Floyd County resident charges roads not kept up

Floyd County resident this week charged that maintenance of county roads is not what it might be. Milton Crenshaw, a homeowner on the 10000th Road outside Floydada, said that Milton had refused to pay for the road after repeated requests by local residents to do so. He said that in wet weather the road was a danger to those who had to travel it to and from their homes. "It's just like planting corn in the county," Milton said. "If it gets too wet or too dry to plant all the other work, you'd do it to grade them all in four years to accomplish the grading of the 400 miles of road in the county." Crenshaw pointed out that there were no residences on the road that had been graded and repaired in the past few weeks. "The roads with no houses still need it," Milton said. "There's no maintenance against anyone, we just need it." Crenshaw said that he left the road on which roads to repair to the county. "I've been working the roads for years," Milton said. "They need it most and we don't."

OH NO, NOT AGAIN — Floyd County residents will probably be seeing more turkeys in endless variety at the dinner and lunch tables.

Local hospital officials oppose HEW plan

Floydada hospital district officials Friday voiced strong opposition to a U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare 100-page proposal that could take control of local health services away from individual hospitals. The same proposals have sparked a wave of statewide criticism of the Federal goals. The most recent HEW attempt to centralize health care focuses on the supposed inability of rural communities to adequately determine their own needs and carry out programs of improvement. Specifically, the HEW suggested using nurse practitioners and physicians' assistants to achieve a desired ratio of primary health care personnel to population. The Texas Medical Association claimed that following such a path would result in the downgrading of health care in rural areas. Caprock Hospital administrator Nell McClung agreed, saying that there is no replacement for the physician in patient care. "People can't get the proper care if there aren't the right trained personnel," Mrs. McClung said. "It takes a doctor to do a doctor's job." The administrator could not comment on a HEW goal that suggested correcting imbalances or excesses of specialties in some areas. The government agency did not specify how those imbalances were to be corrected. HEW also proposed that health service providers be organized into regionalized networks to avoid duplication of services and to provide access to care. The TMA charged that implementing that policy would make Federal discrimination in favor of the larger institutions almost a matter of course.

Mrs. McClung defended the autonomy of small hospitals by saying that the small units were better able to recognize and deal with the needs of their individual communities better than a distant regulating panel. According to the TMA, the HEW regulations would also centralize the authority on who could and who couldn't provide health services, primarily by supplanting the present hospital utilization committees. Mrs. McClung noted that at Caprock the physicians evaluate the care that is given not only to their own patients but they cross-check each other. "Who is better to determine the state of a patient's care than the doctor who is treating them?" the administrator asked. Hospital board chairman Doyle Walls also held the HEW proposals under suspicion. "They tried to do this a year ago," he said. "They want to take away the burden of basic health care from the community hospitals and centralize it." Walls suspected that the Federal guidelines were vaguely written so that, after a low-key effort to pass the necessary legislation, HEW could go back and reinterpret the goals to suit their purposes. "You can read 'socialized medicine' into that (the HEW proposals) real easy," he said. "They started this in 1977, sending out letters to governing bodies and we sent out letters of opposition. They keep trying to bring it up in the face of statewide opposition." Walls said that the guidelines would not result in closing of local hospitals but that stopping Medicare payments could cause decreasing services. He added that the new rules could be so stringent that a small hospital might not be recertified.

Caprock graduates eight nurses' aides

A brief ceremony at Caprock Wednesday, eight Floydada graduates received their nurses aide pins. In the graduating class were Martinez, Blanche Lide, Pat Mary Espinoza, Enequina Espinoza, Anna Sanchez Irias. The women completed 60 hours of instruction and floor work at Caprock to qualify for their pins. Instructor Molly Stringer, a registered nurse at Caprock. The aides learned to give baths, make beds, lift patients and admitting and dismissing patients, as well as cardiopulmonary resuscitation. Mrs. Stringer said. Also instructing the new aides was Jean Appling, also a registered nurse at the hospital. While conducting the ceremony, Mrs. Jean Radloff, director of nursing at Caprock, encouraged the new aides to hold their heads high. The aides, Mrs. Radloff said, now had skills to be proud of, skills that they could use in a job or at home. Hospital administrator Nell McClung congratulated the group, commenting that "a trained employee is a better employee." Hospital district board chairman Doyle Walls also added his congratulations and good wishes to the eight women.

Woman receives minor injuries in collision with trailer

A collision between an automobile and cotton trailers being hauled by a pickup truck Thursday morning resulted in minor injuries to a Floydada woman. Sue Chandler was taken to Caprock Hospital with a cracked ankle and multiple bruises after the car she was driving struck two empty cotton trailers being towed by Steve Newson of Lubbock. The accident took place on Highway 70, about five miles east of Floydada. Mrs. Chandler reportedly was attempting to pass the trailers when the pickup made an unexpected turn. The car was severely damaged and the trailers were knocked into a nearby field by the collision. A Department of Public Safety unit from Crosbyton investigated the accident.

Una Clark is honored with 90th birthday party Thursday

A Floydada family combined Thanksgiving with a birthday celebration this week to honor the elder member of their clan. Mrs. Una Clark was surrounded by four succeeding generations of her descendants at a party Thursday at the Tom Daniel's house here. The family was marking Mrs. Clark's 90th birthday. The oldest child of four, Mrs. Clark was born Nov. 23, 1889 at Lone Elm, Arkansas. In 1895, at the age of six, her parents, Sallie and Joseph Hamm, moved the family to Hunt County, Texas, where they remained for about four years. The Hamms lived in several areas of Texas over the next few years, traveling by covered wagon. In December of 1910, Una married Louis Lovell Clark. The couple moved to Floyd County in 1925. Clark was a farmer. Clark worked as a policeman in Plainview before the Great Depression and took a position as manager of the Texas Hotel there during the bad years. The Clark's relocated to Floydada in 1933 where, seven years later, they went into the wrecking yard business. Mrs. Clark has six grandchildren, 15 great grandchildren and two great-great grandchildren.

Judge Smith officially asks for depot

Floyd County Judge Chose Smith this week drafted a letter to the Q.A. and P. Railroad Co. officially asking that the Floydada depot be turned over to the county. The judge in his letter noted that the building would provide a substantial cultural and economic benefit to the community if the depot could be taken over and used as a library. Judge Smith told Jim Sowell, vice president of the railroad company, that the present library location in the courthouse was not in the best interest of the county. The present site had outgrown its ability to provide reasonable service to the public. The location, the judge said, made it inconvenient for many persons in the county to use the library facilities. Judge Smith requested further instructions on how to proceed in acquiring the depot for the county. Several months ago, Sowell indicated that the railroad would consider turning over the building and grounds to the county for a worthwhile community project. A school district group also considered asking for the depot but withdrew their petition in favor of the library.

RECOGNITION — Kyle Brock and Shele Morris last week received honors for their achievements in the 4-H program.

Two Floyd County 4-Hers are honored at Lubbock

Outstanding youths from 20 South Plains counties were saluted and challenged to continue to achieve and accept leadership at the annual District 2 4-H Gold Star Banquet in Lubbock Monday, November 19.

Forty boys and girls received the highest county award offered in the 4-H Club program—the Gold Star Award—at the banquet at Coronado High School. With it, each youth received the acclaim of parents, fellow 4-H'ers, government officials, Extension leaders and other community leaders.

Honored from Floyd County were Shele Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Morris of Floydada, and Kyle Brock, son of Mr. AND Mrs. Byron Brock of Lockney.

John T. Montford, Lubbock criminal district attorney, challenged the award recipients to continue to accept roles of responsibility as they become adults.

Montford gave the 4-H'ers "four R's" to remember to help them continue to be good leaders. The key words, he said, are retain, resist, respect and responsibility.

He urged them to retain the fundamental values they already have formed. "Your heritage," he said, "stems from what has been the backbone of our nation, the family unit." And he said 4-H is based on the values of the productive, cooperative family.

Resisting peer pressure brings to the forefront the strong leadership ability, the ability to say "no" to a popular thing, but to do the right thing," he noted.

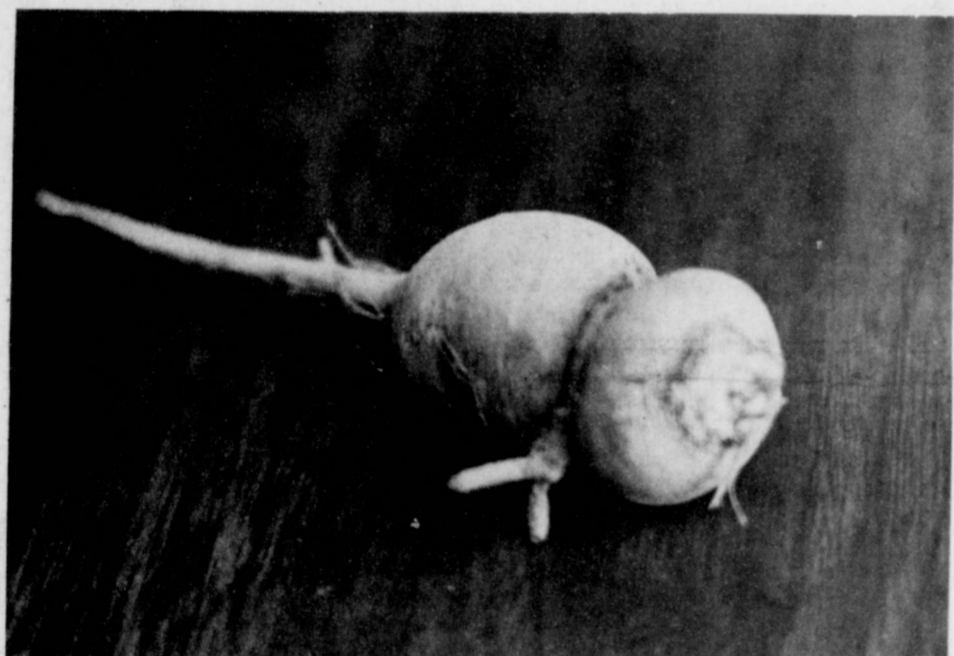

Respect for the foundation of our country is needed, Montford said. "Change the laws as a process," he stressed.

"Accept the responsibility holds for you," he said. "Your leadership, your sufficiency" as a member.

"No organization can equip you to become a leader if this organization is not involved—4-H."

Master of ceremonies Jim Radd of Brown County, Steve Smith of Yates County, Kim Reese of Terry County and the awards presentation.

Hosts for the banquet were member-owned electric serving the counties of District 2. Welcoming on behalf of the cooperative Payne general manager, Electric Cooperative Center of Dawson County, 4-H Council chairman, 4-Hers Suzanne Goble, Neal, both of Cochran County, Zuber, Cochran County, Mims, Hockley County.

Whozit.....

LAST WEEK — Last week's Lockney Whozit subject was Charlotte McCulloch. Nobody called to identify her. Week before last, the Whozit editor missed one — that was Martin and Cynthia Stoerner, not Martin and Kathy....

This week's Floydada Whozit is a farmer who works land east of the city.

LOCKNEY WHOZIT — He was born in Lockney, played football for the Longhorns in the late 40s and early 50s, and graduated from Lockney High School in 1951. She was born in Brownfield but also graduated from LHS in '51 and was a majorette in the LHS band. They're married. The number to call to identify them is 652-4418, Monday through Thursday.

Only David Kirk guessed last week's Floydada Whozit as the 1927 second-grade class at South Ward School. In the lineup, Kirk identified his brother, Truman, and Worth Gwendolyn Shipley.

Facts are clouded, Sheriff isn't talking in stabbing incident

Details remained sketchy late Friday of a stabbing early this week near Lockney.

Floyd County Sheriff Fred Cardinal Wednesday confirmed that his office had investigated a stabbing incident but declined to release any further information.

Unconfirmed reports claim that two persons were injured in the incident. Misdemeanor charges reportedly were filed against a third.

It was learned late Friday that one of the persons in the alleged stabbing was in stable condition in a Lubbock hospital. No information was immediately available on the other person.

Missing harvester recovered here; called 'prank'

The cotton harvester that disappeared from the Brown's Implement Co. lot on Ralls Highway earlier this week was discovered here in Floydada Thursday.

"It was just a prank," commented a Brown's spokesperson Friday morning. No further investigations into the incident are planned.

Friends of Library to meet Tuesday

LCC Associates meet

The L.C.C. Associates met in the home of Jane Archer on November 19. Marilyn Cates was co-hostess. Wynona Allison presented a devotional on "Music."

After a short business meeting, the fun began. The officers displayed their math and science knowledge and musical ability by performing a skit complete with frogs, bugs, logs and a "cool pool." When everyone had recovered from this, they were asked to write down three adjectives to describe the person on their right and their name. These were placed in a hat, and as each one was drawn out, that person was asked to perform a musical talent. Some of the talents were: Row, Row, Row Your Boat; 10 Little Indians; Rock-a-bye Baby; Old Grey Mare; Three Blind Mice; Mary Had a Little Lamb; and Old Joe Clark. Mixed in with these spontaneous talents were things planned by the officers including Dr. Suess, poetry and an operatic concert by Laura Jane Carter and her accompanist on the violin, Jane Ellen Klein.

After all this work everyone needed refreshing. There was a rush to the table and the cheese, crackers, apples, pineapple and cheese sticks, and cookies disappeared, along with the coffee and spiced tea.

Those enjoying this fun evening were: Cheryl Bradley, Madge Huff, Annabel Bramlet, Mavis Reecer, Alma Baxter, Mildred Gamme, Tommie Williams, Mary Glenn Degge, Myrl Wofford, Cindy Ward, Miss Carter, Mrs. Allison, Mrs. Klein, Mrs. Cates, Mrs. Archer, Mrs. Huggins, and guest Janie Archer.

Pat Walker's presents: the Splendor of being Slender

Mrs. Newton Borth drove 270 miles a week to get her slim new figure!

And the results have been worth every mile, Mrs. Borth says: she has lost 47 pounds and 71 inches on Pat Walker's proven program of weight reduction.

The stress of building a new home in combination with normal business tensions caused the overeating that intensified her weight problem, she explains. Suddenly she was miserable, too tired to enjoy dancing or other favorite activities, but now she's feeling great again, with "more energy than I've had in years."

Pat Walker's can work for you, just as it did for Mrs. Borth, even if you have failed repeatedly in previous attempts to lose weight and keep it off. You can achieve your goal pleasantly, safely, privately—and without rigid diets or strenuous exercises.

Call now for your FREE treatment and figure analysis. There's no obligation; just call to reserve time for your complimentary appointment.

Hints For Homeowners

Winterize Attic
For the coming winter, make sure the attic is closed off from the rest of the home by sealing cracks around doors, pulldown stairways and air-duct passages, advises Claudia Kerbel, a consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Shopping Patterns
Employed women are five to six times more likely to shop for clothes in the evening than non-employed women, reports Becky Culp, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Feud Factors
Causes of marital disruption are often multi-problematic involving psychological, social and economic factors, points out a family life education specialist, Diane Welch, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Prevent Bathing Ring
Prevent ring-around-the-bath by adding a few drops of detergent or bubble bath to the bath water, suggests Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Protect Hearing-Aid
Don't expose hearing aids to high temperature — such as a blast from a hair dryer or direct exposure to the sun, cautions Carla Shearer, a health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Heat can damage the aid's amplifier and cause the batteries to deteriorate, the specialist explains.

FARM & RANCH NEWS

Fiscal 1980 U.S. agricultural exports may reach $38 billion

U.S. agricultural exports are expected to increase almost a fifth in value in fiscal 1980, to a record $38 billion. Agricultural imports are expected to rise less rapidly, resulting in an agricultural trade surplus around $20 billion.

Export tonnage is expected to increase about 16 percent. The 18-million-ton gain forecast for grains will account for over four-fifths of the projected growth, but increases are also likely for exports of soybeans, protein meal, and cotton. Total export tonnage is currently forecast to approach 160 million tons in fiscal 1980, up from 137 million last year. This more inclusive tonnage series includes all farm product exports that are recorded by weight. It excludes products reported by liquid measure, such as fruit juices, and by number, such as cattle hides and live animals.

Much uncertainty still surrounds the outlook for agricultural trade in fiscal 1980. U.S. exports may fall in the range of $35 to $40 billion, depending on world supply and demand developments as well as logistical considerations. Exports could total around 135 billion if the slowing in economic activity in major importing countries is more severe than anticipated, if grain and oilseed crops are larger than expected in the Southern Hemisphere, and if an unusually severe winter or other difficulties disrupt part of the U.S. transportation system. On the other hand, exports could move toward the upper end of the range if demand abroad is stronger than anticipated, reflecting a higher rate of economic activity and/or smaller crops in the Southern Hemisphere and India. Still, achieving the upper end of the forecast would require U.S. transportation systems to function at a sustained high-performance level which could be difficult to achieve.

Export unit values for grains, especially wheat, are expected to average significantly higher in fiscal 1980. Lower unit values are anticipated for soybeans, protein meal, and fats and oils.

A major cause of the expected strong growth in exports is the shortfall in the Soviet grain harvest. The 1979 USSR grain crop is now forecast at 175 million tons, down 62 million from last year. Under the U.S.-USSR grain agreement the United States agreed to sell the Soviet Union up to 25 million tons of grain in fiscal 1980. U.S. grain exports to the USSR totaled 15 million tons in fiscal 1979.

Farm Bureau News Summary

PRICE SUPPORT
The U.S. House of Representatives, on November 8, 1979 approved a bill (H.R. 3398) increasing government target prices for 1979 crop of wheat and feed grains by 7 percent. If finally approved by the Senate and signed by the President, the legislation would raise the target price for corn from the existing $2.20 a bushel to $2.35 per bushel. Grain sorghum support prices would be increased, as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture, based on factors and guidelines established by law.

ALCOHOL PRODUCTION
Texas produces 60 percent of all alcohol produced in the United States, but it is referred to as "recapturing" alcohol from petroleum rather than distilling it from petroleum.

FARM LABOR
The Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act of 1963, as amended, was designed by Congress to regulate "crew leaders" and to prevent abuses of migrant workers by them. In Section 3 of the Act, entitled "Definitions as Amended to Date," there are a number of exclusions or exemptions. The term for farm labor contractor does not include any farmer, processor, canner, ginner, package operator, or nurseryman who personally engages in the activity of supplying migrant workers solely for his own operation, or any full-time or regular employee who engages in such activity solely for his employer or on no more than an incidental basis.

Administrators are, in some cases, attempting to convince farmers that they are covered by the law if any of their employees recruit migrant laborers and this is not necessarily so.

UNIONIZATION OF TRUCKERS
Truckers who own and operate their own vehicles cannot be forced to join a union as if they were employees of their contractors, an administrative law judge of the National Labor Relations Board has ruled in a San Diego, California case.

PARITY PRICES
Parity ratio, as computed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and announced in their AGRICULTURAL PRICES of October 31, 1979, is established at 92 based on a 1967 index.

Parity ratio, as established by the U.S. Department of Agriculture under the guidelines of price support legislation, was reported on October 15 at 68 using 1910-14 as a base. The October 15, 1979 adjusted parity ratio, (includes government payments) was reported at 69. Parity ratio computed on the 1910-14 base a year ago was 71 percent and adjusted parity ratio was 73 percent.

FEDERALLY GUARANTEED LOANS
The U.S. NEWS AND WORLD report of November 19, 1979 reported that the federal government will be liable for $343.8 billion in loan guarantees as of next September 1980 ($1,562.75 per capita - based on 220 million population). This will more than double the 1972 level. The prediction is that approximately $72 billion in new loan guarantees is likely to be issued this year alone.

The article listed the ten largest government-guaranteed loan programs as follows (estimated amounts outstanding on September 30, 1980) Federal Housing Administration (housing loans), $11.2 billion; Veterans Administration (housing loans), $99.5 billion; Federal Financing Bank (loans guaranteed for numerous federal agencies), $56.8 billion; Farmers Home Administration (farm loans), $41.3 billion; subsidize low-rent public housing, $19.5 billion; Rural-Electrification Loan, $12.6 billion; loans to small businesses, $11.6 billion; student loans $8.9 billion; ship building loans, $6.6 billion, loans to foreign governments to buy U.S. arms, $6.4 billion.

AGRICULTURAL EXPORTS
Agricultural exports reached a record high of $32.0 billion during the fiscal year ending on September 30, 1979, as reported by U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The Secretary's reports indicate that for the year ending on September 30, 1979, agricultural exports were up $4.7 billion or 17 percent from the fiscal year ending on September 30, 1978. There were substantial gains in export vol-

Cotton Today

DUST STAY URGED: The National Cotton Council has asked the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to continue the stay, in effect since October, 1978, of the cotton dust standard. NCC gave the following grounds: (a) likelihood that every sector of the cotton industry would suffer irreparable harm if the stay were lifted, (b) strong showing that petitioners are likely to prevail on merits, and (c) extreme improbability that continuation would substantially harm other parties or the public interest.

EXPORTS CONTINUE CLIMB: New sales of 267,800 running bales of upland cotton during the week ended November 4 pushed the season's total to 6,264,100. The principal buyer was China, 165,100 bales. Taiwan purchased 19,400 bales. Eastern European countries bought 20,000 bales, and Greece, 16,600. The week's exports totaled 125,900 bales, and moved the season's shipments to 1,354,300.

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

"Strong and vigorous opposition is expanding rapidly to the unreasonable and punitive interpretation and enforcement of the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act (FLCRA)...by the U.S. Department of Labor's Wage-Hour agents."

This is a quote from Don Smith, Executive Vice President of the Texas Independent Ginners Association (TIGA) which has been among the leaders in seeking relief from unrealistic application of the law by the Department.

In the TIGA newsletter "The Gin Whistle" Smith goes on to say the wholesale indignation of the industry and a large number of legislators may be having some beneficial effect. "Although no official action has been announced to change a deplorable situation," he says, "it is now understood that Wage-Hour agents in their future inspections of cotton gins will be looking for violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act rather than issuing the hotly contested notices of FLCRA violations."

FLCRA was enacted by Congress to require registration of farm labor contractors, or crewleaders, and thus curb unscrupulous exploitation of migrant farm workers.

Primarily the law makes it illegal for anyone to recruit or transport workers for a fee unless they are registered under the Act, and establishes a penalty for any employer who uses an unregistered crewleader. And, it is the only law on the books that prohibits the hiring of undocumented aliens.

The Department of Labor came under fire for the way it was enforcing the Act following its interpretation of the law to define virtually all farm workers as "migrant" workers and almost all farmers, ginners and other agricultural employers as "farm labor contractors." Under those interpretations both farmers and ginners on the High Plains have been either cited for FLCRA violations or threatened by attorneys for Texas Rural Legal Aid, Inc. (TRLA). In at least one instance an attorney for TRLA has called on a producer to pay penalties far in excess of what would appear to be justified by the provisions of FLCRA. TRLA accused the same producer, notes Ed Dean, Field Service Director of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, of violating the minimum wage law after the Labor Department's Wage-Hour Division already had checked his records and found no fault.

Earlier this year the Department of Labor's unwarranted actions under FLCRA were discussed with some 60 legislators and their staff at a "Congressional Awareness" breakfast sponsored in Washington by the National Council of Agricultural Employers (NCAE). Dean, a director and member of the NCAE executive committee, goes on to say that PCG and NCAE have continued to take an active part in the effort to modify the Department's actions.

TIGA attorneys and cooperative gins' attorneys also have been in constant contact with Labor Department officials and legislators in the same effort, as has the Washington staff of the National Cotton Council, the Texas Cotton Ginners Association and others.

Cattle Feeding Off Beef Supplies Down

Grain production is down in several other regions, including India, Eastern Europe, and Western Europe. Outside the United States, the 1979/80 grain crop is forecast at 86 million tons (7 percent) below the 1978/79 record. In addition, transportation constraints in likely to increase about 6 percent in value. The share of U.S. agricultural exports to the developed countries will drop below a half, down from an average 58 percent in 1970-78.

Increase Forecast for Agricultural Imports

U. S. agricultural imports are expected to reach $17 to $18 billion in fiscal 1980. Coffee import volume may decline about 4 percent, but prices are rising. Import volume of cocoa beans some constraints in some competing grain exporting and meal supplies are low, and U.S. exports will remain strong through the winter. Economic growth is expected to continue in 1980 in our major markets, although inflation and unemployment will remain high. Livestock production abroad is expected to increase 1 to 2 percent.

U.S. agricultural exports to the centrally planned countries are expected to increase $4.7 billion to over $7 billion in fiscal 1980. Exports to the develop-and products is expected to increase about 5 percent while the unit value declines. Expanded volumes and higher import unit values are expected for most other non-competitive import items.

Meat import volume is expected to increase slightly, and unit values will likely average higher. Sugar imports are expected to increase substantially in both value and volume.

Are Bollworms Eating Your Profits?

Call Palmer.

Palmer can help stop him from eating up your profits. When is the best time to treat your cotton for bollworm? Which chemical should you use and how often should it be applied? For the answers call Palmer and Associates, Independent Entomologist, they can assure you maximum return for each dollar spent, by: FIRST—Regularly scheduled field monitoring procedures by trained entomologist will establish the most economical point to initiate control measures. SECOND—Since Palmer is not connected with any chemical sale organization, they independently analyze each chemical on the market and choose the ones best suited for each job. THIRD—Routine monitoring throughout the season assures good control. For example: This year through careful monitoring, 42% of the acres under Palmer control was judged not to need treatment at all. Average cost per acre treated and untreated was only $7.15. This resulted in an average net return on treated fields of $18.79 per acre. Don't let bollworms damage your cotton again next year.
