

icy weather this week socks in Floyd County area

...ILITY LIMITED... Visibility week as ice blanketed Floydada. This picture was taken from atop the Producers Co-op elevator Tuesday afternoon.

A cloud of ice hovered over Floyd County the first half of this week, disrupting essential services and bringing travel into and out of the county almost to a halt.

The rural areas of the county were hardest hit by the three-day accumulation of ice, with some communities doing without electric power since Tuesday morning.

Floydada residents experienced several shorter power losses. Power department crews restored service twice in the city after outages Tuesday and once Wednesday morning. All three incidents lasted about 30 minutes each.

Lighthouse Electric reported that the McAdoo and Providence communities suffered major power losses Tuesday, with a large number of lines down.

The situation worsened Wednesday when the transmission lines to the substations stopped working, causing even more outages. The damage became so widespread that the power cooperative had to call in outside crews to help restore power. The crews worked round-the-clock shifts, with an estimated 500 poles downed by Wednesday morning "and still counting."

Southwestern Public Service experienced problems in the Barwise and Irick communities. The service company lost power to those two areas first Tuesday morning but got the lights back on by that afternoon. At about 9 p.m. that night, the power went off again and was still out on Wednesday morning.

Distribution lines to Barwise and Irick were down, as were the transmission lines to those areas' substations.

SPS also reported some lines down east of Floydada, according to manager Oscar Hernandez.

In Floydada the ice caused other problems. Slick streets made automobile traffic especially dangerous and many ice-laden tree branches fell as their weight increased, posing a potential hazard to houses and automobiles, as well as the occasional pedestrian.

Caprock Hospital lost its electric power less than 10 minutes after Dr. Seung Hong completed surgery Tuesday.

The backup generator, which should have cut in automatically, failed to function. Hospital maintenance personnel theorized that a frozen control caused the failure.

Some parents of students in Floydada schools expressed concerns that the classes should be postponed, because buses and cars would have to negotiate the icy roads, but school authorities decided to hold classes as scheduled.

District superintendent Jerry Cannon put the decision not to cancel classes to "a lot of variables."

"Our first concern is for the safety of the students, of course," Cannon said Wednesday morning, "but we'll have to make up any days missed in the class schedule. We could have turned out any of the first three days, but we may have to close again if there's a big snowstorm in February. Then we'll have to make that up too, and it could stretch all the way into summer."

The superintendent said he personally studied the weather each morning and determined whether to hold class.

Even with the ice on the streets, Cannon said, buses had experienced no problems.

Some other Floydada motorists, however, did encounter some difficulties.

While there were no major accidents reported in the city, Floydada police took calls on three weather-related mishaps within two hours Tuesday afternoon.

Shortly before 3 p.m. Tuesday, one car went into a skid on Second Street, about 100 feet south of Texas Street, before going off the road.

An hour later, a driver skidded and went over a curb in the 300 block of Houston Street, west of South Third. The operator said he swerved to avoid another car that failed to yield the right-of-way.

At 4:20 p.m., a car slipped over the curb and stopped in the yard of a private residence at 328 W. Mississippi St.

None of the three incidents resulted in injuries to drivers or passengers, the police said.

Roger Dawdy announces for precinct one commissioner

Roger Dawdy this week became the candidate to file for the precinct one commissioner's position.

Dawdy, 37, is a farmer in the Sandhill community. He has been farming in Floyd County for 15 years, since 1964. He lived in the county for the past 15 years. He currently resides in Floydada with his wife, Claudia, and two daughters, Kristy, 9, and Kristy, 7. Both girls attend A.B. Duncan Elementary.

Dawdy was born and raised in Idalou. He graduated from Idalou High School and attended Texas Tech University for one and one-half years, studying agriculture economics.

The candidate has been a member of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce for three years and is presently serving on the agricultural crops committee.

He served on the board of directors of the Floydada Co-op Gin and Producer's Co-op, a two-year term on the Governor's Committee on Agriculture in Texas under Dolph Briscoe and served on the ASC community committee this past year.

Seeking the commissioner's seat will be Dawdy's first attempt at elective office.

The Dawdy family attends the City Park Church of Christ.

Heart Ball is Feb. 9

The annual Heart Ball will be held Feb. 9 at the Massie Activity Center in Floydada.

The festivities will start at 8 p.m. and last until midnight. Music will be provided by "The Sundowners."

Tickets to the Heart Ball will be sold for $20 for each couple. Ticket information may be obtained by contacting Lynn Marler at 983-3990 or Lana Moore at 983-2006. Tickets will also be sold at the door the night of the ball.

Proceeds will be donated to the American Heart Association.

Lighthouse has dry ice and generators

The Lighthouse Electric Co-op Wednesday afternoon announced that it had dry ice for freezers and portable electric generators available for its customers who needed assistance because of the cold weather.

Persons who wish to obtain the dry ice or a generator should contact the Lighthouse office at 201 W. California St. in Floydada or telephone 983-2814.

Russian embargo may do some good in Floydada

Some Floydadans may benefit from a U.S. Department of Agriculture plan to remove price-depressing supplies of poultry from domestic markets.

The plan calls for government donation of chickens to hospitals, nursing homes and other institutions.

The USDA announced the plan after contracts for poultry exports to the Soviet Union could not be fulfilled because of the president's suspension of trade with that country on Jan. 4.

The federal action has two parts. First, the USDA will invite bids for whole frozen chickens at least equivalent to that amount which has already been packaged for sale to the USSR. A public law allows the government to buy perishable commodities for use in food assistance programs if the producers cannot sell their wares at a reasonable price.

The government believes that such action would prevent catastrophic losses by producers while not providing a federal guarantee of profits for exporters.

Second, the USDA will purchase more poultry for the national school lunch program to help absorb the extra supply which may have been generated to fill the Soviet contract.

Floydada Independent School District superintendent Jerry Cannon said that he had not heard of the program but that there was a good chance that the Floydada schools would get some of the surplus chickens.

The superintendent said that he was not surprised he had not heard from the USDA about the poultry.

"They probably won't contact us to ask if we want the chickens," Cannon said. "We will probably go to Lubbock to pick up our commodities and they'll (the chickens) be there."

Cannon said that if the system does receive some of the poultry, the food would be distributed evenly among the schools.

Paul Westbrook, of the Floydada

Nursing Home, was not optimistic that his facility would share in the surplus.

"I think the only ones who will get any are the non-profit organizations," he said. "If we got free chickens our poultry suppliers would fight it. The schools will probably be the only ones around here who get it."

Nell McClung, at Caprock Hospital, said she also had not heard of the USDA plan or whether the hospital would be eligible.

"I would have to see what went with the deal," Mrs. McClung commented, "but if they donated chickens with no strings attached, it sure would help."

First Baptist Church to conduct religious census here

First Baptist Church of Floydada will conduct a city and rural religious census on the afternoon of Sunday, February 3, according to Dr. Floyd C. Bradley, pastor.

Approximately 100 volunteer workers will spread out over the community in an attempt to contact every resident and determine their religious affiliation. Canvassers will seek the names of each family in Floydada, their address, and the religious affiliation of each family member.

"It has been about four years since we conducted the last census, and there are numerous families that have moved into our community about whom we have no information concerning their church preference or religious affiliations," said Dr. Bradley. "This census will help us identify these individuals and, in turn, give us an opportunity to involve them in the religious and church activities of Floydada."

be provided to any of the other churches upon request," he said.

Several churches of other denominations will be assisting with the census by distributing the census cards to their members who attend morning worship services this Sunday. Each family will be asked to complete the information requested on the card, and then to place the card on their front door or mailbox when they go home from church. Canvassers will pick up the cards Sunday afternoon.

SPS will seek rate increase for outside Floydada limits

Southwestern Public Service Company this week announced that it would seek an increase in retail power rates to its customers in Floyd County outside the Floydada city limits.

investment, the people will stop letting us use their money and our ability to deliver electricity to our customers will be limited."

"We must build coal-fired plants instead of the conventional gas plants because of cost, supply and government regulation," Ballengee continued. "Coal-fired plants cost almost twice as much but the electricity (from the gas plants) will still cost less than continuing to burn higher-priced natural gas."

Dr. Bradley said that the census will also benefit other churches in Floydada. "Those census cards which identify families with religious affiliations or church preferences other than First Baptist Church will be provided to the appropriate churches in Floydada. Names and addresses of those who express no preference or affiliation will Persons living in rural areas will be contacted by one of their neighbors who is a member of First Baptist Church.

"We appreciate the cooperation and assistance of the other churches in Floydada, and we expect the same good cooperation from the citizens of the community that we received in the previous census," concluded Dr. Bradley.

The electric power company said it would ask for a 14.78 percent hike in the utility rates. Formal filing with all regulatory bodies is pending.

The 14.78 percent increase is an average for all types and classes of customers, the company said. The increase will vary from one rate class to another. For example, the average monthly residential bill, based on 500 units of electric power each month, would increase $5.43 each month.

The increase in rates would not affect the rates charged to wholesale power customers who buy electricity for resale.

The power company executive said that, based on existing rates being charged to all Texas retail customers, SPS projected revenues for 1979 would be $42,657,065 less than the cost of providing service.

The last base rate increase in Southwestern's retail service rates was based on 1977 costs and went into effect in October, 1978. The increase at that time amounted to seven percent, a figure the company said was well below their needs.

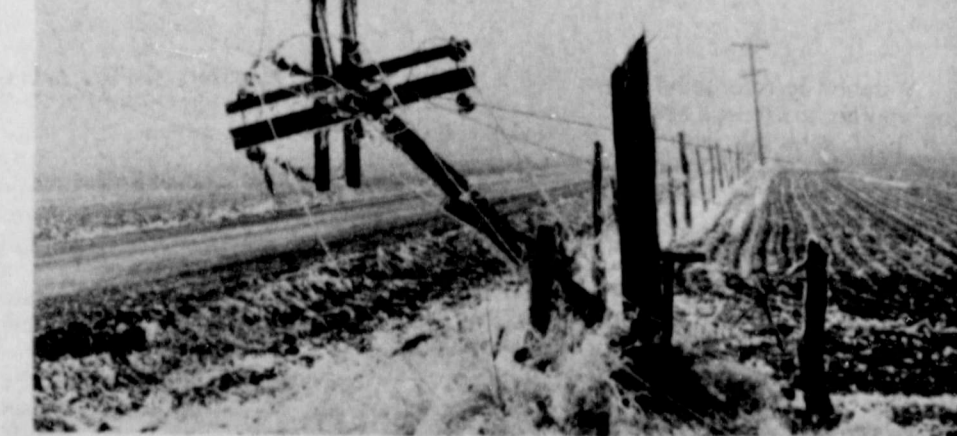

The rate increase would not apply to SPS customers inside the Floydada city limits because Southwestern rates in Floydada are regulated by the city council. The city rates are already higher than the projected SPS increase for its rural customers in the county.

City power users, for example, pay $8.25 a month for their first 20 kilowatt hours of electricity, while SPS customers outside the city pay $4.50 a month for their first 30 kilowatt hours at the current rate.

According to Bert Ballengee, executive vice president of SPS, the company needs the rate increase to offset inflation, the high cost of loans for expansion and the high cost of switching from gas-fired power plants to coal-fired plants.

"As our costs for making and delivering electricity continue to go up, the price must also go up," Ballengee said.

"When we borrow money at high interest rates or sell stock, people are letting us use their savings to build new power plants and lines and to build new equipment," he said. "If we do not give them a reasonable return on their

HOW ABOUT THOSE CANADIANS? Pulled a con-job on the Iranian terrorists for three months by hiding six Americans in the Canadian embassy. Then ushered our people right out of the country under the noses of Iranian customs inspectors when the Canadian embassy shut down. Too smooth.

When the chips are down, you learn, sometimes belatedly, who your real friends are. Thank you, Canada.

THE BIG THING IN EVERYONE'S MIND around here is the ice storm. I've never seen anything like it. Not a drop of real precipitation but still an inch of ice built up on everything.

It's like being in the middle of a frozen cloud, which I guess is what it actually is.

Found a good reason for growing a beard, though. I went out photographing the ice the other day (on foot, no less) and built up a quarter-inch of ice to block the wind. Not exactly toastywarm, but it did keep the wind off. INFLATION CREEPS IN EVERYWHERE. The soft-drink machine back in Blanco Printing went to a quarter this week. Now a five-cent drink costs 25 cents.

I bought a piece of chewing gum from a machine the other day and the gum was hollow. Is nothing sacred?

I HOPE THESE TAX APPRAISERS have better luck than my grandfather did in a similar profession.

According to a family story, Papa Harold Smith took a part-time job as a federal revenue agent in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia during the early days of the Great Depression.

The job didn't last long, though. Seems that someone he knew for years took a shot at Papa Harold one fine afternoon.

There's a "revenoer's" badge rusting in the leaf mold on an unnamed Virginia mountain.

Floyd Philosopher says gold buyers should now have a better knowledge of farming

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on White River discusses gold and hogs the week we believe.

Dear editor: People who've been buying gold should now have a much better understanding of farming.

In one day last week the price of gold dropped $143 an ounce, or $2288 a pound. Gold-buyers, especially those who have just paid over $700 an ounce for the stuff before it dropped, were panic-stricken, acting, as the phrase goes, like a chicken with its head cut off.

So what? It happens all the time in farming. You never know from one day to the next what the market's going to do. The price of hogs or cattle or grain or whatever may drop today, go up a little tomorrow, slide the day after. What recover, all within three days. What it'll be six months from now is a wild guess, with the buyers somehow always out-guessing the producers.

Now I don't know what causes the fluctuations in the price of gold, or the fluctuations in the products, but I can see that fluctuation infarm prices reflected in the supermarket.

It's because the middleman, too busy checking the market, is charging the same old price. But let hog prices go up, and the price of bacon goes up. I don't know why the price of meat is so high. As for the gold-buyers, they're the ones who are throwing it away. The court don't believe the price of gold is going to increase enough to justify such a stable investment. You can't buy a hog for a dollar and sell it for a dollar in one day.

Shawn Feuerbacher receives degree from Angelo State

A Floydada student at Angelo State University was among 182 students who completed degree requirements at the conclusion of the fall semester.

Shawn David Feuerbacher, son of Floydada city manager Bill Feuerbacher and his wife Norma, received a bachelor

Attorney General

AUSTIN--So you've picked out a brand new mobile home and are eagerly awaiting its delivery. If your home was specially ordered, you should know that the dealer cannot legally require a downpayment of more than three percent of the selling price.

If you are financing your home through a bank or finance company, that institution will determine the amount of down payment. You should not make that downpayment until credit has been approved, although you may pay a small amount to the dealer to "hold" a home parked on the lot.

Before the home is delivered, you should carefully choose the site. As noted last week, a mobile home placed on a concrete foundation is more likely to remain in good condition and will provide a better environment. You should select a site not subject to flooding or subsidence and decide exactly where you want the home on that site. (Every time you move the home, you risk damaging it.)

While you are waiting for your home, it's a good idea to make out a check list. Include on the list everything you consider important, all items specially ordered, and the following:

- 1) Check the plumbing for defects.
- 2) Look at the frame of the home; compare its appearance on the lot with its appearance on your site to make sure it hasn't been damaged during the moving process.

3) Check all the joints to see whether light filters from one room into another. (This is a sign of poor construction. You can make this survey with a flashlight.)

4) Make sure all screws in siding and storm windows are tight.

5) If the electricity is on, check to see that it works properly. For example, make sure the living room light switch turns on only the living room lights.

6) Be sure the orifices on the stove and furnace are the proper ones for the type of fuel you intend to use.

7) Make sure you receive all the necessary papers, including the warranty, installation manual and various tax and title papers. Keep a copy of your contract and any other documents you signed in connection with the purchase.

8) Check the home's "data plate," which will indicate the name and address of the manufacturer and the areas of the country for which the home was designed.

All of these items should be checked BEFORE you accept the home. If any important item is unsatisfactory, you should insist that it be repaired (or in some cases that the home be replaced) before you accept the home.

If you have a problem with a mobile home, you may write to our Labor Division at P.O. Box 12548, Austin, Texas 78711.

Conservation board to canvass results from election Feb. 4

The Board of Directors will canvass election results from January 19 balloting and administer the oath of office to one brand new Board member and two re-elected members at their regular meeting on February 4 at the district offices at 2930 Avenue Q in Lubbock.

Malvin Jarboe accepted his third term on the board serving Precinct 5 from Floydada. Mack Hicks of Leveland will serve his first board term representing Precinct 2. James Mitchell, current Board President, was re-elected from Wolforth to represent district director's Precinct 1. The board will also select Officers for 1980.

The water district adopted a method of cost accounting by Program last year, and Board members will review a summary of that system for 1979.

In other business the board will consider fee adjustments to Water District County Secretaries and to County Assessors who collect taxes for the District. They will also routinely consider approving applications for water well permits.

Cattlemen are divided on whether to support 'Beef referendum'

A statewide referendum next month on whether to assess a specified amount on beef sales to promote the beef industry has caused widespread dissonance among Texas cattlemen.

The members of the Independent Cattlemen's Association of Texas this past summer voted overwhelmingly to oppose the proposition.

ICA opposition is based primarily on these points:

1. The Beef referendum would allow the U.S. Department of Agriculture as a bureau to grow larger, more unwieldy and unresponsive to ranchers' needs.

2. If the program is implemented, the Agriculture Secretary would be able to appoint members to the Beef Board from eligible organizations. The industry, even though it's paying for the Beef Board, cannot elect anyone, and eligibility of organizations is determined by the Agriculture Secretary.

3. Consumers would be on the board in addition to cattlemen. Even though they are to be in advisory positions in the beginning, the government could pass a law at a later date making them voting members.

4. If the Beef referendum passes, the Secretary has the power under Sections 14 and 18 to seize and confiscate records and take ranchers to court if they do not follow the value added procedure properly.

5. The Beef Board must turn in a budget to the Secretary for his approval and must justify amounts spent for advertising, research, sales promotion and consumer information.

6. No funds collected by the Beef Board can be used to influence government policy or action.

7. Foreign meat cannot be assessed because foreign producers will not be represented on the Beef Board. Since imported meat makes up a large percentage of the beef consumed in the United States, American ranchers would actually be advertising foreign beef at their expense.

Roy Wheeler, ICA president, said that cattle producers who vote in favor of the Beef referendum are inviting the government into their private business.

An administrator with the USDA admitted at a hearing Oct. 16, 1979, before the subcommittee on Dairy and Poultry of the Committee on Agriculture in Washington, that producers who enter a promotion program of their products, enter into a partnership with the government that brought with it certain restrictions.

Some cattle raisers, however, felt that the Beef referendum would give the stockmen an additional power base. "Beef referendum is a national movement by cattlemen, seeking to help themselves," said O.J. Barron, a Spur rancher and co-chairman of the Beef referendum. "It's a cattlemen's program all the way -- initiated by cattlemen, to be financed by Cattlemen and run by cattlemen -- all aimed at helping cattlemen."

"We are disappointed," he said, opposing the self-help program by cattlemen. They either are misinformed and maliciously attempting to mislead

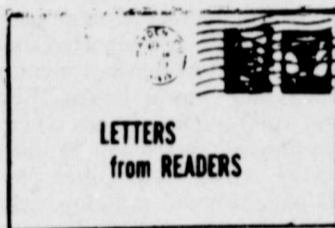

The Secretary of Agriculture will have only an oversight role, he added, to assure that producer funds are used to improve beef markets in accordance with the law. Refunds will be made promptly -- within 60 days after a valid request is made. Barron said, no extra records will be required, no fines will be levied unless there is fraud or other violation of the law.

The funds raised, estimated at $10 million per year, says Barron, will be used to fight anti-beef propaganda, promote the nutritional value of beef, combat beef substitutes, and open foreign markets... and

To vote, cattlemen must appear at their ASCS office before the Absentee voting will be available to person who owned cattle entitled to vote.

For the referendum to pass, a simple majority is required. A simple majority is 50 percent of those registered to vote. A simple majority is 50 percent of those registered to vote.

Dear Editor: Speaking of SALUTE'S -- on behalf of the Floyd County Friends of the Library I would like to salute the Women's Division, Chamber of Commerce for their excellent production of Vaudeville Country. This involved a lot of hard work and time and I would especially like to thank Nancy Willson, president; committee chairmen Doris McLain, Vicki Rainer and Betty Holmes; also each person that helped in any way.

The program certainly provided an entertaining evening for a large crowd. The M.C., acts and musicians were very good.

The needs of the Floyd County Library were well presented in some excellent script. I feel the whole community was made more aware of the library and, indeed, became a part of the project to relocate and make our library a better facility for everyone.

Sincerely,
Janice Lloyd
President, Friends of the
Floyd County Library

Dear Editor: Congratulations to the Women's Chamber for fostering a sense of community spirit with the presentation of Vaudeville Country.

The opportunity for young and old to perform for their neighbors worked a time when communities worked together to make a better community. In the last few years public apathy, a "let George do it attitude," and a dependence on the Federal Government made me wonder about the future of communities like Floydada.

I am encouraged to see how well the community is getting behind the drive for a better library facility. I overheard several say they hoped someone would do it again, referring to the Vaudeville Country show.

A special thank you to the Women's Chamber group and each performer.

Beth Pratt

Supreme As A Side Dish

Vegetable dishes are fine examples of what can do for food. It would be hard to find a vegetable wasn't enhanced by its addition, whether served as a course or as an entree accompaniment. Take beautiful carrots fresh from the garden and team them with packaged enriched pre-cooked rice for a flavorful handsome blend. Carrot Rice Supreme takes very little to prepare and is a welcome part of a light summer meal.

Carrot Rice Supreme

1-1/2 cups sliced raw carrots 1 cup packaged pre-cooked rice
1/3 cup orange juice 1/2 teaspoon orange rind
1/3 cup raisins (optional) 1/2 cup orange rind

Cook carrots in saucepan with water to cover about 10 minutes. Drain, reserving 3/4 cup liquid. Measure liquid, orange juice and raisins in saucepan to a boil. Stir in rice and orange rind. Remove cover and let stand 5 minutes. Stir in carrots. Serves 4 cups or 4 servings.

Miss Greene, Ford exchange vows in McAllen

MRS. RICHARD KIRBY FORD

Miss Robin Elizabeth Greene and Richard Kirby Ford exchanged wedding vows Saturday, January 5 in the First Free Will Baptist Church in McAllen. Reverend Larry Powell officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dunham G. Greene of McAllen; and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Ford of Lockney.

The church was decorated with a large arrangement of white spidermums, blue carnations and white gladioli flanked by candelabras. Music was provided by George Launer.

The bride wore a gown of satin with chiffon overlay fashioned in an empire silhouette. The bodice was lavishly adorned with lace daisies and featured a scoop neckline and bishop sleeves accented with lace appliques. The skirt fell softly to a flounce and widened in back to a chapel train. She wore a Juliet lace cap from which fell a waltz length veil of English illusion. Her bouquet was a cascade with a white orchid surrounded by white silk roses.

For "something old," the bride wore a sixpence in her shoe. "Something new" was her dress; "something borrowed," a pearl necklace belonging to her mother; and she wore a blue garter.

Maid of honor was Miss Lori P. Evans of Agua Dulce; and Miss Denise G. Crawford served as bridesmaid. They wore dresses of Romance blue silk organza over taffeta, with a ruffle falling from the side-wrap skirt and continuing to the ruffle at the hemline. They carried white roses with baby's breath and streamers.

Richard W. Hrbacek of Lockney was best man. Groomsman was Evan Micheal Ford, brother of the groom of Lockney; and Mike Chandler and Randy Ford were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a pleated chiffon plum colored dress with a cowl neckline and a white cymbidium orchid corsage. The groom's mother wore a white cymbidium orchid corsage and a floor-length rust colored dress.

Reception

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Mrs. Laura L. Slacum presided at the guest book; and Miss Melissa A. Greene and Miss Karen Ford handed out roses filled with rice.

The table was skirted in white with blue trim. A large arrangement of white and blue flowers surrounded by candelabras also adorned the table. A three-tiered fountain wedding cake was decorated with blue roses and topped with a canopy of satin blossoms and leaves encircling a pair of fluttering white doves perched upon two wedding bands.

Following a wedding trip to Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the couple are at home in Bryan. The bride is a graduate of McAllen High School and a senior at Texas A&M. The groom is a graduate of Lockney High School, and is a agricultural education major at Texas A&M. He is employed by the Southland Corporation.

Special guests at the wedding were grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Webb of Daytona Beach, Florida; Mr. and Mrs. R.H. Ford of Lockney; and Mr. Kirby Ford, also of Lockney. Pre-nuptial Courtiesies A miscellaneous shower was given by Misses Lori Evens, Denise Crawford, and Julie Stone. The women of the First Free Will Baptist Church also hosted a miscellaneous shower. A rehearsal dinner was held at the Caravey Inn, and was hosted by the family of the groom.

Old age can be beautiful

Old age — it's something all of us are going to face at some time. And although few of us expect it to be the highlight of our lives, when you consider the alternatives, old age isn't such a bad thing — or is it?

More and more today, society tends to shuttle its elderly off to nursing homes — whether they really need the medical care or not. There, out of sight and out of mind, the elderly, who could contribute so much to the rest of their days in usefulness and fertility.

But there are alternatives, according to Norma Whiteley, social worker for the Texas Department of Human Resources in Floydada. Ms. Whiteley explained that TDHR is attempting to expand its services to the elderly by providing alternatives to nursing home care.

"With a little help, many elderly people who would otherwise have to go to nursing homes, can remain in their own homes or their own communities," she said. Help may be in the form of assistance with such personal care as bathing, exercising and taking medication, or household tasks such as cooking, cleaning, laundry, shopping, minor home repairs and yard work.

"One alternative that we're trying to make available in the Floydada area," Ms. Whiteley said, "is foster care." The foster care program provides 24-hour care in a family home approved and supervised by TDHR. It is for older people who are in pretty good health, but just need some assistance with day-to-day activities, or just don't have a home.

The foster homes are carefully studied and then licensed once it is established that they meet Departmental qualifications, she explained. The cost of the care is shared by the individual and the Department of Human Resources.

The benefits of foster family care and family care while the foster fits from the life experience of elderly persons.

"In those cases where the client does not fit into the foster care program, we share with the foster care provider the costs of the care. This is explained in the fact that there are always people who have homes. We just people in the sounds like the anti-nursing home not the case," said Ms. Whiteley. "We help as many possible delay nursing home really need reasons. Nursing continue to many elderly people."

Anyone who discuss making foster home Whiteley in 983-2280. Old age can be beautiful.

TANNED NUT WITH A SMILE NOW GROWS IN CALIFORNIA

Pistachio connoisseurs have reason to celebrate. California pistachio growers have just harvested their first major crop — over 12 million pounds, and it's only a beginning for the infant industry. Within a decade, California is expected to be the world leader in pistachio production, according to the California Pistachio Association, a non-profit organization of growers.

Pistachios traditionally have been grown in the Middle East, particularly Iran and Turkey. Unrest in Iran has virtually cut off the supply of nuts imported from that country, but California's crop will be able to fill much of the expected shortage in the United States.

The domestic pistachio industry really began in the early 1970's when California farmers planted about 31,000 acres of trees. Since the tree takes about five years to produce nuts and gradually increases its yield until it reaches maturity in 20 to 40 years, this crop is the first of many that will fill nut bowls throughout the world.

Pistachios are one of the most ancient of mankind's snacks, dating back almost 4,000 years. The oval nut with the rich, green meat is as common to many persons around the world as the potato chip is to Americans. It is the only nut pre-cracked, or smiling, not so its ease in eating makes it a natural as a snack.

Pistachios also are found in gourmet cooking world wide. The distinctive bright green nut is found in pastries (baklava), cakes, pates, pesto, sausage, breads, meat dishes, and other foods. Actually, pistachios can be used in any recipe calling for nuts, and will lend a delicately different flavor.

EYE ON TV

Although television was invented back in the 1920s and now reaches almost every home, the National Society to Prevent Blindness says there's more we should know about watching it than just turning the dial.

For one thing, despite what some believe, you cannot "wear out" healthy eyes watching television.

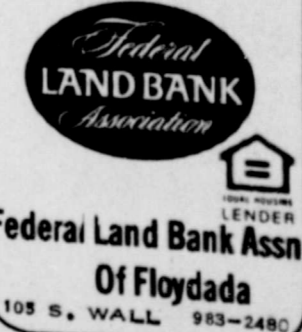

But, to avoid TV fatigue, be sure that the picture is in clear focus, there is correct lighting in the room, you are sitting the right distance from the screen and the set is positioned correctly. Give your eyes periodic rests when you are watching a lot.

If you suffer discomfort after watching TV, and the set and setting are correct, you may have an eye problem that needs professional attention.

Eyes and answers

Dr. A. Pettay, O.D. other symptom he deems necessary to investigate. Before referring the patient, however, we make a thorough eye and vision examination to be certain there is no cause of the symptoms arising from the vision functions. There are so many elements in the human body that can cause glare problems, we are most cautious in declaring a cause. Sometimes, dark lenses may bring comfort but actually be harmful by covering up the cause of the problem. That could be compared to the use of a pain reliever for headache without looking into the cause of the headache; such care could be dangerous.

Predator control spurs debate

Compound 1080, a highly toxic but effective control substance which has been banned by the EPA. The new policy also eliminated the practice of denning or killing coyote pups. He also noted that federal policy will focus on specific areas of the country where livestock losses due to predators have been substantial.

Andrus said no other immediate changes in animal control techniques will take place. These include the use of animal damage control specialists, trap, M-44 devices, and aerial hunting.

Losses nationwide to predators vary greatly. Around 48 percent of lambs and 11/2 percent of ewes are believed to be killed annually by predators. The figure is considerably higher in some areas and lower in others.

In Texas, predators were responsible for 58 percent of sheep and lamb losses of 1978 compared to 25 percent in 1967. Goat and kid deaths from predators amounted to 72 percent compared to 45 percent in 1967. Coyotes were the largest single cause, killing 24 percent of all sheep and goats.

Financial losses amount to $13 million in the Texas sheep and goat industry, excluding allowances for wool and mohair, with losses by all Texas livestock producers estimated at $21 million annually.

Is it not strange... that such an exuberance of enterprise should cause some individuals to mistake change for progress, and the invasion of the rights of others for national prowess and glory.

"I still find bargains. One of them is electricity."

"I know it's higher than it used to be but so is everything else I buy. The folks who generate our electricity are paying a lot more for everything too, including the fuel used to produce power. But when I consider all the things I do with electricity from my electric cooperative, and when I compare the cost, I get a lot for my money. And, in my book, that's a bargain."

New director named

Mabry Peel has been named Director of Sales and Marketing for Growers Seed Association, effective January 27, 1980.

The announcement was made by George B. Babcock, executive vice-president and general manager of the Lubbock-based company. According to Babcock, Peel will be coordinating marketing activities for Growers Seed while supervising sales and advertising.

Peel brings more than 20 years of experience in sales and advertising to Growers Seed, having worked with two other major seed companies in Lubbock since 1960.

Peel attended New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell, New Mexico where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in 1952. He served as an Army officer during the Korean War.

Peel, 48, is currently a member of the Lubbock Advertising Federation and the Lubbock Agriculture Club, and has served both organizations as its president. He also holds membership in several civic organizations in Lubbock.

Plan ahead for bountiful future

Planting a fruit or nut tree with a hopeful eye on its potential beauty, economy, and production carries with it all the cares and responsibilities of any agricultural undertaking: Careful forethought before planting as well as wise attention afterwards are needed to ensure a healthy and bountiful future.

CHOOSE WISELY—The first consideration, of course, is the local climate; no matter how much you may like citrus fruit, if your house is located in the Panhandle, you'll need to pick another, type of tree suited to growing conditions there.

Commercial nurseries are the best sources for young trees. Not only does their annual inspection by the Texas Department of Agriculture help to ensure healthy stock; they are also staffed by professionals who can give sound advice tailored to your locale. Take into consideration the amount of care required for different types of trees in making your decision. Pears for instance, require less care than many other fruits and nuts, while those apple varieties which have been adapted for Texas need a great deal of special care to produce.

Remember, also that while some bear fruit through self-pollination or without pollination (including almost all citrus trees, quinces, apricots, figs, peaches, and European-type plums), most fruit trees need to be pollinated in order to bear. Included among those requiring either a male and female of one variety or two different varieties in order to produce are apples, pears and Japanese and American plums.

Perhaps the most popular food tree in Texas, able to grow in almost every part of the state, is the pecan, and numerous varieties are available from which to choose. Peaches are another very popular Texas fruit tree, with the freestone varieties planted for fresh fruit and the clingstones for canning. Plum varieties need to be carefully selected for each growing area while the most common pear variety in the state is the Bartlett.

PLANT CAREFULLY—Young trees must be dormant when planted. Fall and winter are traditional planting times for most of Texas but trees can also be planted in the early spring if kept dormant until that time. Keep the roots moist and cool and, if the roots do become dry, soak before planting.

The location is of paramount importance for the future growth and production of the tree; fruit and nut trees need full sunlight for best production (avoiding the shade of building and other trees), and also require adequate space for the development of their root systems. The old saw that "it is better to put a $5 tree in a $30 hole than a $30 tree in a $5 hole," holds very true for fruit and nut varieties. Before planting, it may be necessary to build up deficiencies in the soil; consult your nurseryman or county agent for advice on the soil in your neighborhood. Good aeration of the soil is also essential for root development and if the subsoil is heavy, it may be necessary to mix it with peat moss soaked in water.

Dig the hole somewhat deeper and larger than needed to encompass the root system. Trim off any broken or injured roots before placing into the hole. The soil should then be packed firmly around and soaked to a depth of five inches, adding extra soil if settling occurs. Soil around the tree base, covering an area extending at least three to four feet from the trunk, should be cultivated with the use of herbicides or by mulching with straw or other vegetable matter. Cultivation is necessary to keep the area free of weeds and sod and to control other vegetation which would compete with the young tree.

WATCH CLOSELY—As with most young growing things, the care received by your tree in its first year of life is crucial in determining its future longevity, hardiness, and productive capabilities. Judicious fertilizing shortly after planting, and especially in the early spring, is a must; equally important is an ample soil moisture with adequate drainage so that the tree won't become waterlogged.

Varieties vary in their susceptibility or immunity to insects and diseases and your nurseryman is a good source for information about needed pesticides. It is important to remember, though, that insecticides should not be applied during the spring blossom period because they may interfere with the activity of bees and other insects essential to the pollination process. Some of the worst damage to young trees can be caused by pests, squirrels, and people birds, and precautions must be taken to protect your investment in the future.

For additional information about planting and caring for fruit and nut trees, as well as a host of other gardening tips, write for a free copy of "Tips for Texans on Lawn and Garden Care," available from the Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

Public comment sought on 1980 cotton program

The public may submit through Feb. 19 recommendations concerning the loan level and payment rate for the 1980 crop of extra long staple cotton.

The total price support level for this cotton is based on the parity price and may be set between 55 percent and 90 percent of parity, according to Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

The extra long staple cotton loan level must be set between 185 and 235 percent of the 1980 national average loan level of 48 cents per pound for strict low middling 1-1/16 inch upland cotton, adjusted to average micronaire, Fitzgerald explained. If the loan level is established at less than the total support level, the difference is paid to extra long staple cotton producers as support payments, he said.

Prior to making 1980 extra long staple cotton program determinations, the secretary of agriculture will consider any written recommendation received by Feb. 19 by the director, production adjustment division, USDA-ASCS, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Water district approves grant

The Board of Directors of the High Plains Underground Water District have approved the acceptance of a 20 thousand dollar matching energy conservation grant from the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council (TENRAC) to evaluate the efficiency of irrigation wells on the Southern High Plains of Texas.

The grant comes from the U.S. Department of Energy through TENRAC to the District. The District in turn expects to conduct irrigation efficiency tests on at least 60 randomly selected wells in their 15-county service area this spring and summer. Preliminary calculations indicate that hundreds of thousands of dollars in savings could be achieved by High Plains irrigators by making improvements in the efficiency of their pumping plants.

The district has several objectives in accepting the energy conservation grant. The first is to convey to the irrigator the importance of considering pump plant efficiencies as a potential area for energy and cost savings. Secondly, the project will demonstrate those potential savings and develop a simple procedure for evaluations irrigation well pump plant efficiencies.

The district personnel realize that this project can only scratch the surface of the job to be done, and will work to establish a training base of experienced resource people who can continue this spearhead effort. The grant calls for developing a procedural manual to train the staff of the District and its cooperators in how to conduct these efficiency tests and to make proper interpretations of the test data.

There are more than seventy thousand wells on the Southern High Plains. This grant can only represent a good start. But the Water District Board feels that it is a service they can provide, and it offers tremendous potential for energy and cash savings to producers who are continually impacted by the escalating energy crunch. Those estimated savings from improvements on many wells have a potential payback time of often less than one year and can mean a slash of ten to fifty percent on the annual fuel bill.

Chambers memorial gift aids pediatric orthopaedics

A family gift in memory of Dorothy Underwood Chambers will help expand pediatric orthopaedic services at Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center.

This gift will allow purchase of special equipment which will enable the orthopaedic staff to provide care for children who formerly had to go to Dallas, Houston and Galveston for management of skeletal, joint and muscular disorders.

According to William W. Robertson, M.D., the pediatric orthopaedic surgeon at Texas Tech, the gift will allow the staff at the medical school to treat such conditions as spinal curvatures, leg length differences, and difficult hip problems in children.

The surgical equipment will be installed in the orthopaedic surgery suite of the Health Sciences Hospital in Lubbock. A plaque commemorating the memorial will be permanently displayed in the Orthopaedic Surgery Department at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center.

WTSU presents service award

For the fifth year, West Texas State University will honor the needs and recipients of the Texas Panhandle Area Distinguished Service Award on Saturday, April 19, in the WTSU Dining Hall.

The WTSU Office of Programs for Women has letters to individuals in groups in the top 32 of the Texas Panhandle requesting nominations. The deadline for submitting nominations is Friday, March 7, 1980.

Nominees must be one of the following: an individual in the Panhandle and South Texas counties and must be at least 8 years old. Nominees must have been with WTSU for at least 4 years.

During the past four years, women have been distinguished themselves in a variety of areas. Emphasis for 1980 is on women in the fields of education, medicine, business, civic service and technical areas. Women in each field will be honored.

Ruth Cross will serve as chairperson of the luncheon. She retired in 1969 after 23 years with WTSU. At the age of 69, she was a professor of physical education and dean of women.

Five or six residents of the Panhandle area will be invited to review each nomination application and to select the recipients of the Distinguished Service Award.

Byrd, deceased, their heirs and legal representatives; of the heirs of Mary M. Byrd, deceased, their heirs and legal representatives; and the unknown heirs and legal representatives of each unknown heir and legal representative; GREETING:

You are hereby commanded to appear by filing a written answer to the plaintiff's petition at or before 10 o'clock A.M. of the first Monday after the expiration of 42 days from the date of issuance of this Citation, the same being Monday the 25th day of February, A.D. 1980, at or before 10 o'clock A.M., before the Honorable 110th District Court of Floyd County, at the Court House in Floydada, Texas. Said plaintiff's petition was filed on the 10th day of January, 1980.

The file number of said suit being No. 6496.

The names of the parties in said suit are: Lena Faye Alford as the Independent Executrix of the Estate of Leila B. Wofford, deceased, Winston G. Wofford, Mattie Bell Dosier, Mary E. Waggoner, Lena Faye Alford, Claudell Norman, Danny Davis, and Donna Carol Davis Gladman, as Plaintiffs, and the persons first named, described and designated in this Writ, and to whom this Writ is directed, as Defendants.

The nature of such suit being substantially as follows, to-wit: Suit in trespass to try title, for the title and possession of the following described real property situated in the town of Lockney, in Floyd County, Texas, as shown by Plat of such town of record in Volume 6-F, Page 591, Deed Records of Floyd County, Texas:

The South Sixty Feet (5.60') of Lots Numbers Fourteen (14), Fifteen (15), and Sixteen (16), all in Block Number Seven (7), in the Original Town of Lockney, in Floyd County, Texas.

Plaintiffs specially pleading the three, five, ten and twenty-five year statutes of limitation as to all of such real property, and praying Judgment for title and possession thereof.

If this citation is not served within 90 days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

Issued this 10th day of January, A.D. 1980.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Floydada, Texas, this 10th day of January, A.D. 1980.

(Seal) Mary L. McPherson Clerk
District Court, Floyd County, Texas. T2-7c
