Chamber Banquet Nears

Floydada Chamber of Commerce Banquet is scheduled for March 3, 7 p.m. at the Duncan Elementary Cafetorium. Serving will begin at 6:45 p.m. Prime rib dinner is on the menu.

Melvin Lloyd, 1979 Chamber president will emcee the event.

The program includes introduction of new directors for the chamber of commerce and also for the womens division of the chamber.

The employer of the year award will be presented.

The Floydada Chamber of Commerce's choice for speaker of the annual spring banquet is the reigning Miss Texas, Lex Ann Haughey of Houston.

A junior business administration student at North Texas State University, Miss Haughey had been an outstanding scholar and award-winning musician throughout her high school and college years. In 1977 she was chosen as the top flutist in the nation. She was named Miss Sam Houston State University in 1978.

She lists as her hobbies jazz dancing, reading, cooking, and poetry. Her favorite sports are tennis, swimming, jogging and water skiing.

The 21-year-old Miss Texas and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Curry of Houston, enjoy activities which they can share. They belong to the Trail Motorcycle Club in Houston and have raced motorcycles together.

Boating has been another of their family activities. Lex Ann helped her dad build an air boat they named the "Grasshopper."

Lance Barrow, chamber manager, tells us there are plenty of tickets still available.

competition. The book has also been selected to compete in the national competition, the results of which will be announced in May.

The regional award was presented January 31 at the Halloran House in New York City.

Norbert Slepian accepted the award for Haugland who was unable to attend.

Haugland, an NASA Aviation Space Technical Editor for twelve years, was awarded the National Aviation Writers Award in Washington, D.C. in 1977.

Vernon Parker, a local photographer, has been associated with Haugland for the past four years and does most of the photo copy work for his books.

Haugland and Parker were two of the three Eagles to fly the British Concord round trip London to Bayrain in 1976.

Parker who has been concerned over the availability and distribution of the book, received word that after a slow start in getting books into the stores, "we can now report that orders are being filled and that books are beginning to appear in the empty spots around the country," Slepian said. He also reported that the book has been offered by the Military Book Club, and that it will soon be offered by the Flying Book Club, and that it will soon be offered by the Flying Book Club as a main selection.

The British edition of the book is entitled, "The Royal Eagles," a title given them by the British Air Ministry at their 1976 London reunion. This edition will be released by David and Charles Publishers. Word has been received that the British edition is almost all pre-sold.

A French edition will be available in France in two months.

Locally, "The Eagle Squadrons" may be checked-out from the Floyd County Library, the Methodist and Baptist Libraries and from the High School Library.

Jobs Still Available For Census Takers

Full-time, temporary jobs as census takers in this area are still available. Mitzi Jordan, Manager of the local 1980 census office, said today.

"We're counting on you if you can work a 40-hour week visiting households and interviewing the residents," the manager said, adding that some evening and Saturday work will be required.

Census takers will begin work soon as part of the 1980 Census of Population and Housing. They will attend a training session for which they will be paid. Most census takers will be paid a piece rate for the number of household interviews completed. In a few instances, pay will be by the hour. For all workers, pay will average $4 an hour or more.

Census takers must be able to follow printed instructions, do simple arithmetic, and read maps for which they will be tested before hiring. They should be able to walk a considerable amount, climb stairs, and ought to have good eyesight and hearing. They should have a home telephone and many will need a car, for which mileage will be paid when it is used in census work.

The Census Bureau is an equal opportunity employer. Inquiries may be made at your local State Employment Office.

April 26, 1980: Account covering period from April 3, to April 26, 1980.

Better Business Bureau Alert

South Plains consumers should be on the look out for mail solicitations and phone call solicitations from the Las Vegas, Nevada based International Travel & Tours.

This company does not meet Better Business Bureau standards due to advertising practices used by the company. The company has contacted hundreds of consumers stating that they, the consumer, have won a vacation to Las Vegas. This is not accurate since the consumer has to pay a service charge that may exceed the amount paid for the same services secured through a local travel agency. Also, the company is asking through their phone solicitations for credit card numbers of consumers. The Better Business Bureau has received several complaints and inquiries concerning bills they have received for unordered vacation packets.

Vegas International's most recent written promotional material mailed to South Plains residents states, "V.I.P. is registered...and has an excellent reputation with the Better Business Bureau." This is an absolutely false statement, according to The Better Business Bureau, 1015, 15th Street, Box 1178, Lubbock, Texas. The Las Vegas Bureau reports that they are having great difficulty with the company.

Listeners are encouraged to contact the BBB/South Plains for further information on its toll-free number 1-800-692-4466 and for Lubbock and Slaton consumers, the number is 763-0459.

The children of Orvil W. and Myra Mabel Harris request your help in compiling a book which recalls memories from their 60 years of marriage. (Sept. 19, 1980).

We ask that you write memories or events that you shared with them to us

1979 Hunting Season Safest Since 1965

The 1979 hunting season was the safest for Texas hunters since 1965, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Fifty recorded hunting accidents were reported through the Uniform Hunter Casualty Reports filed by game wardens.

Of these accidents, nine were fatal. Shotguns lead the list of firearms involved in the accidents, with rifles a close second.

Eighty persons were involved in the accidents; 26 were 16 years of age or younger.

Sixteen of the accidents were classified as "hunter judgment" caused. In other words, the victims either moved into the line of fire, were hit when another shooter swung on game, were hit while out of sight of the shooter or were mistaken for game.

Among shooters hunting game animals and birds, deer hunting accounted for 12 accidents, quail and dove hunting accounted for eight accidents each.

MRS. RICK HAYTER

Miss Arleen Barnes of Lockney and Rick Hayter of Lockhart were united in marriage last Saturday evening in the Lockney First Baptist Church. Willie Strickland of Waco Hillcrest Baptist Church, a brother-in-law of the bride, performed the 6:30 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton E. Barnes of Lockney. Hayter is the son of Mrs. Freddie Hayter of Plano.

Mrs. Anne-Marie Ham, a friend of the bride from Quitaque, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Mrs. Cindy Strickland of Waco, and a friend of the bride, Mrs. Carylon Vaughan of Lubbock.

Wayne Bryant of Plainview was best man. Wayne Bryant of Plainview and Bob Hayter, a cousin of the groom from Fort Stockton, served as groomsmen.

The bride's attendants wore long peach-colored dresses made of crepe satin with scoop necklines and ruffles around the neck. They carried nosegays of white daisies and peach-colored miniature carnations, softened with gypsophila and accented with brown straw flowers.

The vows were recited in an altar area featuring two spiral candelabras decorated with greenery and apricot satin bows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of ivory Qiana knit accented with Venice lace. The gown, fashioned in an A-line with a long chapel train, featured a Victorian neckline. Accordion pleats edged with lace formed a deep V-ruffle on the bodice, outlining a sheer panel beneath the high collar applique with lace and pearls. Long fitted sleeves were highlighted by a pleated ruffle trimmed in lace at the wrist. The fingertip veil of silk illusion was outlined in Venice lace and fastened to a Juliet cap covered with lace and pearls.

For the traditional something old, the bride carried an antique crocheted lace handkerchief. Something new was a pair of pearl earrings, a gift from the bride's parents. Something borrowed was the ivory Bible she carried, and something blue was her blue lace garter.

The bride's bouquet was a potpourri of pastel and white sweetpeas, fashioned into a nosegay. The lace holder accented the bride's gown with a trimmed with peach-colored miniature carnations.

Music — "The Wedding Song" and "America's Song" — was presented by C.L. Record, piano.

Mrs. Brenda Mangrum, organist.

Attendants at the reception, held following the wedding in the church fellowship hall, were Kathy DeJuana Wilcher, Barrett, Diane Wilcher, Tony Bybee, Beverly more and Vickie-Kim.

The bride chose a piece lavender patterned the wedding trip to River, N.M. The couple reside in Lockhart.

FACES

Of Grief...

The Face of Grief

We spend a good portion of our lives working diligently to acquire those things that make life rich and meaningful — friends, a wife or husband, children, a home, a job, material comforts, money (let's face it), and security. What happens to us when we lose any of these persons or things which are so important to us?

The ten stages of grief described or listed here must be understood to be the normal process through which most people must go as they face up to their loss. Not every person goes through all these stages, nor does a person necessarily go through them in order. Sometimes it is impossible to differentiate clearly between each of these stages.

STAGE 1 — We are in a state of shock — a kind of buffer time. Sometimes lasts a few minutes, a few hours, or a few days. If it goes on for some weeks, probably it is unhealthy grief and professional help should be sought.

STAGE 2 — We express emotion — emotional release comes at about the time it begins to dawn upon us how dreadful this loss is. Some times without warning there wells up within us an uncontrollable urge to express our grief. And this is exactly what we ought to do: allow ourselves to express the emotions we actually feel.

STAGE 3 — We feel depressed and very lonely — eventually there comes a feeling of utter depression and isolation. It is as if God is no longer in His heaven, as if God does not care. It is during these days we are sure that no one else has ever grieved as we are grieving.

It is true, no one has ever grieved exactly as we are grieving, because no two people face even the same kind of loss in the same way. But the awful experience of being utterly depressed and isolated is a universal phenomenon. When we find ourselves in the depths of despair, as some readers may be even at this moment, we should remind ourselves that this is to be expected following any significant loss, and that such depression is normal and a part of good healthy grief.

STAGE 4 — We may experience physical symptoms of distress — many people become ill because of some unresolved grief situation. Some of these people who have physical symptoms of distress have stopped at one of the stages in the ten stage grief process. Unless someone can help them to work through the emotional problems involved in the stage in which they seem to be fixed, they will remain ill.

STAGE 5 — We may become panicky — persons sometimes become panicky because they think of nothing but the loss. We try so hard to get our minds off the subject, and perhaps for a moment or two we can be distracted from our worries, but soon we are right back again where we started. Naturally, this hinders our effectiveness in anything we are trying to do. We find that our work shows we are not producing the work of which we are capable. We get to worrying about our mental health. When people ask us questions, we have to ask them to repeat so often that they wonder what is wrong with us. We simply cannot concentrate.

To help ourselves through such a period when we can think of nothing but our loss, we must be open to new and different human relationships.

STAGE 6 — We feel a sense of guilt about the loss — we should make the distinction between "normal" guilt and neurotic guilt. Generally speaking, normal guilt is the guilt we feel when we have done something or neglected to do something for which we ought, by the standards of our society, to feel guilty. Neurotic guilt is feeling guilty all out of proportion to our own real involvement in this particular problem.

Unresolved guilt and misunderstood emotions of this type can make us miserable for years, or they might come out in a variety of physical symptoms of distress. It is important for us to face both our normal guilt and our neurotic guilt. We must not be afraid or embarrassed to talk about our feelings of guilt with those who have been trained to help us when the going gets rough.

STAGE 7 — We are filled with hostility and resentment — gradually we move up out of the depression, and in so doing we may be more able to express some of the strong feelings of hostility and resentment of which we may not even have been aware.

When we say hostility and resentment are a part of "good grief," we probably would qualify this to some extent. We do not wish to leave the impression that a person in grief ought to be encouraged to be hostile or resentful. What we are saying is that these feelings are normal for every human, and that even the most devout person can very well feel hostile and resentful, even though he tires very hard to sublimate these feelings. It would be most harmful to him, if he could not admit to himself, to God, and to his friends that he, being human, needs to confess his hostility and resentfulness and find strength to rise above it.

STAGE 8 — We are unable to return to usual activities — but though we may be quite well along in our grief work and trying to re-enter life again, for some unexplainable reason we are unable to return to our usual activities. Something holds us back. Why is this? I am sure there are many reasons, but among them is the fact that our American way of life makes it so difficult for us to grieve about any loss in the presence of other people. We are forced to carry all the grief within ourselves.

This is part of the task of friends — to help keep the memory of loved ones alive, to show concern for one another, and particularly when someone has suffered a great loss. Most people who are grieving are very considerate of others. They do not wish to force their troubles on other people. The quality of our personal interest in these people can demonstrate that we do want to share their burdens with them.

STAGE 9 — Gradually hope comes through — now and then we get a little glimpse of hope in one experience or another. This cloud which had been so dark begins to break up, and rays of light come through. We may be in deep grief anywhere from a few weeks to many months.

Rabbi Joshua Liebman in his book, "Peace of Mind,"

"Special tax benefits for Senior Citizens?... I should have come here last year!"

has an excellent chapter on "Grief's Slow Wisdom" which speaks most effectively to this temptation not to return to usual activities again. Says Liebman, "The melody that the loved one played upon the piano of your life will never be played quite that way again, but we must not close the keyboard and allow the instrument to gather dust. We must seek out other artists of the spirit, new friends who gradually will help us to find the road to life again, who will walk that road with us."

STAGE 10 — We struggle to affirm reality — we finally begin to affirm reality. Please note that we do not say that the final stage is, "We become our old selves again." When we go through any significant grief experience we come out of it as different people. Depending upon the way we respond to this event we are either stronger people than we were before or weaker — either healthier in spirit or sicker.

As we begin to struggle to affirm reality we find that we need not be afraid of the real world. We can live in it again. We can even love it again. For a time we thought there was nothing about life that we could affirm. Now the dark clouds are beginning to break up and occasionally for brief moments rays of the sun come through.

YOU CAN SAVE

Family savings pose a challenge, but it can be done.

During the last decade the average household managed to save about six percent of their disposable income, but during 1979, the level dropped. Many families are not saving at all.

There are tactics that lead to savings success, however, for families who want to save in safe, liquid, regulated ways. Some families have made saving a habit. They pay themselves first — a portion of every paycheck goes into savings regardless of other expenses.

Other families need different tactics to force themselves to save. "Coin play" is one. Coin savers set aside a jar or piggy bank or special drawer. Selected coins — quarter, dime — are diverted into the jars. Some people empty their pockets at the end of every day and put all change into a jar. Family members may race to see who can fill a jar the fastest.

Sometimes labeling a jar, such as "Summer Vacation Money" or "Color TV Fund" helps the whole family join in the project.

Here's another idea: change a debit to a credit — or a debt to a savings. With this method, when a debt is finished, use the now-free money for saving instead of spending. For example, when the refrigerator is paid off, save the amount that had gone for its monthly payment.

"Crash Saving" is another tactic. Pick a time period during which nothing is spent that isn't absolutely necessary. Be sure to set limits to the time — say two months — and mark it off on a calendar. During this time, cut out movies, "eating out," babysitters, sales, beer, cigarettes — and feel like a hero for the time involved. You can learn about yourself during this time, and probably you'll save a great deal. One advantage to this plan is that you may like the new lifestyle and make savings a permanent habit.

Finally, there's the kick-habit savings idea. Save all the money you spend for coffee breaks or cigarettes or desserts or telephone calls, for example.

In general, remember, it is possible to save — even in inflationary times — if saving is your goal.

Since Strenuous Exercise Was Forbidden For Dorothy Hotchkiss; Pat Walker's Proved To Be The Answer!

Read a lifelong Floydada resident's statement about the "fringe benefits" received at Pat Walker's while reducing Walker's while reducing

Mrs. Hotchkiss writes:

It is a real privilege to have an opportunity to recommend the Pat Walker Program to others.

I was so pleased when a Pat Walker Salon located in our area. Close family members were enrolled in other cities and I had studied their health and beauty improvements with utmost interest.

Due to eye surgeries in both eyes in 1975; I was sure desperate for a safe, passive exercise program. Strenuous exercise was forbidden; walking was hazardous with poor vision.

My improvements in general health, figure correction and added vigor have been even beyond the great expectations; especially with the improved vision. It is theorized that the improved circulation method promoted "self healing" of the eye tissue.

P.S. I am pleased over losing the unwanted inches, too!!!

South Plains News

South Plains, February 25

This Monday was a beautiful day with a low temperature of 29 degrees, with no high winds and dust which plagued our community last week for three days. Most farmers are in the fields putting down Treflan, listing, plowing, and getting the land prepared for spring planting which is not too far away. The snow storm and winds of the weekend of February 16 left snow, ice and high drifts, but with Monday's warmer weather the snow and ice melted.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cox of Lockney visited Sunday afternoon with his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nichols. The Nichols received word from Irving that her brother-in-law, Tom Davis, had died January 20. There were graveside services for him at the Irving cemetery. He was formerly of Lockney, and had been ill for several years, and very bad for three months. Due to such a bad ice storm here at the time of his passing, Mr. and Mrs. Nichols were not able to attend.

We offer our sympathy to Mrs. J.M. Williams of Floydada in the death of her husband, James Millard Williams, whose services were held in the First Baptist Church of Floydada on Monday afternoon, February 19, at 2:30 p.m. He had died the Saturday, before after an illness of some time. Mr. Williams was a teacher here at South Plains for many years, and was known and loved by everyone. Two of his former pupils, Dale West of Pampa and Bruce Julian of Perryton, were among the pallbearers.

Bentson Seeks Relief For Customers

Washington, D.C. — Senator Lloyd Bentson on Friday testified in favor of an amendment which would protect Texas consumers by guarding against unjustified increases in the costs of shipping coal by rail.

Bentson, in testimony submitted to the Senate Subcommittee on Surface Transportation, lent his strong support to the proposed Long amendment to the Rail Regulation bill. The amendment would require railroads to justify any rate increase by standards to be set by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Bentson is a co-sponsor.

Bentson said he believes the steps are necessary to protect areas of captive customers and to ensure that they're treated fairly.

"Take the case of San Antonio, a city that began in 1977 to generate electricity by burning coal. This step was taken with the national interest at heart, with the consumers' interest in mind.

But it didn't work out that way. Three years ago the ICC established a coal shipping rate of $10.93 per ton of San Antonio. Today it is $19.25 per ton, an increase of 75 percent over three years, an increase averaging 25 percent a year!"

As provided in the amendment, the ICC must weigh the rail carriers' legitimate revenue needs against the legitimate needs of the captive customers. The ICC would also evaluate the impact of such an increase on national energy policy, including coal conversion policies.

Unfair shipping rates have imposed an "outrageous burden on hard-pressed consumers," Bentson stressed.
"We found that because of skyrocketing coal shipping rates at least one Texas city has found it more advantageous to bring coal into the United States from Poland and South Africa, than to ship it by rail from Colorado and Wyoming."

Bentson said that high coal transportation costs have stood as a roadblock to national interest at a time when the United States is so dangerously dependent on foreign energy sources.

"I believe that the analysis mandated by the Long amendment is long overdue...it would ensure that competitive traffic would pay its fair share before additional costs are placed on the captive consumer. It would ensure that our national energy needs are fully considered in setting coal shipping rates, and that we stop pursuing policies that fly in the face of our national energy needs," Senator Bentson said.

Floydada Care Center Happenings

First off, I would like to mention a few names I forgot in last week's paper who were a big part in making our jamboree a success—Linda Crader, Martha Leatherman and Mrs. L.H. Blum.

We would also like to thank Shirley Varner and Sandra Noland for being a volunteer each week.

We've had lots of good devotions this week. Also our devotions have attended each program.

Mrs. Victoria Asher had lunch Tuesday with her son Bill of Killeen, Texas.

Sadness came to our home this week, with the death of Mrs. Ida Womack. Mrs. Womack had been ill for several months. She will be missed by everyone.

Mrs. Jessie Freeman presented a forty dollar donation to the Caprock Hospital Auxiliary treasurer, Mrs. Emma Lou Whitaker, to help in purchasing a heart monitor. Money was made in voting for Valentine sweetheart and bean.

Mr. Leon Marble is in Caprock Hospital. We send him our prayers for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Mamie Gray is much better and is able to come out for devotions.

Our sponsors for the Rock and Roll jamboree are as follows: Arwine Drug, Williams Ins., Baker Ins., Bishop-Ramsey Pharmacy, Sam Spence Ins., Hales Dept., Thompson Pharmacy, Parker Studio, Whites Auto, Kirk and Son's, Dardin Machine Shop, Norrell Tractor and Equipment, City Auto, Builders Mart, Stewart's Cleaners, Randy Hollums, Quality Body Shop, Melba

Wiese Compares Equipment Efficiency

A spring-tooth harrow or field cultivator is a better implement than a tandem disk to incorporate preplant herbicides for cotton on sandy soil. In two years of study, Dr. A.F. Wiese, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station researcher, showed that incorporating preplant herbicides with a spring-tooth harrow decreased the hazard of erosion, gave equivalent weed control and equal or better yield of cotton than incorporating with a tandem disk. Wiese conducted the research on the Duane Scott farm near Wellington, Texas on fine sandy loam soil.

Using preplant herbicides that must be incorporated is a standard operation in cotton production in the Southern Great Plains. Incorporating with a tandem disk gives good weed control but leaves the soil subject to severe wind and water erosion. Field cultivators do not destroy as many soil clods or cover as much crop residue as disks. Using cultivators to incorporate preplant herbicides would reduce the hazard or erosion. With this information at hand, Wiese conducted a two-year study to compare weed control and cotton yield when preplant herbicides were incorporated with the two implements.

Five different incorporation methods and no incorporation were tested on ten different preplant herbicide treatments. Incorporations were tandem disk once, tandem disk twice, field cultivate once, field cultivate twice and tandem disk followed by one field cultivation. Herbicides used at one or more rates were Treflan, Planavin, Tolban, Amex, Basalin and Cobex. Herbicides were applied and incorporated in late April to land that was bedded in May. Cotton was planted in early June. Weed control and cotton vigor were evaluated about one month after planting. Plots were then cultivated and hoed.

According to Wiese, stand and vigor of small cotton were not affected by incorporation method. The first year, type of incorporation did not affect control except when herbicides were not incorporated. Control of carpetweed and pigweed with Treflan was reduced the most when incorporation was not used. Weed control a month after planting was the same for all herbicides when rates were appropriate for the sandy loam soil. Weed control at harvest was best with two incorporations with either implement. Apparent-

John Tower Co-Sponsor Of Legislation

U.S. Sen. John Tower (R-Texas) has become co-sponsor of legislation to help senior citizens cope with inflation and add productive workers to the economy.

The bill would phase out income ceilings for Social Security recipients between 65 and 72 years old. That would mean people in that age group could continue to work if they wished to without losing Social Security benefits, Tower explained.

"This bill would not cost the Social Security system any more than it now is paying out, but it would give people who are still able to work, and who want to do so, the means to improve their standard of living," the senior senator from Texas said.

"The current restrictions toward private initiative. We're penalizing people who must try to live on Social Security benefits in a time of double-digit inflation. And we are penalizing ourselves by depriving our economy of a vast pool of wisdom and productive labor," Tower added.

"Employers all over the country are frustrated because workers must quit after only part of a year to keep from jeopardizing Social Security benefits," he noted.

The phase-out bill would reduce the age at which a worker could earn an unlimited amount of money—without losing benefits—from 72 to 70 in 1980, and then lower the age by one year each through 1984.

"We must end the practice of putting valuable contributors to our economy and our society as a whole out to pasture, just because they've celebrated their 65th birthday," Tower said.

The proposed legislation, S.2208, is sponsored by Sen. Paul Laxalt (R-Nev.). Tower joined him as co-sponsor of the bill on Feb. 6.

Disease Resistance In Crops

Disease resistance in crops costs nothing more than exercising concern when buying seed. And this can pay big dividends at harvest time.

All major seed companies have a vast array of hybrids that produce top yields and have resistance to many major diseases. The producer still has the responsibility, however, to determine just which diseases represent a threat on his farm. For instance, if downy mildew is a potential problem, the grower needs to express that concern to his seedsman.

In some crops, hybrids or varieties are advertised as being disease-resistant. This actually is a non-specific term and means little. No hybrid is resistant to all diseases, and unless specific diseases are mentioned, one has no way of knowing which diseases might be involved. In some cases, such as head smut and downy mildew, new races have developed, and a producer needs to be concerned about which race of the disease-causing organism is involved.

Seed companies that take a professional approach go to great lengths to see that growers are sold hybrids that will perform well under their specific conditions. These companies are concerned that growers select hybrids with resistance to diseases that occur in the area. For example, if their hybrids are severely affected, their reputation becomes tarnished, and future sales are in jeopardy.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "Burn down your cities and leave our farms and your cities will spring up again as if by magic; but destroy our farms and grass will grow in the streets of every city in this country."

That quote by William Jennings Bryan has been something of a motto for the American Agriculture Movement (AAM) and certainly it contains a great deal of wisdom.

It also reflects the sense of desperation that a large number of farmers, primarily from Texas and other grain-producing states, have felt during the past few years. That sense of desperation, frustration and alienation held the beginnings of the Movement during late summer of 1977. During the most recent visit of AAM farmers to Washington this month, many of the feelings are unchanged, even though there have been some price improvements since they began.

There is no question that our farm economy, particularly the grain industry, has been a topsy-turvy roller coaster that has taken it to the heights of prosperity during the early 70's, only to drop to the bottom by 1977. Net farm income in 1979 was up $5 billion above the previous year's level, but that $33 billion-plus figure doesn't tell the full story. In terms of "real dollars," or income after inflation, the increase was only $1 billion or about 7 percent and USDA estimates for 1980 net farm income are even gloomier. USDA is predicting a U.S. total in the mid $20 billion range, a drop of some $13 billion.

At this point, many might question the effectiveness of AAM during their brief history and wonder if the continuing trips to Washington have been worth the time, expense and effort.

There is no way that anyone can say AAM has failed in their objectives. Members of AAM have made great strides since their beginnings in 1977 and have learned, the hard way, how to become politically effective. They have learned a lot about how to "sell" agriculture, not just as a commodity, but as a political viewpoint and vital concern not only for rural areas, but for the nation as a whole.

The problems faced by our farmers are ones that should be shared with the rest of the population, for as a "food problem" it effects all of us. There is no doubt that these problems are real, especially when one compares returns on equity in agriculture and other industries in this country. In 1977, that return was 3.5 percent; 1978 it rose to 4.6 percent

Wind Machine Installed At Plainview

For ages the wind has swept across the Plains of West Texas, generating little but dust storms, bent trees and precious little water. Indeed, settlers on the High Plains claimed that West Texas "was the country where the wind makes the water and the cows make the wood." But today, technology and the high costs of energy have prompted a group of West Texans to look toward the seemingly perpetual wind as a source of energy previously untapped and allowed to go to waste.

New Dawn Energy Concepts, Inc. is a new company dealing in alternative energy devices such as solar panels and wind generators. Today, New Dawn Energy Concepts announced the installation of the largest known wind energy conversion system to be erected within the municipal city limits of any city in America. Located on the corner of 11th and Austin, within two blocks of downtown Plainview, Texas, the Wind Energy Conversion System (W.E.C.S.) owned by New Dawn Energy Concepts looms 80 feet above the city streets. Its three bladed rotor spans a 38 foot diameter arc as the blades spin on their strut supported axis. This windmill is very different from the familiar farm windmill used to pump water for cows. The new design, called a WINDGEN 25 by its manufacturer, is created to utilize the principles of aerodynamics to develop lift from the winds, much as an aircraft wing generates lift sufficient to fly through the air. The use of lift, rather than the simple force of the air against the surface of the blade, allows the WINDGEN 25 to operate at great efficiency and permits the windmill to produce greater power in relation to surface area.

Erected over a four month period, the WINDGEN 25 is an advanced windmill design which has evolved over the last five years. The three rotor blades are each 19 feet in length and 21 inches wide. Each blade is aerodynamically shaped as a wing, similar to the wing of an aircraft. In fact, the production process in the manufacture of the WINDGEN 25 closely follows aircraft industry procedures.

The WINDGEN 25 rotor is controlled by a "mini-computer" which "senses" the available wind and sets the blade "pitch" by way of a control rod connected externally to each blade. Not only does this control rod alter the pitch of the blades in differing wind speeds, it also strengthens the blades tremendously. The pitch mechanism allows the windmill to operate at a relatively constant RPM in winds varying from a slight 12 MPH "breeze" to a "Howling" 45 MPH storm. At wind speeds exceeding 45 mph, the blades will "feather" into the wind, and thus reduce the rotor speed to a safe speed.

Using the constant RPM available from the rotor pitch mechanism, the WINDGEN 25 will produce electric power from a conventional electric motor. By "over-speeding" the 30 horsepower electric motor, the WINDGEN 25 is capable of producing 240 volt, 60 cycle, three phase power, which is fully compatible with the utility power grid. New Dawn Energy Concepts spokesmen stated that the energy produced by the WINDGEN 25 should average 40,000 KWH's per year, depending upon the winds. Any excess power produced by the wind machine above the needs of the owner may be "re-sold" to the electrical utility.

The Plainview machine is the first such wind powered device to be "interfaced" with the Southwestern Public Service Company power system. "Frankly, we were somewhat concerned that we would have difficulty in operating our wind machine in conjunction with the utility system, but we can honestly say that we have had complete cooperation from the Southwestern Public Service Company," stated Terry McEachern, President of New Dawn Energy Concepts. "We are eager to introduce wind generated electrical power to West Texans. Contracts have been signed with Southwestern Public Service which recognize the potential for wind energy as a viable power source, and we look forward to substantial energy savings as a result of our wind energy conversion system," McEachern continued.

WIND POWER comes to Plainview, Texas. The WINDGEN 25 is believed to be the largest wind machine to be installed within the municipal limits of any city in America.

Small businesses, homes and institutions such as churches, schools and hospitals may be powered by the wind energy conversion system. "The attractive thing about owning your own power source is that you not only produce power which reduces your utility bill, but you also obtain the right to deduct the cost of the energy system from your state and federal tax bill. At the present time, when the wind machine is used in a business application, the after tax cost of the installed system is reduced by at least half simply because of the tax incentives offered by the state and federal government. For example, these devices are exempt from property taxes and they also entitle you to a 10% refundable tax credit on the federal level," claimed Gary Garrison, Treasurer of New Dawn Energy Concepts. At the present time, the WINDGEN 25 is capable of competitive energy costs with the utility power, each system producing energy at approximately four cents per kilowatt hour. However, as energy costs continue to rise for the utility as fuel costs go up, the fuel used by the wind machine is free, and should therefore allow the homeowner or businessman to stabilize their energy expense.

Although electric energy production is the most readily useable form of power capability possessed by the WINDGEN 25, New Dawn Energy Concepts anticipates that the major utilization of the wind machine will be in irrigation farming. A prototype of the WINDGEN 25 was first placed into operation in April of 1979 on the Swisher county farm of Stuart Kirkpatrick, seven miles west of Tulla, Texas. This installation, under the supervision and control of the Alternative Energy Institute of West Texas State University, has demonstrated its ability to reduce irrigation costs by 40-75% on the well Kirkpatrick operates. Using what is known as a "wind-assist" pumping method, the well uses a conventional electric motor to drive a turbine pump. As wind speed increases above approximately 14 mph the wind machine begins to pick up a portion of the work load. Eventually, at 25 mph, the WINDGEN 25 will pump the entire load on the 30 horsepower well.

Yes, there seems to be a new wind blowing across the plains of West Texas today, there are blades turning and energy is being produced. With our ever increasing awareness of the crisis and with our means to reduce dependence on the producers, the wind once popular song mind—"the friend, is blowing wind."
