Floyd County Farm Situation 'Better Off' After Moisture

mainly water standing on low ends, but I don't believe there was enough lost to offset benefits of the rains," Herber said Thursday after looking at some land and making phone calls to other areas. He terms losses as "relatively small."
Herber added that Floyd County farmers in certain areas have lost wheat and young crops to hail within the past 10 days. Acreage was wiped out Thursday of last week in an area "north of the Matador highway" east of Floydada, and north of the Floydada cemetery.

Hail hurt crops in the Lone Star area Monday.

PLANTING MOISTURE
Herber believes the rainfall will be beneficial in most areas. It will allow "enough moisture over all the county to plant dryland acreage."
Looking at the overall crop picture, Herber says "I feel real good about it," pointing out the "real good underground season." This area has more underground moisture than in recent years at this time.

"With any in-season moisture at all, we should be in real good shape," the county agricultural Extension agent adds in summing up his feelings.

Covered Wagon To Jet - Edna Lackey Keeps Abreast The Times

EDNA LACKEY of Lockney, 82, believes in keeping busy.

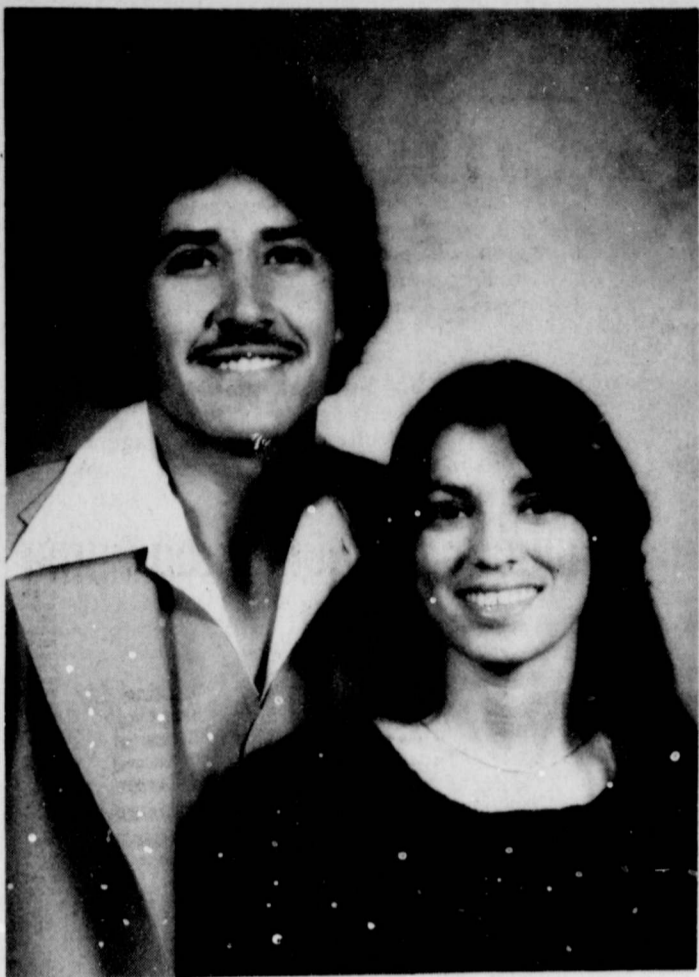

by Felicia Applewhite
Edna Lackey has more than three-fourths century of working and traveling by her credit.
She was born in 1897 in Hood County, Texas. Only seven years later, she did her first traveling and it was by covered wagon.
That wagon trip with her family took her from Hood County, Texas to Lone Wolf, Oklahoma three years before Oklahoma was admitted to the Union. At that very young age, she was doing her part of the work necessary to maintain a family.
Among the hazards on the road on that trip were the swollen creeks. On the first such crossing when the water came up on the wagon bed, Edna was a frightened child. When it was explained to her that her father had tied the wagon bed down, she lost her fright.
"We stopped at Archer City where my aunt and uncle lived. It rained cats and dogs, so we had to stay until it fared up," she remembers.

"After we left Archer City, we made a stop for supper. It was funny, when we put out feed for the horses, peafowls came in numbers and began eating the horses' feed. I was assigned the job of scaring those beautiful fan-tailed birds away so our horses could eat. That was just an example of the jobs that were given me until I was older and could do the work of an adult."
At Lone Wolf, Edna was impressed by where her grandmother lived. It was a half-dug-out with an upstairs. The main point of interest over the half-dug-out was that you climbed the steps out of the dug-out on the east side and went around to the west side to climb the stairs up to second story.
Here, as before, Edna was "run in" on flunky duty. Now, it was for her grandmother.
"Grandmother drew water for the stock by the use of a pulley at a well. After I got there, she would sit on the well and hold to my dress tail to keep me from falling in the well while I drew the water.

"My grandmother's place was a little back from a road. All day long Indians were up and down that road. Some were in old, trappy wagons, some walking, some were women carrying babies on their backs. They scared me."
"My dad rented a place about a mile from Grandma's. Since we didn't have a cow, I was sent to Grandmother's for milk. It was a frightening chore. I could just see Indians all along the way in the tall grass ready to get me."
"When we went to the 4th of July picnic, an old chief with a baby the same age as my brother, wanted my dad to change babies with him. It was a joke with him. He knew my father well

Are You Fun To Live With? by Lionel Whiston is a book that speaks to every age and every need. At the end of each chapter there are a few questions for discussion. From the chapter "Radiant Faith is Contagious" these questions are posed: "What single word would describe your frame of mind when you come home? When you enter a roomful of Friends? Strangers? Do you believe there is a flow of influence between people? If so, what determines what direction it will take? What are some creative and helpful ways to send children to school? People off to work? To leave people you love behind?"

There are chapters on marriage, the generation gap and solitude versus fellowship.

The many examples given to illustrate principles of happy living make this a readable and interesting book.

Covered Wagon To Jet — Edna Lackey, 82, Keeps Abreast The Times

pasture all the way. I will never know how my father found his way from where we were in New Mexico directly to Silverton.

"When we got to Silverton, I had to help with the stock, but first, we brought water and cow chips for mother to cook supper.

"An awful wind came up. My cousin and I sat in the wagon and cried all night. This wagon was where we later slept. We slept there all winter and found it very comfortable with a lantern to give us warmth. The bed was made just right for us by the use of over jets.

"Dad had a job with the railroad, and in about a month mother and I got a job cooking for the hands on the railroad. There were about 150 or 200 people working there and some of them did not have their families."

They "stayed on that job" until Christmas, then moved to Plainview until March, when they moved to Cedar Hill.

After "laying a crop by" by use of make-shift house keeping material, they went back to New Mexico in 2 wagons to get their stuff.

"I drove one of the wagons. Jim Conner's dad wanted us to break 2 mules for him on the trip. We put one mule with a gentle horse to each wagon.

"We stayed a week in New Mexico and then loaded our household stuff."

Coming back, they stopped at Farwell a week with a cousin of "Mama's" who wanted Edna to stay to help her son with the outdoor work for board and clothes for school "at no cost". But "Mom wouldn't let me". Edna cried.

"All right, I'll go home and get married. I did get married the next August when I was 15."

From August to February, the newly-wed Lackeys lived with his parents then moved to the home she still owns in Cedar Hill. Mr. Lackey died in 1950.

"After we married my husband depended on me as he would a hand. We broke from one to two horses for Grandpa Lackey regularly.

"One time, we went for binder twine at Grandpa Lackey's. A storm came up. Since we had left our windows up back home, we hurried as fast as we could in that direction. We were working a little bronc to a buggy with a gentle horse. The neck yoke came off, and the tongue stuck in the ground. Guess where we landed — out in front of the horses....

"It didn't do much damage — just skinned us up a little. I got on the gentle horse and he got on the bronc and we went on home. It was raining and raining. I was pregnant.

"Nothing in particular happened for a few years except having children and using a doctor when he could get there when we needed him.

"I often did my washing at night on the rub board to have it ready to hang out early the next morning so the washing wouldn't interfere with farm work."

For several years Edna has walked with a walking crutch. This came about when she slipped on the ice while crossing the street in Lockney and broke her hip.

"When I fell, I got up on my knees in the middle of the street. Mrs. Rogers saw and came to help. The banker stopped. He was in his shirt sleeves and it was cold.

"I didn't let them take me home. I went on to the post office and drug store went back home and cooked my dinner before I knew that my hip was broken."

Before her fall in the street she had continued her travels, but not in a covered wagon.

Her first train trip was from Plainview to Lockney after she had had surgery in 1915. It was the doctor's suggestion.

In 1944, she made a train trip to New York because her daughter, Faye, had had surgery there. She knew "nothing" about train travel." It was during the war when the soldiers had priority. After one long wait with people crowding in front of her, she learned to make her way—partly because of some young soldiers who helped her.

Her car trips to many parts of the United States began when the grandchildren were old enough to go along. There have been numbers of trips to scenic spots in Colorado as well as trips to the Dakotas, Wyoming and other places.

One memorable car trip was when she took her grandson, Freddy Merrill and 5 other boys to Houston on an Agriculture trip.

It's been a long time beginning with the cover wagon-trips through the car trips to the exciting plane trips of recent date.

Her first plane flight was to Tucson where the stewardess was so thoughtful she stayed with Edna until she had telephoned her grandson that she had arrived.

In February of this year, her flight to San Diego was a wheel-chair passenger. This arrangement simplified boarding and leaving the plane.

Now at 82, she is still working making quilts and keeping her house.

She still travels — just trying to "sorter stay in line of the times." That's the way my life has been."

Charles W. Stenholm

Congressional Comment

A reporter once asked Winston Churchill what the qualifications were for becoming a politician. Mr. Churchill replied that a politician should have the ability to foretell what is going to happen tomorrow, next week, next month, and next year. And to have the ability afterwards to explain why it didn't happen.

Clearly our present inflation policy is testing President Carter's ability as a politician. For two years we have been hearing such jargon as jawboning, voluntary wage-price guidelines, hospital cost containment, real wage insurance, and chief inflation fighter. All this and we still have double digit inflation.

The reason it has not succeeded is because it has lacked real substance. Jawboning and voluntary wage-price guidelines have failed because labor unions and businesses expect the other guy to hold the line and have ignored pleas from the White House. Hospital cost containment would actually decrease the quality of health care in many of our hospitals and prevent construction of new facilities in rural areas. Real wage insurance could add as much as $15 billion to the deficit and start another costly bureaucracy.

And we have got a chief inflation fighter who is very good at testifying before Senate committees but sticks and stones may break bones but words will never stop inflation. Increased production will.

What is necessary is strong substantive action. It is time to decrease the growth of government and only spend tax dollars on essential services that the private sector is unable to provide. We should have a balanced budget by 1982 and a gradual reduction in taxes beginning in 1981.

A deferral of the increase in the minimum wage and especially the allowance of a youth differential would reduce inflation and increase employment. A repeal of the out-dated Davis-Bacon Act which compels contractors to pay inflated wages when they are working on Federal contracts or other Federally aided construction projects would be a step in the right direction. We need a massive reduction in government paperwork which is often duplicative and unnecessary.

Too often "we," the government, express the need for economic growth but act to restrict production; we hear about the need for price stability but pass legislation that raises prices; we hear about the need for full employment but promulgate regulations savings

Inflation will be halted only when our deeds conform to our words.

To My Friends in Floyd County:

Last summer, for several reasons, I decided I really shouldn't live alone any longer [even with Mamie's help and thoughtfulness]. After sixty years in one place it was a difficult decision. I made up my mind that it would be better to sell my place [at South Plains]. I wanted to be sure that my home would continue as a home for a permanent family who would have the interest of the community and county at heart. I wish for that family to have some of the good memories that I have from my years there. In our discussions with those interested in buying—the Marble Bros. agreed that my home would continue as a home. Also, it will be nice to have some one I know living there. The Marble boys have been kind to me through the years.

I am making my home with my daughter and son-in-law [Jack McCown's] at Lake Whitney. I truly hope some of my old friends will find their way down here.

The Hesperian is my most welcome paper—it helps me to still feel close to Floyd County. In appreciation and love,

Schwertner Visits Austin In Support Of Marketing Bill

Sandhill farmer Arnold Schwertner was in Austin Monday lobbying for the "Interstate Compact on Agricultural Grain Marketing Bill." The bill, HB 1971, was sponsored by Rep. Betty Denton of Waco, representative for District 35-A.

The bill passed by an 83-55 margin. Two representatives abstained from voting and two were not present.

"HB 1971 was opposed by big grain companies, big feedlots and the Farm Bureau," the Floyd County man stated.

The legislation, which "reconciled marketing differces," needs sponsorship by five states to become law. Texas was the third state to offer sponsorship, following Kansas and Oklahoma, which have already passed the measure.

SETS PRICES

Basically the bill sets grain prices after learning the size of foreign crops and helps stabilize prices received by producers, Schwertner says.

"The net effect is sharing information with other states."

Rep. Denton, while addressing the House on the bill, said "the market price will not be adequate by itself. Farmers must have adequate information prior to planting." This allows pre-planting decisions and permits producers to devote acreage to other needed crops.

HB 1971, which went to the Senate Thursday, allows for a commission, states: "The commission shall conduct comprehensive and continuing studies and investigations of agricultural grain marketing practices, procedures and controls and their relationship to and effect upon the citizens and economies of the member states."

WHALEY VOTES 'YES'

Rep. Foster Whaley voted in favor of the bill. Sen. Ray Farabee told Schwertner that he plans to vote "yes" on the Senate bill.

The Sandhill man believes that the efforts of farmers were instrumental in passage of the bill. American Agriculture Movement and Farmers Union lobbied for passage, and Farm Bureau opposed it.

Approximately 40 farmer proponents of the bill went to Austin. This included 13 Farm Bureau members, along them five county committeemen and five state delegates.

"Leaders of Farm Bureau do not necessarily represent the views of grassroots producers as evidenced by Monday's vote on HB 1971," Schwertner stated.

WHOZITS . . .

FLOYDADA WHOZITS — This husband and wife are Floydada community residents who attended public school here. One hint: they are a ranch family. If you would like to guess at their identity, please phone 983-3737 or contact our office from Monday to Wednesday.

Winfred Payne And Brother Whozits

Mrs. Winfred Payne correctly identified her husband and brother-in-law as the Whozits appearing in last Sunday's Hesperian.

Winfred, a lifelong Floydada resident, was shown at left. His brother, James Truitt Payne, who now lives in Mississippi, was at right. They are sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Payne of Floydada.

Emily Johnston guessed the Whozits were "the Hales". She believed one of those shown was J.S. Hale because she thought one of the mystery personalities looked like one of her former students, Kent Hale.

LOCKNEY WHOZIT — Anybody recognize this youngster from a snapshot taken... oh, not too long ago...? Call The Beacon, 652-3318, to see if you guessed right.

Ann Foster Was Whozit Last Week

Ann Belt Foster was the Lockney "Whozit" subject last week. Beth Kropp, Ritchie Thornton, and Barbara Mathis correctly identified her.

Inflation is running at 13 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices increased another 1 percent in March, led by sharply higher prices for food, housing, clothing and gasoline, the government said today.

Prices during the first three months of 1979 increased at an annual rate of 13 percent, the highest quarterly rise in 4 1/2 years and far above the administration's target for this year of 7.4 percent. The increase for the 12-month period ending in March was 10.2 percent.

GASOLINE PRICES

Gasoline prices rose 1.2 percent in March, the largest increase in nearly four years. Both housing and food costs were up by 1 percent.

The March increase in the Consumer Price Index, which followed a 1.2 percent rise in February, means that the nation's 35 million Social Security recipients will receive a 9.9 percent increase in benefits to offset the impact of inflation.

It was still at a level that reflects the success of the Carter administration's anti-inflation program.

President Carter's top inflation advisers, Barry Bosworth, told Associated Press that if inflation does not begin to cool soon, it is likely to get much worse as workers demand higher wages.

Reflecting an increase in supplies of lettuce and tomatoes because of weather conditions, the department of agriculture said it will have this break.

Prices for various commodities compared with the same month of the 12 months from February 1978 to February 1979. The 12-month increase was 13 percent.

Dan Daniel On Team Earning SBI Award

A three-student team from Texas Tech University recently was accorded the Small Business Institute (SBI) District Award under the authority of the Small Business Administration (SBA).

SBA director Philip J. O'Jibway presented plaques to Dan M. Daniel, Mike Gilbert and Eric Martin for the most outstanding case submitted from West Texas. The SBI also presented a plaque for outstanding teaching achievement to Charles V. Neil, director of the Small Business Development Center of the Texas Tech College of Business Administration.

Daniel, now a retail service specialist for Oscar Mayer in Amarillo, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Daniel of Floydada.

Under Neil's direction the team conducted a feasibility case study in management for a Lubbock printing company. The case report was chosen for the award from 100 cases conducted during the 1977-78 academic year by Tech students, who offer suggestions to help small businesses gain profits and minimize losses.

The case then was chosen, on the basis of quality of assistance by students to the business, as the most outstanding among 60 SBI cases from teams at West Texas State University, The University of Texas at El Paso, Abilene Christian University, Hardin-Simmons University and Sul Ross State.

Sheep Suggested Bolster Farm Income

Farmers analyzing every possible opportunity to widen their profit margins might do well to consider sheep, according to Dr. Frank A. Hudson of the Texas Tech University animal science faculty.

"The wool crop brings in one income and lamb has had a high and stable market price at the producer's level," he explained.

The key to making sheep pay is good management, but that can be learned, Hudson said.

"Dollar for dollar, facilities cost less for sheep, and the animals can subsist for most of the year off crop residue. Sheep are just a good supplement to almost any farming operation."

Hudson has found the major problem in handling sheep is the necessity for better quality fencing. The electric fence which serves a cattle operation will only hold sheep as long as they are contented, he said.

"Wool insulates them from the shock of a one-wire fence, and, unless the nose hits the wire, there is little to keep them from moving through the barrier."

While the market for breeding stock has gone up, Hudson suggested a shoe-string operation might begin with aged ewes from the range that would serve for two or three years.

"With careful selection of lambs, a flock could be regenerated and put a beginner in the sheep business."

Historically, according to Hudson, people wanting to get into the livestock business have found sheep a good way to start. The investment is less than in cattle, and the facilities required are less than for other livestock.

Hudson said that the Texas Tech University through the Field Laboratory near Amarillo is planning to rebuild its flock.

The university has the Rambouillet buck, the building upon that breed, Hampshires and Columbia.

The Rambouillet breed is a season and is kept for wool. Columbia, which is a dual-purpose breed, are a dual-purpose breed, fleeces and excellent meat.

Hampshires produce wanted for market wool production.

"Much of what we are currently on the ground," Hudson said.

"Spring is a good time to plan for this fall's sheep, a wildlife specialist at Agricultural Extension Service, A&M University System, said.

"Historically, according to Hudson, people wanting to get into the livestock business have found sheep a good way to start. The investment is less than in cattle, and the facilities required are less than for other livestock."

GSPA Calls For USDA Investigation

The Grain Sorghum Producers Association has called for a Congressional investigation of USDA's failure to administer the 1979 Feed Grain Program, according to the law passed by Congress in 1977. The House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture Chairman Thomas S. Foley, was officially requested to conduct a formal hearing into the problem, in a letter (dated May 21) from GSPA Executive Director Elbert Harp.

The purpose will be to insure that USDA administers the Feed Grain Program as Congress intended. The Agriculture Act of 1977 established a formula for determining grain sorghum target prices. Grain Sorghum Producers Association is asking that this formula be applied.

Dr. Howard Hjort, Director of Economics of USDA, recently admitted to the Subcommittee on Livestock and Grains, "There is in fact a discrepancy. The $2.30 will have to be increased very likely to $2.35, in order to be consistent with the law." GSPA contends that the increase should be 10 to 18 cents (depending upon which USDA cost of production figures are used.)

Harp told the Chairman, "The grain sorghum farmers of the United States are in critical economic condition at this time. They need all possible help to survive the present low prices. The tenant farmers in the United States produce over 50 per cent of the grain sorghum. USDA's latest figures on cost of production to tenant farmers is $5.02 per hundredweight. On May 15, 1979, the average price received by producers throughout the United States was $3.62 per hundredweight, and this is after paying storage and interest on grain from harvest time until the middle of May. This is an average net loss of $1.40 per hundred, plus storage and interest. The 59 cent deficiency payment for the 1978 crop certainly does not bridge that gap. The loss will probably be larger in 1979, due to the increased cost of production and the prospects for another bumper crop. We need your help."

Take a look at the next dollar bill you spend. George Washington's picture will still be there. But a fluffy white cotton boll would be just as fitting.

Cotton had a lot to do with putting that dollar in your pocket. Especially if you live in a 20-county area on the Texas South Plains.

In these 20 counties cotton provides more than 48,000 jobs, supplies some $1.1 billion in products and services, and contributes better than $36 million in sales and income taxes.

But that's not the whole story. That $1.1 billion revenue attributable to cotton becomes even more impressive when you consider the federal government's estimate that every cotton dollar creates an additional $2.50 to $3.00 in economic activity.

Cotton is the mainstay of 8,783 businesses in the 20 counties — including farms, gins, cottonseed oil mills, warehouses, and raw cotton merchandising firms.

These farms and businesses provide for almost one out of every two — 48 per cent — of all of the jobs in the 20-county area.

Lynn County tops the list. Ninety-two per cent of the jobs in the county are cotton related.

Nine other counties — Bailey, Briscoe, Cochran, Crosby, Floyd, Gaines, Hockley, Lamb, and Terry — top the 50 per cent mark in jobs generated by cotton.

So there's cotton in the next dollar bill you spend. And it goes deeper than the cotton fibers used in the paper showing the picture of George Washington.

Cotton Yesterday — Cotton was grown in Pennsylvania in 1777 to supply the Revolutionary Army.

CATTLE GRUB CONTROL OUTLINED

Each year between May and September, Texas livestock producers can control costly cattle grubs by applying systemic insecticides.

During late fall and winter, the cattle grub appears on the backs of animals. It's too late to begin control measures then since most of the damage has already been done.

However, applying a systemic insecticide—one which is absorbed into the animal's bloodstream—can control grubs effectively between May and September.

In addition to controlling cattle grubs, the insecticide will also provide contact control of horn flies for two to three weeks. This makes the overall cost of treatment favorable.

The cattle grub is the larval stage of the heel fly. The fly has no mouth parts, so it causes no pain to the cattle. However, it frightens cattle, making them difficult to manage. Animals often seek relief by standing in shade or deep water.

The life cycle begins when the heel fly lays its egg on an animal. The eggs, glued to hairs, hatch within a few days, and larvae (worms) enter the skin at hair follicles. The worms then migrate through the animal's body for six to eight months and reappear in the animal's back in the fall and winter, forming knot-like marbles or cysts.

Cattle grubs cause greater losses than any other cattle pests. Besides damaging meat and hides by their burrowing, they lower beef cattle gains and production throughout the year. Profit losses are estimated in the millions of dollars each year.

CARDS OF THANKS

THANK YOU
Perhaps you sent a lovely card.
Or sat quietly in a chair. Perhaps you sent a funeral spray.
If so we saw it there. Perhaps you brought food. That helped so very much. Perhaps you spoke the kindest words.
As any friend could say: Perhaps you were not there at all.
Just thought of us that day. Whatever you did to console our hearts.
We thank you so very much whatever the part.
A very special thank you to Dr. Jordan and to the entire staff of the Caprock Hospital. and to the precious friends, who mean so much to us. We thank God for all these people. May God bless each and everyone of you.

Baker Scholarship Fund Explained

The A.E. Baker Scholarship was established last Fall in memory of Floydada's longtime superintendent of schools following his death. Two FHS seniors — Beverly Vickers and Ricky Day — were recently announced as $100 scholarships recipients from this source.

Officials point out that the public may not be aware that memorials to the A.E. Baker Scholarship fund may be given in the name of a loved one or friend, as well as in the name of the late superintendent.

Memorials may be taken or mailed to Floydada High School. A card is sent to the deceased's family informing them of the contribution. The donor's name also is listed.

"Purpose of the A.E. Baker Scholarship is to assist Floydada young people by aiding them with college expenses," The Hesperian was told. Students chosen are those who have a primary interest in the field of education.

Only interest from the scholarship fund is presented each Spring to FHS seniors. Principal remains in the bank to continue the perpetual program.

"Naturally, the more funds that are available, the more students who may receive scholarships," friends of the fund state, adding: "Please consider this program the next time you are placing memorials."

Many To Observe Memorial Holiday

Virtually all "downtown" Floydada stores and offices will be closed Monday, May 28, in observance of Memorial Day. Also planning to be closed Monday are First National Bank, the Post Office, Floyd County Courthouse, City of Floydada, and utility offices.

Piggly Wiggly, Buddy's Food, and Allsup's have revealed plans to be open for business that day. Some other firms also are expected to be open.

Reception Will Fete Graduates

Floydada High graduating seniors, their families, and special guests are invited to a reception immediately following Wednesday evening commencement exercises.

The fete is planned in the Floydada High School cafeteria.

City Park Church of Christ is to provide refreshments, which will be served after the graduates have checked in their caps and gowns.

Cates Receives Degree From Austin College

Blair Cates Davis of 308 South Tree in Floydada received a bachelor of arts degree from Austin College during commencement ceremonies May 20.

Dr. Alexander Heard, chancellor of Vanderbilt University, addressed the 317-member graduating class during ceremonies which ended the 129th year of Austin College.

Heard, whose speech was titled "What Ought To Be Learned?," received an honorary doctor of humane letters degree from Austin College. A well-known author of books dealing with southern politics, Heard has served as an adviser to three presidents.
