Ramiro G. Nino and Jimmy Lara were each indicted on one count of unauthorized use of a vehicle. The two reportedly were arrested and accused of taking a car belonging to Jim Owens. Both the 17-year-old men are in custody.

The grand jury charged Sheri Freeman Parrish with one count of forgery. The State maintained that Ms. Parrish attempted to cash a worthless check at Buddy's Grocery store Sept. 4. She remained in custody in lieu of bond.

The grand jury handed down two indictments each against Alfred Mendoza and Rongelio Rodriguez, charging the pair with burglarizing farmhouses belonging to a Mr. Van Cleeve and a Mr. Fullingim.

Both men are in custody of the Floyd County Sheriff's Department.

Arraignments will be in district court later this week, with trials expected to start in November.

Students Learn Farm Safety

Using models, Bullard illustrated the importance of protective cabs or roll-overs, properly mounted, with seat belts. Personal protective equipment like bump hats, gloves and snug-fitting clothing were listed as being very important.

When on the road or highway proper lighting and markings were discussed, including SMV emblems. SMV emblems are to be placed on the tractor, or self-propelled equipment that, by engineering design, travels 25 miles per hour or less, Bullard said.

SAFETY — Ben Bullard, assistant safety director of the Texas Farm Bureau, demonstrated to Floydada students how to avoid farm accidents.

The Floydada city council Tuesday night began the process of implementing a $112,400 housing rehabilitation grant for low and moderate income sections of the city.

The grant money will be used to rehabilitate at least 17 substandard dwellings, demolish 10 dilapidated buildings and remove abandoned vehicles and junk heaps.

The target area for the project is bounded on the north by Price Street between Wall and 14th Streets, on the south by Houston Street between Wall and 12th Streets and East Lee Street from 12th to 14th Streets, on the east by 12th Street from Houston Street to East Lee Street and 14th Street from East Lee to Price Street and on the west by Wall Street from Houston to Price Streets.

The council met for a lengthy session with Lester Mays, a consultant from Barber-Traylor and Associates, to discuss setting up the neighborhood improvement committee and appointing officials to run the program.

City building official Dorr Blasingame agreed to act as the rehabilitation coordinator. Adolfo Garcia, Gary Brown, Sammy Hale, Wayne Russell and Carl Jarrett were appointed as the neighborhood committee to supervise the program.

Mays told the council that the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development funds could be used for painting, rewiring, heating, installing bathrooms or "almost any improvement to substandard housing that was not merely cosmetic."

"The thrust of the program," Mays said, "is to get the momentum going.

Once the citizens start to become involved and an impact is made on the area, HUD will probably agree to expand the program to completely revitalize the target area over the next few years."

"The more health and safety violations you get rid of, the more money HUD will give you to get rid of more," he said.

"At first, people will be reluctant to come forward and apply for renovation," Mays said. "They'll think that they're just going to be bothered by a lot of people poking into their business. But after a time, when they realize that such isn't the case, they'll start pouring in."

The consultant noted that acceptance into the program would be made on a strict series of priorities, not on just a first-come, first-served basis.

Income limits for participation, he said, would depend on the size of the family and its income compared to the median income set by HUD for this area.

Mays left the council with a small mountain of paperwork for them to inspect as they consider their future moves in getting the program going. He also suggested that the committee spend the HUD funds as fast as possible because "that's the way it works. Somebody is going to get it because the Congress appropriates the money every year. And Floydada should be in line for its share."

"The rehabilitation program is not a giveaway," he said. "It's a way to get money back into the community to those who need it the most."

The council agreed to consider sending the committee and city manager Bill Feuerbacher to a training session in Tyler next month to learn how to effectively use the funds.

"It would make you hundreds of thousands of dollars to educate them," Feuerbacher noted. "We're very concerned and we want this to work."

The council also authorized city personnel and the Barber-Traylor Co. to pursue a new community development block grant application for 1980. The citizens advisory committee on that application will have its first meeting at 5 p.m. Oct. 17.

The council men in other business approved an ordinance to adopt the Uniform Building Code for 1979. That code was approved in the last council meeting. In abandoning the old code, the council automatically repealed the former ordinance number 534, thus repealing the office of building official. So they approved another ordinance to re-establish the office.

In addition to the new code and reappointing Dorr Blasingame the building official, the council approved new fees for building and remodeling permits.

The fees for a new building under the ordinance are one cent for each square foot, for open sheds one-half cent on each square foot, with a minimum of $5. Remodeling permits will cost $1 for each $1,000 of the cost of the work. The new fees are set out in section five of the Uniform Building Code, according to Blasingame.

The council appointed Mack Willson, Donald Ray Wilson and K.E. Edmiston to a combined Board of Adjustment to the electrical, plumbing and building code. All three have agreed to serve.

Bill McMorris received approval from the council to be the engineer to furnish needed information for the paving part of a community block development grant. HUD requires that an engineer draw up the plans.

City personnel and Quinton Colwell and Assoc. receive authorization to advertise for bids and materials and labor for erecting electrical lines and a power substation for Floydada Power and Light. The earlier advertisement drew no bids because contractors had their hands full with repairing the tornado damage in Wichita Falls and vicinity.

The councilmen tabled consideration of separating the water, sewer and sanitation funds.

The council also agreed to take bids for a new street sweeper and a billing computer for the city offices.

Noting that the dues were too high and they could see no advantages to belonging to the group, the councilmen rejected an offer to join the Texas Power Association.

Bill Feuerbacher reported that Federal Aviation Administration and Texas Aeronautics Commission officials had estimated the cost of replacing the Floydada Airport runway at $322,000.

Feuerbacher and the FAA representative personally dug test holes near the runway and determined that the moisture damage to the facility was complete.

The city manager proposed grading a dirt strip next to the runway so local pilots could use the strip while the field is out of service. The airport would still remain officially closed to outside traffic, Feuerbacher noted.

Bill Clayton, Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives and a host of state representatives from across Texas will be in Pampa, Saturday, October 27, for a double-header affair honoring the Speaker and State Representative Foster Whaley.

Starting at 4:30 p.m. there will be a reception in the Foyer of the M.K. Brown Auditorium for Speaker Clayton and other legislators. The Pampa High School Choir will perform at this event.

At 6 p.m. in the Clyde Carruth Livestock Show Pavilion, a chili supper and appreciation program will be held for Rep. Whaley. The Pampa High School Band under the direction of Jeff Doughten will perform at this event.

Large delegations are expected from each of the 10 counties comprising the 66th Legislative District which Whaley represents.

Lawmen Still Seek Unidentified Assailant

The Floyd County Sheriff's Department Wednesday released a composite sketch of the man who forced a Floydada woman and her sister-in-law and baby at gunpoint last week to drive him outside of the city. The man then robbed the woman and ordered the three out of the car.

The suspect is believed to be about 20 years old, of slender build, about 130 pounds, 5 feet, 6 inches tall and has dark hair. A department spokesperson said he was considered armed and dangerous.

The getaway car, a 1973 Monte Carlo, was found abandoned earlier this week in Plainview.

Anyone with information about this man should contact the Floyd County Sheriff's Department.

Floydada Students Awarded WTSU Scholarships

Five Floydadans have received $100 President's Honor Scholarships to attend West Texas State University in Canyon.

Darla Assiter, Kim Barnett, Kalvin Dick, Brenda Jackson and Tracy Ann Tyler have been awarded scholarships to attend WTSU.

Recipients of the scholarships are chosen from the top students in area high schools who are members of the National Honor Society or equivalent organizations. The scholarships are offered to entering freshman students.

For the 1979-80 academic year, invitations were extended to students in Texas high schools and high schools in New Mexico, Oklahoma, southern Kansas and southeastern Colorado, according to Keith Winter, WTSU director of development.

"Salutatorians and valedictorians are always recognized," Winter said, "but the other top students are not. The program brings students with good ACT and SAT scores and they challenge the professors to do a better job."

Money for the scholarships came from the President's Development Fund. Persons who contribute $100 or more, Winter said, have scholarships offered in their names.

Doyle Walls Honored By Freemasons

Warren Doyle Walls, of 903 West Tennessee, has been awarded the designation of Knight of the York Cross of honour, it was reported this week.

This honorary degree, highest in the York Rite of Freemasonry, is conferred only on those who have held the highest office in each of the four bodies of the rite. Walls becomes one of the comparative handful of about 400 of the over four and a quarter million Freemasons in North America, the Philippines and Australia to qualify this year.

Walls served as Master of Floydada Lodge of Masons in 1959; High Priest of Floydada Chapter, Royal Arch Masons in 1959; Master of Floydada Council, Royal and Select Masters in 1958; Commander of Plainview Commandery, Knight Templar, in 1977.

He was elected to membership in Texas Priory and his election confirmed by Convent General of the Order on September 29. A certificate of membership has been mailed to him.

There are sixty-eight Priories of the Order with a present membership of 11,000.

Herman King Reelected To Conservation Board

Herman R. King was re-elected to the Floyd County Soil and Water Conservation District for zone one, which covers the northwest part of the county. The election was held Monday night at 8 p.m. at Sterley.

King, a life-long Lone Star and Floyd County resident will serve a five year term. He has served two full terms, being first elected in October of 1964.

King has been actively involved in community clubs, projects, 4-H Club work, band boosters and served many years on the Lighthouse Electric Cooperative board.

King is also a member of the South Plains Soil Conservation Society of America, serving as one of the councilman in past years.

Making Massive Preparations For Nuclear Civil Defense

(Mr. Phelan and Mr. Garrity are on the research staff of Public Research, Syndicated.)

By Wesley G. Phelan and Patrick J. Garrity

In the early 1960's, especially at the time of the Cuban Missile Crisis, Americans built backyard bomb shelters, stocked their basements with food and water, and learned the symptoms of radiation sickness. Civil defense (CD) briefly became a national pastime.

Now, nearly twenty years later as we witness still another Cuban Crisis, many regard civil defense as an embarrassment, an illogical aberration of the Cold War. American strategists have assured the public that nuclear war is unthinkable, that it would mean the end of all life and civilization. And if nuclear war is unthinkable, then civil defense is unnecessary.

While the American government is virtually ignoring civil defense, the Soviet Union regards it as a vital element of national policy. Twenty-four years of planning and research, funded by billions of dollars of government spending, have resulted in the most massive nuclear war-survival program in the world.

According to recent estimates, potential target cities in the USSR possess enough blast shelter capacity for 50 to 60 percent of their populations. In addition, the Soviets have made exten-

Employers' Tax Form Due By End Of Month

October 31, 1979, is the date by which employers must report on Form 941 social Security and withheld Federal income taxes for the third quarter of 1979, and pay any taxes due, the Internal Revenue Service said.

If the quarterly liability (reduced by any deposit during the quarter) is $200 or more, the unpaid balance must be deposited.

This deadline does not apply to those employers who make timely deposits of the full amount of tax due in Federal Reserve or approved commercial banks. They are allowed until November 10 to file Form 941, "Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return."

If employers have not received Form 941 by mail, they can obtain one from local IRS offices. IRS Publication 15, "Circular E—Employer's Tax Guide," is also available at local offices.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White Attorney General

Used car complaints are always near the top of the list of consumer problems, according to the attorneys in my Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division.

While the great majority of dealers are reputable, car-shopping consumers should be aware of attempts by some unscrupulous used car dealers to roll back odometers. Just recently we obtained a court judgment enjoining a dealer from resetting the odometers of motor vehicles and requiring him to provide odometer disclosure statements to purchasers.

If an odometer reading has been altered, the ability to determine the car's real value, reliability, and safety is impaired. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices — Consumer Protection Act provides protection against dealers who alter the odometer of any car or truck in an attempt to reduce the actual miles the vehicle has traveled.

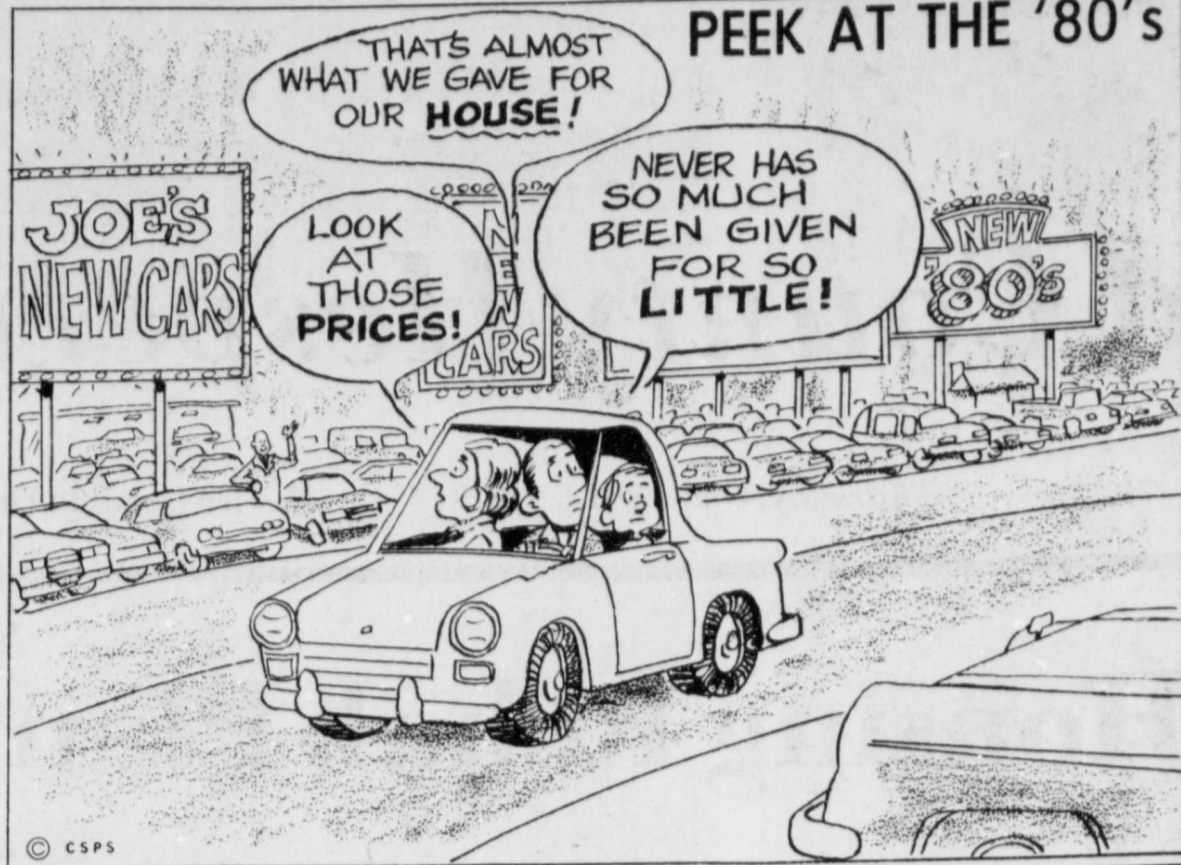

Any consumer who suspects odometer tampering should contact our attorneys. If the buyer is correct, the law provides that the dealer can be enjoined from such practices and that the consumer is entitled to restitution. Or a consumer can consult a private attorney and collect damages plus attorney's fees and court costs, if a judge rules in his favor.

In addition to protection from such deceptive practices under Texas law, a federal law requires the seller, whether dealer or private party, to give the buyer a signed statement that includes the mileage indicated on the car's odometer at the time of sale. If the seller knows that the mileage reading is incorrect, he or she must indicate that the actual mileage is unknown. Then if the buyer can prove he was sold a car by someone who violated these requirements, or gave false information, he can collect three times his damages or $1,500, whichever is greater, plus attorney's fees and court cost.

If you are in the market for a good used car, the lawyers in our Consumer Protection Division offer these tips:

- Select several established dealers and shop carefully. Reputable dealers will not object to comparisons with competitors.
- Get a history of the used car's title from the Texas Highway Department's motor vehicle registration division. Then check with previous owners if possible for information about the car and its mileage.
- Test drive the car and have your mechanic check it. A reputable dealer wants your return business and referrals and will not want to sell you a lemon.
- Be sure that any warranty is in writing and that it spells out the services that will be offered.
- If you have a complaint about an unscrupulous used car dealer, contact our Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division in Austin, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Lubbock, El Paso or McAllen or call your district or county attorney.

Farmers May Redeem Wheat From Reserve

Producers may continue to redeem wheat from the farmer-owned grain reserve at least through Oct. 31, according to Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland.

The Agricultural Marketing Service daily average adjusted prices on Sept. 28 and the mid-month price for wheat reported by the Economics, Statistics, and Cooperatives Service were above the $3.29 per bushel release level. The daily adjusted price on Sept. 27 was $3.72 and the mid-month price was $3.84. Storage earnings stopped for reserve wheat loans on June 30 in all states.

Since wheat was released from the reserve May 16, producers have redeemed 159.7 million bushels, 38.7 percent of the 413.2 million which were then in the reserve.

Aquifer Water Estimates Published

The Texas Department of Water Resources has published a new report containing estimates of available ground water that is recoverable in Texas aquifers on an average annual basis from 1980 through the year 2030.

Average annual ground-water availability from major and minor aquifers is estimated to range from approximately 10.2 million acre-feet in 1980 to 8.4 million acre-feet in the year 2030.

An acre-foot of water is the amount of water that would cover an acre to a depth of one foot or 325,851 gallons.

Updating estimates from the department's previous water planning studies and appraising newly collected data, the department utilized digital computer models of aquifers and other methods of analyses to project more current estimates of aquifer recharge, depletion, water quality, and available ground water. The report provides a comprehensive ground-water reference for current use and for future state and local water planning.

Detailed tabulations in the report indicate ground-water availability by aquifer and by river or coastal basin. A table shows estimated available ground water recoverable in each of the aquifers through the year 2030. The use of digital computer models of five of the aquifers is described in depth as a method of analysis. A recommendation is made to develop and maintain active digital computer models of aquifers in order to more accurately evaluate the effects of ground-water withdrawal on depletion of aquifer storage, land-surface subsidence, coastal flooding, salt-water encroachment, and available ground water.

Major aquifers included in the study are the Ogallala, Carrizo-Wilcox, Edwards-Trinity Group, Alluvium and Bolson Deposits and Gulf Coast.

The Russian Combat Soldiers In Cuba

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on White River tries to explain the Cuban situation this week.

Dear editor: Several U.S. Senators up for reelection have been excited about a photograph taken ten miles up showing about 3,000 Russian combat troops in Cuba. This is puzzling.

I had no idea we had an aerial camera that could photograph soldiers from so far up so accurately you could tell whether they were machine-gunners or clerk-typists, when it's sometimes hard to do it on the ground.

But the photograph shows tanks, the senators point out. How about that? Why everybody knows Russia is short on automobiles, and have you ever seen a Cuban-made car? Those tanks are used to drive into town on weekends. Beats walking.

But, the Senators ask, what are Russian troops doing in Cuba in the first place?

...ive plans for evacuating urban areas prior to nuclear attack. According to Soviet civil defense manuals, the USSR can evacuate most of its urban population to designated rural reception points in 72 hours.

The Soviets expect large parts of their economy to survive a nuclear war. Civil defense programs emphasize the construction of bomb-resistant structures, and low building density. In addition, the USSR is blast-proofing such key services as fire departments, pumping stations, and power systems. Ironically, these were the defensive measures recommended by an American bombing survey team after the destruction of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in World War II.

Since 1966, Soviet planners have located 75 percent of new industry away from the large cities, and have separated factories to limit damage. They are duplicating industrial production to ensure that each region of the USSR can become relatively self-sufficient in the event of nuclear attack.

Despite massive evacuation during a nuclear war, the Soviets view post-strike rescue and repair efforts as essential. They have established an elaborate system of emergency teams to repair damaged power and water lines, and gas mains. These teams will also be responsible for moving citizens from faulty or inadequate shelters, and other rescue operations. Rescue detachments are trained in radiation detection, first aid, and fire-fighting.

Since 1950, the Soviet government has required most adults to attend over 120 hours of civil defense courses. This program has recently been expanded to include an annual 20-hour compulsory course. In addition, a national war games program requires 16 to 20 million school children to participate each year in CD exercises.

The Soviet Ministry of Education requires the teaching of civil defense in the second, fifth, and ninth grades, in vocational and technical schools, and in institutions of higher learning. Until recently, it also required technical school students to spend 20 to 25 hours on such projects as designing shelters and plotting fallout patterns.

Why has the Soviet Union embarked on such a comprehensive program of civil defense — especially in the face of American apathy? The answer lies in the different perspectives of nuclear war which prevail in the two countries.

American nuclear strategy is based on the concept of "mutual assured destruction," popularly known as MAD. According to this doctrine, nuclear war is not rational since neither side could survive an attack. There is strong evidence, however, that the Soviet Union does not accept MAD, but believes instead that nuclear war can be fought and won. The Soviets have designed their civil defense program to limit the damage sustained in a nuclear exchange, a necessary condition for national survival and victory.

A Soviet first strike against American strategic forces, according to MAD, is highly unlikely if not impossible. A U.S. retaliatory strike would supposedly inflict millions of casualties and do unacceptable damage to the Soviet economy. A number of recent studies, however, challenge that assumption.

Dr. Eugene P. Wigner, Princeton's Nobel Prize-winning nuclear physicist, and Soviet civil defense expert Joanne S. Ailar, contend that fatalities in the USSR during a nuclear war would probably be as low as four to five percent — if CD measures were carried out. Such estimates even assume that the U.S. second strike would be aimed primarily at population (countervalue). A 1976 study by the Boeing Aerospace Company indicates that the Soviet economy could recover in two to four years. Within seven days of the attack, Soviet workers would be able to leave shelters for an eight-hour workday in 97 percent of the country.

MAD also assumes that meaningful defenses against nuclear weapons are impossible. But if Soviet civil defense were able to provide adequate population protection, the mutual aspect of assured destruction would no longer be viable. The recent reports indicate that this may well be the case.

A first strike by the Soviet Union against an unsheltered and unprotected American population would result in staggering destruction: 90 million deaths according to a House Armed Services investigation subcommittee, 135 million casualties according to Wigner and Gailar. In contrast, these studies predict that an American retaliatory attack against an evacuated and protected Soviet population would likely result in 10 to 13 million losses.

While the Soviet losses would still be enormous from the perspective of the United States, they might be acceptable to the Kremlin. Approximately 20 million Soviets were killed in World War II. Millions more have been victims of their own government. Civil defense might therefore limit Soviet casualties to an acceptable level should the USSR decide to risk a nuclear confrontation with the United States.

Bill Kincaid Second Again Sheree Cannon Wins Football Forecast Contest

A trio of Floydadans took the first, second and third prizes in the Hesperian Football Forecast contest last week. Sheree Cannon won the $10 first prize with her four-miss entry. Bill Kincaid again finished in the money, also missing four games but coming in two points short of Sheree's 30 total point tie breaker. Tiffany Gentry won the tie breaker with 37 total points. Both Sheree and Bill missed the winner of the tie breaker, so the results were based on total points scored only. Tiffany Gentry won the $4 third prize with only five misses. While a half-dozen other Floydadans also missed five games, Tiffany scored highest on the tie breaker with 37 total points. Tiffany also missed the correct outcome of the Floydada-Littlefield game but so did everyone else in her scoring bracket. Correct answers to the forecast were Lockney, Idalou, Dimmitt, Abernathy, Tahoka, Seminole, Post, Slaton, Silverton, Snyder, Monahans, Plainview, Texas Tech, South Carolina, Notre Dame, Coronado, Syracuse, Dallas Cowboys, Midland Lee, St. Louis Cardinals, Pittsburgh Steelers, Philadelphia Eagles and the Los Angeles Rams.

First World Series Game Rained Out

The first game of the 1979 World Series between the Baltimore Orioles and the Pittsburgh Pirates in Baltimore was called off because of a driving rainstorm Tuesday night.

Bowie Kuhn, the baseball commissioner, called the game at 8:33 local time. Play was set to begin Wednesday. It was the first time the opening game of the championship series was ever called off for wet weather.

The two teams will play Wednesday and Thursday nights in Baltimore and then travel to Pittsburgh to continue the seven-game playoffs.

Firefighters Win Trophy In Hereford

Firemen from the Panhandle Fire-fighters mini-convention in Hereford, Texas, won a trophy in a water polo competition. The team, led by Larry Guthrie, won the elimination rounds against area cities. As firefighters play it, is different from what most people see. The two-man teams use streams of water from the fire hoses to push a ball suspended on a cable across their opponents' goal. The two Floydadans were joined by fellow firemen Jerry Warren, Bobby Welborn and Larry Marquis in a pumper race in which the local team turned in a very respectable time of 22 seconds when the hose valve blew and they lost water pressure. The winning time to hook the hose to the hydrant, drag it 100 yards and put out a stream of water was 20 seconds. A team of six members normally participates in the event. The Floydadans had only five. It was their first time in that competition. Five other pumper teams competed in the race. Four women's pumper teams and four polo teams also competed against one another in the mini-convention.

Marquis Back In 'Wind Starting Lineup

Whirlwind quarterback Rex Speves will return to the lineup after a week of injury he suffered in last week's game against Littlefield, according to coach L.G. Wilson. Marquis is back at the end of the week. Back Moody Younger is also on the roster for this week's game against Wellington. Marquis will hold down the other end spot on the offensive squad while Rex Speves and Mike Allen are in at tackle. David Welborn and Keith Nixon are back at their familiar guard positions. Tim Radloff will handle the center duties. In the backfield, Jeff Rainey at halfback, Mac Collins at fullback and Mike Self playing slotback will provide the Whirlwind power. Self will take over the punting job for Floydada. On the defensive team Neal Becker and Jeff Rainey will play the end spots with Tim Radloff and Keith Nixon at tackle. Caprock Hospital Auxiliary Welcomes New Member

In the absence of President Tye, Mrs. Nile Bryant, vice-president, presided at the business meeting of the Caprock Hospital Auxiliary in the hospital dining room. Mrs. Whitaker, treasurer, reported about $800 in the treasury. An isolete is to be ordered soon.

The group inspected the family room and made plans for adding several articles to its decor which would make it more colorful and cheerful.

It was noted that Mrs. Freida Dunn, R.N. is now working with the Visiting Nurse Service Inc. out of Lubbock, 2806 34th Suite 18. Her local telephone number is 983-2631. Visiting nursing care is given to elderly patients when ordered by the doctor. The clipping report of District I area Hospital Auxiliary meeting held recently in Lubbock was read. Dr. Teddy Langford, dean of the Texas Tech University School of Nursing, commended the work being done in the district by members of the auxiliaries.

Mrs. Charles Henley's True Story

Diet pills, home exercise machines, bike riding—I'd tried everything I'd ever heard about to lose weight, but I still looked like I was about to have twins.

Not that I was expecting, it's just that I'd always had a problem with weight around my middle, and nothing seemed to help.

I heard about Pat Walker's from a friend.

At Floydada High

Floydada High School mathematics teachers for the 1979-80 school year are (back l.-r.) Jerry Livingston, Ruben Rodriguez, (front l.-r.) Daniel Coward and Britt Gregory.

The following article is a continuation of a series started last year which presents an overview of the various opportunities available for FHS students. This week we are featuring the math department.

Recognizing the various levels of mathematical ability attained by students by the time they reach high school, the department of mathematics began in 1968 a program of grouping students according to their ability to achieve in mathematics. The mathematics program at Floydada High school provides programs for students in four different levels of mathematical ability.

In each of these levels students may receive two years of credit, which meets the State of Texas requirement for graduation from high school.

Group I: A two-year program of Fundamentals of Mathematics with emphasis on computation in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division of integers, decimals, and common fractions is provided. The program includes the elementary phases of measurements, percentage, and reading of tables which are used in every day life.

A state funded program enables the school to provide a teacher aide for students in this group. The aide provides for greater individual attention.

Group II: This level provides two years in Introduction to Algebra. Upon completion of the two years students are qualified to continue any course in mathematics for which one year of algebra is a pre-requisite.

Group III: Students in this group take Algebra I their first year and Geometry the second year. They may continue their math program by taking Algebra II and more advanced mathematics if they so desire and are qualified.

Group IV: These students have demonstrated unusual ability to perform in mathematics. Their program is one of acceleration throughout their four high school years.

They take Algebra I their first year, Algebra II the second, followed by Geometry, and Trigonometry and Elementary Analysis their senior year. Being accelerated not only means moving more quickly than normal but also covering the subject more thoroughly and in depth. As a result of the nature of the class, it is possible for an individual class to cover the material in a shorter period than the usual three quarters. The result is that the students might possibly cover and get credit for five years of mathematics in their four years in high school. This program enables them to start with calculus their first year in college.

Some of those you may remember as having taught in the mathematics department of the high school in the past are Bob Alldredge, Charles Baumgardner, Tommy Cathey, Ira Colley, Bob Copeland, Donny Carthel,

Teaching in the mathematics departments the current school year are Ruben Rodriguez, Daniel Coward, Britt Gregory and Jerry Livingston. Rodriguez, who is originally from Abernathy, has a degree in math from Wayland Baptist College in Plainview. Coward also holds a math degree from Wayland. Gregory has a degree in math from Texas Tech University in Lubbock. Livingston is a graduate of Oklahoma State University with a degree in chemistry and also holds a Master of Education from OSU.

Center News

By Mrs. J.E. Green

October 8 — The mornings are cool, the afternoons hot — fine cotton weather.

Miss Vera Meredith's company, Bro. and Mrs. Clay Muncy, spent Sunday with her. Friday a niece, Mrs. Rita Baker of Dallas, spent the night and Saturday with her. Mrs. Louise Hamilton also came Sunday. Miss Meredith received word Monday that Mrs. Arch Muncy died about 5:30 a.m. in the Lockney Hospital. Also, a Mr. Goodman, brother of Mrs. Myrtle Meredith, another old timer, died. Our sympathy is with the loved ones.

Sunday dinner guests of the Henry Brewers were Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Brewer and family and Mrs. McClain, all of Lubbock.

Mrs. Leo Frizzell reports that the Lockney relatives will in the rest home, Mr. Carpenter and Mrs. Ethel Frizzell, are about the same, hopefully a bit better.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cone of Wichita Falls came Saturday for a visit with relatives — the Carpenters, Mrs. Leo Frizzell, Mrs. Ethel Frizzell and Mrs. Ava Jackson.

Mr. Gordon Mayfield has been on the sick list for several days. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Denison have been having first one and then another of their children and grandchildren during the week — the C.W. Jrs. of Georgetown, and several from Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Mensch and son David of Lubbock spent Friday night and Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Thomas. Bill Thomas of Lockney also enjoyed the birthday dinner Saturday honoring the daughter, Sue.

Mrs. Green and son Clyde enjoyed supper with Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Latta before they left for New Mexico.

Mrs. J.E. Green and Mrs. Vernon McPeak visited in Caprock Hospital Saturday afternoon with Mrs. R.C. Ross, Mrs. Leona Bell and daughter Mrs. Alice Spencer of Amarillo, who was with her mother over the weekend. We hope these sick ones and the many others will soon be feeling better.

Saturday night Mrs. Elmer Warren's grandson, Johnny Warren Jr. of Wayland College came to spend the night with her. Sunday the rest of the Johnny Warren family of near Idalou, spent the rest of the day and attended church with her.

Today Cloyd Bryant of Shreveport, Louisiana is spending the day with his aunt and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Edmondson of Phillips came Sunday afternoon and are visiting Mrs. Fred Battey.

Sharon and Shiela Landry of Plainview spent Saturday with their grandmother, Mrs. W.L. Hartline. They dined out.

I must not forget to say how much I enjoyed Mrs. Vaughn Murff's pioneer story of the ranch.

The Charles Fulkersons had company Sunday. They were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Taylor and Mrs. Donie Taylor from Virginia and Oklahoma City; also Mr. and Mrs. Don Finkler of Lubbock, (daughter Charlene and husband).

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Plumlee and baby of Amarillo visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Plumlee, Sunday. The baby, three weeks-old Meg, is the Plumlee's newest grandchild, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Plumlee.

Visitors with Ma Green Friday afternoon were Mrs. Ola Warren, Mrs. Fred Battey and Mrs. Thelma Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Shore, for three years of Baghdad, Iraq, have arrived in Peralta for a visit with her parents, the Clyde Greens. They will probably reside in Seattle, Washington.

Mrs. Vernon McPeak visited the Pecks Sunday afternoon.

History Of McLean Lovett Memorial Library

It was June, 1940, just after graduation with a degree in Library Science from the University of Oklahoma, when a new and young librarian decided to "begin at home" using her training. What better community project did McLean need than a library? With trembling knees and the aid of her crutches, Miss Catherine Patterson climbed the flight of steps to make her appeal to the McLean Lions Club for their support of a library-to-be. This idea did not fall on deaf ears! The members agreed to offer their hall located upstairs next door to the Variety Store, as the place to house a library.

The seed was planted for a city library! Ideas were discussed with civic-minded individuals, and offers of books and magazines began to flow. When the library was presented to the Fifth Tuesday Council of Churches the ladies voted unanimously to sponsor the project of getting a library started. The Council of Churches provided a small sum of money for book cases, a vertical file cabinet, and a magazine rack which were built by donated labor according to library specifications. Council members helped solicit and collect donated books and magazines, and with the aid of Miss Patterson, arranged these on the library shelves.

When the City of McLean voted to give $10.00 a month to help finance the new library, it automatically became the new sponsor; thus releasing the Fifth Tuesday Council of Churches. As the steps up to the Lions Hall were not too inviting to many people, rooms were made available in the northeast corner of the City Hall for the library. The City Council appointed a Library Board to be the governing body of the new City Library.

On August 9, 1940 a librarian, Mrs. Lady Bryant, was hired. The library was opened from 12:00 noon until 5:00 P.M. daily, except Sundays and legal holidays. Books were to be loaned free of charge, with no deposit required. Two books could be borrowed for one week at a time, and there was an overdue fine of 2 cents per day for each book. This money was to be used to buy new books. After necessary expenditures were made to set the library in running order in its new location, a few new books were ordered and subscriptions placed for magazines.

From 1940 until 1957 McLean City Library continued to occupy the rooms in City Hall. On August 30, 1957 and Open House was held in a new building at 302 North Main Street. This new home of the Library was to be called Lovett Memorial Library, in honor of Henry and Fannie Lovett.

The Lovetts came into what is now Gray County before the end of the nineteenth century to establish a home. The sod covered half-dug-out in which they lived was one of the first, if not the very first residence in this county. They experienced the difficulties and rigors of frontier conditions. Through thrift and toil as they worked together, they prospered, and were respected and loved as good neighbors and substantial citizens. With oil development, they were bountifully blessed by a kindly Providence, which regarded as a trust to be used for good. Because of their appreciation of Gray County which had been so good to them; their love for its people, their friends, it was in their minds and hearts that the people of Gray County be blessed and benefitted in the years to come. Their fortune was left in trust for this purpose. At a meeting attended by a group of McLean citizens and Lovett Estate Trustees, it was decided a library building was the most useful way in which McLean could benefit from the legacy left in trust for the people of Gray County.

Once again the people of McLean began to contribute books to help fill library shelves, memorial books, given in honor of friends and loved ones provide a lasting tribute to be used by many people. All types of books have been placed in the library in this manner.

In June of 1973, Lovett Memorial Library met the requirements to become a member of the Texas Panhandle Library System. The response of the patrons to the new services offered by the System has been gratifying. Through Interlibrary Loan, all the resources of Texas' libraries are available to our community. The Reciprocal Borrowing Program encourages free access to book holdings in neighboring libraries. The Collection enrichment Program increases the quantity and improves the quality of printed resources within the library. Each member of the TPLS continues to acquire materials in a pre-selected area of special interest. Lovett Memorial Library has an in-depth collection of materials about the North American Indians. New programs for the area are the 16mm film and cassette tapes. Each member library receives a packet in these collections on a rotating circuit. A 16mm projector, screen and splicing equipment has been placed within each library paid for with LSCA funds. Each library now has an art print collection that may be borrowed for one month by library patrons.

Lovett Memorial Library is a community library. As the needs of library patrons change, new services will be provided to meet these needs.

Ghost Hunters To Speak At Tech

Ed and Lorraine Warren, noted investigators of the supernatural and often referred to as "America's top ghost hunters," will speak on "The Amityville Horror" at 8:15 p.m. on Oct. 18 at the Texas Tech University Center Theatre.

One of seven leading demonologists in the United States, Ed Warren is head consultant for the Psychic Research Institute for Paranormalogy and Demonology in Handen, Conn.

Lorraine Warren is a widely known clairvoyant and her help as a medium has been essential to a number of their investigations. Together they have traveled the U.S. and Europe and have worked with other scientists, clergy and mediums investigating reports of "haunting" or demonic possession.

The Amityville horror is the Warren's most famous case, but they have also investigated the phenomena of "Bigfoot" in America and the "Loch Ness Monster" in Scotland. Seen weekly in syndication is their column, "The Tattler," as are their TV shows, "Ghost Hunting With Ed and Lorraine Warren" and "Seekers of the Supernatural."

These programs revolve around actual cases of exorcisms and possessions, haunted houses and ghosts, and witchcraft and demonology in which the Warrens have been involved for the last 31 years. Some of their experiences have been chronicled by Dan Greenburn in "Something Is There" and J.F. Sawyer in "Deliver Us From Evil."

People became aware of the Amityville horror because of the best-selling book with that title.

The book deals with the disturbing story of George and Kathy Lutz and their three children. They bought an old house at a seemingly low price in Amityville with no qualms about its bloody past.

The Lutzes left with only the clothes on their backs after a short time and never returned. They claimed the house was haunted and that they saw and heard unexplainable phenomena such as footsteps when no one was there, voices, ghostly manifestations and levitation of people and objects.

The Warrens were called in to investigate, along with many other noted clergymen and scientists, but no one could stand to stay in the house.

The house was the site of a bloody mass murder several years ago when Ronald DeFeo killed his parents, two brothers and two sisters. He claimed to have been "possessed by demons." An ironic parallel is that in colonial times the Indians would not go near that land because they claimed it was inhabited by devils.

The Warrens' lecture will include a discussion of their cases, as well as pictures of "ghosts" and people "possessed" by demons. Their well known comment is, "There has never been a scientist past or present who could disprove the fact that haunted houses, ghosts, apparitions, and demonic spirits exist." In lectures on campuses across the U.S. the Warrens have spoken to capacity crowds.

Tickets are available at the UC Ticket Booth. They are $2 with Tech ID, $2.50 with Tech faculty or staff identification and $3 for the general public.

PBS Television Continues As Pacesetter For Children's Educational Programs

From learning the alphabet to appreciating common social values to understanding other cultures to an acquaintance with the job market — public television has offered young viewers a unique perspective.

For over a decade, kids the world over have turned to SESAME STREET for light-hearted fun designed to introduce preschoolers to essential learning skills. Big Bird, Oscar the Grouch and the rest of the gang will be back in the 11th SESAME STREET season with 130 all-new 60-minute programs. A season highlight this year will be a journey to Puerto Rico, where SESAME STREET characters discover that children of varying cultural backgrounds have a lot in common. The special needs of the blind will also be emphasized this year, as SESAME STREET incorporates studio segments, live-action films and animation to help youngsters learn more about reading, writing, numbers and each other. SESAME STREET, a production of CTW, New York, is seen mornings at 11 a.m. and afternoons at 3 p.m. weekdays on Channel 5.

America's favorite neighbor will be back this year with a schedule that combines many of the best programs from past seasons with all-new productions on MISTER ROGERS' NEIGHBORHOOD. Currently celebrating his 25th year on television, Fred Rogers has become a media legend with his gentle-but-persuasive approach to instilling self-confidence and common social values in his young viewers. Among the special features to be presented this season are a theme week devoted to contemporary super-heroes, and a brand-new Mister Rogers television opera. The series of 30-minute programs, a production of Family Communications, Inc., Pittsburgh, airs mornings at 9 a.m. and afternoons at 4 p.m. on Channel 5.

VILLA ALEGRE means the Happy Village — a place where children of both Anglo and Hispanic heritage come together for games, songs, and valuable lessons about cultural diversity and human understanding. In its fifth season, VILLA ALEGRE will continue to explore new experiences through the "Village" residents — children and adults, real and animated — who converse in both Spanish and English. VILLA ALEGRE, a production of EC-TV, Oakland, is seen weekdays at 2:30 p.m. on KXTX-TV.

On THE ELECTRIC COMPANY, elementary school-age children discover that learning to read can be fun. THE ELECTRIC COMPANY uses a light-hearted approach to conveying valuable reading skills, blending live action and animated sequences in a fast-paced half hour of education and adventure.

The series is currently used throughout the nation to supplement formal classroom education, and has also been employed in over 20 foreign countries to teach English. Another CTW production, THE ELECTRIC COMPANY airs daily, Monday through Friday, at 4:30 p.m.

Nuclear Tests Participants Urged To Contact Defense Nuclear Agency

ATMOSPHERIC NUCLEAR TEST PARTICIPATION

For more than a year the Department of Defense has been attempting to identify former military and civilian Defense personnel who participated in the atmospheric nuclear tests conducted from 1945 to 1962. The Defense Nuclear Agency is the Executive Agent for this program.

If you participated in these tests, which were held largely in Nevada and at Bikini and Enewetak atolls in the Pacific, you are urged to contact the Defense Nuclear Agency if you have not done so in 1978-1979.

The Defense Nuclear Agency is attempting to reconstruct a complete history of the atmospheric nuclear test program, including names of participants and any radiation doses they received. One of the purposes of this effort is to enable the National Academy of Sciences and other scientific organizations to determine if there are health hazards resulting from participation in the test.

Based upon research to date, it is believed that radiation exposures were low. While medical science has no proof that exposure to radiation levels as low as these is hazardous to health, it is generally assumed by scientists that even low levels of exposure carry some slight risk. There is, however, some disagreement within the scientific community about the magnitude of this risk.

If you were a participant in the atmospheric nuclear tests program, and you have not already done so, you are urged to contact the Defense Nuclear Agency at toll-free number 800-336-3068 in continental United States; from Virginia, outside the Washington, D.C. area call 202-274-9161 (collect, if long distance); from Hawaii call collect 808-422-9213. Or write to Defense Nuclear Agency, Washington, D.C. 20395.

If you are concerned that your possible exposure may have adversely affected your health, you are urged either to consult your doctor or, if you are a former serviceman, to contact the nearest Veterans Administration Hospital, where you may obtain a physical examination at Government expense.
