral rights, air rights, easements both above or below the ground, and many other matters.

Sometimes, claims of property rights adverse to your ownership will not be asserted until after a home is purchased and paid for—as buyers abruptly learned in an eastern state.

After the death of the seller, who had been a real estate businessman, these new owners were shocked when the man's widow claimed a half interest in their home. Later, it was learned that the property initially was purchased in the name of the seller's wife—and the seller subsequently forged his wife's name on the deed transferring the property to the buyers. This left his wife with a valid claim.

Since the buyers were protected by owner's title insurance obtained at the time of their real estate purchase, the title company worked out a cash settlement with the wife of their seller to avert major financial loss to its insured.

As this experience indicates, the existence or non-existence of real property rights can have a great deal to do with the security of your home ownership. Owner's title insurance provides important protection against serious financial loss due to real estate title defects.

The time to learn about home buying precautions is before you purchase. For free information on the subject, write American Land Title Association, Box 566, Washington, D.C. 20044.

President's Veto Lowers Rancher's Confidence

In Government

FORT WORTH, TEXAS, NOVEMBER 13, 1978—President Carter's "pocket veto" of the Meat Import Act of 1978 Saturday night virtually assures higher beef prices for American consumers for several years, says John B. Armstrong, president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, representing 14,000 cow/calf producers in Texas and surrounding states.

"Retail beef prices will remain high for years to come," Armstrong said, "because farmers and ranches have very little incentive to rebuild their herds and their confidence in the government has been shaken severely by the President's action." Current domestic cattle numbers are down because producers have been forced to sell off their herds in recent years as the cattle industry went through a financial bloodbath.

"This legislation would have given cattlemen and consumers much-needed market stability. It was, in fact, anti-inflationary," Armstrong said.

"I am personally shocked that the President can ask us, as American citizens, to voluntarily comply with his new anti-inflation program when he exempts himself. The President's handling of the meat import act is a sad example of what happens

Farmers to take grain to Houston port

Farmers of the American Agriculture Movement (AAM) are planning to form a grain caravan in early December to haul their wheat to a Houston port where it can be sold on the world export market.

"We expect hundreds of farmers to join the caravan," said AAM spokesman Bud Bitner of Walsh, Colo. "We're going to demonstrate farmers can transport and market agricultural products, bypassing all middlemen and the major grain exporting companies that now dominate the markets."

Bitner said the caravan will begin Nov. 30 from Yuma, Colo. Farmers from Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico are expected to join the caravan as it progresses to the Port of Houston Public Elevator in Houston. The caravan is scheduled to arrive at the port Dec. 7.

"We're going to get the point across," Bitner said. "We're going to create an impressive sight that cannot be ignored by the press or the public."

The AAM spokesman said the caravan will stop at College Station, Dec. 3-6 so farmers can attend the National Farm Summit at Texas A&M University.

"Farmers and ranchers are going to take an active part in this summit," Bitner said, adding, "This may be the only opportunity producers have to confront government bureaucrats, college agriculture specialists, USDA officials and other so-called agricultural experts."

The National Farm Summit, set up to examine important issues confronting the nation's agricultural economy, will feature Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland and U.S. Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas as speakers.

Subjects to be discussed at the summit include international trade; nutrition, product quality and safety; resource use and production costs; farm commodity prices and income and agriculture's role in government decisions.

After the summit concludes Dec. 6, farmers will head their caravan to the Houston port.
