JOHN CARROLL NEW EDITOR

Hesperian Changes Ownership

John Carroll, 31, of Del Rio has become the new publisher of the Floyd County Hesperian and the Lockney Beacon, former publisher and owner Wendell Tooley announced this week.

Tooley, who moved to Tulia in January after purchasing the Tulia Herald, announced the sale of the two newspapers to Carroll and his associates.

Carroll also will serve as editor of the Floyd County Hesperian.

Jim Huggins, who has been filling in as editor in Floydada, will return as editor at Lockney where he has been for the past five years.

Tooley, who has owned the Hesperian since 1962, said that he is certain that Floyd County people will be very happy with the new ownership of the newspapers.

Carroll is a native of San Antonio and has been on the editorial staff of the Del Rio News-Herald for the past year.

Also involved in the new ownership of the newspapers are J. Tom Graham, publisher of the Del Rio News-Herald, and Austin businessmen Jack Crosby and Frank Krasovec.

"For many years, Mr. Tooley has published newspapers which have served Floyd County very well," said Carroll. "We plan to continue this fine tradition of community newspapering, and we wish Mr. Tooley the best in his new enterprise."

Carroll said that there will be no major changes in the newspaper and that the staffs of both the Hesperian and the Beacon will continue as before.

"I have been very impressed with the friendliness of the people of Floyd County, and I am delighted to be a part of this progressive community," Carroll said.

Carroll grew up in San Antonio, Virginia, and Houston. He entered the U. S. Marine Corps in 1965 and served more than a year in Vietnam as an infantry squad leader.

He is a holder of the Purple Heart for a wound received on the DMZ on the Fourth of July, 1967.

Carroll is a journalism graduate of the University of Houston, and he had performed many various duties for the Del Rio newspaper, including a recent series on the dormant natural gas fields around Sonora which received national attention.

He was a winner in last year's Associated Press Managing Editor's competition for daily newspapers in the news writing category.

His wife, Pamela was raised in north New Mexico around the Farmington and Four Corners areas. She is an artist with an emphasis in textile and fiber art and has gained recognition in Del Rio for her dress designs.

Carroll began his duties as publisher on Tuesday. His wife will join him in Floydada within the next few weeks.

Huggins will return as editor on the Lockney Beacon on July 9.

John Carroll, 31, of Del Rio, arrived in Floydada to take over as publisher of the Hesperian and the Lockney Beacon.

Carroll will also serve as editor of the Hesperian while Jim Huggins returns to the Beacon.

accidents. About 9 p.m. Saturday, neighbors reported hearing six gunshots at a residence on West Virginia Street. One man involved in the incident — but not the one believed to have done the alleged shooting — was arrested for being drunk in a public place.

Also Saturday night, police reports indicate that a driver failed to stop and exchange information after a minor collision in the 200 block of South Second Street. The incident is still under investigation, and the police indicate that they have "good information" about the driver who fled the scene.

Former Editor Sends Best Wishes To Floydada

Dear Friends:

During the five months I served as publisher-editor of The Hesperian, it was a true pleasure to renew acquaintances with a number of Floyd County residents and to meet many others. I appreciate more than you know the courtesies shown to me by scores of you.

In this relatively short time span, I became fond of Floydada and her residents. I have a distinct feeling that Floydada is on the threshold of stepping forward and becoming an even larger and better town. The new doctors, the proposed new library, the attempts to develop additional employment, and the general enthusiasm to make these and other things happen are encouraging barometers.

Floydada has, in my opinion, an exceptionally strong school system. This is a good community in which to live and raise a family.

Thanks to the people on The Hesperian, The Beacon and Blanco Offset crews, who are good friends as well as being co-workers. Our best wishes go to the new Hesperian owners and to Wendell and Mary Tom in Tulia.

Operating a newspaper is more difficult and less financially rewarding than the public sometimes realizes. Please continue to give The Hesperian staff your full support.

Again, thanks to everyone for your courtesies and assistance. You have been SUPER NICE.

We have been privileged to twice work with Floyd County newspapers and, who knows, maybe that opportunity will again present itself at some time in the future.

Warmest personal regards to each of you.

School Tax Deputy Retires After 20 Years

Ina Hammonds, tax deputy for the Floydada Independent School District since 1958, retired last week. Fellow Floydada ISD employees honored her Friday, her last day on the job, with flowers, lunch at King's Restaurant, and a cake-and-ice-cream party Friday afternoon in the board room at the school business office.

Mrs. Hammonds' 20-year career with the school district began in the fall of 1958, when she started working with Mrs. Lorin Leibfried in the courthouse. The school district offices were moved to their present location on Main Street in 1964.

"I've enjoyed every minute of it," she said Friday. "Everyone has been so nice, cooperative and patient."

Susan B. Anthony Dollars Released

Five hundred million of the new Anthony dollars were released Monday, July 2, said Director of the Mint Stella B. Hackel. The new dollar will be distributed by the 37 Federal Reserve Banks to commercial banks, who in turn will distribute them to the business community and to the public. Mrs. Hackel noted that the 500 million coins available for the initial release will provide sufficient coins to the public so that they are readily available. Production and distribution of the coin will continue after release at a rate needed to meet the demand.

Promotional materials are being sent directly to national retail and financial associations and major civic and women's groups, requesting their aid in promoting the coin and educating the general public to its many advantages. Each of the Federal Reserve Banks will also be distributing the promotional kits along with attractive posters to local retail and financial institutions. The Director noted that this is a joint effort of the Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve System. "We look forward to the wide acceptance and use of the new convenient and economical coin by the American public," she said.

"Providing that consumer acceptance meets expectations, the new dollar should generate significant savings," she said. The Treasury Department is already saving 60% of the cost of minting dollar coins when comparing production costs of the large Eisenhower dollar to the Anthony dollar. As the coin displaces the need for the dollar note, the Federal Reserve System could achieve dollar savings as high as $50 million a year through reduction of printing, processing and destruction costs for dollar bills.

Many of the Federal Reserve Banks are planning media events to coincide with the introduction of the new coin. In addition a June White House ceremony began a series of events planned to celebrate the release of the new coin throughout the nation. A few of those already scheduled include a July 2 ceremony in Rochester, New York, where Susan B. Anthony resided for over 50 years; a Susan B. Anthony Day rally in New York City on July 3; a July 3 ceremony at the Verrazano Narrows Bridge (crossing the New York Harbor between Brooklyn and State Island) which has converted the dollar toll gates to accept the Anthony dollar; and a July 6 ceremony in Adams, Massachusetts, the birthplace of Susan B. Anthony. Events are also being planned in Seneca Falls, New York, which was the site of the first women's rights convention held on July 19 and 20, 1848. A ceremony will be held in Boston on July 24 at the National Federation of Business and Professional Women.

In expressing her enthusiasm for the new dollar, the Mint Director added that the widespread acceptance of the new coin will improve the nation's cash system for the benefit of the nation's retail and financial communities as well as the American public.

SUMMER CARE FOR WINTER WOOLS

You can keep your home from turning into a summer haven for moths without spending a fortune on dry cleaning and mothproofing.

With wool clothes that are very soiled, you have no choice; they must be dry cleaned professionally, preferably by a cleaner who mothproofs for no extra charge.

But woollens that haven't been worn very often and have just a spot or two don't have to go to the cleaners. You can save money by spot-cleaning these and other dry-cleanables with K2r® Spot-lifter. Just apply spot-lifter to the soiled area, let dry to a fine white powder, and then brush the powder—and the soil—away.

Then all you have to do is arm yourself with a few cans of moth repellent as high as you can in a clean closet, since the vapor will descend, not rise. Store your woollens below the moth repellent, and close the closet as tightly as possible. Don't open the closet until autumn.

When you're again ready to wear your woollens, fluff them in the dryer (without heat) for a few minutes, and they'll come out perky and fresh.

Food takes a smaller part of disposable income in the U.S. than it does in other countries, even though food prices rose about eight percent during 1978, reports a foods and nutrition specialist, Mary K. Sweeten, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

TAMMY SUE BEADLES of Levelland and Daniel Edwin Wilson of Lubbock plan to marry Aug. 10 in Fairview Baptist Church of Levelland. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. W. O. Beadles of Levelland and the late Mr. Beadles. Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Wilson of Lockney. Miss Beadles is a graduate of Levelland High School and is employed as a secretary with the public schools there. Wilson was graduated from Lockney High School and attended South Plains College. He is employed in Lubbock as a diesel mechanic with Plains Truck Center.

Gift Shower Fetes
Teresa Duvall

Friends and relatives of Miss Teresa Duvall of Lockney and Mr. Ronnie Lawson of Dimmitt presented them with wedding gifts during a shower held June 23 in the Lockney home of Mrs. Jack Frizzell.

The Duvall-Lawson wedding is calendared for July 21.

The engaged couple's mothers, Mrs. Tom Duvall of Lockney and Mrs. Bennett Lawson of Hamilton, assisted Miss Duvall in greeting shower guests. Miss Duvall and the mothers wore corsages of daisies and gypsophilia tied with apricot satin.

Special guests were the bride-elect's sisters, Mrs. Frank Savage of Lubbock and Mrs. Robert McCrary of Andrews, and the prospective groom's sister, Mrs.

Howard Lerman of Rockwall.

A floor-length apricot cloth, edged in lace and overlaid with lace, covered the table. Centerpiece was a silver compote filled with daisies. A silver service was used by Christy Hulcy and Kathy McCarter in serving punch and cookies.

The hostesses gifted Miss Duvall with a kitchen center. On the hostess list were Mmes. Dub Mercer, left Terrell, Les Ferguson, Hammon Handley, Bob Miller, Kelton Shaw, Pat Frizzell, Larnce McCain, Royce Hillman, Tom Marr, Bill Sherman, Byron Ford, Gene Owens, Glen Cooper, Bobby Carthel, Claude Brown, G.R. Summer Cosmetics Tips

"It's not the heat, it's the humidity," say the experts.

Whenever you find that either the blazing sun or the dense moisture make you feel as though you're in a steam bath with your clothes on, you might want to plunge into an icy stream.

Since icy streams are rarely available when you most need them, Dordie Lamphier, director of cosmetics products for a large firm, suggests 10 ways to cool down and freshen up when the mercury is climbing.

"A light flowery or green fragrance can make you feel cooler," says Lamphier. "Spray a bit of cologne on an artificial flower and pin it to your hair. This will also help keep straggly hair off your face. Another way to give the illusion of being in a field of wildflowers while you're actually on a stuffy commuter bus or train is to dab some scent on a cotton ball and tuck it in your hand-bag."

Oily complexions tend to become oilier still in hot weather, so it may be necessary to switch to a concentrated astringent such as Extra Toning Lotion, Lamphier advises. "Keep astringent and skin fresheners in the refrigerator at home and keep an extra bottle at the office with cotton balls for a quick blotting. If you press (not rub) moistened cotton on nose, forehead and chin, you can remove oil without disturbing your makeup."

Powder helps minimize the shine on your nose. A translucent powder in a compact can be applied in the morning to set makeup and whenever you freshen up with astringent. Powder blusher rather than cream blusher is another useful product in warm weather. To simulate a touch of

NEWS 'N' NOTES

(by Sharon Hillis)

County Extension Agent

steam pressure in the canner.

As a result, some lids may seal while others in the same canner load may not.

9. Don't let pressure in canner fluctuate. This can cause food particles to be forced between jar and lid which will cause sealing failure.

The same thing may happen if steam is released too quickly after processing. Let pressure in canner reach zero degrees naturally before removing cover. Do not run cold water over canner to reduce pressure.

10. Don't reuse jars in which commercial foods are sold. These jars are designed for use on high speed packing machines and with caps developed especially for that product, but not for home canning.

11. Don't use warped, rusty worn bands, or old commercial caps.

12. Don't reuse lids. The lid of a two-piece metal cap should not be used more than once. This applies to all brands.

The compound is not guaranteed to seal a second time and the lid itself is often bent or warped when removed the first time.

13. Don't use old jar lids. If jar lids are old, the sealing compound may harden and not soften sufficiently to obtain a good seal.

As long as the sealing compound is resilient when mashed with the fingernail, the lid will probably seal. It is preferable to use jar lids the same year as purchased. When kept longer, they often stick together and must be heated in boiling water to separate them.

If jars do not seal, you may reheat and process over again.

However, the product will be over-cooked and lose food value, flavor and texture.

EYE ON SAFETY

Safe Sports

In sports, keeping your eye on the ball — which could be traveling at speeds of over 100 mph — should include keeping the ball off your eye. Eye injuries among tennis, squash and paddle ball players are increasing, but most of the 36,000 sports-related injuries last year could have been prevented.

Ducking faster isn't the answer. Special protective eyewear could be. Eyeguards or safety 'specs' are inexpensive and available at many sporting goods or hardware stores. They may not only save your sight, but can also improve your game, since properly protected players may overcome the subconscious fear of catching a ball or racquet in the eye.

For a free booklet on eye safety, write your state Prevent Blindness Society, or the National Society to Prevent Blindness, 79 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10016.

South Plains News

South Plains - June 2-Monday the weather was beautiful again, but Saturday there was much destruction from the storm which swept through our vicinity. The area hardest hit was the Cedar Hill area near the Silverton Highway, where the gin and a barracks was destroyed. A vegetable shed at the J. D. Busby vegetable farm was badly damaged and torn from its moorings. Crops were damaged, and yet, we are so thankful no one was hurt in the storm. The fields at Sterley were badly hit by the winds and rain, and most farmers are having to replant.

IF SMALL-FRY GIVES THEM THAT MUCH TROUBLE--

Nader's Machine

As we watch the results of the last decade's proliferation of government regulation, we are gradually realizing that the regulatory burden hurts small firms worse than big ones. Now we are learning that in terms of this effect, small firms may include members of our 10 largest industrials.

The woes of Chrysler Corp., the nation's tenth-largest industrial company, are by now well advertised. As part of the effort to understand its predicament, Chrysler started to wonder about the relative competitive burdens of the auto industry's safety, pollution and energy regulation. It hired Boston's H.C. Wainwright & Co., which has now produced a study authored by Kenneth W. Clarkson, Charles W. Kadlec and Arthur B. Laffer. The Wainwright report concludes not only that the regulations are a disproportionate burden on Chrysler, but that the escalating burden between now and 1985 may drive it right out of the auto business.

The auto industry is of course difficult competitive ground. General Motors is the nation's largest company, and Ford is third. Since Ralph Nader's debut as a public figure, the industry has also become among the most heavily regulated. There are some 40 safety standards alone. The air pollution concern gave us the catalytic converter, and the energy crunch gave us the mileage standards. Complying with these standards has been a man-sized job even for the auto giants.

These ambitious performance standards mandate huge research and engineering costs, which are basically the same for big companies and small ones. When it comes to recovering these costs by increasing auto prices, though, companies with big production runs have a huge advantage. They can spread the fixed costs over many more units, recovering the added costs with relatively modest price increases. A smaller producer needs larger per-auto boosts to cover the costs, and is faced with the choice of swallowing part of the cost or posting prices above those of its larger competitor.

Beyond that, the resources of a smaller competitor are diverted away from their logical strategic uses. If all autos were standardized, there is no doubt that GM could use its economies of scale to produce cheaper than anyone else. Smaller firms have to carve out a niche on the basis of styling, engineering or some other advantage. A huge burden of regulation makes them play the big company's game.

The Wainwright report tries to quantify these effects. In particular, it tries to measure how rates of return for the various auto makers will be affected by the new regulations already scheduled to go into effect. The final stages of both emission standards and mileage standards take effect between now and 1985. The regulations hurt all of the companies, but they hurt the smallest worst.

Chrysler shows negative rates of return and "may not be able to survive as a full-line auto manufacturer." American Motors "likely will not continue as a producer of domestic automobiles." The estimates on the nation's third largest company are particularly interesting: "Ford's viability as a full-time auto manufacturer also will be impaired. The company's domestic operations may well become unprofitable, with its profitable foreign operations providing most of the financial resources required to attain compliance with the various U.S. standards. That too is an untenable position in the long run."

We would guess that Ralph Nader is unperturbed by the monopoly machine created by the burst of regulation he spearheaded; when GM becomes the only remaining auto maker, he will be delighted to argue that its prices and procedures must therefore be set by something that will be called FAC, the Federal Automobile Commission. But those of us who think that consumer prices and choices are best protected by competition have great reason to worry — and not only about auto makers. For if Mr. Nader's monopoly machine is doing in a company as large and resourceful as Chrysler, imagine what it must be doing to the fledgling enterprises that give a competitive economy its innovation and vigor.

Congressional Comment

WASHINGTON* D.C.—On July 2, 1776, the Continental Congress declared that America was separated from Great Britain.

Two days later on July 4, the Congress endorsed an extraordinary document, a Declaration that stated the Colonies' numerous reasons for leaving the British Empire.

On this week of the 203rd anniversary of this event, I feel it fitting to pay tribute to the author of the Declaration of Independence, Thomas Jefferson. This man proved himself to be a skillful legislator, inventor, scholar, diplomat, and an influential President.

Jefferson began his career as a justice of the peace and then, in 1769, he took his seat in the House of Burgesses, the lower house of the colonial legislature. He served in this, and in the later revolutionary conventions, until 1775, when he was sent as one of the Virginia delegates to the Continental Congress in Philadelphia. Then in June, 1776, Jefferson was appointed to the committee assigned to prepare the formal statement on the reasons for separation from England. He later served as governor of Virginia, Minister to France, Secretary of State, and President of the United States.

Jefferson's contribution to world events can not only be measured by his political career as a legislator and President, but also by his political philosophy which has helped shape American institutions for over 200 years. He was a firm believer in the ability of mankind to govern himself. The effort to establish republican government over a large area and a heterogeneous people was a novel idea, but in the end it turned out to be the most successful experiment in human history.

Thomas Jefferson's conception of government institutions was derived from the doctrines of natural laws and natural rights. He wrote the Declaration of Independence that men were endowed with the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. He was of the conviction that the ability to own property was a natural right.

Also he was a chief advocate of the principle of separation of powers as a necessary safeguard against abuses of authority. During the process of forming our government, Jefferson adhered to a policy of strict or narrow interpretation of the Constitution which he thought essential to the preservation of the citizen's liberties. In the early years of the Republic, there was a continual battle over the scope of authority of the Federal government.

Jefferson founded a party that was opposed to a strong centralized government, and he advocated the belief that a large sphere of the interests of the citizens could best be served either by state or local governments or by no governmental action at all. One of the phrases most associated with his philosophy is "the government that governs least governs best." In this 203rd year of our existence as a nation, America would be well served by a reaffirmation of this basic political tradition.

Big Federal Government

The U.S. News and World Report of June 11, 1979, reported some very interesting information headlined "Just How Big Is The Federal Government?" The following are a few of the interesting facts revealed:

(1) The number of U.S. government civilian employees has remained below the 1969 peak of 3,076,000, but the civilian payroll of the U.S. government has more than doubled during the period of 1969 to 1978, reaching $53.7 billion in 1978.

(2) The federal government occupies enough building space to fill 613 Sears Towers and more is being added every month. The Chicago Sears Tower is 1,454 feet high with 110 floors.

(3) The U.S. government employed a total of 2,866,657 in 1978, divided as follows: executive branch, 2,814,879; legislative branch, 38,609; judicial branch, 13,169.

(4) In the twelve months ending last September 30, the General Service Administration, the Government Printing Office, and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing bought 330,752 tons of paper for use by federal agencies. This represents 66 billion sheets of standard 8½ by 11 inch paper or 304 sheets per capita (based on 217 million population).

(5) Lands owned by the U.S. government total 742 million acres, which is about ¼ of all U.S. land and would cover the entire U.S. East of the Mississippi, plus Texas and Louisiana.

(6) U.S. holdings include 91% of all land in Alaska; 88% in Nevada; 65% in Utah; 53% in Oregon.

The first windmill in America, it's believed, was set up in Virginia in 1621.

Hints For Homeowners

THREE THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT INSULATION BTU...Kilowatt Hour... Peak Load Period...Retrofitting. Confused by all the jargon surrounding home energy efficiency and insulation? No need to be. Whether you do-it-yourself or hire a contractor, there are only three basic things you need to know about installing insulation: where to install it, how much to install, and the right type for the job. As for the "where," insulation is needed in areas that adjoin unheated spaces of a home, such as attics, crawl spaces under the house, exterior walls and basement walls. How much do you need? That depends on climate and energy costs. But one thing's for sure—as energy prices have risen, many homes with what was once regarded as "full insulation" (6 in. in the attic and 3 1/2 in. in the walls) are now underinsulated. A contractor, utility representative or building supply dealer can tell you what your home needs by today's standards. And, say the experts at Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation, a leading manufacturer of home insulation, you should ask about insulation levels in R-values. The higher an insulation's R-value, the greater its insulating power.

Confused by all the "jargon" surrounding home energy efficiency and insulation? Saving on energy doesn't have to be complicated, once you understand insulation. DON'T TREAD ON ME! North American rattlesnakes are the gentlemen of rattlesnakes: they don't strike unless disturbed.

Finally, insulation is commonly available in two basic forms: loose-fill and blankets. Loose insulation, which is installed with special pneumatic equipment by a professional insulation contractor, is especially good for hard-to-reach areas such as exterior walls. Blankets are most convenient for do-it-yourself jobs such as in attics and unfinished basements and offer the advantage of assured performance.

Mental Health Campaign Nets $145

Mrs. Bobby Cozby of Floydada raised $145.23 in the May drive benefiting the Mental Health Association in Texas.

Fredrick thanked Mrs. Cozby and Bellinger workers in Floydada, calling their efforts on behalf of the Mental Health Association a significant factor in the movement to promote mental health in the state.

Bellinger workers collected house-to-house during May, Mental Health Month.

Money raised during the campaign will be used to continue the work of the non-governmental association which fights mental illness and promotes mental health.

"Since the Mental Health Association is a non-profit voluntary organization, it must rely on private contributions, such as those raised in the May drive, in order to continue working to promote mental health," said Dick Fredrick, state president.

electric heat pump

- heats: The electric heat pump is a remarkable device that uses about one half as much electricity to heat your home as a conventional electric heating system. This means substantial savings on your winter heating bills.
- cools: Operating costs for summer cooling are about the same as conventional central air conditioning systems. During summer a heat pump works like a regular air conditioner. A blower pulls hot air from the house and passes it through a filter to remove dust and dirt. The air then flows across a cooling coil to cool and de-humidify the air. It then moves through ducts to all rooms in your home.
- conserves energy: During winter months this cycle is reversed. For the heating cycle, the heat pump does an unusually efficient job. The only electricity it uses is to run the fan and the compressor. This is why heating costs are dramatically lower. Heat is removed from outdoors and pumped inside to heat the house. This is the feature that surprises most people, until they realize that there is always some heat in winter air.
- saves money: Original installation costs for a heat pump are usually slightly more than for separate heating and central air conditioning systems. But depending on your installation, costs may be about the same—or even less than for separate systems.

A properly engineered heat pump . . . large enough to do the job . . . will mean important savings to you.

Hearing Loss Aired

Are you often missing part of the general conversation in a group? This sometimes happens to all of us. But when it occurs frequently it may indicate a hearing loss.

It may be a simple matter of impacted wax in the ear canal, which can easily be removed by your doctor. Or there may be an infection that blocks transmission of vibrations inside the ear, an infection that can be treated and cured.

Certain useful drugs, such as some antibiotics or mild pain relievers, and certain industrial chemicals also can affect hearing. Mumps and scarlet fever, a cold or sinus infection can cause temporary hearing loss. A very loud noise or long continued noise can damage hearing. Highly amplified rock music and the roar of snowmobile engines both have been implicated.

Seat Belts Protect Against Injury

Motor vehicle crashes claim almost 50,000 lives each year, and injuries number in the millions. Most of the deaths and serious injuries can be prevented by the regular use of seat belts.

Scientific research, including actual crashes under controlled conditions, proves that safety belts can be extremely effective in protecting you and your family, says a pamphlet from the American Medical Association.

The most effective safety belt is the combination lap-shoulder harness, but even the lap belt alone will help to keep you safe.

Seat belts already are saving more than 3,000 lives each year, and between 7,000 and 8,000 more lives could be saved each year if safety belts were always buckled.

The lap-shoulder belt combination protects passengers in crashes above 60 miles per hour. Deaths occur at speeds as low as 12 miles per hour when safety belts are not worn.

A large majority of motor vehicle crashes occur within 25 miles of home, frequently at neighborhood intersections, and at speeds of under 40 miles per hour. Most of the injuries and deaths in these accidents could be avoided if safety belts are used.

The arms of a parent are not strong enough to restrain and protect a small child even in low-speed crashes. If the parent is not wearing a belt, he or she may be thrown forward. For maximum protection, an infant or young child should ride in a specially designed infant carrier or child restraint that is secured by the safety belts already in the motor vehicle.

Less than 20 per cent of motor vehicle occupants bother to buckle up.

Floyd Philosopher Ponders
The Plight Of Kids Who Can't Play Ball Without A Director

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm looks at the younger generation this week, somewhat.

Dear editor:

Every once in a while you hear somebody say America has lost its punch.

People say the spirit the early settlers of this country had, the spirit that made them make out with what they had and press on to something better, seems to be playing out. Where once American ingenuity was hard at work, giving us the light bulb, the automobile, the airplane, the atom bomb, mass production, etc., now we're finding it hard to compete with foreign cars, Japanese TV sets and Chinese pocket combs. It makes us look like we're behind the rest of the world in everything except red tape.

I didn't believe all that until I read an article in a newspaper last night.

According to it, a kids' baseball team had to be disbanded because its city's recreation money ran out.

I can see the kids, standing around with their gloves, bats and balls, not knowing what to do because there was nobody there to tell them to play ball. How can you play ball without somebody there to organize you? The only thing they could think to do was go home and watch television, and during commercials, I guess, gripe about city hall.

I don't know what to think of this. Surely it can't be typical of the young generation because if it is we'd better not be looking to them to grow up and invent a new source of energy.

The world sorely needs a generation vastly more ingenious than the present one composed of us adults. All we know to do when the electricity goes off is call the power company and ask when it's coming back on. If the line is busy, no use calling Washington. Washington is on the phone asking the power company the same question. I don't know who the power company can call.

Yours faithfully,
J. A. A.

PRESENTED BY STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: My mother deeded me her home and reserved a life estate in it. At that time she lived in the house, but has since moved and now rents the house for $50.00 a month. The rent money goes to her, which is the way I want it, but do I have to report the $600 a year as income?

A: No, your mother should report the rent as income on her personal tax return. As a life estate holder your mother may lease her interest or a part of such interest to a third party and the rent income would be taxable to her.

Q: I have heard that in Texas a person does not have to will his or her children any of his or her real estate, money, etc. Is this true?

A: While it is true that in Texas a person does not have to will anything to his or her children, the Probate Code does provide for a family allowance which provides for the support and maintenance of the children of a decedent who has died. The allowance is payable to the children of the decedent who are under 18 years of age at the time of the decedent's death. Q: I have heard that in Texas a person does not have to will his or her children any of his or her real estate, money, etc. Is this true?

A: While it is true that in Texas a person does not have to will anything to his or her children, the Probate Code does provide for a family allowance which provides for the support and maintenance of the children of a decedent who has died. The allowance is payable to the children of the decedent who are under 18 years of age at the time of the decedent's death.
