A total of $75,000 was transferred from the special road fund to the precincts.

The court also allowed the county libraries $2,500 for additional books. The commissioners balked at a re-

Davis said.

None of the cities has come on the line to receive water yet, Davis added, and the costs to complete the project have doubled in the past few years. When the lake was first contemplated, the cost of the transmission lines was estimated at $3.6 million, he said. The cost now will be closer to $8 million.

The cost of the water was seen as a major stumbling block to getting approval to come onto the line. Floydada currently pays 30 to 40 cents for a thousand cubic feet of water. The cost to buy it from the water authority would be well over $1 a thousand feet, Davis said, at current rates.

member agencies, rather than be elected.

The council also approved several purchases for the police and sanitation departments. Because of the jail renovation, prisoners have to be transported to Plainview. For security, and to hold down the number of officers needed for transportation duties, the council authorized city manager Bill Feuerbacher to buy a separating partition for one of the patrol cars. The device costs $242.25.

Also approved were two magnetic shotgun racks for the city patrol cars. The racks cost $67.38 each

To keep up with the rising amount of garbage, the council approved purchase of 20 additional three-cubic-yard trash containers for residential customers and three new eight-yard containers for use in high-volume commercial areas. The smaller bins cost $244.06 each and the larger ones are $470 each.

An ordinance putting into effect the new sanitation and sewer rates passed at the last meeting received unanimous approval.

A new addition to the sewer ordinance put high-volume waste water dischargers, like car washes and laundromats into the higher bracket that pays a sewer rate of one-third the water bill. The council also stipulated that they could set an even higher rate if it was determined that the current charge did not reflect the amount of waste the business put into the system.

It was agreed that the city would set aside each month the money needed to pay the liability insurance premium for 1980. The bill was expected to be $12,111. That reflects an increase from the earlier premium of $9,000.

The council also passed an ordinance authorizing the $15 reconnect charge for the water and electric departments for after-hours service. The councilmen agreed to follow precedent this year by charging the light bill from the Floydada Rodeo to the electric department's advertising. In past years, the council has always picked up the tab for the event.

In final business, the council discussed plans for the upcoming Texas Municipal League conference in Houston. No final decisions on the plans were Truck driver Kent Holt received an unpleasant surprise Tuesday afternoon while driving his rig through Floydada.

A load of farm implement attachments Holt was hauling for the Brown McMurtry Implement Co. of Silverton broke loose in the southbound lane in front of the Dairy Queen on the Ralls Highway about 4:30 p.m.

Some discers apparently rolled off the back of the truck when their fasteners broke, digging gouges several inches deep in the highway but causing no other damage to vehicles, according to a Floydada police department spokesman on the scene.

No charges were filed against the driver, the spokesman said. However, the state highway department may seek to make the company pay for repairing the damage.

County Trims Revenue Budget

The Floyd County Commissioners Monday trimmed the proposed revenue sharing budget even further than was earlier expected.

The commissioners took action to cut allocated funds from the library building fund, the senior citizens association and the central plains mental health center after they discovered that no provision had been made to pay for a handicapped-access ramp for the soonto-be-renovated agriculture building.

The ramp will cost $2,299. The commissioners slashed the library fund allotment from the first revision of $2,000 to $500. The senior citizens, who would have received $500 under judge Choise Smith's second proposal, received nothing. The share set aside for the mental health center was cut in half, from $3,200 to $1,600. The new revenue sharing budget approved by the commissioners would use $375,299 of the available $376,700. leaving a $1,401 excess.

After refusing to consider granting the leftover amount to the senior citizens, the commissioners voted to put the excess toward remodeling the agriculture extension service building.

the small spectators' gallery. "The senior citizens only need an air conditioner," one woman said. "A little could be left out."

There was immediate protest from

But the comissioners stuck to their original decision. The Floyd County Museum and the Day Care Center retained their shares of $500 each. The jail remodeling project received the anticipated $291,000. A further $60,000 went for air conditioning and heating for the courthouse. The commissioners' precincts split $19,000 among themselves. An earlier proposal to spend $2,000 for new furniture for the county judge's office was abandoned.

Can't Work In Vacuum

What if they gave an election and nobody ran?

Sounds really great, doesn't it? Nobody throwing away our hard-earned tax dollars like the after-dinner scraps. Nobody getting a stuffed ego and junketing around the country all the Yeah, sure. And people in Hades get coffee breaks, too.

What would really happen is the roads would fall completely apart, local areas would become totally isolated from the mainstream of the country, services would grind to a halt and there wouldn't be a thing you could do about

But that wouldn't ever happen, would

In these days of rising costs of living, everyone has to work overtime just to make ends meet. And that includes elected officials. Without an adequate salary, no one would want to take on the headaches. Would you?

If his wife weren't working a job also, for instance, the Floyd County Judge would be eligible for reduced-price meals for his children at school. And we suspect that if the matter was investigated, he would be eligible for food stamps or other forms of assistance.

In our opinion, Floyd County is getting a lot better than it's paying for from all its elected officials. But how long will that last, at the current inflation rate?

We could elimnate the judge and the commissioners and the county clerk and a whole host of other elected officials and replace them with a single person to run the whole show.

But that would lead in a very few years to a bureaucracy that would end up costing even more.

Have you ever tried to telephone a bureaucrat at home to gripe about a road full of chuckholes?

He'll (or she'll) tell you where to stick your chuckholes, in no uncertain terms. The fact is that local governments have reached the point where finances are on a day-to-day basis. In the future, we're either going to get less and pay the same or get the same and pay more. There seems to be no third alternative.

The money to run the governments and pay the officials has to come from somewhere. The tax relief amendment and the end of the state lateral road fund and the revenue sharing funds has knocked a large chunk from operating

The bottom line is this: citizens have to get involved. They have to bring suggestions to their elected officials and participate in the democratic process. That's more than showing up at the polls once a year.

If you have a better idea, let someone know. The lack of citizen participation in even the regular meetings is, like county auditor Olin Watson said, "disgraceful." It's also suicidal.

Vic Morris, now of Lakewood, Cal., decided to stop in Floydada on his way to a business meeting in San Antonio to try and find information about his father's death here in 1917

Morris' father, E.L. Morris, was apparently mortally injured during a fight near his home five miles east of Floydada. The local merchant lived through the night, but died the next day before additional medical help could arrive from a larger hospital.

A neighbor, W.H. Mason, and his 19-year-old son, Grady, were accused of the crime.

The younger Morris moved with his family from Floydada to California in 1929, while Vic was in the fifth grade. They were the last of the Morrises to leave the South Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris decided to stop by and learn what they could about their ancestor for the sake of their children.

"The kids don't have a grandfather on either side of the family," Mrs. Morris said. "We wanted to have something to show when the kids grow up and ask about their grandparents."

The murder was never talked about in the family and we didn't know what really happened," she added.

But after a search of the county files

Hesperian, the Morrises believe they have a better understanding of their family's past.

"We still don't know why he was murdered," Morris said. But they know more than when they arrived about the circumstances surrounding the elder Morris' death.

The Morrises also talked to some local residents who remember the

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - Texas Attorney General Mark White said last week that important evidence for his investigation into the cause of history's largest oil spill was lost when a SEDCO drilling rig was scuttled by its owners.

White is investigating Gov. Bill Clements' SEDCO drilling firm and other parties involved in the Campeche Bay oil spill to determine if negligence was the cause of the spill.

He told Austin reporters he was "shocked" to learn SEDCO had towed the rig into Gulf of Mexico international waters and sank it in between 6,000 and 10,000 feet - an irretrievable depth.

"I couldn't understand why they would have taken this action. You know this (the drilling rig) was obviously going to be a piece of evidence that would be important in terms of an assessment of negligence," White said.

Gil Clements, the governor's son who now runs SEDCO, said the decision to sink the rig was made after company and insurance officials determined the rig could not be salvaged.

Clements said that after the June 3 blowout, the rig was towed from the spill site and examined by insurance officials who settled with SEDCO for $20 million.

The rig was then scuttled after the first of July, according to Clements, who said he suspected "that White's staff was told early on that this rig had been sunk." White was looking into reports that when SEDCO pulled the rig from the well, that action cracked a well-head casing, which may have resulted in the uncontrolled flow of oil into the Gulf. "Profit" No Dirty Word

The balance of power in Washington is shifting to the Southwest and South, and citizens can expect to see a change in federal laws, Speaker of the House Bill Clayton told a Beaumont audience last week.

Clayton said the population growths in those parts of the nation will result in more votes in Congress - and Texas will receive two additional congression-

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White Attorney General

If you have a choice between paying $3 for a prescription drug or $7 for the same drug which would you choose? Obviously, most consumers would choose to save $4 by paying the lower price. The fact is you do have this choice! Comparison shopping for prescription medications will enable you to substantially reduce the amount of money you must spend to stay healthy. A recent investigation by the Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division produced some rather startling results about prescription drug pricing practices. The investigation revealed that among the fourteen pharmacies 'shopped" there was a price difference of up to 230% for the same drug. The Division's investigation was begun to determine whether any pharmacies in the Austin area engage in the unlawful practice of substituting generic drugs for brand name when the doctor approves; but it is unlawful to make the substitution and still charge the consumer the brand name (higher) price. Although our investigation was quite limited in scope, we found no evidence of this practice. The investigation did reveal, however, a major discrepancy in prices, depending on where the drugs were purchased. The investigation was conducted with the assistance of an Austin physician who provided our investigators with a quantity of prescriptions for two drugs, Polycillin and HydroDiuril. The investigators then took the prescriptions to fourteen pharmacies, selected to provide us with a cross-section of chain and

While the Floydada scouts observed the game, Portales strength was an unknown quantity. However, the scouts reported, the Mules did move the ball well, even though they didn't score much.

"Muleshoe is not as physical as they were last year," Wilson said, "but we expect them to be tough and agres-

He noted that their backfield would possibly not be as strong as previously, because of the loss of several players. But they're still quick, he cautioned. Last year the Mules fielded two separate teams, but this year four or five players will double up. The Whirlwinds expect to have seven players in both offense and defense.

"They're not as big and aggressive as last year," Wilson summed up, "but they're still a good ball team. And last year they didn't look as good in scrimmage as they turned out to be in the season play.'

The coach had no information on the Mules' kicking game. 'Winds booter Joey Luna has a good kickoff and a good extra point, he said, so the local team has little to worry about there.

The varsity game will be played at 8 p.m. in the Muleshoe stadium Friday. Wilson predicted that Tracy Womack, who was out of practice briefly with a pulled muscle, would be back in the lineup for Friday's game.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Cole, Bradford

Baskets of white gladioli with blue bows iluuminated by tapers in candelabras framed the altar area of the First Baptist Church in Loop. Texas, as Lori Jean Cole and Charles H. Bradford Jr. exchanged wedding vows. The double ring ceremony, held Friday August 17 at 7:30 p.m., was officiated by the bride's father, Rev. Leo Cole, pastor of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Leo Cole of Loop and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bradford Sr. of Floydada.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother. John Cole of Socorro, New Mexico, and given in marriage by her parents. She wore a gown of chantilly lace over white satin, fashioned with a tight fitting bodice and long tapering sleeves. The fourtiered lace skirt extended into a long flowing train. The waist length veil of illusion was outlined with lace. To complete her ensemble, she carried a cascading bouquet of white roses with Germany static and a touch of crystal

The bridal aisle was marked with blue satin bows and salad greens, with long stem red silk roses. The roses were presented by the bride to her mother before the ceremony with a kiss, and to the groom's mother at the conclusion of the cere-

The maid of honor was Connie Bradford, sister of groom of Floydada. The bridesmaid was Mitzi Mc-Allister of New Home. They wore light blue straight line floor length dresses with soft blouson bodice and spaghetti straps, combs with tiny white rose buds and blue ribbon in their hair, and wrist corsage of white roses and blue ribbons.

Guests were registered with a white plumed pen by Miss Cherrie Harris of Loop. The circular table was laid with a white hand-crocheted cloth over blue. Gracing the table was a nine-branch votive candelabrum holding a mass of greenery and blue and white silk carnations and blue candles.

Serving as best man was

Mexican Fiesto

Twenty-two high school students enjoyed a Mexican Fiesta Sunday night, September 9, at the Bill Sherman home. The party was hosted by an adult class of the Main Street Church of Christ.

Jan Mize opened the events of the evening by leading the group in a "Mexican Food Scramble" game. She then told the young people a story about "How the Fiesta Came About.'

The party meal was "ordered" by the guests from a menu on which was listed such interesting foods as "Soggy Sarapes" (enchiladas;) "Mexican Snowflakes" (rice), "Pink Senoritas" (watermelon balls), "Burp Balls" (radishes), and "Dip-(tostadas). The fun was in the fact that these odd names were numbered and the guests were told to list McCarter the numbers they desired, without knowing what they were actually ordering. Select Clothing For Safety

Select clothing with safety in mind, advises Becky Culp, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

What you wear can help reduce accidents at home, work or during leisure ac-

GARMENT DESIGN Garment design is most crucial to preventing accidents, the specialist says.

Any garment that is long or flowing can get caught easily in doors, escalators or Choose fitted or semi-full sleeves with cuffs or elastic that control fullness at the wrist. Avoid very full, loose sleeves. Pants are generally safer than skirts especially when legs are narrow or tapered. Hemlines that sweep the floor -- for either pants or skirts -- can easily get caught or stepped on. Anything that dangles is hazardous, she cautions.

Tuck in or wrap long scarves. Securely tie ties and shorten excessive lengths. Avoid dangling jewelry, large buttons and belts.

Choose garments with detachable or fold-up hoods. Pull long hair formly against head and fasten. SHOES Sturdy shoes with medium to

Also consider fabric as a safety feature, the specialist continues. Bright reds, yellows or oranges are easier to see when outdoors. Light reflective patches or tape can increase visibility. Avoid loopy knits that catch on rough surfaces, door handles or furniture.

Most fabrics are flammable unless labeled otherwise. Most flammable are brushed or napped surfaces and loose, airy fabrics.

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT (S.J.R. 13)

Senate Joint Resolution 13 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution authorizing the Legislature to provide for the guarantee of loans used to purchase farm and ranch real estate for qualified borrowers. The proposed amendment would allow the Legislature to provide for, issue, and sell general obligation bonds called "Farm and Ranch Loan Security Bonds" of the State of Texas not to exceed 10 million dollars. All money received from the sale of such bonds would be deposited in a separate fund with the State Treasurer and administered by the commissioner of agriculture without further appropriations. funds would be used to guarantee loans for the purchase of farm and ranch real estate. The commissioner of agriculture would use these funds, under provisions to be prcscribed by the Legislature for the purpose of guaranteeing loans used for the purchase of farm and ranch real estate, to acquire real estate mortgages or deeds of trust on purchased with guaranteed loans. These funds would also be used to advance to the borrower a percentage of the principal and interest due. The Legislature may also auquired in the manner authorized by this amendment. The commissioner of agriculture would be required to charge at least 6 percent interest on such loans. The amendment appropriates an amount that is sufficient to pay the principal and interest on the bonds that mature or become due during the fiscal year less sticks, along with cheese

To keep foods cold, use a freeze-gel packet or margarine tub filled with frozen water. These items will keep foods cold even in an ordinary brown bag.

Also, you can freeze some foods - such as sandwiches and pack them frozen. By lunchtime, they'll be thawed and ready to eat.

BROWN-BAG IDEAS Try this idea for a tasty brown-bag lunch: a hamand-cheese sandwich with lettuce, carrot strips, an apple and an oatmeal cookie.

Keep the ham-and-cheese sandwich cold for safety, and keep the lettuce and carrots cold for crispness.

Here's another idea - this one needs no refrigeration: a peanut butter-and-jelly sandwich, cheese straws, an orange or a banana and a slice of carrot cake.

State Of Texas Is Awarded Grant

The State of Texas has been awarded a grant of $191,200 for Training and Technical Assistance in association with the Department of Energy's Weatherization Assistance for Low-Income Persons Program in Texas, it was announced today by G.Dan Rambo. Regional Representative for the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE). The grant will assist the State in improving the quality of workmanship that is essential in realizing the maximum amount of energy savings from the installation of weatherization materials. The Texas Program is part of a nationwide effort to reduce energy consumption and improve the dwelling unit environment of the low-income persons in the nation.

for sausage, Terrell says.

Sausages are not just the pork patties or links that many Americans eat with their breakfast.

Actually, sausages include all meat products that are ground, chopped, mixed and/or seasoned and then encased to retain shape. A wide variety of ethnic foods are sausages, such as bratwurst, bologna, bockwurst, salami, weiners, luncheon mets, canned pasta, chili, spiced ham, etc.

Sausages are said to be the oldest preformulated convenience food: no bone; easy to carry and keep; and easy to eat, hot or cold.

Though many forms of sausage in the U.S. now require refrigeration, they have gotten away from the original purpose of sausage, according to Dr. Robert Terrell, who is in charge of Experiment Station research to improve sausage technology at Texas A&M Uni-versity.

Many nations of the world do not have our refrigerated distribution system (trucks and highways) or with home in sausage, Terrell says.

For example, flour made from glandless cottonseed produced in Texas can replace 5 to 10 percent of meat in frankfurters. Its taste is bland and acceptable, it's plentiful and it doesn't cost as much as beef.

Purified plasma protein, obtained by a process developed at Texas A&M, can be used at low levels of 1 percent in frankfurters to improve their firmness and texture.

"Since the ability of protein to bind is such an important quality in sausage production, we have evaluated many non-muscle proteins for their ability to bind meat pieces," Terrell says. "Examples of such non-muscle proteins include sources such as soybeans, cottonseed, caseinate, non-fat dry milk, egg whites, plasma protein, and gluten from wheat or corn.

"A simple, reliable, and accurate process was developed to assess the binding abilities of these alternatives to meat-protein foods.'

'Our graduates in food technology and animal science are already helping industry, government, and consumers in developing uses of sausage. Age-old processes, combined with advancements of modern science, can contribute to improving this area of meat processing," Terrell con-

THEN: Early settlers were taught the barbecue cooking method by local Indians. The settlers passed the art down from one generation to the next and today many favorite dishes from all parts of the country are barbecued. From Western grilled steaks to New England barbecued seafood, regional favorites boast their mouthwatering smoky Henry Ford made barbecuing even more popular by inventing the charcoal briquet. Coals are a convenient source of outdoor cooking fuel and impart that delicious smoky flavor to foods. NOW: Today, the four out of five Americans who barbecue are still making history. They've expanded the range of their grills from charcoal broiling foods to poaching, rotissing and even charcoal watersmoking them. There's even a National Barbecue Week.

Center News

By Mrs. J.E. Green

Hello, everybody! I am home again after nearly five months downstate. I spent over six weeks in the Hubbard Hospital — a fine place to be when you find yourself helpless for a time. Then I recuperated in the home of my daughter and family the Dr. Rymans. How wonderful everyone was to me.

We arrived (Margaret and daughter Donna) in the small hours of Saturday. We found evidence of much rain weeds! But they can be reckoned with, I hope.

Saturday morning our first callers were Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Latta. In the evening a friend of Donna's arrived from Lubbock. He spent the rest of the day, and soon Mr. and Mrs. Victor Green of Plainview came. They all had supper with us. Good time.

Sunday we enjoyed being in Calvary Church again the first time since April. Margaret and Donna left for home Sunday afternoon.

Monday morning Mrs. Mabel Foster and Mrs. Edna Phillips came by. Good to see everybody. Monday afternoon, son Clyde of Peralta, New Mexico, arrived to see that I don't fall and break another limb while I get around on a walker - (and he brought apples).

It was sad to miss the two loved members of our church who died recntly, Mrs. Phillips and Mr. Odam. We also miss Tammy at the organ, but were so glad to see all the rest and hear Bro. Payne preach again.

Mrs. Leo Frizzell and others visited Saturday in the Lockney Rest home with her brother and wife, the Claud Carpenters and her sister, Mrs. Ethel Frizzell. Mr. Carpenter and Mrs. Ethel Frizzell have been very ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Thomas were in Lockney two days last week seeing their doctor. Mrs. Mary Lee Warren visited Mrs. Thomas Monceived word that some of Mrs. Mayfield's relatives from California had arrived in Floydada, so they returned home Monday. The California relatives were Mr. and Mrs. Luther Green of Antioch, California. I want to thank all concerned for the visits, flowers, cards, letters and prayers while in the hospital and
