Includes Two-year Extension Of Disaster Payments

Sen. Bentsen Praises Crop Insurance Bill

Senator Lloyd Bentsen last week praised Senate passage of legislation to extend for two years federal crop disaster programs and to expand the crop insurance program.

The Senate approved the bill 64-27 following several hours of debate.

"This bill is good for agriculture. It will help the farmers of this nation do a better job of making sure that we are the best fed and best clothed people in the world," Bentsen said during debate on the measure.

Under the bill, disaster programs for wheat, feed grains, cotton and rice would be extended for two years. Bentsen said these programs have proved to be of great value and should be continued until a workable, tested alternative is available.

The legislation approved by the Senate will also phase in nationwide coverage for more than 400 crops under the federal crop insurance program. At present, crop insurance is available in only certain counties and for only a limited number of commodities.

"This bill is a major step toward helping the small family farmer survive the competitive rigors of modern agriculture," Bentsen said in the debate.

"If we are to maintain a viable system of family farms in this country, we must have a steady supply of young people entering farming. These are precisely the people who will benefit most from a workable system of all-risk crop insurance."

"The young farmer, the beginning farmer, these are the ones who have larger debts. These are the ones who have less equity. These are the ones who disappear forever when hit by large losses, whether from the vagaries of nature or the swings of the market."

"Larger farmers, better established farmers, can take these losses and survive much more often than can the small, beginning farmer. And when the little guy's place comes up for sale his bigger neighbors who survived are usually the ones who buy it," he said.

"Without this bill we will see more and more of this. More and more farmers leaving the farm. Fewer and fewer young people able to enter farming. An increasing concentration of agricultural production in a decreasing number of farmers. A weakening of our rural areas as they slowly wither because the young people who are their lifeblood flow out of the cities in search of a job," Bentsen said.

"This bill is a step in the right direction that will benefit the entire nation, not just its farmers, and I am pleased that my colleagues in the Senate support it," Senator Bentsen said.

The parade starts at 3:30 p.m. (not 4:30 as stated in the fair catalog). It will begin at the north end of Main Street in Lockney and proceed south. Theme of the fair parade this year is "A New Day, A New Way: 26 Years Of Progress." Entries should be in place 30 minutes before parade time for partial judging. Final judging will take place during the parade.

LITTLE RUSTLERS RODEO
A new event for the fair this year (although it's not new to Lockney) is the Little Rustlers Rodeo, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. in the rodeo arena on the fairgrounds. There have been several Little Rustlers Rodeos in Lockney in recent years, but this is the first year that one has been held in conjunction with the county fair.

The rodeo is for children 12 years old and younger. Entry fees are $5 per event for children age 9 to 12, and $2 per event for those eight and under, for these events: bareback riding, calf riding, barrels, poles, straightaway barrels, and flags. $1 per child will allow participation in all of these events: sack race, boot race, stickhorse race, and calf scramble.

For Rebuilding Runway

City Asks To Use Donated Funds

Floydada mayor Parnell Powell this week issued a request to local contributors who donated money for resealing the airport to approve using the money for the city's share of rebuilding the runway.

Citizens who do not wish their donations to be used for the rebuilding will be refunded their contributions, the mayor said Monday.

The city council planned to use the money to reseal the field but the recent

At 1 p.m., Mrs. Shannon Brooks of Amarillo will demonstrate new methods of quilting and show new quilt patterns. Nell Finney of Tulia will give a silk flower demonstration from 2 to 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

DRAWING FOR MICROWAVE
A microwave oven will be given away as a door prize to some lucky Ladies' Day registrants. The microwave, donated by Lockney and Floydada merchants, will be given away in a drawing at 2:30 p.m. Friday. You don't have to buy anything — just register at any time during the Ladies' Day activities at the fair — but you must be present at the drawing to win.

GOSPEL SINGING FRIDAY NIGHT
A popular feature of the fair is the Friday-night gospel singing, scheduled this year from 7 to 10 p.m. in the entertainment building. Everyone is invited to join in the old-fashioned gospel singing. The "Heavenly Highways" songbook will be used.

LIVESTOCK SHOW
Livestock judging starts at 9:30 Saturday morning and is preceded by a junior showmanship contest at 9 a.m., in the show barn on the fairgrounds.

The pet show starts at 10 a.m. Saturday, and entries will be accepted until 30 minutes before the show. There is no entry fee, but pets must be in a cage, on a leash, or similarly confined, and the child must be able to control the pet.

Football To Be Auctioned Friday

It won't be just an ordinary football that the Floydada Chamber of Commerce will auction at its annual membership breakfast, at 6:30 a.m. Friday in the Massie Activity Center.

Some lucky citizen will go home with a ball autographed by members of the Dallas Cowboys football squad. Chamber manager Lance Barrow, using his connections in the sports world, managed to get the autographs in the Cowboys locker room after the game against the Chicago Bears last weekend.

The signatures include those of Roger Staubach, quarterback, and Charlie Waters, the popular free safety.

The bidding will start at $30, the cost of the football, Barrow said.

Weather

At 5 p.m. Wednesday, the U.S. Weather Service in Lubbock predicted mostly sunny through Monday, with highs in the 80s, lows in the 60s.

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm Congressional Comment

It has long been popular belief that to eliminate crime, society must eliminate the causes; poverty, unemployment, and social disadvantages.

I, myself, am skeptical about the need to spend more money or pass more laws in Washington to solve our problem with crime.

Lack of respect for our criminal justice system is caused, in part, because there is no effective method of insuring that a person who has committed a crime will actually serve time in prison.

In recent years we have literally tied the hands of our law enforcement officials and thus have made the arrest and prosecution of criminals even more difficult if not impossible. Their frustrations are self-evident when you talk to law enforcement officials.

It is my belief that fair, swift, and sure punishment would do much to establish respect for our system of equal justice under the law.

We must remember that crime is a reflection of the level of morality in our society. Governments can do very little to curb criminal activity if the laws and institutions are not respected by the citizens.

Ag Secretary Bergland Visits South Plains Area

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland has scheduled a two-day visit to the South Plains area Thursday and Friday to tour agricultural facilities and hold press conferences.

Bergland will take a motor tour of farms in the Lubbock area Thursday, accompanied by area press, and move on to address a banquet in Abilene Thursday afternoon.

This is the only trip of its type Bergland has scheduled for this year. Area growers will have the opportunity to brief the Secretary on specific concerns.

A Hesperian representative will accompany Sec. Bergland on the tour and at a press conference set for a Hockley County cotton farm Thursday morning. From Lubbock, Bergland will travel to Abilene, where he will address a banquet hosted by that city's Chamber of Commerce.

Bergland will fly to Stephenville, Friday to tour the Texas A&M University Research and Experiment Station. He will meet with area farmers and ranchers for a question and answer period at the Tarleton State University Livestock Pavilion at 9:15 a.m.

The tour will conclude with a visit to the Texas Department of Agriculture Seed Lab in Stephenville at 10 a.m.

Bergland will then continue on to Waco for the dedication of the Bob Poage Library at Baylor University at noon.

City Tax Rebates Down

While local option one percent sales tax rebates to Texas cities this month hit an all-time high for the past three months, Floydada's rebate fell by three percent under the same period last year, according to Bob Bullock, comptroller of public accounts.

The city will receive a check for $11,394.29, down from the $14,622 Floydada received last year at this time.

So far this year, Floydada's rebates totaled $61,608.81, a slight drop from the 1978 payment of $63,568.

Lockney received a check for $5,055, also down from the same period last year. Lockney's September rebate was $6,460.71.

To date, $27,188.37 has been returned to Lockney, compared with $27,264.08 to date for 1978. There was no net change in the amount of the Lockney rebate between 1978 and 1979.

Texas Sixth In Dangerous Waste

Texas ranked sixth in states generating the most hazardous waste, according to a report released this week by National Wildlife Federation. The conservation group based its conclusion on a survey of environmental officials in all 50 states and the District of Columbia. While the Lone Star did not rank in the top ten in efficient handling of its toxic wastes, neither was it in the ten worst, the report said.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White Attorney General

AUSTIN — Last week's column discussed some of the reasons for the high prices we must pay for utility services. This week I will explain what this office is doing to prevent further increases in these prices.

There has been a major national effort directed toward shifting our source of energy from oil to coal. Partially because of the new "value" of coal as an energy source, the state of Montana, a major coal producing state, attempted to impose a 30 percent severance tax on coal mined in that state.

Another major factor in the cost of coal as an energy source is transportation. Once the decision has been made to use coal as the energy source, there normally is only one railroad to haul it from the mine to the utility.

This country's energy crisis and the resulting high cost of energy will not be cured by substituting Polish or African coal for Arabian oil. Foreign energy dependence must be discouraged; domestic energy resources must be made available at economical rates.

Applications For Military Academies Due By Oct. 15

Floyd County applicants for the national military service academies must submit their requests for nominations to the July, 1980 class no later than Oct. 15, according to Charles Stenholm, 17th District Representative.

A competitive nomination procedure will be used to select the nominees in order to give interested young persons who meet the requirements and equal opportunity, Stenholm said.

The military academies are the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.; the Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.; the Air Force Academy near Colorado Springs, Colo.; and the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, N.Y.

"These institutions offer a fine education and a great opportunity for service to their country to young persons who wish to follow a military career," Stenholm said.

In order for the congressman to consider applications, a candidate must meet the following requirements: (1) must be a U.S. citizen; (2) must be more than 17 years old and a legal resident of the 17th Congressional District; (3) must be less than 22 years old on July 1, 1980; (4) must never have been married; (5) must be physically fit, including excellent eyesight and (6) must have a good high school record.

Political influence is not a factor in the nominations to the academies, Stenholm stressed. Nominations are based on the individual's mental and physical abilities.

Interested young persons who meet the requirements should write to Congressman Charles W. Stenholm, House of Representatives, Washington, DC 20515, no later than Oct. 15.

All young persons who are genuinely interested in a military career have the opportunity to compete for the nomination and Stenholm will consider all applicants fully, the congressman said.

Floyd Philosopher Says

Most Farmers Have Met One

Of The Prerequisites For High Office

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on White River discusses one of the qualifications for high office this week.

Dear editor: With a Presidential election coming up next year and a lot of men with a lot of money already running, a certain phase of the thing has caught my attention. It's the so-called "blind trust."

This of course doesn't mean we put our blind trust in the candidates, however much they'd prefer it. As you know, it means that if one of them gets elected and owns something like oil wells or stocks in companies or anything that might result in a possible conflict of interest, he puts his holdings in a blind trust.

As I understand this it means he's thereafter in the dark about the management of his holdings, although I can't see how he's going to keep from at least peeping at the market reports in the newspaper to see how his stocks are doing.

But of all the blind trusts I've been reading about, the one that interest me the most is President Carter's. He put his peanut farm in a trust. This puzzles me. Why would he do that? I like mine, it's been in a trust since I was young and in...

Farming is an occupation you start the year off with a goal ahead, you can't even know what is...

You can estimate how much you'll make if you allow a 50 percent margin for blow gaskets,...

Arabs, but what you can't produce remains in the blind trusts.

If putting your money in a trust is a requirement for high office, I'm surprised who have qualified.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS By Lyndell Williams TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Officials for SEDCO, Inc., the Dallas-based oil well drilling firm founded by Gov. Bill Clements, started a congressional committee last week when they revealed that Mexican oil company officials failed to heed advice which might have prevented the massive oil spill still blackening the Texas coastline.

SEDCO had leased the oil rig to a Mexican drilling firm, Pemargo, which had the contract from the Mexican government-owned oil company, PEMEX.

Stephen Mahood, SEDCO vice president and general counsel, testified the company advised against the drilling practice but were ignored by Pemargo and PEMEX officials.

Specifically, they were advised by SEDCO men to pump seawater into the well to prevent the oil blowout, and later, were advised against removing the drill pipe from the well, Mahood testified.

Three days following the congressional committee hearing, SEDCO attorneys asked a Galveston federal judge to declare the drilling firm free from liability for damages from the oil spill.

The company also asked as an alternative that the judge limit any liability for damages against SEDCO to $300,000, the amount the firm would have earned from the lease for the rig to Mexico.

U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor signed an interim order protecting the company from any liability and set Oct. 23 as the deadline for filing any claims against the company.

SEDCO's request surprised Texas Attorney General Mark White, who is investigating the cause of the spill. White said he has stronger suspicions that the company ordered the drilling rig scuttled a month after the blowout to destroy evidence.

Emergency Appropriations Meanwhile, at a Capitol press conference last week a Texas coastline legislator announced he will ask Clements to include an appropriation for revitalizing the tourist economy caused by the promised special session.

State Rep. Hector Garcia, a San Antonio attorney, said he has a million in emergency funds to counteract the loss of tourism as the oil spill coverage of the oil spill.

Lubbock Man Takes First In Football Forecast Contest

Only one point in the tie breaker of last week's Hesperian Football Contest separated the first and second place winners.

Randy Hale, of Lubbock, came in first with six misses on his scorecard. Floydada city attorney Bill Kincaid, who was last week's first-place winner, also guessed six incorrect games. But Hale came closer to the actual score, guessing 27 points for Floydada against Muleshoe. Kincaid thought Floydada would win with 28 points. Cody Paly took the contest with seven misses.

The correct answers to the contest were: Canyon, Texas; pa, Andrews, Texas; Center, Silverton, Texas; State, Hereford, Texas; Lorenzo, Hereford, Texas; ester, Amarillo, Texas; Morton vs. Fargo, Texas; Friona resulted in ties.

Parents Of High School Freshman: Be Sensitive

Look for concerns which may — or may not — be expressed. Be patient as the teen attempts to establish his or her place in the school situation.

UNDERSTAND 'SELF-CONCEPT'
During the adolescent years, your teen is developing a sense of identity. High school years are when most of us give much thought to what we think of ourselves — and what others think of us.

Being a freshman on the campus is not easy — it often means searching for self-acceptance as well as acceptance by others.

Critical to this task is a young person's relationship at home.

TEEN NEEDS STRONG FAMILY
A strong family can give its teen invaluable help in becoming a self-confident adult.

Most of all, teens need parents who are warm, rewarding, and supportive — and they need siblings who are tolerant and understanding.

TEENS NEED FRIENDS
A teen's friends provide a very important "mirror" to him — of the transformation which is taking place. Friends may act as a stabilizing influence during the teen's transition from childhood to adulthood — physically, socially, emotionally and intellectually.

Teens can exchange thoughts and feelings with friends that they may not feel comfortable exchanging with parents or other family members.

Be sensitive to this and, as parents, try not to be threatened by the emerging independence of the young person.

Understand that the peer group does not totally replace the family, although it's an important influence at this time — while your teen is becoming one of the adults in your life — for the rest of your lives.

The ceremony took place before a background of golden candelabrum bearing ivory tapers, plumosis greenery and palm trees. This background was centered with a large arrangement of silk flowers in the bridal colors of beige and shades of rust. The aisles were lined with branched candelabrum and greenery.

An A Cappella chorus from Abilene presented nuptial songs, including "Twelfth of Never," "You Light Up My Life," "One Hane One Heart," and "You Needed Me."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Van Kendrick and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Brown of Lampasas and Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Kendrick of da Billington, Doyle Dipprey, Margaret Schacht, Kay Martin, Eddie Douglas, Ruthie Duke, Edith Cooper, Zora Reecer, Debra Roehr, Greta Pierce, Nellie Webb, Jo Ann Rogers, Elvira Muniz, Nell Glasscock and Nora Bybee.

The couple will be married Oct. 13 at Belton, South Carolina.

The Society to Prevent Blindness will put the first prong of its long-range effort to reach 600,000 young people with an eye test that can be best done at the preschool level. The effort to "save eyes of Texas", as the Society president Clymer Wright, Jr., of Houston, is in commemoration of TSPB's 25th birthday as well as being a Society contribution toward the International Year of the Child.

"The first prong will consist of special vision screenings held from Houston to El Paso by volunteers trained by Prevent Blindness," he said.

"While the program is an

...ing one during which more than 36,000 children are screened each year, special emphasis will be given this year to expand general awareness of children's vision needs as well as to increase the total number screened."

Second prong of the "Lazy Eye alert" will be the distribution of 200,000 of the Society's "Home Eye Test for Preschoolers". 100,000 of the tests have been printed as a public service project of Soroptimist International of Houston and will be sent to industrial and professional sites for distribution among employees. The second 100,000 have been printed by the Zale Corporation for distribution during September in the pharmacy departments of their 123 Skillern's Drug Stores.

"The Home Eye Test" is a simple-do-it-yourself way for parents to check the vision of their preschoolers at home. It has proven a reliable indicator of vision problems," said Wright. "If the child fails the test, we advise the parents to then take the child for a professional eye examination."

"Similarly, the trained screeners also notify parents whose children fail their vision tests that these children need a professional examination. The screeners, moreover, follow up for at least six months to make sure the child gets that examination."

The program has been named the "Lazy-Eye Alert" because one of its primary purposes in the detection of an eye weakness known as amblyopia or "lazy eye". The Society warns that a lazy eye usually has no outward signs and that unless treatment for it is started by the age of six, a child can suffer permanent vision loss or even blindness in that eye.

"However, even with all the screenings and test distribution, some children will still be missed in the alert," said Wright and urged parents of these children to write for one of the Home Eye Tests to Prevent Blindness, P.O. Box 2020, Austin, Texas, 78768.

The Texas Society to Prevent Blindness was established in 1954 as an affiliate of the National Society to Prevent Blindness.

Collins Introduces Bill To Stop IRS From Taxing Fringe Benefits

A bill that would prevent the IRS and the Treasury Department from issuing administrative regulations that would include employee benefits as taxable income has been introduced by Congressman Jim Collins of Texas.

help business and labor in negotiating future contracts by requiring the IRS to define exactly what taxable income is," Collins said.

The bill, H.R. 5165, would permanently prohibit the issuance of regulations on the taxation of fringe benefits. The IRS is considering a variety of fringe benefits to be counted as taxable gross income including: price discounts for store clerks; free tuition for spouses and children of university faculty members and other college employees; free or discounted trips for airline, railroad and bus line personnel; and free parking on employer's premises.

"Many of the current tax-exempt benefits which the IRS is threatening to tax are benefits which directly affect lower and middle income people. At a time when the American people are crying out for less taxes, the IRS is attempting to place an even bigger tax burden upon them," Collins said.

According to Collins, the time has come for Congress to insure that they, not an administrative body such as the IRS, will determine tax policy in the United States.

"American taxpayers do not want more and more taxes. They rightly blame the high rate of inflation on too much government spending and regulations. They are tired of having to pay for the federal government's over-budgeted programs with their tax money," Collins said.

"The purpose of the bill is to inform the IRS that they cannot put these taxes on an employee's fringe benefits. It will save American taxpayers billions of dollars in additional taxes. It will also

Texas Events

While much of the country is preparing to button up for winter, Texans are planning fairs, festivals and fiestas for the coming months.

The brand-new Calendar of Texas Events, just issued by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, shows how Texans plan to enjoy the cool months ahead.

Dozens of outdoor events — impossible in northern climes — are on the Calendar list that spans the months from October through March.

Typical Texas products, such as peanuts, rice, pecans and sugar cane, are all recognized with harvest festivals. Winter vegetables, citrus and livestock are also featured with events that reflect the bounty of Texas agriculture.

The Calendar can help in planning close-to-home mini-vacations where maximum entertainment can be found with a minimum of travel. Free copies are available at any Texas Tourist Bureau or by mail from Calendar of Texas Events, P.O. Box 5064, Austin 78763.

We are having nice fall weather. Cool mornings sometime call for a little fire in space heaters. Visiting goes on, and harvesting will be on if Jack Frost stays away awhile longer.

Bro. and Mrs. Clay Muncy visited Miss Vera Meredith Tuesday. Mrs. C.M. Meredith came Monday. Mrs. Green and Clyde came Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Leo Frizzell, Mrs. Elmer Warren, Mrs. Ava Jackson and the Marion Carpenters visit often with ill relatives in the Lockney Rest Home and hospital. They have visited Mr. Claud Carpenter and also a sister, Mrs. Ethel Frizzell, who is reported better.

The Clarence Ashtons "stay home" a lot, but they enjoy phone calls from their children, Francis from Connecticut and Bobby from League City.

Mrs. Ola Warren and Mrs. Fred Battey visited friends in Caprock Hospital Sunday afternoon.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Leona Bell fell in her home Friday night and sustained a broken limb. She underwent surgery Sunday morning. Let us remember her and all the hospitalized in our prayers.

The Thomas Warrens and the Bob Alldredges were in Muleshoe Friday evening for the football game. Also they visited the daughter and family of the Warrens — the Paul Stouts — and spent the night with them. The Warrens dined Sunday with the Alldredges.

Mrs. Morris Carrol is planning a visit soon to see her mother, who lives in the Paris area. The daughters and families of the Charles Fulkersons visited here with parents two or more weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Thomas were in Lubbock Friday and Friday night visiting their children, Sue and Milton Mensch and small son, David. Bill Thomas of Lockney visited the Hal Thomases Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Plumlee were in Plainview Thursday seeing their doctor. Mr. Plumlee is home again convalescing after surgery.

Visitors at the Green home last week were Mrs. Bernice Carey, Mrs. Roxie Covey, Miss Francis Mitchell, Mrs. Hartline, and Mr. and Mrs. Zolan Melton of Coleman.

Friday Mrs. Green and Clyde drove to Phillips to visit Mrs. Green's sister, Mrs. J.B. Massingill and other relatives. Those gathered for the afternoon visit were Mrs. Coss and Mrs. John McDaniel, Mrs. Bill Coggin, Mrs. Dolly Deskin and daughter and grandbaby. We were in heavy showers from Tulia to Phillips. Nice! No electricity — we returned home by way of the beautiful Palo Duro Canyon Saturday — a clear day. Such bountiful crops!

Saturday evening those present at the home were the other Green boys: Mr. and Mrs. Don Clark Green of Big Springs and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Green of Plainview. Also Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Latta of Mt. Blanco, and their daughter Carol of Plainview. Sunday the Don Clark Greens attended church with us at Calvary Baptist with their son Donny from Lubbock. Afterward we five enjoyed dining out at a local eating place (King's Restaurant)

We missed Mrs. Payne and Joey at church. They were spending the weekend in Denton with Tammy — a student at North Texas State.

Mrs. Massingill just came by on her way to San Antonio where word came that her son Jim is in the hospital. We trust this fine nephew will find his way back to health with our prayers.

One hundred and eight somewhat despondent Whirlwind fans boarded a chartered flight at Lubbock airport about 10:30 a.m. Saturday morning looking for Greener country in Cowboy land. Thanks to Roger and Tony Hill, among others, the trip proved to be a success all round. The group arrived in Dallas about 11:15 a.m. and travelled by bus to tour Texas Stadium and the CBS truck.

That evening, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Barrow (Lance Barrow's parents) hosted a dinner at their home for the group, who enjoyed catered barbeque and dessert prepared by Mrs. Barrow.

Sunday at Texas Stadium was all the Floydada bunch had hoped for — good food served in the Houston and Alamo Rooms; good fellowship — getting to see the Cowboys "in real life" — especially Pam Cathy, who stood at the door of the fieldhouse and exchanged some chit chat as the players came onto the field; good entertainment — the Cowboys won an exciting game; and finally — every Chamber of Commerce manager's dream — notoriety for his city via national TV. (A "sheet" sign prepared by several group members and viewed by the television networks let the world know about Floydada and the "Winds.")

The group returned to Floydada Sunday night with many fond memories...something really needed after Friday night...if you know what we mean.

Those making the trip were: Mr. and Mrs. Olivia Mercado, Tracy Turner, Terry Turner, Carolyn Cunningham, Carmen Muniz, Barbara Gowen, and Messrs. and Mmes. Pete Hickerson, Royce O'Neil, Stan McClendon, Tommy Cathey, Pam and Tommy;

State Arts Plan Hearing Set

The draft of the Texas State Arts plan will be the topic of a public hearing September 29, 1:30 p.m. at the San Antonio Arts Institute.

The 44-page document, released September 1, was prepared by the Texas Commission on the Arts (TCA) to address needs and recommendations expressed by citizens throughout the state during the last five years. It represents the first attempt to develop a long range Arts Plan for the State covering 31 proposed programs in six areas: Commission practices, Education, Community Arts, Touring, Technical Assistance, and Communication/Coordination. The Plan was developed through a process which included first a primary draft of goals and objectives; a series of regional meetings to cultivate public input; and further development by TCA staff of the objectives of the official plan.

The draft State Arts Plan was completed in the wake of the first substantial increase in TCA funding. In May, 1979, Governor Bill Clements signed the Legislative Appropriation, a bill increasing arts funding to an annual budget of $1,903,439. The TCA grants budget was enlarged to approximately $1.4 million, more than twice the previous years amount of $693,228.

"The new arts plan is in itself a product of the increase in State interest in the arts, an effort to comprehensively expand the development of the arts in Texas and to sustain a growing public interest in cultural activities," said TCA Director, Allan Longacre.

Copies of the plan are available free from the Commission office: P.O. Box 13406, Capitol Station, 78767; 475-6593.

TDWR Is Named Principal State Agency

The Texas Department of Water Resources (TDWR) in mid-July was named principal state agency member of the oil spill Regional Response Team by Governor William P. Clements, Jr., to represent the government agencies in responding to oil and hazardous waste spills.

The governor's Division of Disaster Emergency Services based with the State Department of Public Safety was named the alternate member of the RRT.

Consequently, since late July, the TDWR has had several staff members working for state government, the Coast Guard on-scene coordinator on the Mexican oil spill. Another staff member is the public information officer who represents the State of Texas in the RRT press center in Corpus Christi. Additionally, one or more TDWR persons from the Weslaco and Corpus Christi field offices are assisting Coast Guard representatives at Port Isabel and Port Aransas with the clean-up operations.

Late in July, the TDWR developed and presented to the on-scene-coordinator a "first cut" strategy for protecting the bays up to the Colorado River and later in August prepared a like strategy plan for the remainder of the Texas coast. These plans had earlier been coordinated with other state agencies and the governor's DES unit. This strategy has been refined by the Coast Guard strike teams and their consultants and placed into effect.

Principal State of Texas agencies involved with the TDWR on a daily basis to assist the federal agencies in the oil spill clean-up and containment are: the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation; Texas Department of Health Texas Railroad Commission; the General Land Office; the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, and Texas Air Control Board.

In addition, assistance has been given by the State Attorney General's office as well as the governor's staff and by the Texas Legislature through the offices of the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the house.

A brief description of each state agency's functions follows:

Disaster Emergency Services—While serving as alternate member of the RRT, this office has interfaced with all political entities in explaining the disaster declaration program and/or the Small Business Administration's low interest, long-term loans for coastal businesses impacted by the Mexican oil spill.

Texas Highways and Public Transportation — This agency is under contract with the TDWR to provide men and equipment for constructing temporary roads, temporary disposal sites, beach clean-up, fish pass closings, and other services attendant to the use of their expertise equipment.

Texas Department of Health—This agency is making background surveys of food fish inside the Laguna Madre so as to establish a baseline to work from should oil impact the nursery and feeding grounds behind the Padre Island natural barriers. They also are working with the Federal Food and Drug Administration and National Marine Fisheries in order to sample shrimp and oyster catches to prevent any oiled food fish from entering normal trade channels.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department — Coordination with federal fish and wildlife agencies is provided by this agency concerning oiled bird cleanup, interaction with other state agencies such as the TDWR when dredging and filling operations are contemplated, and liaison work with other private and/or political entities involved with fish and wildlife resources.

Texas Railroad Commission — This agency regulates the oil and gas industry in Texas and as such assists the TDWR and the Coast Guard when assistance is needed from commercial oil companies engaged in offshore production. The Regional office in Corpus Christi has provided counsel, advice and personnel to assist the scientific team in locating a gaining permission from oil companies for the installation of solar powered portable weather data gathering apparatus to complement the regular National Weather Service work. They also have assisted in interfacing with oil companies for storage tanks to be used for temporary storage of oily wastes taken from the beach areas.

Insurers Propose Carpool Rate Classification

The State Board of Insurance is considering an auto insurance industry proposal to establish a new rate classification for drivers who carpool.

parent carpools is then more often driven by a youngster after school, "is the exposure on that car less or greater?"

"vanpool programs are an excellent contribution to the national energy conservation effort, but no change in the insurance classification system promulgated by the State Board of Insurance is necessary at this time."

The new rate would be intended to encourage carpooling and share-the-ride arrangements. It was discussed in detail at the recent automobile rate insurance hearing by David B. Irons of Dallas, attorney for the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office (TAISO).

Specific statistical evidence about the effect of carpooling is unavailable, Irons said, "but we believe such a program would be worthwhile if it served only to inspire a conscious participation by a broad segment of the work force in the program of national energy conservation."

Veterans Administration Payments

The Veterans Administration is sifting through stacks of paper with the proverbial fine toothed comb these days.

What's at stake is millions of dollars in pension payments to more than half a million Americans.

It's all part of VA's careful effort to make sure that veterans and survivors applying to convert their pensions from the "old" plan to the new "improved" program don't lose money in the process.

That may sound like a contradiction in terms, but Congress decided last year that certain personal income that wasn't counted for pension purposes under the old plan would be counted under the newest one.

VA chief Max Cleland is reminding veterans and their survivors seeking to switch to the new pension plan that while the neediest among them will receive substantial pension increases, some others may not.

A veteran with a working wife, for example, and certain outside income of his own, might be better off with the "old" plan.

Because of this, VA has returned about 52 percent of the applications it's received to convert to the new plan. "We take a careful look at each application and if the veteran or survivor stands to lose money, now or in the near future, by switching over, we send it back and ask him to reconsider the whole thing," Cleland said.

The proposed amendment would: -Require the Secretary of State to appoint a convenient number of Notaries Public for the state; and -Authorize terms of office of Notaries Public of not less than two years nor more than four years.

A temporary provision of the proposed constitutional amendment provides that the amendment would take effect January 1, 1980; that each person who was appointed a notary public before January 1, 1980, would continue to serve as a notary public for the term for which the person was appointed; and that this temporary provision would expire January 1, 1982.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to provide for the appointment of notaries public for the state and for a term of not less than two years nor more than four years as provided by law."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT (S.J.R. 13)

Senate Joint Resolution 13 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution authorizing the Legislature to provide for the guarantee of loans used to purchase farm and ranch real estate for qualified borrowers. The proposed amendment would allow the Legislature to provide for, issue, and sell general obligation bonds called "Farm and Ranch Loan Security Bonds" of the State of Texas not to exceed 10 million dollars. All money received from the sale of such bonds would be deposited in a separate fund with the State Treasurer and administered by the commissioner of agriculture without further appropriations. These funds would be used to guarantee loans for the purchase of farm and ranch real estate. The commissioner of agriculture would use these funds, under provisions to be prescribed by the Legislature for the purpose of guaranteeing loans used for the purchase of farm and ranch real estate, to acquire real estate mortgages or deeds of trust on lands purchased with guaranteed loans. These funds would also be used to advance to the borrower a percentage of the principal and interest due. The Legislature may also authorize the commissioner of agriculture to sell at foreclosure any land acquired in the manner authorized by this amendment. The commissioner of agriculture would be required to charge at least 6 percent interest on such loans. ## Survey Taken On TV Crime And Violence

Almost two out of every three Texans think that crime and violence on television and in the movies cause moderate to large increases in the crime rate.

This was one of the findings of the latest Texas Crime Poll, a survey of attitudes and opinions in the area of Criminal Justice conducted by the Criminal Justice Center at Sam Houston State University.

A total of 1,463 Texans living in 176 counties participated in the survey. They were asked separate questions concerning television and the movies, and results were almost identical.

A total of 28 percent felt that crime and violence on television have caused a "large increase" in crime and 35 percent said a "moderate increase." Of the remainder, 23 percent felt they caused "very little increase" and 13 percent said they "had no effect."

One fourth (25 percent) of those participating felt that crime and violence in the movies caused a "large increase" in crime and 35 percent said a "moderate increase." Another 26 percent felt they caused "very little increase" and 13 percent again said they "had no effect."

Dr. Glen Kercher, an associate professor of criminal justice at Sam Houston and a psychologist, said that most studies have shown that viewed violence can cause violent behavior, but that there are exceptions.

"All kinds of unusual things happen in this area," said Kercher. "It's not a simple relationship."

Studies have shown, for instance, that watching extremely violent crime "turns people off," said Kercher. Also, people who watched lawmen riddle Bonnie and Clyde with bullets became aggressive.

In general, moderate amounts of violence tend to incite people, he said. Children who watch violent cartoons show an increase in violent play.

On the whole, however, Kercher said he would agree with the 35 percent who selected "a moderate increase" as their answer.

Several questions in the survey dealt with post-trial disposition of criminals, specifically probation and corrections.

Most Texans (90 percent) said that probation should not be allowed for persons convicted of violent crimes, while about the same number (85 percent) felt probation should be allowed for non-violent crimes.

Respondents were also asked to evaluate the Texas prison system's effectiveness in preparing people to return to society, with 4 percent saying it does an "excellent job," 18 percent saying "good job," 51 percent saying "fair job," and 20 percent saying "poor job."

An overwhelming majority of the respondents (87 percent) said that juries should be informed about parole laws.

Dr. Raymond H.C. Teske, Jr., Survey Research Program director, said this indicates a growing concern among the public that individuals sent to prison are not serving their full sentences.

Asked how they would solve the prison population problem, 42 percent said they would build more facilities, and 40 percent said they would find a way to keep less dangerous criminals under supervision in their own communities.

Survey participants were asked what improved criminal justice services they would support with increased taxes. Improved police services led with 42 percent approval, followed by court system, 33 percent, more prison facilities, 22 percent, probation services, 12 percent, and more judges, 11 percent. Some 34 percent said they would not approve of a tax increase for any of the improvements.

Another section of the survey contained questions designed to measure the public's fear of crime and what Texans are doing to protect themselves. Several of the questions had been asked on previous surveys and were asked again for comparison purposes, and two were new.

About the same number of participants (57 percent) felt they would be the victim of at least one crime within the next year. More than half (54 percent) said they were afraid to walk within a block of their home. The results of two previous surveys were similar.

A new question concerned fear of being alone in the home at night. Some 40 percent said they were afraid "sometimes," 3 percent said "most of the time" and another 3 percent said "always." Over three-fourths (76 percent) of the respondents said they had placed at least one security device in their home, such as guns (35 percent), door bolts (35 percent), extra locks (30 percent), outside lights (30 percent) and guard dogs (17 percent).

Another new question revealed, however, that only a small percentage (5 percent) had asked a police officer of sheriff's department for a home security check if the service is offered.

Research assistant Greg P. Farrar, who compiled the survey under Teske's direction, said that questionnaires were sent to 2,000 Texas residents, selected at random. The return rate was an "outstanding" 73.15 percent, said Farrar, as compared to an earlier rate of 64.2 percent of questionnaires mailed to 1,000 Texans.

September 11 in an all day study for the Mary Hill Davis Week of Prayer for state missions. The group met at 10 o'clock, a.m. and all enjoyed a covered dish luncheon at noon with the pastor, Rev. Fred Blake as guest. The study continued until two o'clock in the afternoon, and Friday's program was given at the Baptist Church Sunday night at 6 o'clock, to finish the week long study. "Me, a Volunteer," was the theme for the study, and the goal set for the church was $200. All the members took parts and the work was interesting and enlightening. Present for the lessons and study were Mrs. Mamie Wood, Letha Mulder, Nina Sanders, Doris Powell, Bonnie Julian, Genet Blake, Hazle Powell, Dorothy Cummings, Jolene Cummings, and Ruby Higginbotham was present for the luncheon, along with Rev. ### Help For Rural Communities

Because of the Texas Community Improvement Program (TCIP), rural residents don't have to accept poorer community facilities and services than their urban counterparts. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service in cooperating with investor-owned electric utility companies is conducting the TCIP to help communities of under 1,000 population to deal with their problems, says Tim L. Shaunty. Shaunty is an Extension specialist in community resource development, Texas S&M University System. According to Shaunty, the TCIP assists local citizens without the usual "red tape." Although the program has no available funds, free help is available to those who seek it. Shaunty says many rural residents have received facilities and services through TCIP. If your community could be improved and you are willing to work, contact your local county Extension agent for more information, suggests the community resource development specialist. Shaunty adds that the TCIP sponsor, an annual awards program to recognize those rural communities that have made significant progress in overcoming economic and social problems.

Doctors Attack Salt Consumption

Doctors are mounting an assault on one of society's strongest, most dangerous eating habits: excess salt. Physicians hope to educate people about this problem in an effort to prevent health problems including high blood pressure, a common disease many researchers believe is linked to salt. Since salt often shows up in many seemingly unsalty foods such as pudding and breakfast cereals, excesses can be tough to avoid, especially if people do not know how much is in the products, the Texas Medical Association (TMA) said. The American Medical Association has recommended that processors produce food labels that show the amounts of salt added to products. If this labeling requirement becomes law, then people will have an opportunity to avoid up to 50 percent of the salt they now eat. Since an American Societies for American Biology panel estimates that most people eat 10 times too much salt, a 50 percent reduction would leave more salt than necessary in the diet, but it is progress. How much salt people eat may make a difference. Over a period of time that varies with individuals and amounts consumed, too much salt may contribute to high blood pressure, especially for the 10 percent to 30 percent of the population with inherited tendencies toward the disease. Luckily physicians can recommend diet or drugs to control most high blood pressure before it causes stroke, kidney problems or heart disease. One treatment sometimes recommended is to shake the salt habit. Ultimately it is each person's responsibility to be aware of salt, TMA said. Reading food labels is one way to avoid foods with a lot of salt. If a substance is included early in the list of ingredients, that means it is a major ingredient. Check your local library for the March 1979 issue of Consumer Reports magazine or other publications that discuss salt content of foods. It does not require reading to spot one of the most obvious salt sources, the shaker on the dining table. People can cut 25 percent to 35 percent of their salt consumption just by not adding salt at the table.

Certain words and phrases lose impact and meaning when overused. Churches often experience this problem in communication. One would have to be a part of the "in" group to understand what was actually being taught.

In GRACE IS NOT A BLUE-EYED BLOND, Dr. R. Lofton Hudson attempts to cut away at the wordy underbrush which obscures some of the greatest and most far-reaching concepts ever presented and restates these concepts in simple, current phrases.
