The cotton that is up is facing the problems of thrip and cold damp weather. Cotton really needs a lot of hot, dry weather.

The county's corn crop never looked better....some of it is already knee high. Most of the corn crop has only been 'pre-plant'' irrigated and the bountiful rainfall has already eliminated the need for one watering.

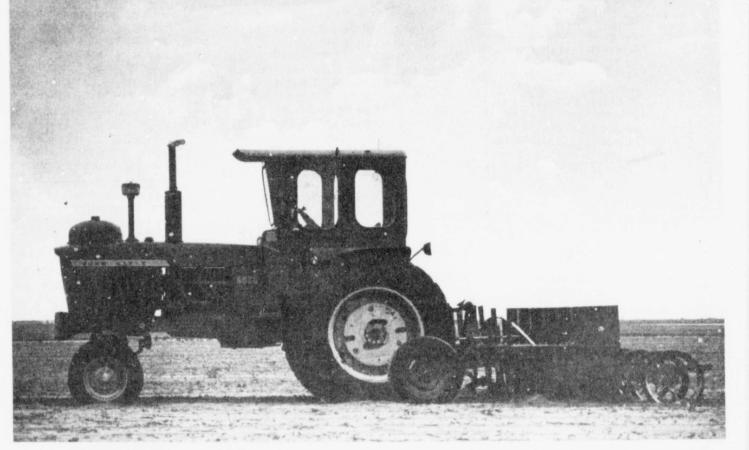

Many lakes are full, and this water will of course be utilized later on for irrigation when the weather turns hot and dry.

The rain gauge at Pioneer Natural Gas Company in Floydada showed 1.1 inches Friday morning, another 1.5 inches Saturday, nine-tenths of an inch Monday, and an additional half inch Tuesday morning. (Readings are taken a 8 a.m. each day.)

Rainfall reports from rural communi-ties around Floydada: Sandhill 2.4 inches; Dougherty and Lakeview, two inches; Barwise one inch this week.

'We are very pleased that Gary has elected to work with us," Farris said. 'He has had ten years of agricultural loan experience with Farmers Home Administration which will be an asset to our customers. Gary has lived in Floydada for 18 months.

A native of Groom, Texas, Brown is a graduate of Groom High School, and received a degree in Agricultural Economics from Texas Tech University in 1968. He was supervisor-at-large with the Farmers Home Administration and headquartered in Clarendon prior to moving the Floydada where he has been the county supervisor.

The Browns, Gary and Charlene, have three children: Jason, 9 years old, Rotene, 6, and Rhealene, 4. They are members of the First Baptist Church where Gary is a Sunday School director of the third grade division and Charlene heads the nursery department.

Additional community activities include membership in the Lions Club and coaching the Tee-Shirt league baseball team sponsored by the First National Bank.

Injured Youngster

A love fund has been started at the First National Bank, Floydada, for three-year-old Melissa Osborn, daughter of Allen and Kay Osborn, who was injured in a pickup truck accident last week.

The youngster was taken to Caprock Hospital in Floydada, transferred to a Plainview hospital, and later taken to a Lubbock hospital when the extent of her injuries (she suffered a cracked skull in addition to other injuries) was known. She spent time in the intensive care unit at the Lubbock hospital. Reports Monday indicated the child was out of ICU and expected to return home soon, but the Osborns, newcomers to the community, had no insurance. Osborn had been employed by Marble Brothers for about a week, not long enough to qualify for hospitalization insurance coverage.

Marble Brothers and employees have donated funds to the family. Anyone else who would like to help the Osborns is urged to contribute to the fund at the bank.

The Osborns have three other children, a five-year-old and four-year-old twins.

Nominations Being Taken

If you think your father is the best father in town (and who doesn't), you are invited to nominate him for the 'Floydada Father of the Year'' award being sponsored by the Retail Trades Committee of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce.

To nominate your dad for the award, explain - in 25 words or less - why you think he's worthy of the "Father of the Year" honor, and submit the nomination to any of 32 Floydada merchants who are co-sponsoring the contest by 5 p.m. Thursday, June 14. Nominations may also be taken to the Chamber of Commerce office.

A secret committee will choose the Father of the Year. He will receive a plague from the Chamber of Commerce, and his picture will be featured in the Fathers Day (June 17) edition of The Hesperian.

Floydada merchants who are participating in the event, and with whom nominations may be deposited, are Anderson's Department Store, Beall's, Hale's, Roye's, Arwine Drug, Thompson Pharmacy, Sears, City Auto, Azteca I, Pizza Gold, Tommy Assiter Insurance;

Fortenberry Hearing Scheduled Friday

A pretrial hearing for Larry C. Fortenberry, 30, who is accused of killing Motley County Sheriff Jalmar "Jinks" Wilson and has been convicted once in that slaying by a Hale County jury, is scheduled at 10 a.m. tomorrow (Friday) in the courhouse in Floydada.

The hearing was originally scheduled Tuesday morning but was transferred to Friday because two of the attorneys involved could not be present Tuesday.

The Hale County jury sentenced Fortenberry to death in 1977, but the conviction was overturned in March by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. The Court of Criminal Appeals found that jurors had not been properly instructed on corroboration needed to convict a suspect on the basis of an accomplice's testimony. The alleged accomplice, Stacy Albert Carter, testified that Fortenberry knew Wilson was a law officer when Fortenberry shot Wilson. The appeals court ruled that the jury should have been told that Carter's testimony was not sufficient evidence to prove Fortenberry knew that Wilson was a peace officer.

District Attorney John R. (Randy) Hollums, the prosecuting attorney in the case, said Tuesday that the date and time of the second Fortenberry trial had not been set, and might or might not be set at the pretrial hearing Friday.

Miss Anderson, Kirk Wed In Local Chungas

Miss Nancy Renee' Anderson and Larry George Kirk were married Saturday June 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Floydada. Dr. Floyd C. Bradley officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Anderson of Floydada and the groom is the son of Mrs. Betty Motley of Olton and Lacie G. Kirk of Waynesville, Missouri.

The bridal aisle down which the bride was escorted, was decorated with hurricane candelabra and garlands of spring flowers. The bride wore a white sheer organza dress featuring a Oueen Ann neckline and babydoll ruffled yoke with an over-lay of shiny Venise lace. The empire waist was outlined with lace and the Bishop sleeves showed Venise trimmed cuffs. A flounce ruffle edged in lace accented the A-lined skirt. The Venise lace band held elbow length illusion with lace edging.

A gold wedding band belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. R. M. Stovall, was worn by the bride for "something old and borrowed." "Something new''was a pearl necklace, which was a gift from the groom. The traditional blue garter and pennies inscribed with the birthdates of the bride and groom, were also worn in her shoe. The wedding attire was completed by a cascade arrangement bouquet of stephanotis and daisies centered with a Japette orchid.

Altar area decorations included brass tiered candelabra and brass hurrican type candelabra decorated in mixed spring flowers of glads, mums and daisies. A mass arrangement of palms in brass containers and a unity candle completed the wedding scene.

Lisa Anderson, sister of the bride of Floydada, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Debby Johnson of Floydada, Kathy Roberts of Levelland and Gill Beam of Lamesa. The bridal attendants wore long A-line dresses of soft blue giana with an

ADVANTAGES

Advantages of electronic machines start with their having more reliability and cooler-running motors than mechanical machines.

Electronic machines have more sensitive foot power. Also, they generally have full needle power at all speeds — enabling you to sew through several thicknesses of heavy fabric, such as denim, without speeding up the machine.

In addition, electronic machines with touch - button stitch control let the homesewer change from straight stitching to zig-zag to decorative stitching with the simple touch of a finger. These machines almost

On the other hand, electronic machines have some drawbacks.

Erosion Topsoil Enemy

Would you rather keep your topsoil 48 years or 1800 vears?

A foolish question? Not according to conservationists with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, who say it is relevant to land management practices in the United States today.

"We know that continuously cultivating certain row crops up and down the hill with no soil cover can cause a loss of an inch of topsoil in less than six years," Joe D. Platt, Soil Conservationist for SCS of Floydada said. "This may not sound like much, but at this rate eight inches will be lost in 48 years. This is more topsoil than most farms have," he added.

"On the other hand," Platt said, "there are proven, practical conservation methods that can be used on this same land producing the same crop, which will extend the life of the eight inches of topsoil indefinitely."

How does the SCS estimate soil losses and come up with such widely-separated predictions?

"Conservationists can take known conditions - soil type, rainfall, steepness of slope, length of slope, and so forth — and feed them into a 'Universal Soi! Loss Equation,' and come up with a reasonable prediction of soil losses," Platt explained.

"This method is not theoretical, but is based on 50 years of research by the USDA's Science and Education Administration and Agricultural Experiment stations, plus the accumulated experience of the Soil Conservation Service," Flatt said the other planning methods that we have," Platt said. "It enhances the use of the soil survey and the value of the conservationist's training and experience.'

It should also be noted that in addition to the Universal Soil Loss Equation which estimates water erosion, in West Texas and Floyd County we also must consider wind erosion on our soils. This will be the subject of future news articles.

----- Cotton Crop May Be Late-----

COLLEGE STATION -Delays in cotton planting and replanting due to prolonged periods of wet weather in Central and South Texas plus hail damage in the Rio Grande Valley and Coastal Bend are getting the state's cotton crop off to a shaky start.

So, farmers in these areas who are still planting cotton should select early, rapid fruiting varieties, advises Dr. Bob Metzer, cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "Much of the cotton crop is two to six weeks behind schedule in central and southern areas and will require close management and a near optimum season to harvest a profitable crop," points out Metzer. "A late crop often spells trouble in terms of lower yield potential, high insect pressures and later harvest, which usually cuts into profits."

Although producers do not like May-planted cotton, 'in most cases there is no good alternative crop.

"Selecting a cotton variety that will set fruit over a shorter time period will cut down on insect control wists. It is essential that late cotton fruit-up rapidly to reduce rank, vegetative growth. Such growth further delays maturity and becomes costly in terms of insect control. It also makes defoliation and harvesting more difficult."

area? As I understand it the U.S. House in Washington has passed a bill setting aside 110 million acres in Alaska as wilderness. The land would be left un-spoiled, just like nature left it, avalanches and all. No developments of any kind would be allowed. No vehicles would be allowed in, no oil rigs, no hunting. It would be left in its primitive state for man to enjoy.

What if a million tourists turn up in Alaska some summer saying they want to enjoy the wilderness? How many do you let in?

If you let all of them in, and you know anything about tourists, how long could the wilderness stand up? One hundred and ten million acres is a long way to go without a rest room. If you let just a handful in, who's to say which ones?

Dear editor: With the energy crisis on everybody's mind and all the country's leaders wringing their hands over it, it hardly seems appropriate to bring up any other problem. The oil crisis seems so threatening and unanswerable I fully expect some leader to brace his shoulders and say: "I regret that I have but two hands to wring for my country.'

But there's a problem I've been wrestling with for some time and I'll go ahead and bring it up

It's this: What do you do with a wilderness All right, but who gets to enjoy it, and how?
