Commissioners agree to act to obtain depot building for library

NOT OVERCROWDED — Floyd senior citizens and their guests pack the parking lot [above] and the hall [below] at the Georgia Street Center. A total of 106 persons enjoyed the turkey and trimmings dinner.

The Floyd County commissioners court Monday took the first official step in what could end with the county receiving custodianship of the currently-abandoned Floydada railroad depot.

After David Kirk, speaking for the Friends of the Library, met with the commissioners to request the county's help on obtaining the old depot building for use as a new library, the court agreed to communicate with the railroad company to see what could be done.

The commissioners authorized county judge Choise Smith to correspond with the QA&P Railroad to inquire if the company would be willing to donate the depot and grounds to the county for use as a library.

The judge Thursday said that if the county was successful in obtaining the building, grants from the Federal government would likely be available for the restoration of the depot. The judge also predicted that the county may be able to help with some funding for the depot work and maintenance.

The court also agreed to purchase four used state Department of Public Safety vehicles for use as county sheriff's department patrol cars.

The county paid $1,500 each for four cars from the DPS headquarters in Austin. The cars are currently being fitted with lights and radios for the sheriff and his deputies. Until the purchase, the sheriff's department personnel used their private cars for patrol purposes.

The county will buy gasoline for the new fleet of patrol cars from local stations on a rotating basis. All the fuel will come from one station for three months and then another station will get the business the succeeding three months.

Three cars stationed in Floydada will buy their gas in the county seat while the single vehicle on duty in Lockney will follow the same procedure in that city.

The county commissioners refused to act on a request from Sheriff Fred Cardinal for a pay raise for the deputies.

The court decided that no raises would be given at this time, but agreed to reconsider after the first of the year. Judge Smith noted that the deputies were already scheduled to receive a seven and one-half percent cost-of-living raise after January 1, 1980.

The commissioners also agreed to pay for vinyl asbestos tile for several rooms in the agriculture building, at a cost of $450 to the county. The Department of Human Resources will put tile in one room in the building.

In related action, the court agreed to bear the cost of connecting restroom plumbing in the agriculture building to the sewer line.

The court authorized county auditor Olin Watson to act as special commissioner for the sale of a parcel of land located at 215 S. Eighth St., is the site, located at 215 S. Eighth St., is the site.

former county Noxious Weed Building. Bidding on the land and building was ordered to start at no less than $9,500. Watson said he had not yet decided on a date for the sale.

The commissioners unanimously voted to accept the recommendation of Mrs. Crawford, the district home agent, that Marilyn Tate be employed as the Floyd County home demonstration agent. Mrs. Tate's employment will be effective Jan. 1, 1980.

The court also officially accepted the resignation of county agent Steve Herber. Herber's resignation took effect Nov. 15. No prospective applicants for the county agent position were discussed at Monday's meeting.

The court decided to close the county canneries for the year on Dec. 1. The commissioners agreed to accept a $10,000 bid by Kendis Julian to supply the county with a 1974-model Case 1070 tractor to be used by Precinct Three.

The commissioners declined to act on a request for a new heating and air conditioning unit for the county attorney's office. Kenneth Bain requested the new unit, at a proposed cost of approximately $3,000.

The court also deferred action on a proposal by Ray Tobias, representing the Lien Service, to clean the courthouse restrooms at a cost of $195 a month. The commissioners put off a decision on the matter until after the first of the year.

New pits at dumpgrounds are nearing completion

Work is nearing completion at the dumpgrounds on two new trash pits for the city and county.

County crews supervised by commissioner Jack Lackey were more than half finished the second trench by the end of this week.

The two pits are being dug approximately 200 yards from each other. Both are about 150 yards long, about 25 feet wide and 20 feet deep.

The project is a cooperative effort between Floyd County and the city of Floydada.

Bill Feuerbacher, Floydada city manager, estimated that one pit would serve the dumping needs of the community for about one year.

"Since the cost would just go up later, we decided to go ahead and dig two pits while we were here," Feuerbacher commented Thursday.

LONG HAUL — Ford Johnson brings his grader out of the new pit being dug by county workers at the dump grounds. This pit is about half completed.

Heart Association to sponsor turkey walk

The Floydada chapter of the American Heart Association will sponsor a turkey walk Dec. 1 at the high school.

The walkers will make circuits of the school from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., with prizes and individuals pledging donations to the association for their walker completes.

The Heart Association will award prizes to the walkers collecting the most money. For school-age participants, a prize will be given. Second and third prizes will be T-shirts for the next largest collections. Two sets of first, second and third prizes will be given. The prize will be for first through sixth grades and the other for seventh through twelfth grades.

Each adult who completes the 10-mile walk and collects at least $50 will receive a turkey. The state prize will be a trip for two to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico.

The Heart Association urged local business and professional persons to issue pledge-match challenges to their other persons and organizations.

Sponsor sheets may be picked up at the First National Bank or from Vickie Rainer or Sally Wylie.

Court to meet again

The Floyd County Commissioners Court will hold a special session Monday at 8:30 a.m. to meet with Ed Hammonds for discussion on the heating and air conditioning project for the courthouse.

School out early

Floydada schools will dismiss at 2:30 Wednesday November 21 for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Women's Chamber plans talent night

The Floydada division members of the Women's Chamber are making final preparations for organizing the amateur talent night for after the new year.

The tentative date for the amateur night is Jan. 26, 1980, the last Saturday in that month.

The last such event held in Floydada, about 15 years ago, was a great success.

Door and "crackerjack" prizes are being planned for the upcoming event. Ticket prices for the amateur night have not yet been set.

Proceeds of the competition will go to benefit the Friends of the Library.

Mike Carter is new soil conservationist in Floydada

The Floydada Soil Conservation Service office has a new employee.

Michael G. Carter, 28, has taken over his new duties as a soil conservationist with the Floydada crew. He served a year training in the Stephenville office at a lower grade. A promotion came with the transfer to Floydada.

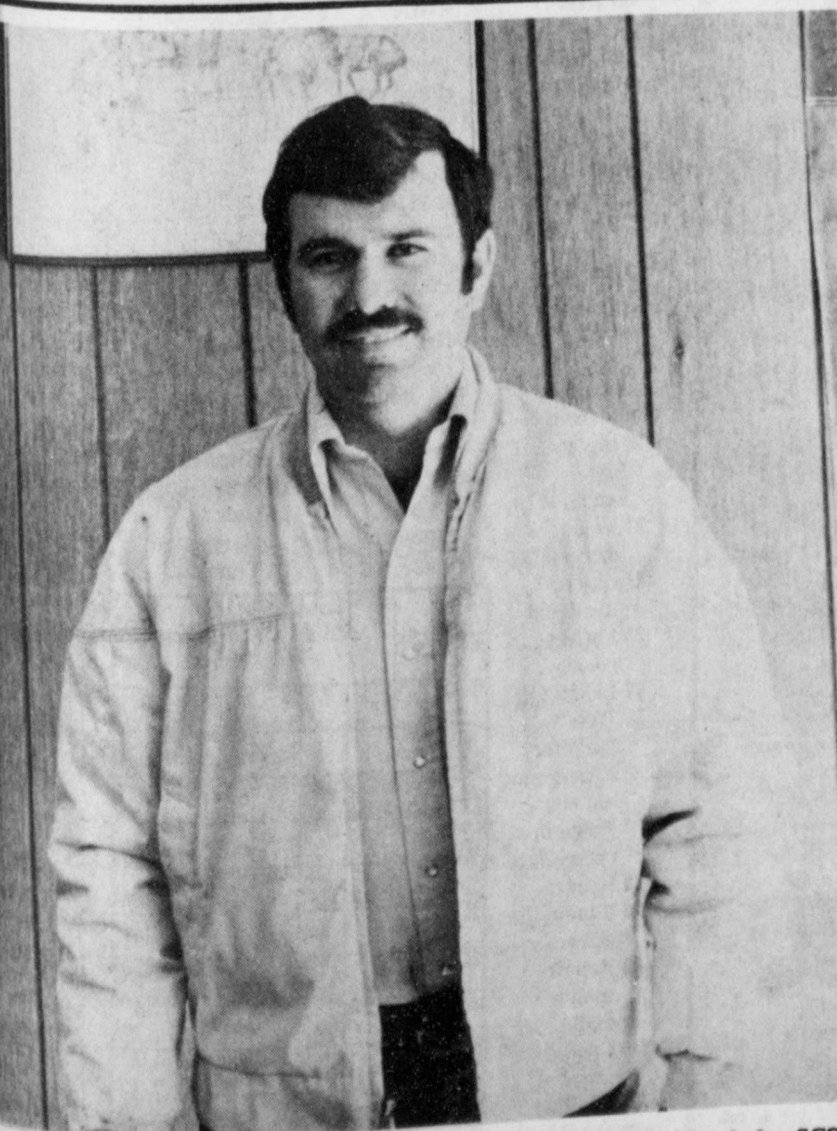

Carter is a 1976 graduate of Tarleton State University in Stephenville, where he majored in general agriculture. He graduated from high school in Hobbs, New Mexico, where he participated in the Future Farmers of America.

Carter served in the U.S. Army for two years. He was stationed in the Philippine Islands.

He began his new position in Floydada Oct. 12.

Carter is joined here by his wife, Jane, and daughter, Jennifer, who is one and one-half years old.

Carter will work in the Floydada office with district conservationist Jon La Baume and Jake Colston and Larry Benjamin. He replaces James Cox, who was promoted and transferred to Morton, Texas.

NEW CONSERVATIONIST — Mike Carter recently took over the duties of soil conservationist at the Floydada SCS office.

Hesperian and Beacon will print early this week

The Floyd County Hesperian and Lockney Beacon will be printed and delivered a day early next issue.

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday, when there will be no mail delivery, The Hesperian and Beacon will go to press on Tuesday, Nov. 20, for Wednesday delivery.

Advertisers and persons who wish to submit news items for publication in the Thanksgiving issue should bring in their ad copy or news items before noon Tuesday for guaranteed publication. Every effort will be made to include those items delivered after that time, however.

After the Thanksgiving holiday, The Hesperian and Beacon will resume the normal printing and delivery schedule.

Since this is the last issue to carry district football game results, The Hesperian and Beacon will also resume Friday printing and Saturday delivery of the papers.

Promise spirited campaigning

Republicans on march in Floyd County

Whoever wins the Republican presidential nomination in the upcoming primary elections next year may do better in Floyd County than is generally expected in this traditionally Democratic area.

The results of an informal straw poll taken by The Hesperian this week of more than 40 Floydada families shows that only 58 percent of those responding indicated that they would vote for a Democratic candidate.

Massachusetts Senator Ted Kennedy led the incumbent Jimmy Carter by exactly a two-to-one margin among Democratic voters.

Ten persons said they would vote for Kennedy, with only five opting for the current president. Two said that they favored California governor Jerry Brown.

Nine of the Democratic respondents were undecided which candidate they would support.

In the Republican camp, the race was a similarly one sided affair, with Ronald Reagan emerging as the clear front runner among county voters.

Of the 17 respondents who favored Republican candidates, Reagan held a significant eight-to-five edge over former Texas governor John Connally. Only four Republicans were undecided as to which candidate would receive their support. Candidates George Bush, Howard Baker and Jack Kemp got no votes at all in the poll.

The poll results indicate the continuance of a phenomenon that has been growing in Texas for the past few years — the fact that the Democratic party, virtually assured of victory in the state for almost 100 years, can no longer take such things for granted.

The election of a Republican governor last election for the first time since Reconstruction shocked Democratic party organizers from their complacency. And a consensus of almost half a traditionally-Democratic county like Floyd indicating support for Republican candidates cannot but give those same organizers pause for thought.

While the local Democrats may rely on the weight of established voting patterns this year, the Republicans apparently plan to make a fight of it, at least in the presidential race.

Republican organizers will attempt to change the image of what one Democratic Party leader called "the most apolitical county in Texas."

County Republican party chairman John Farris vowed that his organization would be very active in the primaries and presidential election in 1980. Party workers would conduct a telephone campaign and frequent reminders to voters vote in the Republican primary. And Farris is confident that the county will respond to the Republican appeal.

"Well over half the voters will go for the Republican candidate," he said. "Any of the 10 announced Republicans could beat either Carter or Kennedy in Floyd County."

And judging from The Hesperian poll, he may be right.

Rebates hold steady

The Floydada rebates of the local option one percent sales tax continued its year-long level at two percent less than 1978, according to a report released by Bob Bullock, state comptroller of public accounts.

Floydada's November rebate check from the state amounted to $4,351.47, compared with $4,797.01 for the preceding year.

To date, the city has received $69,549.83 in 1979 rebates. By this time last year, Floydada had been rebated $71,443.91.

Rebates to Lockney were up significantly over the November, 1978 payments. This month Lockney will receive $2,314.51, compared to $1,797.23 last year.

For the year to date, however, the Lockney rebates show no net gain or loss. So far this year, Lockney has taken in $30,937.11. By this time in 1978, the figure was $30,779.35.

Statewide, 293 cities will receive a total of $25.8 million in rebates for the month. Rebates rose by 11 percent across the state.

Bentsen calls for severing of relations with Iranians

Senator Lloyd Bentsen this week said the United States should sever diplomatic relations with Iran, embargo all arms sales to that country and send home those Iranian students who demonstrate illegally in this country.

In Tehran on Tuesday students backing Iranian religious leader Ayatollah Khomeini continued to hold some 60 Americans hostage in the U.S. embassy, demanding that the U.S. extradite the Shah of Iran. The exiled Shah is in New York undergoing medical treatment.

In New York on Sunday seven persons who identified themselves as Iranian students took over the Statue of Liberty for almost four hours. They displayed a 20 foot banner proclaiming, "The Shah must be tried and punished."

"It's an outrage," Bentsen said in response to the two incidents.

"It's an outrage when Iranian students in this country invade the Statue of Liberty while Iranian students in Tehran invade our embassy and deny liberty to American diplomats."

"We ought to sever relations, notify the Iranian Charge d'Affairs in Washington that diplomats at their embassy here are persona non grata and close down the embassy. We ought to refuse to sell Iran any further military equipment or spare parts. And we ought to quickly send home any Iranian students who take part in illegal demonstrations in this country."

"There is no way we can send back the Shah," Bentsen said.

"We cannot bow to this kind of blackmail. Americans would be hostage around the world," Senator Bentsen said.

Unusual butterfly collection featured at Lions Art Show

A Canyon couple who will present their works at the Lions Club Arts and Crafts Show here have taken butterfly collection from a hobby to an art form.

Derl and JaNa Brooks mount and frame butterflies for sale. They have shown their wares in shows previously and say the insects always make a big hit with visitors to the shows.

Most of the butterflies and moths that they prepare and sell are exotics, coming from both the Old and New World tropics. But some of their specimens that will be on sale here Dec. 1 will be domestic and local types such as the well-known Monarch butterfly.

The butterflies are available in either single mountings or in groups of exotics from different parts of the world.

The Brooks collection includes specimens of the Atlas moth from Southeast Asia, the largest known moth in the world, Owl butterflies from Brazil and Morpho butterflies from Peru.

Working with butterflies and other kinds of insects has been a hobby of Derl's and JaNa's for several years, but they only recently began to market them.

her husband, Derl, will be offering at the Lions Club Arts and Crafts Show

Whirlwinds whip Hornets

Staff photos by Breck Stapleton

Grabbing an early lead, the Whirlwinds fought off a last-minute rally by the Tulia Hornets Saturday night. The Whirlwinds won the game, 18 to 14.

Moody Younger, who had been returned to the lineup again, take part in some key plays against Tulia, apparently.

Mac Collins and Jeff Womack returned a Tulia interception to the goal.

Tracy Womack, who raced for the first touchdown.

The Whirlwinds' only point-after-touchdown of the game failed to split the tie, Tulia-0.

In the second quarter, the two teams traded punts in midfield. The Whirlwinds succeeded in attacking the Tulia defense six-yard-line when Norm Allen threw a pass to Kevin Crooks for a touchdown.

On the next play Tulia quarterback Barry Cowan fumbled the ball. The Tulia quarterback had to make the Hornet tumble over the goal.

It's easy to see where many of our priorities are.

The children of today are looking to us for ways they can prepare for their own style of life . . . families . . . and job opportunities.

To help, we'll need more electricity. It's true, electricity will play a big role toward helping expand the job market to include these adults of tomorrow. The modern use of electricity has contributed to a better educational system to prepare our young people for the new experiences yet to come.

Almost 10 years ago, the folks at Southwestern Public Service wanted to make sure there was enough electricity to keep today's wage earner working. They decided that the fuel used in their power plants should be coal because, coal would be more abundant and cheaper to use than the conventional fuel . . . natural gas.

Now, Southwestern Public Service has a new coal plant in operation and more on the way. Yes, coal plants will help stabilize fuel costs while providing a long-term, reliable, energy source to provide electricity.

It's good to be able to tell someone what they can depend on.

The Denisons have two sons, C.W. Jr. of Georgetown and Gilmer Denison of Lubbock; seven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The former Beulah Elva Eaves and Carl William Denison were married in the home of her parents in Joliet, Texas, in Red River County, November 13, 1919. The couple was married shortly after Denison returned from World War I where he served in the Navy. Reverend F.C. Adams, pastor of the Methodist Church at Bogata, Texas, performed the ceremony.

The couple moved to Lorenzo in 1920 and to Floydada in 1923 where Denison farmed until his recent retirement.

FARM & RANCH NEWS

Bergland urges intensified oil conservation

American farmers must decide soon whether to keep their soil tied down on the land or to allow an additional 60 million tons of it to wash or blow away this season according to Bob Bergland, Secretary of Agriculture.

Because of an excellent demand for American grain in the year ahead, there is no set-aside or diversion for wheat and feed grains, and each farmer will decide for himself how much cropland to plant, Bergland said.

"In the 1973-74 crop year," he said, "farmers plowed up an additional 9 million acres of marginal land — land nearly impossible to protect from soil erosion."

"The result was 60 million tons more soil lost on those 9 million acres alone," Bergland said. "That was the bitter result of plowing from fence to fence."

He pointed out that the most serious soil erosion occurs on a fraction of the cropland, usually sloping land with highly erodible soils. Soybeans planted on marginal lands in one part of Iowa, he said, resulted in "the sickening loss of 26 tons of soil for each ton of soybeans harvested."

Bergland warned that switching to crop production on hard-to-protect acres can undo years of work and hundreds of million of dollars invested in soil conservation practices.

"Whenever farm prices are high, we see thousands of acres of cropland that should have never been plowed and the destruction of a lot of good conservation systems," he said. "Each farmer should ask himself if the chance in the short run is worth the risk of long-range damage to his farm."

Bergland added that marginal lands are not the only source of soil erosion. "Even in a so-called 'normal' year, about 2 billion tons of soil wash away from America's cropland," he said.

"Millions of acres of cropland in current use need more conservation applied — especially in places like west Tennessee, where erosion runs as high as 30 tons of soil an acre each year." These farms need more contouring, more terraces, more conservation tillage," Bergland said.

He urged farmers to plant only the best, protected land to crops, and save the rest for future generations.

Technical and financial assistance in controlling erosion is available from several Department of Agriculture agencies, including the Soil Conservation Service and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

US exports hit new high in 1979

U.S. agricultural exports reached a record high of $32.0 billion during fiscal year 1979, according to a Department of Agriculture report released recently.

The export total for the fiscal year 1978 and record high for the tenth straight year. At the same time, substantial gains in export volume for such key items as feed grains and soybeans and products.

The value of agricultural imports for the year rose by about $2.3 billion to $16.2 billion, which means that U.S. agricultural exports were $15.8 billion greater than imports.

"That represents a $15.8 billion positive contribution to this nation's total balance of trade, which is vital to the strength of the dollar, Bob Bergland, secretary of agriculture, said. "It's a record high, but this contribution by agricultural trade has exceeded $10 billion for the past six fiscal years."

The figures show export values increased for all commodity categories except dairy. Leading value gainers were grain and feeds, valued at $13.6 billion, $1.9 billion more than last year, and oilseeds and products at $8.7 billion, up $1.2 billion.

The volume of feed grain exports rose by 4 million tons, reaching 59.5 million, and soybeans and products shipments increased by 1.2 million tons to 27.3 million. Wheat and flour exports declined slightly to 32.2 million tons, off 600,000 from fiscal 1978.

Texas Farmers Union asks changes in Cotton Inc. selection

Elected leaders of the Texas Farmers Union meeting in Abilene last week called for congressional action to bring about changes in the selection of the Cotton Board and the Board of Directors of Cotton Incorporated.

Following the release of a critical report by the Office of the Inspector General of the USDA in late summer, much dialogue has surfaced concerning a reported lack of accountability to producers who fund the $18 million plus research and promotion program.

The report centers on what critics of the cotton organization call a lack of oversight by the two boards that are charged to administer Cotton, Inc. and questions the use and accounting of funds that have doubtful impact in relation to the goals of the program.

TFU supported passage of the uniform collection of fees from producers for cotton research and promotion when the law went before Congress and later to a producer referendum vote in 1967. The near-10,000 member TFU group withdrew as a certified producer organization in 1973 when it felt that administrative control of Cotton, Inc.

had fallen to a few hands and that producers had no way of democratically choosing directors or controlling the program.

A formal resolution of the Board of Directors of the Texas Farmers Union has been directed to members of Congress and officials of the USDA calling for legislative action to amend the federal program, preferably to a one-man, one-vote system of election of cotton farmers to administer the program.

A spokesman for Texas Farmers Union stated that the organization felt that efforts were being made to "sweep the problems under the rug."

"The questions raised cannot be overlooked by producers," he said. "This is not a minor matter. Cotton Incorporated is supposed to be a producer-funded producer-controlled program. We're greatly disappointed by the conduct and administration of the program and are convinced that this mess will only repeat itself unless some system is put in place to assure accountability of the program and use of funds to producers."

Authorization to remove sorghum from grain reserve withdrawn

Sorghum may no longer be withdrawn from the farmer-owned grain reserve without penalty since the national average market price is $4.03 per hundredweight, 21 cents below the $4.24 reserve release level, according to Ray Fitzgerald, executive vice president of Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC).

Fitzgerald said reserve barley remains in call status and release will continue through Nov. 30 for wheat, corn, oats and rice. On Nov. 30 the national average market prices of these commodities will again be reviewed to determine their reserve status.

The national average market prices for the commodities remaining in release status (with the reserve release levels in parentheses) are: Oats $1.30 per bushel ($1.29); rice $10.20 per hundredweight ($8.96); wheat $3.90 per bushel ($3.29), Fitzgerald said. Corn was released in October and therefore is not subject to review until November 30.

Storage earnings will continue uninterrupted for sorghum. No storage payments will be made for barley, rice or wheat.

Data used by CCC in determining the release and call levels include five-day average prices as reported by the department's Agricultural Marketing Service

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

A few producers and processors of agricultural commodities on the High Plains already have been investigated and cited for violations of a law most of them had never heard of. And unless something is done, more of the same will follow, says Ed Dean, Field Service Director of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, and also a director and executive committee member of the National Council of Agricultural Employers (NCAE).

The law, the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act, known as FLCRA, was passed in 1963 with a worthy objective — to curb the exploitation of migrant farm workers by unscrupulous "crew leaders."

But the law was amended in 1974 and under subsequent interpretations now requires the registration of farmers, ginners and others who in their wildest dreams never imagined themselves a "farm labor contractor."

The language of the Act itself defines a farm labor contractor as "any person who, for a fee, either for himself or on behalf of another person, recruits, solicits, hires, furnishes, or transports migrant workers for agricultural employment." Specific exemptions are granted for "any farmer, processor, canner, ginner, packing shed operator or nurseryman who personally engages in any such activity for the purpose of supplying migrant workers solely for his own operation," and "any fulltime or regular employee of an entity . . . who engages in such activity solely for his employer on no more than an incidental basis."

The word "personally" in the stated exemption was added to the law in the 1974 amendment and the U.S. Department of Labor (USDL) is using that word to bring all incorporated farmers and agricultural product processors under its jurisdiction.

Growers do not agree with the USDL interpretation and it is being tested in a number of Federal court challenges. But until the courts decide, or until Congress amends the law, a high percentage of the farmers, ginners and others in agricultural processing who use anything other than year-round labor will be subject to citation if they fail to register, fail to comply with all the requirements that follow registration, or if they employ a farm labor contractor who isn't properly registered.

At the urging of PCG, NCAE, the Texas Cotton Ginners' Association, the National Cotton Council and others, some 52 senators have signed and sent to Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall a letter expressing their dissatisfaction with the broad powers he has assumed under the law.

In addition a move is afoot to get an amendment to the law that will force the Secretary of Labor to conform to the intent of Congress instead of his own labor-biased inclinations.

It is generally agreed, according to Dean, that the USDL is using this law, among other things, as a backdoor approach to curbing the use of illegal aliens. "The FLCRA is the only Federal law on the books directly dealing with the employment of illegal aliens," he says, "and unless the Secretary of Labor is curbed, many in agriculture will be shocked to find themselves the target of a massive Federal law enforcement campaign."

Dean invites anyone concerned with liability under FLCRA to contact him at the PCG office in Lubbock.

Farm Bureau News Summary

GASOLIN DEVELOPMENTS

On October 17, 1979, Midwest Solvents, Incorporated, of Atchinson, Kansas, publicly announced their decision not to proceed with construction of a plant in Santa Rosa, Texas, to convert milo and sugarcane molasses into alcohol for fuel use. Previously, the Secretary of Agriculture had approved a $15 million loan guarantee for the benefit of the corporation.

Also, the corporation had indicated that in order to invest approximately $25 million in the construction of the Santa Rosa plant it would need all possible marketing channels, and would require permission to produce both drinking and fuel use alcohol.

Midwest Solvents lists two specific reasons why they are not going to build their alcohol plant in the Valley. Both reasons are based on interpretations by the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission of HB 1986, signed into law by the Governor on June 7, 1979, and intended to create a new "local industrial alcohol manufacturer's permit" for the production of alcohol:

- (1) The statute allows only the production of alcohol "not fit for human consumption," but the words of a statute are always interpreted by its administrators. Midwest Solvents feels that they merely prohibit corporations with a local industrial alcohol manufacturer's permit from making alcoholic beverages. However, proposed Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission regulations would also forbid Midwest Solvents from producing ethyl alcohol for human consumption that does not involve alcoholic beverages. Ethyl alcohol is extensively used in the processing of many soft drinks, and this is another of the major marketing channels upon which Midwest Solvents had previously indicated that it must rely in order to make the Santa Rosa plant economically feasible.
- (2) Although the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission staff had formerly considered interpreting Texas state law to allow a corporation possessing a local industrial alcohol manufacturer's permit to produce alcohol for any industrial purposes, whether or not they were owned by a majority of Texas shareholders, the proposed Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission regulations would not allow an out-of-state corporation owned by less than a majority of Texas shareholders to produce industrial alcohol unless that alcohol was intended exclusively for blending with petroleum distillates and for subsequent sale or use as a motor fuel. Again, this would greatly diminish the potential business done by Midwest Solvents, since they indicated on October 17 that they could not succeed in Santa Rosa by producing alcohol for gasohol alone. But they have also stated their belief that, whether or not gasohol becomes a successful product, there will be high demand for alcohol produced from agricultural commodities in the 1980's, specifically in the petrochemical industry and the industrial non-beverage industry.

APPRAISAL DISTRICT FUNDS

The state legislature, in 1979, appropriated $2,887,000 for each of the fiscal years ending on October 31, 1980 and 1981, for the purpose of assisting local appraisal districts.

The School Tax Assessment Practices Board has issued the following proposed new rules to be effective on January 1, 1980, designed to implement the program.

(c) In addition to the entitlement provided in subsection (b), each appraisal district shall be entitled to a portion of the balance of the annual appropriation according to the ratio the number of parcels of taxable real property in the district bears to the number of parcels of taxable real property in all appraisal districts.

(d) For the purposes of subsection (c), the number of parcels of taxable real estate shall be the number of real property parcels (exclusive of mineral properties) as indicated on the preceding year's tax roll of the county in which the district is located, as reported by the county tax assessor, plus the number of producing oil and gas wells in the county in the preceding year, as reported by the Texas Railroad Commission.

(e) Such distributions of funds are made under their direction to the directors of the appraisal districts for and on behalf of the appraisal districts.

(f) Distribution of funds to appraisal districts shall be made on a per capita basis of each year.

The public is invited to write to Russell Bergland, Counsel, School Tax Board, 3301 Northland, Suite 100, Dallas, Texas 75231, for information regarding the proposed SCHOOL DISTRICT EXEMPTIONS.

Taxpayers are notified that application with the appraisal district in which they are located on January 1, 1980, for exemptions in 1979 of exemption forms, and taxpayers must register them with the school district on January 1, 1980. Thereafter, of homesteads:
